FLOTSAM AND JETSAM — This morning's high tide subsides and the Corte Madera Creek beneath the Greenbrae overpass of Highway 101 leaves in its wake acres of debris that the high water flushed from the banks. The Corte Madera Creek Flood Control Project coped admirably with the water, and no flooding was reported anywhere. The Muzzi property on Corte Madera's bayshore, destined for redevelopment, was largely covered with bay water at the commute hour and transformed the mudflat scenery for travelers.

Nixon Removes Lid On N. Viet Strikes

White House Still Says Peace Road 'Wide Open'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While saying the road to peace "is wide open," the White House said today President Nixon had removed restrictions on bombing North Vietnam.

Two days after Nixon's Vietnam negotiator, Henry A. Kissinger, reported his ceasefire negotiations with North Vietnam to be at an impasse, Nixon ordered American planes to resume full operations on the North. Raids quickly followed on Hanoi and Haiphong.

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said the bombing resumption —after a pause of nearly two months as a gesture to stimulate a peace agreement —was intended to cope with a buildup of Communist forces "which could lead to another offensive in the South."

While the President was removing bombing restrictions just one week before Christmas, Ziegler stressed that the United States still hoped for a peace settlement.

"The road to peace is wide open," Ziegler told reporters. "We want a rapid settlement to this conflict." But asserted, "We are not going to allow the peace talks to be used as a cover for another offensive."

Ziegler said Nixon's statement of last May 8, in which he ordered the mining of North Vietnam's harbors and increased bombing, was once again U.S. policy.

The presidential spokesman said the bombing north of the 20th Parallel —primarily the Hanoi-Haiphong area where most of North Vietnam's population is concentrated — had been ordered suspended in October as a move to stimulate peace efforts.

Ziegler said the United States would continue working with both South Vietnam and North Vietnam in hopes of achieving a settlement, but added:

"In the meantime ... our policy is as the President stated it on May 8 and the activities (now going on over North Vietnam) are consistent with that policy and are designed to deal with an enemy buildup which could lead to another offensive in the South."

Ziegler added, "the President will continue to order any action he deems necessary by air or by sea to prevent any buildup he sees in the South."

Said Ziegler: "Neither side can gain from prolonging the war and neither side can gain from prolonging peace talks."

In the intensive bombing from last spring to October, little of North Vietnam was barred to U.S. planes. A few months ago Pentagon officials reported that no fixed targets —such as industrial plants, and bridges —of military importance remained standing in North Vietnam, with the exception of electrical plants in downtown Hanoi and downtown Haiphong.

It was not known if the U.S. announcements that Hanoi and Haiphong were included in the new target list meant that electrical plants would now be attacked.

Much of the bombing in the summer and fall concentrated on keeping bridges and railroads cut and on trying to stop the movement of goods south to the battle zone.

Nixon returned to the White House by helicopter early this afternoon from Camp David, Md., where he had spent the night with his family.

Hanoi Radio Says Big Raids On North Capital

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. Command announced tonight the United States had resumed bombing attacks against the Hanoi-Haiphong area of North Vietnam.

Air strikes above the 20th Parallel were halted by President Nixon last Oct. 23 as a gesture of goodwill toward North Vietnam when it appeared that a cease-fire appeared imminent.

Hanoi Radio reported today that U.S. planes had resumed sowing mines in Haiphong Harbor this weekend and said the American planes fired rockets in the Haiphong area.

Hanoi Radio reported there were devastating air attacks against Hanoi tonight, and the U.S. Command after first saying "no comment" confirmed the reports.

"This includes the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

"We will have no further comment on the ongoing operations at this time."

The new aerial strikes followed the announcement Saturday by Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger that his secret peace talks with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho had reached an impasse. Kissinger blamed the North Vietnamese, and Radio Hanoi blamed the Americans.

Sunday night, Radio Hanoi reported strikes against the Haiphong area and accused the United States of mounting the strikes to force Hanoi into a peace settlement on terms it already had rejected. The U.S. Command did not confirm the new bombing at that time but did not rule out the possibility that mines were being dropped.

Tonight's strike was the first American air attack on Hanoi since Oct. 11 when planes mistakenly bombed the French mission while striking a railroad yard about three miles north of the downtown Hanoi area.

The Hanoi Radio announcement in a broadcast monitored at a 11:30 p.m. Saigon time (11:30 a.m. EST) said the bombing raid occurred at 8 p.m. Hanoi is 30 minutes ahead of Saigon time.

"Many of the U.S. warplanes were forced down and several American pilots were captured," the broadcast said.

Radio Hanoi said planes shot down during tonight's raid brought to 4,082 the number of American warplanes destroyed over North Vietnam during the Indochina war. On Sunday, Radio Hanoi claimed two American planes were shot down the previous day, bringing the total to 4,078. This would mean North Vietnam is claiming four planes were shot down tonight.

An Exciting Week For Beachcombers

A series of high tides that began today and reach their peak on Wednesday promise an exciting week for beachcombers and tide pool enthusiasts in Marin County.

This year's greatest range from high to low tide — nine feet at the Golden Gate on Wednesday — will leave a minus two-foot low tide with normally covered tidepools exposed to the wintry air.

According to the Astronomical Society of the Pacific, at the California Academy of Sciences in San Francisco, the big tides are produced by the moon's near-ideal conditions for such phenomena.

These include the moon near perigee (minimum distance from earth); moon near maximum angle north of equator; moon near full phase (sun, moon and earth approximately in line). The earth also is approaching its perihelion (closest) date with the sun on Jan. 2.

These four circumstances, says the society, will bring about a near maximum in the tidal forces acting on the oceans throughout north and south temperate latitudes as far as 40 degrees.

Here in Marin County it means that on Wendesday high tide at the Golden Gate will occur at 10:27 a.m., followed by low tide at 5:43 p.m. Almost as far out, and easier for daylight beachcombing, will be the low tomorrow afternoon at 4:51 p.m.

Good spots inside the bay and on the coast have slightly different times, and these can be figured out by adding or subtracting the right time interval.

For instance, at Sausalito and the west end of Angel Island, add 15 minutes. For Bodega Harbor and Bolinas Bay subtract 20 minutes, and for Point Reyes, subtract 40 minutes.

This means that Duxbury Reef at Bolinas, undoubtedly the best tidepool observation point, the low slack water will be at about 5:15 p.m.

Dr. Gordon L. Chan, College of Marin biologist, today recommended 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. as the best time, but warned visitors to get off the reef before it gets dark.

"And they must remember that Duxbury Reef is a marine reserve," he emphasized, "there can be no collecting whatsoever ... this is the whole theme now, observe and photograph but don't take a thing." A ranger will be on duty on the reef at all times, he added.

Dr. Chan said that this practice of observing without destroying should be followed in any trips to the coast and bay. "People have to be careful that each rock they pick up goes back in the exact same place."

Other sites the marine biologist recommended are: Point San Quentin, Sausalito, Fort Baker, and South Muir Beach (where great care must be taken of high waves; similarly at any ocean point).

He said although the mud flats of the bay "don't have the diversity of marine organisms" of the ocean tide pools, they will still provide fascinating examples to the visitor.

In the back estuaries high and low tide times can vary by up to an hour from the Golden Gate figures, he added.

Truman Has Good Night At Hospital

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Harry S Truman, his heart weak and his kidneys malfunctioning, slept peacefully through the night and awoke today to tell doctors that he felt "all right.

Doctors treating the former president said he was still "very serious."

"Former President Truman is slightly more alert today after a restful night," Research Hospital spokesman John Dreves said. "When asked how he felt, Mr. Truman replied, 'all right'."

Dreves said the 88-year-old Truman was still having problems with his kidneys, which have failed to respond to medication for six straight days.

"Kidney output still is inadequate but there is no increase in fluid buildup," Dreves said. "He is not receiving any medication or nutrition intravenously. It is being administered via the nasal gastric tube which he ontinues to tolerate well."

Dreves said his heart condition, which doctors said Sunday was so weak that it could not support a kidney machine to cleanse his blood, was still unchanged.

At 9:15 a.m. EST, the former president's blood pressure was 130 over 56, pulse was 74, respiration was 24 and his temperature was 98.4. He remained in "very serious condition," doctors said.

The 33rd President's condition was evaluated by a kidney specialist Sunday.

Hanoi Again Proposes A Brief Cease-Fire For The Holidays

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnam today proposed a brief Christmas and New Year's truce as in past years but said there can be no real peace—and no U.S. prisoner of war release —until the United States signs a cease-fire agreement.

Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency (VNA), in a broadcast monitored in Saigon, made it clear it was not agreeing to the truce proposed last week by Saigon that would start at Christmas, run through the New Year and continue thereafter while negotiations go on.

"There will be no cease-fire in the tricky way as proposed by the United States and its puppets," VNA said. "As in the past, proceeding from the aspirations of the people, the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the Republic of South Vietnam (Viet Cong) will cease attacks on the occasion of Christmas and the New Year this year and on other traditional festivals.

"Only after the U.S. signs the peace agreement reached with the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam will there be a real cease-fire and negotiations between the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the Republic of South Vietnam and the Saigon administration.

"And captured U.S. military men will be released after the agreement is signed and correctly implemented."

Both sides have agreed to Christmas truces every year since 1965, and to New Year's, Tet (lunar new year) and Buddha's birthday truces in succeeding years. Without exception, all truces have been marked by charges of numerous violations by both sides.

Communist truces usually last three days, allied truces a shorter time. Last year, for example, the Communist truce lasted three days at Christmas but the allied truce ran only 24 hours, from 6 p.m. Christmas Eve to 6 p.m. Christmas day.

Cold Spell Broken, But Still Wet

Intermittent, soaking rains are expected to continue over Marin County and Southern Sonoma at least through tomorrow, federal weather forecasters said today. But at least last week's bitter cold spell appears to have broken; temperatures stayed above the freezing mark at all reporting stations.

The forecast was for a 40 per cent chance of rain tonight and tomorrow, with lows tomorrow morning in the 40s and highs reaching into the uppr 50s and low 60s tomorrow.

As it has all winter, the rainfall differed greatly in different locations. Bolinas had a total of 3.11 inches in the past 48 hours with 1.72 inches since 8 a.m. yesterday. Tiburon had 2.3 inches in 48 hours with exactly one inch since 8 a.m. Sunday. Petaluma had 2 inches in 48 hours, with only .43 of an inch since yesterday. Novato had half an inch since 8 a.m. yesterday.

The weekend rainfall in San Rafael was 1.85 inches, as of midmorning today.

Ag Department Planning For A Meatier Hot Dog

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department plans to propose a nationwide ban on the use of livestock byproducts such as lips and spleen in hot dogs and similar foods, a department official said Monday.

If the proposal is adopted, it could raise the cost of some hot dogs, Assistant Secretary Richard E. Lyng said, "but I think it's time to consider revising ingredients and find out what people really think."

Federal officials and some meat packers have been waging a legal battle against Michigan's similar attempt to enforce stiffer hot dog standards than those required by current federal rules.

In effect, the deprtment's proposal would bring federal standards into line with Michigan regulations.

The proposal would eliminate byproduct meats from hot dogs bologna and other cooked sausage. It would allow only "skeletal meat" in hot dogs.

Lyng said the proposal would be ready for formal announcement within 30 days, after which about 60 days would be allowed for public comment.

Lyng said there was nothing wrong in using byproduct meats as far as wholesomeness is concerned, although he conceded the practice poses "some aesthetic problems."

Nixon Removes Lid On N. Viet Strikes

White House Still Says Peace Road 'Wide Open'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While saying the road to peace "is wide open," the White House said today President Nixon had removed restrictions on bombing North Vietnam.

Two days after Nixon's Vietnam negotiator, Henry A. Kissinger, reported his ceasefire negotiations with North Vietnam to be at an impasse, Nixon ordered American planes to resume full operations on the North. Raids quickly followed on Hanoi and Haiphong.

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said the bombing resumption —after a pause of nearly two months as a gesture to stimulate a peace agreement —was intended to cope with a buildup of Communist forces "which could lead to another offensive in the South."

Many Toys Labeled Too Aggressive

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Many toys on store shelves these days encourage aggression and sexism in children, say two spychologists at the University of Utah.

The two — Profs. Donna M. Gelfand and Donald P. Hartmann — said they have examined scores of toys to try to determine what effect they might have on a youngster.

"In a toy department tour . . . I found that a third to half of the merchandise consisted of aggressive toys — war games or guns," said Hartmann. "Not uncommon were rock 'em, sock 'em robots who were turned on to annihilate each other."

"Toys play a vital role in the child's development," said Prof. Gelfand. "They should encourage individuality rather than sexism — why must girls always receive nurse outfits and boys be given chemistry sets?"

Many toys also are inferior and unsafe, the researchers said.

"A number of toys banned by the Foot and Drug Administration have not been removed from the shelves," said Prof. Gelfand. Parents must inform themselves — through such publications as "Consumer Reports" — about dangerous toys. Everyone should know enough to avoid uninspected electrical toys and toys made of glass or plastic that shatters."

Toys, says Hartmann, serve three functions in the growth of a child:

They are a primary socialization tool by which kids learn skills and social roles.

Democrat Panel Hands Burton Slap On Drive For Leadership

OAKLAND (UPI) —Throwing an apparent road block at San Francisco Assemblyman John Burton, the top echelon of the California Democratic Party has voted to make lawmakers ineligible for the state chairmanship.

By a 26-22 vote, the executive committee of the Democratic State Central Committee passed a surprise resolution Saturday barring members of Congress and the state Legislaturefrom being candidates for the top post.

However, Burton is the lone lawmaker among four potential candidates.

Neither Burton nor his brother, congressman Phillip Burton, were present when the action was taken on the second day of the executive committee meeting at the Edgewater Hyatt House.

"It's a sneak attack on the Burtons," said Agar Jaicks, Democratic chairman from San Francisco. "They have always had some opposition in the Democratic party.

Sen Alfred Alquist, D-San Jose, was among those favoring the measure. "No one can do an effective job both as a legislator and state party chairman," he said.

A new state chairman will be elected at the Democratic State Convention in Sacramento Jan. 27-28 to replace Charles Manatt of Van Nuys. After two years, he must relinquish the post to a Northern Californian.

Other potential candidates are attorney John Merlo of Chico, northern division chairman; attorney Charles O'Brien of Danville, former chief deputy state attorney general, and Mrs. Pat Nisbett, a Berkeley housewife and head of women Democrats in Northern California.

Help Hailed In Heroin Crackdown

NEW YORK (UPI) —American narcotics officials say they are finally getting international cooperation which is helping them crack the top levels of heroin traffic. But problems continue to crop up at home.

"In the last few years there has been phenomenal cooperation from other foreign countries, especially France, Canada, South America and Turkey," said Daniel P. Casey, New York regional director for the Bureau of Narcotcs and Dangerous Drugs. Casey calls the new cooperation "an ecumenical movement."

As a result, drug officials are finally cracking the highest levels of the world's billion-dollar heroin trade and bringing down some of the tycoons who run it.

In New York, however, officials announced last week that 80 pounds of heroin seized in the famous "French Connection" case 10 years ago had been stolen from police headquarters. The heroin was being kept because aspects of the case, made famous by the Academy Award winning film, were still open, and it was needed as evidence. Agents had seized 110 pounds altogether in the case.

The Knapp Commission, formed to investigate police corruption in New York City, charged this year that some police officers were personally involved in drug traffic. Testimony by undercover policemen before the commission said some officers would provide heroin for addicts in exchange for stolen goods.

But on the international scale, things are looking up, police say.

Last Friday, Auguste Joseph Ricord was convicted of charges he masterminded a South America-based drug ring that smuggled an estimated $60 million in heroin into the United States. A French native, wanted in France for various crimes, Ricord was extradited from Paraguay after strenous American efforts.

In another case, 11 persons were indicted for conspiracy to smuggle 385 pounds of heroin into the U.S. The ringleader, Andre (Raymond) Gretan Condeminea, is believed to have been "eliminated" by other thugs.

Two weeks ago, 16 persons were indicted for their part in a ring that allegedly supplied a ton of heroin a year for U.S. markets. The crackdown spanned three continents and included agents from seven countries.

On Nov. 17, another 20 were indicted on charges of shipping 1,100 pounds of heroin into the U.S. over a three-year period. One of the indicted men, Christian David, pleaded guilty to a smuggling charge and received a 20-year sentence in order to escape the guillotine in France.

Two Frenchmen, one Cuban and one American were convicted for conspiring to smuggle 264 pounds of heroin through an army sergeant assigned to NATO.

Reputed underworld lieutenant Joseph Manfredi was convicted Sept. 30 for conspiring to handle "substantial amounts" of heroin.

Louis Cirillo was convicted of importing 375 pounds of heroin from France. Narcotics agents found $1,078,000 buried in the backyard of his Bronx home.

The biggest turnaround, perhaps, has been in France, which now faces a growing narcotics problem similar to that in the United States in the early 1960s.

"For a long time there had been a certain apathy by the French," Casey said. "At the time, their priorities were not ours."

One narcotics official said the French "have done a tremendous job this year. They knocked off five heroin labs in Marseilles. That was more than they did in the last 10 years."

Each such lab, Casey said, could produce two tons of heroin annually. Officials estimate 6 1-2 to 11 tons would supply all the addicts in the United States for one year.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Back To Camp

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon, looking tired at the annual White House Christmas service yesterday, unexpectedly flew by helicopter to his mountain retreat.

Nixon has just finished a period of revamping his administration for the new term and discussing with Henry A. Kissinger the latest developments in the Vietnam peace negotiations.

White House officials gave no indication how long Nixon would remain at the mountain lodge where he has spent nearly three weeks since his reelection Nov. 7.

More Births Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Although 1972 will show the lowest birth rate in the nation's history, a private research group said today that population growth will probably continue well into the next century.

The Census Bureau reported Sunday that the nation's birthrate in the first six months of this year for the first time dropped to a level that could lead to "zero population growth."

"Current estimates indicate the total fertility rate during the first half of 1972 to be about 2.1 births per woman," the bureau said.

This is the so-called "replacement level," the rate at which the population in the absence of immigration would replace itself. If the pace continued for 70 years, the nation would reach zero growth—meaning births would equal deaths.

Violence Continues

BELFAST (UPI) — Another bomb exploded and another soldier was shot and wounded in Belfast today as Secretary of State William Whitelaw summoned security chiefs to consider ways to halt a pre-Christmas upsurge of killings that took two more lives over the weekend.

In Dublin, Mrs. Sean MacStiofain, wife of the imprisoned chief of staff of the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA), said her husband would never break his hunger strike, now in its 30th day. she said if her husband starved himself to death she would do the same.

Snipers fired six shots at a British army post in West Belfast, slightly injuring one soldier, an army spokesman said .

Mining Safety

MULLENS, W. Va. (UPI) — The lives of 24 men killed in two weekend explosions could have been spared if only safety regulations were enforced, United Mine Workers of America (UMWA) president-elect Arnold Miller charged Sunday.

Five miners were killed and three injured critically when sparks from an underground trolley set off a methane gas explosion at the Itmann No. 3 mine Saturday. That tragedy came 30 hours after four gas explosions killed 19 men and injured 10 others at a new coke plant at Wierton. The plant was built by Koppers Co. for the Weirton Steel Co.

Miller expressed "disgust" with mine safety enforcement after touring the Itmann pit and said strict enforcement of present laws would avert such disasters.

Cyanide Gas Whiff Is Fatal

SAN GABRIEL, Calif. (UPI) —A 25-year-old college chemistry student was found dead at his apartment during the weekend after he accidentally inhaled homemade cyanide gas, once used in the state's execution chambers, authorities said.

The body of Terry Stage, a senior at California State University at Los Angeles, was found slumped over a chair in the kitchen Saturday near an assortment of vials containing three deadly acids.

Sheriff's deputies said Stage apparently formed the cyanide gas by mixing sulphuric acids and cyanide hydrochloric. One deep sniff of the gas is deadly.

Mexico Shivering From A Cold Snap

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexico today shivered in the grip of a three-day cold wave which has left at least eight persons dead and caused storms on land and at sea.

Six persons died of exposure to intense cold in Mexico City, officials said, and two other persons died in Veracruz during a wind storm.

Tricycle Study

WASHINGTON (UPI) —An engineering research study which cites more than 100,000 tricycle-related injuries annually has prompted the federal government to begin drafting mandatory regulations for tricycle makers.

A preliminary copy of a study made by the Calspan Corp., of Buffalo, N.Y., said standard tricycles are unstable and unsafe for children because poor design allows them to roll over and pitch backwards under normal use.

The study, made at the request of the Health, Education and Welfare Department's Bureau of Product Safety, said "unstable performance can occur within the normal operating range" of many of the estimated 1.5 million tricycles made and sold each year in the United States by domestic manufacturers.

Jobless Rate Causes Cited

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Women and youths entering the work force in record numbers are the causes of continued high unemployment rates, says retiring Commission of Labor Statistics Geoffrey H. Moore.

There are now about 4.5 million persons—5.2 per cent of the work force—looking for jobs with a record 82.5 million employed.

An estimated 800,000 "discouraged workers" have given up trying to find a job and are not included in the unemployment rate, Moore said.

$200,000 Fire At Carpet Store

OAKLAND (UPI) —A fire Sunday night caused $200,000 damage to a carpeting store and spread to two adjacent businesses.

The fire broke out in the Collins Floor Covering Company and flames tore through the roof of the building.

The flames also damaged an insurance office and a travel agency.

There were no injuries.

Many Toys Labeled Too Aggressive

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Many toys on store shelves these days encourage aggression and sexism in children, say two spychologists at the University of Utah.

The two — Profs. Donna M. Gelfand and Donald P. Hartmann — said they have examined scores of toys to try to determine what effect they might have on a youngster.

"In a toy department tour . . . I found that a third to half of the merchandise consisted of aggressive toys — war games or guns," said Hartmann. "Not uncommon were rock 'em, sock 'em robots who were turned on to annihilate each other."

"Toys play a vital role in the child's development," said Prof. Gelfand. "They should encourage individuality rather than sexism — why must girls always receive nurse outfits and boys be given chemistry sets?"

Many toys also are inferior and unsafe, the researchers said.

"A number of toys banned by the Foot and Drug Administration have not been removed from the shelves," said Prof. Gelfand. Parents must inform themselves — through such publications as "Consumer Reports" — about dangerous toys. Everyone should know enough to avoid uninspected electrical toys and toys made of glass or plastic that shatters."

Toys, says Hartmann, serve three functions in the growth of a child:

Children probably don't need expensive, sophisticated toys to properly develop social skills, Hartmann says.

"In a sense, you could socialize over a mud puddle as well as an electric train, but most parents prefer the train."

The psychologists — both parents—suggest buying toys that encourage creativity and inventiveness—such as arts and crafts supplies, seed sprouting kits and pets, "fun for the whole family" games.

Retires from Sears

New Retail Manager For Sears Outlets

David P. Scanlan, 54, of Seattle has been named general manager of Sears, Roebuck and Company's mid-California retail district, which includes 15 retail stores and 18 catalog sales and appliance stores from St. Helena to Watsonville.

He will succeed George G. Gaugler of Hillsborough, who retires from the company next Feb. 1. Under Gaugler, the mid-California retaildistrict has grown from 10 stores in 1967 to 15 stores today, including the new Northgate Sears.

Scanlan is a 30-year veteran with Sears. He joined Sears in Chicago in 1937 and held positions in San Bernardino, Los Angeles, and San Mateo before being named manager of the Stockton store in 1952. He then managed the store in Mountain View and was manager in Portland from 1963 to 1966, when he was appointed to his present post as general manager of the company's retail operations in 19 stores in the Pacific Northwest.

Gaugler, 60, joined Sears in 1935. He became manager of the Sears-Hawaiian operations in 1965 and was appointed to his present position of mid-California district manager in 1967.

Post Gets The Brush At White House Parties

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House has decided to bar the Washington Post from covering social events involving President and Mrs. Nixon.

Dorothy McCardle, a reporter for the Post's "Style" section, was banned from covering three social events during the weekend and was restricted to the press lobby. White House social occasions are a main staple of the society news covered by city's two daily newspapers.

In addition, Mrs. McCardle was told that her name is not on the list to cover the First Lady's annual Christmas party for the children of diplomats today, although she regularly is assigned to Embassy Row.

The Post ran stories almost daily on the Watergate bugging case during the fall presidential campaign and received some criticism from administration officials for their coverage. The three-man Post team assigned to the story has already won one major journalistic prize for excellence in investigative reporting.

Throughout the years reporters for local newspapers have always been included in the group of reporters—called a pool—allowed to cover social events at the White House.

Cold Ordeal For Meat Firm Owner

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —Jack Wilantt started the weekend off by checking things out at a meat company he owns in Santa Ana. He ended it locked inside a freezer, waving a flag, and wondering where those 4,000 pounds of choice steaks went.

When Wilantt, 57, drove to his firm Saturday afternoon, he found a burglary in progress and was quickly surrounded by three men who ordered him to open the safe at gunpoint.

He couldn't open the safe so the three men beat him up, gagged and blindfolded him and forced him inside a company van along with 101 boxes of telderloin and top sirloin steaks they had stolen.

The men drove the van to Los Angeles where they unloaded the steaks and locked Wilantt in the cold-storage section of the truck, which was abandoned in nearby Vernon.

Wilantt spent the night trying to get out and keep warm. He used a penny and a dime to loosen some screws from the truck's interior and he wrapped insulation around himself to ward off the cold.

He then found a wire in the refrigeration unit which he used to pry open the rubber sealings in the door, enough to stick the wire through with a make-shift flag attached to the end.

"I could see a motorist passing by who saw the flag waving and he opened the door," Wilantt said following his 20-hour ordeal.

New Blast At Hospital Construction

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The General Accounting Office says the spiraling cost of medical care is partly due to poor government coordination of hospital construction.

The GAO cited as examples six cities which will have 4,000 more hospital beds by 1975 than they will need. They are Baltimore, Cincinnati, Denver, Jacksonville, Fla., San Francisco and Seattle.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., released the GAO report Sunday. Ribicoff said there was a "disgraceful failure" at all levels of government to coordinate hospital construction.

"The study reveals a disturbing pattern of over-construction and under-utilization which is out of step with actual community needs and out of line with what the average American can afford to pay," Ribicoff said.

He said the GAO report revealed that the sharing of specialized services such as cobalt therapy, open-heart surgery and obstetrical services was so low that some units were "virtually unneeded" in terms of actual use.

Fish have no vocal organs but are by no means silent. They make sounds by grinding their teeth or setting up vibrations in certain organs such as the swim bladder.

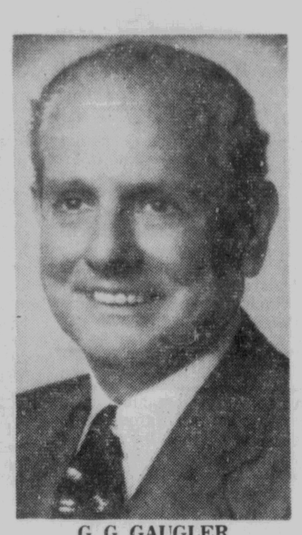
D. P. SCANLAN
Sears Manager



G. G. GAUGLER
Retires from Sears

New Retail Manager For Sears Outlets

David P. Scanlan, 54, of Seattle has been named general manager of Sears, Roebuck and Company's mid-California retail district, which includes 15 retail stores and 18 catalog sales and appliance stores from St. Helena to Watsonville.

He will succeed George G. Gaugler of Hillsborough, who retires from the company next Feb. 1. Under Gaugler, the mid-California retaildistrict has grown from 10 stores in 1967 to 15 stores today, including the new Northgate Sears.

Scanlan is a 30-year veteran with Sears. He joined Sears in Chicago in 1937 and held positions in San Bernardino, Los Angeles, and San Mateo before being named manager of the Stockton store in 1952. He then managed the store in Mountain View and was manager in Portland from 1963 to 1966, when he was appointed to his present post as general manager of the company's retail operations in 19 stores in the Pacific Northwest.

Gaugler, 60, joined Sears in 1935. He became manager of the Sears-Hawaiian operations in 1965 and was appointed to his present position of mid-California district manager in 1967.

Post Gets The Brush At White House Parties

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House has decided to bar the Washington Post from covering social events involving President and Mrs. Nixon.

Dorothy McCardle, a reporter for the Post's "Style" section, was banned from covering three social events during the weekend and was restricted to the press lobby. White House social occasions are a main staple of the society news covered by city's two daily newspapers.

In addition, Mrs. McCardle was told that her name is not on the list to cover the First Lady's annual Christmas party for the children of diplomats today, although she regularly is assigned to Embassy Row.

The Post ran stories almost daily on the Watergate bugging case during the fall presidential campaign and received some criticism from administration officials for their coverage. The three-man Post team assigned to the story has already won one major journalistic prize for excellence in investigative reporting.

Throughout the years reporters for local newspapers have always been included in the group of reporters—called a pool—allowed to cover social events at the White House.

Art Showing

Watercolor and acrylic paintings by San Rafael artist Ann Hardy are on exhibit through Dec. 29 in the main lobby of Kaiser Foundation Hospital, 99 Montecillo Road, San Rafael.

Dimes Fund Chairmen Are Named

Four area chairmen for the annual fund raising campaign of the March of Dimes were named today by George J. Silvestri Jr., county campaign chairman.

Albert J. Boro, San Rafael planning commissioner and chairman of the Marin County Park and Recreation Commission was named to the San Rafael area.

Gerald J. Hood, executive director of the Marin County Human Rights Commission and Mill Valley city councilman will head the southern Marin area.

Hugh Dougherty, former Marin County planning commissioner, was named head of the West Marin area.

Mrs. Steiner's Condition 'Satisfactory'

Ulrike Steiner, 33, of Sausalito, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital, recovering from a bullet wound in the chest she suffered Tuesday. She earlier had been in critical condition.

Sausalito Police Chief James D. Wright said it still had not been determined whether Mrs. Steiner accidentally or intentionally shot herself.

Her husband, Dr. John Michael Steiner, a Sonoma State University professor, was in the shower at the time and did not hear the shot as earlier reported. He found his wife after the subsequent ringing of the telephone led him to the room where she lay wounded.

Steiner also informed the Independent-Journal that he is a native of Czechoslovakia, not Germany as previously reported.

The professor said his wife had been depressed by the recent death of her mother.

Diabetes Rap Sessions Slated

Two rap sessions for persons suffering from diabetes and their relatives have been set in January by the Marin County Diabetes Association.

The first will be at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 4 for teen-agers, when a physician, dietician and nurse will discuss matters of interest to young diabetics.

The second will be at 8 p.m. Jan. 15, affording an opportunity for parents of diabetic children to discuss their problems with a psychiatrist and a pediatrician.

Both meetings will be at the First Methodist Church, 9 Ross Valley Drive, San Rafael.

Eichmann Aide Is Dead At 65

BERLIN (UPI) — Friedrich Bosshammer, an aide of Adolf Eichmann in the Nazi's Jewish extermination program, died Sunday in a West Berlin hospital, justice authorities announced today. He was 65.

Bosshammer was convicted of complicity in/the murder of 3,000 Italian Jews and sentenced to life imprisonment by a West Berlin court on April 11.

He appealed the sentence. The court released him from jail last month while the appeal was pending because doctors said he had a critical heart ailment.

Youth Held In Auto Theft Probe

Adam Jessie James, also known as Jones, 19, of 654 Gate Five, Waldo Point, was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of auto theft.

Deputies at the Southern Marin substation said James was spotted prowling through a parked auto at the Strawberry shopping center. Deputies found the car he was driving had been stolen from San Francisco, they said. He was held in lieu of posting $1,200 bail, to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

OBITUARIES

Johanna Mathiasen Succumbs At 102

Mrs. Mathiasen had lived at the home for 20 years, and was the oldest resident. Until recently she had been in good health and retained all her faculties.

Born in Denmark, she came to California in 1920. A widow, she moved from Oakland to the home on Mission Avenue, San Rafael, in 1952.

She is survived by two sons, Soren A. Mathiasen of Wood-side, New York, and Otto F. Mathiasen of Cupertino, by seven grandchildren, 16 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral will be Wednesday at 1 p.m. at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Inurnment will be private.

JOSEPH KENNEY

Private funeral and private burial were held yesterday for Joseph O. Kenney of San Rafael, manager of the Boulevard Bowl in Petaluma and longtime participant in Marin and Petaluma bowling associations.

Kenney died Saturday in his home after a long illness. He was 54.

Born in Dayton, Ohio, he moved to California in 1951, and to Marin County 20 years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Ruth, of the home at 311 Vendola Drive, and a son, John, and daughter, Betty Ann Kenney, both of Petaluma.

LENA HARRIOTT

Mrs. Harriott died Friday at a Sebastopol hospital after a lengthy illness. She was born and reared in Indiana and moved to Petaluma 60 years ago after her marriage to the late Herbert Harriott.

Mrs. Harriott was past president of the Waugh School Parent-Teachers Association and was a member of the Corona Club. She lived at 760 Corona Road.

She is survived by a son, Robert H. Harriott of Petaluma; four grandchildren and a great-grandson.

Burial was at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Famed Siren To Be Replaced

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — After 54 years of service, the loud siren which has sounded off three times each weekday from the Ferry Building is getting a vacation — which could become permanent.

The Port Commission today was to start an experiment for several weeks in which a tuned miniature bar bells in a self-timing unit will be electronically amplified, replacing the siren.

The carillon will give the familiar five-note "English strike" plus the time every hour from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily.

Man Arrested In Draft Dodge

Francis Xavier Mish, 24, of Willits, was arrested by Novato police yesterday on an FBI warrant for unspecified violation of the Selective Service Act.

Officers saw Mish sitting in a parked car at Vallejo Avenue and Highway 101 at 10:55 p.m., and upon checking learned of the warrant issued from Philadelphia, Pa.

Mish was taken to Marin County Jail and was scheduled to be placed in custody of a U.S. marshal.

France Will Pay For Translations

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) —The French Embassy said Sunday it was willing to pay $2,500 for the translation of extensive documents indicting ex-Nazi leader Klaus Altmann in order to expedite his extradition to France from Bolivia where he has been living since 1950.

Altmann, who has been condemned to death in France in absentia, allegedly ordered the death of French Resistance leader Jean Moulin.

Child Care Facility Permit Due Study

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will review a use permit application granted three months ago to Linda Hersh for a child care facility at 241 Los Angeles Boulevard at a meeting at 8 p.m. today in the city hall.

The matter was set for review to determine if the facility is causing traffic or other problems.

Off-Highway Vehicles Are Registered

Some 386 off-highway motor vehicles have been registered with the state Department of Motor Vehicles in Marin and Sonoma counties since off-highway registration legislation took effect last July, the motor vehicle department has announced.

In Marin, 130 motorcycles, four four-wheel vehicles and one miscellaneous off-highway vehicles have been registered. In Sonoma, 246 motorcycles and five four-wheel off-highway vehicles have been registered.

Some 41,071 vehicles have been registered statewide, or less than 5 per cent of the estimated one million off-highway vehicles using public lands in the state, the department said.

Mrs. Steiner's Condition 'Satisfactory'

Ulrike Steiner, 33, of Sausalito, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital, recovering from a bullet wound in the chest she suffered Tuesday. She earlier had been in critical condition.

Sausalito Police Chief James D. Wright said it still had not been determined whether Mrs. Steiner accidentally or intentionally shot herself.

Her husband, Dr. John Michael Steiner, a Sonoma State University professor, was in the shower at the time and did not hear the shot as earlier reported. He found his wife after the subsequent ringing of the telephone led him to the room where she lay wounded.

Steiner also informed the Independent-Journal that he is a native of Czechoslovakia, not Germany as previously reported.

The professor said his wife had been depressed by the recent death of her mother.

NO PARENTS PLEASE — Four-year-old Kelly Lingenfelsen takes her Christmas shopping duties seriously at Detroit's J. L. Hudson's "For Children Only Shop." She is one of many youngsters aged 2 to 12 taking advantage of the shop where the "no parents allowed" policy is strictly enforced and where everything from display tables to prices are in children's size. To insure no youngster exceeds his budget, a tag bearing the child's name and purchase limit is pinned on each child's clothing. (UPI Telephoto)

Pint-Sized Furnishings, Prices For Children Only Shopping

DETROIT (UPI) — Kris Kivilaan's parents are going to have a good Christmas.

For dad—the guy who shines all the shoes in the family, according to Kris—a nifty, compact shoe polish kit complete with sponge, cloth and brown wax. Price—58 cents.

At 5 ½ years old (he makes sure you note the ½), Kris shops like a pro. In less than 10 minutes, he chalked up a register sale of $5.60 at the J. L. Hundson's "For Children Only Shop."

Most of that time was spent over well-thought purchases in the toy section of the tiny, kidsized shopping area.

Stuffed in his shopping basket along with mom's necklace and dad's shoe shine kit was a brightly colored vinyl telephone for brother Alex, 2, and a 2-foot high patchworked dog for Kris' big brother. Total sale—$2.89.

The "For Children Only Shop" caters to kids, strictly enforcing its "no parents allowed" policy.

While children from ages 2 to 12 wander among the goodies, parents wait outside the shopping area—with the money.

Everything in the vibrantly colored shop is kid size. Redpainted display tables are no higher than four feet. Even most prices come small, ranging from 10 cents for a Snoopy pocket-sized book to $10.

And to make sure no young shopper goes beyond his budget, young sales clerks supervise purchases, keeping within the spending limit recommended ahead of time by parents.

A tag bearing the child's name and listing his purchase limit for each family member is pinned on each child's clothing before he enters the shop.

For Kris, there was an $8 limit—$2.40 more than his frugal purchases. But, he admits shyly, none of the money was his. He said his piggy bank was emptied long ago, on more important items— like candy.

Take 7-year-old-Amy.

Outfitted in a red and white dress and matching stockings, Amy breezed through the shop, picking up gifts for two grandmas and two grandpas, an uncle, a cousin and mom and dad. She wound up shelling out a total of $10.

Was it easy? "Sure. I go shopping all the time," Amy said.

Her basket was piled with gifts, including a Christmas tree necklace for one grandma, and a silver-painted turtle pin for Mom.

The "For Children Only Shop" is stocked full of things to delight any child's eye. How about a candle that looks like a piece of cherry pie; tiny rose-scented soaps for grandma; plastic key cases for uncles or a gallon container of antifreeze window-washing fluid for economical dads?

The only thing for mom and dad to do is anxiously wait on folding chairs outside the red curtains for their shoppers and act delighted on Christmas morning.

Three Microwave Ovens Are Stolen

Three microave ovens valued at $1,194 were taken Saturday or Sunday from Martin and Harris Appliances, 1604 Fourth Street, San Rafael, by a thief who smashed a glass door, police reported today.

Police said they believed the incident to be linked with the theft of several microwave ovens from the firm's Mill Valley office at 438 Miller Avenue last Wednesday.

Nobel Winning Author To Accept Money — Loan

MOSCOW (UPI) —Nobel prize-winning author Alexander I. Solzenitsyn called his financial situation "desperate" Sunday and said he was "deeply touched" by the offer of money from American writer Albert Maltz.

Solzhenitsyn said that although it was embarrassing, he would accept the money as a loan. But he said he did not think Soviet authorities who must approve the loan would "give me a single kopeck (penny)."

Maltz, a screenwriter, novelist and playwright, made the offer to turn over royalties due him in the Soviet Union in a letter to a New York newspaper last week. Culture Minister Yekaterina A. Furtseva said in Moscow four days ago that the Soviets owed Maltz nothing and that Solzhenitsyn was "well off."

"He got his Nobel prize money and bought more than one car," she said.

In a statement circulated Sunday to western newsmen, Solzhenitsyn rejected the statement.

"For seven years they (the authorities) have denied me money and housing," he said. "I have no roof of my own and I have nothing with which to buy even the most modest small house. My only car, which I have been using for nine years, was sold to prolong my existence and I have not got any other car."

Reform Unlikely In U.S. Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lawmakers determined to reform the way Congress does its business plan to take their appeal for change directly to the people, but most reformers are still reluctant to predict victory.

The biennial effort to convince long-time congressmen to vote for a system that could toss them out of power appeared better organized this time around, with more people becoming active on a larger scale.

The test will come about two weeks after the new Congress convenes Jan. 3 and goes behind closed doors to organize itself in party caucuses. Groups such as Common Cause and Americans for Democratic Action say the doors should be kept open and the critical organizing activities made public.

Reformers say the caucus as such is okay, but its proceedings should be public with recorded election of committee chairmen and officers of the Congress, who will all control what kind of legislation flows through Congress in the next two years.

Republicans, still the minority party, cast secret ballots for their members who will be ranking on committees, but Democrats require that 10 of their members stand up to demand a secret ballot vote for a committee chairman. In the absence of such a vote the member with most time in Congress automatically becomes chairman, a seniority system that has operated since 1910 when the House revolted against Speaker Joe Cannon and the way he used the power of the speaker to appoint committee chairmen and members.

The leading candidate for House Democratic leader, Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., would prefer a return to the Cannon power but has not pushed for this "because it just is not realistic to think we can get enough votes for that system again."

His opponent, Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., supports a softening of the seniority system, calling for election of individual committee chairmen by the caucus, but still by secret ballot.

"After all," Gibbons told UPI interviewers, "I came here elected by a secret ballot of my own constituency and I think the chairmanship flows from the caucus constituency and I think it should be the same type of secret ballot."

Common Cause and ADA, two of 50 similar citizens groups who have combined to form the Committee for Congressional Reform, argue that the present system has produced committee chairmen rooted in the past and insensitive to today's social needs.

This is the basic message the Committee, through its many organizations, but principally ADA, is taking into the districts of reluctant House members in an effort to get a hometown groundswell that will force a vote for reform.

"This movement marks the first time that a coordinated out-of-House effort has been made to institute needed changes in the legislative body," said Dudley Ward, chairman of the umbrella group.

The reformers are not without active support within Congress. Sen. Lawton Chiles, and Rep. Dante B. Fascell, both Florida Democrats, plan to reintroduce a bill that died with the old Congress that would order all Congressional committees and executive agencies to open their meetings to the public if "official action is to be discussed or considered."

Another Florida Democrat, Rep. Claude Pepper, plans to reintroduce his bill which would order conference committees hold their sessions in the open.

Sens. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio and Robert Packwood, R-Ore., said they will urge the GOP Senate caucus to set up a seven -man committee to recommend Republican committee assignments, including the ranking minority members, with the entire caucus then casting recorded votes on the recommendations.

The two concede that their major obstacle is to get recorded public vote by the caucus to create such a committee.

Santa Will Come By Land And Sea

The Bel Marin Keys Yacht Club will hold its annual Santa-by-sea program at 4 p.m. Friday when Santa Claus, traveling aboard a decorated cabin cruiser, will stop at 13 docks to give out candy canes.

Meantime, a Santa-by-land program will be at noon Saturday with Santa heading a parade. After the parade, a party will be held at the Bel Marin Keys Community Center, sponsored by the Bel Marin Keys Women's Club.

Judging in the Bel Marin Keys home decoration contest, sponsored for water side homes by the Yacht club, and for street side dwellings by the Bel Marin Keys Homeowners Association, will be held Friday starting at 6 p.m.

Body Of Girl Is Identified

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — Sonoma County Sheriff's deputies Sunday identified the body of a nude girl found in nearby hills last week as Lori Lee Kursa, 13, a Santa Rosa eighth-grader believed to have run away from home Nov. 11.

Undersheriff Robert Hayes said the girl apparently died the first week of December.

The cause of death was not immediately established but deputies theorized the girl might have jumped from a moving vehicle in the hills east of Santa Rosa.

Deputies said she had been living with her mother and had a history of hitch-hiking.

The Icelandic Kroner Devalued

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — The government devalued the kroner by 10.5 per cent Sunday and ordered the country's currency exchanges closed today.

The central bank said one U.S. dollar is now worth 99 Icelandic kroner.

The bank said the government devalued the kroner because of the "unsure development of the economic situation."

A Wag Suggests Yuletide Changes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A lot a Republicans around town are nervous this Yuletide season because of President Nixon's budget cutbacks and personnel layoffs.

"To: Santa Claus

"Fr: Office of Festive Management and Fiscal Control

"Re: Reductions in Operations

"Under the general financial policy directives it will be necessary to reduce the scope of your operations to bring them within the framework of the revised Christmas budget. We have reviewed your organization and operational patterns and we believe that your mission can be accomplished with the following reductions in the conduct of your responsibilities. They are to be implemented immediately.

"1. Four reindeer are sufficient to pull your sleigh. It is your option as to which deer are to be affected by a reduction in force (RIF), but it is our suggestion that Dasher, Dancer, Donner and Vixen have not been pulling their weight. This is based on computer studies of average reindeer 'pull capacity' in flight pulling a full load.

"2. It is not necessary that all presents be distributed on Xmas Eve. This heretofore mandatory one-night delivery system places an undue strain on all facilities and requires additional personnel. Delivery of gifts will now begin on Dec. 1 and continue until Dec. 31. Where possible, regular commercial carriers should be utilized in lieu of special sleigh delivery.

"3. The number of elves in the toy shop must be reduced from 150 to 75. Your attention is invited to import regulations 312 -Sub 4 on the manufacture and distribution of toys and other Christmas items from foreign firms.

"4. Your failure to file an acceptable Environmental Impact Statement requires that all Xmas decorations of any kind be limited to commercial establishments. No residential decorations are allowed —save for the mandatory Xmas wreath which is to symbolize the 'joy of the season' as outlined in 'Festive Regulation No. 149-b' from this agency.

"5. All sleigh flights are to follow noise abatement procedures in urban areas where population density is in excess of 5,000 per sq. mile. 'Ho Ho Ho's' should be reduced in volume and number. Reindeer and sleigh runners should be equipped with rubber to prevent roof clattering and other noise problems.

"6. Computerized rating systems are to be used for the evaluation of gift recipients rather than the broad category of 'who's good or bad.' This is not judged to be sufficient criteria on which to make a decision.

"7. Hark, the Harold Angel, and Round John Virgin have been detailed from this office to monitor your operations during this Xmas Season. They will make further recommendations after the first of the year. You are, again, advised of the standards appeal provisions from the effect of this order.

"It is our hope that you will have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. We are joined in this expression of yuletide cheer by:

"George Cunningham & Family

Railroad Being Offered For $1; There's Strings

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A slightly used railroad along San Francisco's waterfront is for sale for one dollar.

There's also a slight qualification—the buyer must be able to operate the freight carrier, known for decades as the State Belt Line Railroad.

Port Commission president Cyril Magnin says that means the buyer would have to swallow a current deficit of about $11,000 a month.

He said Southern Pacific, Western Pacific and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe have shown little enthusiasm over the bargain sale price.

The railroad, which was a bustling mover of cargo to and from crowded docks during World War II, has been gradually phased out of business by containerization on cargo ships and the use of trucks.

"I'm all for open housing..."

I just don't want it in our lovely, peaceful neighborhood". This is pretty much the same thing as saying I'm for righting a social injustice as long as there is no cost to me. Has it ever worked out that way? This planet is our neighborhood. And all its people are neighbors in the community of man.

The community of man . . . God's club. It's not exclusive. It includes you and me.

Reform Unlikely In U.S. Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lawmakers determined to reform the way Congress does its business plan to take their appeal for change directly to the people, but most reformers are still reluctant to predict victory.

The biennial effort to convince long-time congressmen to vote for a system that could toss them out of power appeared better organized this time around, with more people becoming active on a larger scale.

The test will come about two weeks after the new Congress convenes Jan. 3 and goes behind closed doors to organize itself in party caucuses. Groups such as Common Cause and Americans for Democratic Action say the doors should be kept open and the critical organizing activities made public.

Reformers say the caucus as such is okay, but its proceedings should be public with recorded election of committee chairmen and officers of the Congress, who will all control what kind of legislation flows through Congress in the next two years.

Republicans, still the minority party, cast secret ballots for their members who will be ranking on committees, but Democrats require that 10 of their members stand up to demand a secret ballot vote for a committee chairman. In the absence of such a vote the member with most time in Congress automatically becomes chairman, a seniority system that has operated since 1910 when the House revolted against Speaker Joe Cannon and the way he used the power of the speaker to appoint committee chairmen and members.

The leading candidate for House Democratic leader, Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., would prefer a return to the Cannon power but has not pushed for this "because it just is not realistic to think we can get enough votes for that system again."

His opponent, Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., supports a softening of the seniority system, calling for election of individual committee chairmen by the caucus, but still by secret ballot.

"After all," Gibbons told UPI interviewers, "I came here elected by a secret ballot of my own constituency and I think the chairmanship flows from the caucus constituency and I think it should be the same type of secret ballot."

Common Cause and ADA, two of 50 similar citizens groups who have combined to form the Committee for Congressional Reform, argue that the present system has produced committee chairmen rooted in the past and insensitive to today's social needs.

This is the basic message the Committee, through its many organizations, but principally ADA, is taking into the districts of reluctant House members in an effort to get a hometown groundswell that will force a vote for reform.

"This movement marks the first time that a coordinated out-of-House effort has been made to institute needed changes in the legislative body," said Dudley Ward, chairman of the umbrella group.

The reformers are not without active support within Congress. Sen. Lawton Chiles, and Rep. Dante B. Fascell, both Florida Democrats, plan to reintroduce a bill that died with the old Congress that would order all Congressional committees and executive agencies to open their meetings to the public if "official action is to be discussed or considered."

Another Florida Democrat, Rep. Claude Pepper, plans to reintroduce his bill which would order conference committees hold their sessions in the open.

Sens. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio and Robert Packwood, R-Ore., said they will urge the GOP Senate caucus to set up a seven-man committee to recommend Republican committee assignments, including the ranking minority members, with the entire caucus then casting recorded votes on the recommendations.

The two concede that their major obstacle is to get recorded public vote by the caucus to create such a committee.

Santa Will Come By Land And Sea

The Bel Marin Keys Yacht Club will hold its annual Santa-by-sea program at 4 p.m. Friday when Santa Claus, traveling aboard a decorated cabin cruiser, will stop at 13 docks to give out candy canes.

Meantime, a Santa-by-land program will be at noon Saturday with Santa heading a parade. After the parade, a party will be held at the Bel Marin Keys Community Center, sponsored by the Bel Marin Keys Women's Club.

Judging in the Bel Marin Keys home decoration contest, sponsored for water side homes by the Yacht club, and for street side dwellings by the Bel Marin Keys Homeowners Association, will be held Friday starting at 6 p.m.

Body Of Girl Is Identified

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — Sonoma County Sheriff's deputies Sunday identified the body of a nude girl found in nearby hills last week as Lori Lee Kursa, 13, a Santa Rosa eighth-grader believed to have run away from home Nov. 11.

Undersheriff Robert Hayes said the girl apparently died the first week of December.

The cause of death was not immediately established but deputies theorized the girl might have jumped from a moving vehicle in the hills east of Santa Rosa.

Deputies said she had been living with her mother and had a history of hitch-hiking.

The Icelandic Kroner Devalued

REYKJAVIK (UPI) —The government devalued the kroner by 10.7 per cent Sunday and ordered the country's currency exchanges closed today.

The central bank said one U.S. dollar is now worth 99 Icelandic kroner.

The bank said the government devalued the kroner because of the "unsure development of the economic situation."

Chinese Troupe's Flawless Rehearsal

By ANNE KEEGAN ARONSON

CHICAGO (UPI) —The Opera House was almost empty Sunday night when the kid in an Army fatigue jacket leaned across the orchestra pit and pulled out a flute.

A slim man in a grey Mao suit walked to the railing with his reeded "shung" in hand and after smiles and nods, they broke into a duet.

The musical entente formed by Floyd Webb, 19, Maywood, Ill., and 19-year-old Hsieh Tung-Sheng of the People's Republic of China broke the ice after the performance.

Soon, the 12 members of the band accompanying the Shenyang Acrobatic Troupe of China were reaching into their pockets to hand out postcards and pins of the Peoples' Palace in Peking to the Americans swarming the pit.

It was the only dress rehersal for the group's tour of the United States, which begins today at the Chicago Opera House. The group, the first such ensemble from China to tour the United Sates, goes on to a number of other American cities, including Indianapolis, Washington and New York.

To the audience's eye, the dress rehearsal was flawless. Not a swirling plate dropped, not a bike overturned, not even a faint tremor in the precarious human pyramids. P.T. Barnum would have had a field day.

With the lifting of the ornate curtains, the rehearsal exploded in orange and yellow and the clang of Chinese gons. Fiery-eyed masked lions cavorted on stage with two pink-cheeked boys who tamed and tricked the lions with their grace and childish cunning.

The second act, in contrast, opened with tranquil, plate-spin-ning women who placidly stood on their heads, did somersaults and executed hand stands while keeping six plates miraculously twirling serenely on the tips of thin reeds.

CHICAGO WELCOME — An American boy glances up at a member of the Shenyang Acrobatic Troupe from the People's Republic of China during welcoming ceremonies at Chicago's O'Hare Airport. The troupe arrived yesterday and first public performance was scheduled tonight. (UPI Telephoto)

The small audience assembled oohed and aahed when a young woman pedaled a bicycle balancing 10 other women in a human fan design with nary a wobble of the handle bars.

And magician Liu-Chung had hands faster than the eye when he pulled gold fish out of the air and a 12 incher from the audience at the end of a pole.

The women wore pants and brightly ribboned pigtails. The entire troupe wore tunics of vivid colors that matched the oriental backdrops of a single rose, a setting sun and an apple blossom.

The finale came with a twist of the magician's hand. Pulling flowers from an empty jar, to the delight of the troupe children, he suddenly brought forth a deluge of ribbons, garlands, flags, and many tiered-Chinese lanterns.

"Long live the friendship between the Chinese and American Peoples" it read and the curtain closed.

The Magee Trial Still Minus Jury

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Ruchell Magee murder trial entered its fourth week today with jury selection not yet completed and the cost expected to amount to more than $150,000.

Magee, 33, a San Quentin convict, is charged with pulling the trigger of a shotgun that killed Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley in the 1970 Marin Civic Center escape that claimed four lives.

Attorneys estimated another week will be needed to select the jury for the trial which is expected to last 11 weeks.

Much of the money spent on the Magee trial is for security and the rest for jury costs.

Magee, who frequently breaks into tantrums in the courtroom, is flown to the San Francisco Hall of Justice from San Quentin and back again each trial day.

Black militant Angela Davis was charged with murder-kidnap-conspiracy in the case but was found innocent last January.

The Davis trial cost the state nearly $1 million compared to the $5,000 spent in the average criminal trial.

Magee yesterday received word from Los Angeles that his mother had died. Lee DeBord, prison information officer, said Magee was allowed to make a telephone call to his father.

Mink Coat Valued At $5,000 Stolen

Four coats valued at $5,525 were taken yesterday from a coat rack at the Holiday Inn, 1010 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, while their owners dined nearby at a private pa ty thrown by the Davis Realty Co. of San Rafael, police reported today.

Police said one of the garments was a mink coat valued at $5,000.

The Argument Heats Up Again On The Banning Of Swordfish

BOSTON (UPI) — Harold Lawry didn't mince words.

"The government, they won't admit they're wrong," said Lary, a fisherman from Edgartown, Mass., and operator of Lary's Seafood Market. "They keep on, they're going to kill the whole seafood industry."

He was talking about swordfish which remains absent for the most part from American dinner tables due to Food and Drug Administration (FDA) guidelines on mercury content.

In May, 1969, the FDA adopted a safe level guideline of 0.5 parts per million (ppm) mercury in fish.

In December, 1970, the FDA recalled nearly all swordfish from the marketplace because of mercury levels. Later it recommended that the public not eat swordfish. The FDA told Congress swordfish it tested had an average mercury level of slightly more than 1.0 ppm.

The guidelines resulted in less swordfish being available for consumption. In addition, the warning severely curtailed sales where it was available.

Russell Nagle, who operates the John Nagle Co., a Boston wholesale and retail company, says his firm was the first in the New England area to have swordfish sampled by the FDA. He stopped selling swordfish altogether.

"I think it's natural for swordfish to have mercury. It's not pollution," said Nagle. "Apparently our government is the only one that thinks so."

Dr. Fred Stare, chairman of the Department of Nutrition, Harvard School of Public Health, said he had been unable to find any cases of mercury poisoning from fish in New England.

"New England consumes a lot more fish than, say, people out in South Dakota," he said. "I contacted the heads of medicine at five of our really outstanding medical teaching and professional institutions. Not one could find records that they ever had patients in which mercury poisoning was suspected.

"So why get all upset? Why ruin an industry?"

Part of the dispute centers around whether the mercury is actually a pollutant.

A spokesman for the FDA, Cesar Roy, said, "We do not believe it is natural. It's not pollution in the regular sense. But the burning of fossil fuels released tremendous quantities of mercury to the atmosphere. Swordfish is high on the food chain, so (mercury) tends to be concentrated as it moves up the food chain."

An article in the Harvard Law Review this year said the FDA's classification of mercury levels as unnatural in swordfish "is not consistent with the facts in all cases." It said the mercury content "would appear most likely attributable to natural causes."

The Review said a Norwegian study published in 1949 "measured small but definite levels of mercury in freshwater fish and revealed a correlation between mercury levels and the geological character of the neighboring land."

Dr. George Michaels, head of the Massachusetts Food and Drug Administration, does not subscribe to the federal guidelines. His department has set a state guideline of 1.0 ppm.

"I don't feel we should be dumping swordfish that we've been eating for centuries, that's been here for years and years. They've found samples many hundreds of years old that have run very high in mercury. This has been with us a long, long time," said Michaels.

Window Smashed

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give up to 30,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

40,000 miles	Miles Driven
45 month	$13.00
40 month	10.00
39 month	8.00
36 month	6.00
33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00
24 month	3.00
18 month	2.00

Tread Wear Expectancy offer does not apply to tires used commercially.

A Wag Suggests Yuletide Changes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A lot a Republicans around town are nervous this Yuletide season because of President Nixon's budget cutbacks and personnel layoffs.

So, with a well-sharpened barb, George V. Cunningham, administrative assistant to Democratic presidential nominee George S. McGovern, sent friends the following Christmas greeting. It took the form of a memo:

"To: Santa Claus

"Fr: Office of Festive Management and Fiscal Control

"Re: Reductions in Operations

"Under the general financial policy directives it will be necessary to reduce the scope of your operations to bring them within the framework of the revised Christmas budget. We have reviewed your organization and operational patterns and we believe that your mission can be accomplished with the following reductions in the conduct of your responsibilities. They are to be implemented immediately.

"1. Four reindeer are sufficient to pull your sleigh. It is your option as to which deer are to be affected by a reduction in force (RIF), but it is our suggestion that Dasher, Dancer, Donner and Vixen have not been pulling their weight. This is based on computer studies of average reindeer 'pull capacity' in flight pulling a full load.

"2. It is not necessary that all presents be distributed on Xmas Eve. This heretofore mandatory one-night delivery system places an undue strain on all facilities and requires additional personnel. Delivery of gifts will now begin on Dec. 1 and continue until Dec. 31. Where possible, regular commercial carriers should be utilized in lieu of special sleigh delivery.

"3. The number of elves in the toy shop must be reduced from 150 to 75. Your attention is invited to import regulations 512 (Sub 4) on the manufacture and distribution of toys and other Christmas items from foreign firms.

"4. Your failure to file an acceptable Environmental Impact Statement requires that all Xmas decorations of any kind be limited to commercial establishments. No residential decorations are allowed —save for the mandatory 'Xmas wreath' which is to symbolize the 'joy of the season' as outlined in 'Festive Regulation No. 149-b' from this agency.

"5. All sleigh flights are to follow noise abatement procedures in urban areas where population density is in excess of 5,000 per sq. mile. :Ho Ho Ho's' should be reduced in volume and number. Reindeer and sleigh runners should be equipped with rubber to prevent 'roof clattering' and other noise problems.

"6. Computerized rating systems are to be used for the evaluation of gift recipients rather than the broad category of 'who's good or bad.' This is not judged to be sufficient criteria on which to make a decision.

"7. Hark, the Harold Angel, and Round John Virgin have been detailed from this office to monitor your operations during this Xmas Season. They will make further recommendations after the first of the year. You are, again, advised of the standards appeal provisions from the effect of this order.

"It is our hope that you will have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. We are joined in this expression of yuletide cheer by:

"George Cunningham & Family

Railroad Being Offered For $1; There's Strings

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A slightly used railroad along San Francisco's waterfront is for sale for one dollar.

There's also a slight qualification—the buyer must be able to operate the freight carrier, known for decades as the State Belt Line Railroad.

Port Commission president Cyril Magnin says that means the buyer would have to swallow a current deficit of about $11,000 a month.

He said Southern Pacific, Western Pacific and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe have shown little enthusiasm over the bargain sale price.

The railroad, which was a bustling mover of cargo to and from crowded docks during World War II, has been gradually phased out of business by containerization on cargo ships and the use of trucks.

"I'm all for open housing..."

I just don't want it in our lovely, peaceful neighborhood". This is pretty much the same thing as saying I'm for righting a social injustice as long as there is no cost to me. Has it ever worked out that way? This planet is our neighborhood. And all its people are neighbors in the community of man.

Apollo 17 Speeding To Splashdown

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Apollo 17's moon pilots joined the festive spirit of their families back home and sped ever faster toward Earth today, adding to their final lunar harvest by studying stars, galaxies and the darkest spot in the Milky Way.

Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Jack Schmitt were following one of the most accurate courses ever traveled by returning lunar explorers as they headed for Tuesday's splashdown. Their spaceship was flawless.

Mission Control, taking a cue from the astronauts' belief their mission marked the beginning of space exploration, awakened the three crewmen at 8:53 a.m. EST by radioing up the strains of "It's Only Just Begun," by The Carpenters.

Then a Christmas carol recorded at Evans' home in Houston was beamed to the spaceship, 125,000 miles away at the time.

The space travelers are to splash down at 2:42 p. m. EST Tuesday in the South Pacific to conclude a peerless age of exploration. The aircraft carrier Ticonderoga was on station 403 miles southeast of Samoa and weathermen predicted satisfactory conditions will greet the pilots when three parachutes ease them into the sea.

The astronauts were anxious to get back and shortly before turning in for the night, Schmitt asked mission control, "How far are we from home?"

The command module America was packed with 253 pounds of the most unusual moon samples ever collected. Evans added a mile and a half of film to the treasure Sunday when he pulled three cassettes out of the aft instrument section during a climactic spacewalk 184,000 miles from Earth.

The astronauts will discuss their mission during a televised news conference scheduled for 6 p.m. while they are 111,700 miles from Earth, well past the halfway point. Questions from newsmen will be radioed to the pilots and Schmitt, preparing for queries, Sunday night asked for a report on the operation of the instruments left behind in Taurus Littrow valley.

Scientists said the final Apollo mission will probably go down in the books as the most productive of all six lunar landing expeditions. The three spacemen added to their scientific return while they slept this morning by slowly spinning their spaceship so a telescope in the service module scanned the galaxy for ultraviolet radiation from distant stars.

On Sunday, the instrument studied a conglomeration of 1,000 galaxies of stars called the Coma Cluster.

Dr. Richard G. Henry, Johns Hopkins University astronomer working on the project, said the telescope also will be used to examine what he called the "Dark South" —the darkest region of the sky near the south pole of our galaxy, the Milky Way.

Youth Institution Is Going To Be Used

CHINO, Calif. (AP) — A $7.5 million youth correctional institution, vacant since its completion here two years ago, is going to be used in 1973, officials say.

They decline to say for what it will be used, and have difficulty explaining why it was ever built at all.

"The announcement as to its proposed use will be made next month in connection with the governor's budget," George R. Roberts, chief deputy director of the California Youth Authority, said.

Uses under consideration for the Older Boys Reception Center are as a training headquarters for staff employes of several counties, a medical psychiatric institution for the Department of Corrections and the Youth Authority, and "just an ordinary correctional institution," he added.

Roberts said the 400-capacity institution was built because of projected increases in the number of convicted youths turned over to the authority. However, the year before the state legislature allocated $7.5 million for construction of the center, the legislature instituted its Probation Subsidy Program and the number of youths sent to institutions began decreasing immediately.

The state's Probation Subsidy Program, started in 1965, encourages counties to put offenders on probation by paying them a share of the savings of prison expenses, part of which were to be used on rehabilitation programs.

In 1966, when money for the center was allocated, total commitments to the Youth Authority had dropped from 6,190 to 5,470. By the time the construction contract was awarded in 1968, the previous year's commitments were only 4,998. And, when construction was completed at the end of 1970, commitments were down to 3,746.

Roberts said the Youth Authority did not wait to see how successful the Probation Subsidy Program would be before spending the $7.5 million because "we had no way of predicting that the rates would go down as far as they did. The decrease was far beyond anything we could reasonably expect."

Because of the decrease in commitments, a similar facility near Stockton, the DeWitt Nelson School for Boys, for which the contract was awarded in 1966, stood vacant from the time it was completed in 1968 until December 1971.

It cost about $6 million to build but now is being used, Roberts said, for about 350 young male offenders who are receiving conservation and vocational training and participating in a "work experience" program, in which they handle food, laundry and other services for the facility.

In addition, the Youth Authority has closed two of its institutions — the Fricot Ranch School near San Andreas in 1971 and the Paso Robles School in Paso Robles in 1972 — and plans to close a third, the Los Guilucos School near Santa Rosa in 1973.

The Older Boys Reception Center, which still is not furnished and has had a maximum occupancy of three maintenance men since it was completed, has four main buildings — each built to house 100 young men — and a swimming pool, basketball court, administration building and two small chapels.

Chinese Troupe's Flawless Rehearsal

By ANNE KEEGAN ARONSON

CHICAGO (UPI) —The Opera House was almost empty Sunday night when the kid in an Army fatigue jacket leaned across the orchestra pit and pulled out a flute.

A slim man in a grey Mao suit walked to the railing with his reeded "shung" in hand and after smiles and nods, they broke into a duet.

The musical entente formed by Floyd Webb, 19, Maywood, Ill., and 19-year-old Hsieh Tung-Sheng of the People's Republic of China broke the ice after the performance.

Soon, the 12 members of the band accompanying the Shenyang Acrobatic Troupe of China were reaching into their pockets to hand out postcards and pins of the Peoples' Palace in Peking to the Americans swarming the pit.

It was the only dress rehersal for the group's tour of the United States, which begins today at the Chicago Opera House. The group, the first such ensemble from China to tour the United Sates, goes on to a number of other American cities, including Indianapolis, Washington and New York.

To the audience's eye, the dress rehearsal was flawless. Not a swirling plate dropped, not a bike overturned, not even a faint tremor in the precarious human pyramids. P.T. Barnum would have had a field day.

With the lifting of the ornate curtains, the rehearsal exploded in orange and yellow and the clang of Chinese gons. Fiery-eyed masked lions cavorted on stage with two pink-cheeked boys who tamed and tricked the lions with their grace and childish cunning.

The second act, in contrast, opened with tranquil, plate-spin-ning women who placidly stood on their heads, did somersaults and executed hand stands while keeping six plates miraculously twirling serenely on the tips of thin reeds.

CHICAGO WELCOME — An American boy glances up at a member of the Shenyang Acrobatic Troupe from the People's Republic of China during welcoming ceremonies at Chicago's O'Hare Airport. The troupe arrived yesterday and first public performance was scheduled tonight. (UPI Telephoto)

The small audience assembled oohed and aahed when a young woman pedaled a bicycle balancing 10 other women in a human fan design with nary a wobble of the handle bars.

And magician Liu-Chung had hands faster than the eye when he pulled gold fish out of the air and a 12 incher from the audience at the end of a pole.

The women wore pants and brightly ribboned pigtails. The entire troupe wore tunics of vivid colors that matched the oriental backdrops of a single rose, a setting sun and an apple blossom.

The finale came with a twist of the magician's hand. Pulling flowers from an empty jar, to the delight of the troupe children, he suddenly brought forth a deluge of ribbons, garlands, flags, and many tiered-Chinese lanterns.

"Long live the friendship between the Chinese and American Peoples" it read and the curtain closed.

The Magee Trial Still Minus Jury

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Ruchell Magee murder trial entered its fourth week today with jury selection not yet completed and the cost expected to amount to more than $150,000.

Magee, 33, a San Quentin convict, is charged with pulling the trigger of a shotgun that killed Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley in the 1970 Marin Civic Center escape that claimed four lives.

Attorneys estimated another week will be needed to select the jury for the trial which is expected to last 11 weeks.

Much of the money spent on the Magee trial is for security and the rest for jury costs.

Magee, who frequently breaks into tantrums in the courtroom, is flown to the San Francisco Hall of Justice from San Quentin and back again each trial day.

Black militant Angela Davis was charged with murder-kidnap-conspiracy in the case but was found innocent last January.

The Davis trial cost the state nearly $1 million compared to the $5,000 spent in the average criminal trial.

Magee yesterday received word from Los Angeles that his mother had died. Lee DeBord, prison information officer, said Magee was allowed to make a telephone call to his father.

Mink Coat Valued At $5,000 Stolen

Four coats valued at $5,525 were taken yesterday from a coat rack at the Holiday Inn, 1010 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, while their owners dined nearby at a private pa ty thrown by the Davis Realty Co. of San Rafael, police reported today.

Police said one of the garments was a mink coat valued at $5,000.

The Argument Heats Up Again On The Banning Of Swordfish

BOSTON (UPI) — Harold Lawry didn't-mince words.

"The government, they won't admit they're wrong," said Lary, a fisherman from Edgartown, Mass., and operator of Lary's Seafood Market. "They keep on, they're going to kill the whole seafood industry."

He was talking about swordfish which remains absent for the most part from American dinner tables due to Food and Drug Administration (FDA) guidelines on mercury content.

In May, 1969, the FDA adopted a safe level guideline of 0.5 parts per million (ppm) mercury in fish.

In December, 1970, the FDA recalled nearly all swordfish from the marketplace because of mercury levels. Later it recommended that the public not eat swordfish. The FDA told Congress swordfish it tested had an average mercury level of slightly more than 1.0 ppm.

The guidelines resulted in less swordfish being available for consumption. In addition, the warning severely curtailed sales where it was available.

Russell Nagle, who operates the John Nagle Co., a Boston wholesale and retail company, says his firm was the first in the New England area to have swordfish sampled by the FDA. He stopped selling swordfish altogether.

"I think it's natural for swordfish to have mercury. It's not pollution," said Nagle. "Apparently our government is the only one that thinks so."

Dr. Fred Stare, chairman of the Department of Nutrition, Harvard School of Public Health, said he had been unable to find any cases of mercury poisoning from fish in New England.

"New England consumes a lot more fish than, say, people out in South Dakota," he said. "I contacted the heads of medicine at five of our really outstanding medical teaching and professional institutions. Not one could find records that they ever had patients in which mercury poisoning was suspected.

"So why get all upset? Why ruin an industry?"

Part of the dispute centers around whether the mercury is actually a pollutant.

A spokesman for the FDA, Cesar Roy, said, "We do not believe it is natural. It's not pollution in the regular sense. But the burning of fossil fuels released tremendous quantities of mercury to the atmosphere. Swordfish is high on the food chain, so (mercury) tends to be concentrated as it moves up the food chain."

An article in the Harvard Law Review this year said the FDA's classification of mercury levels as unnatural in swordfish "is not consistent with the facts in all cases." It said the mercury content "would appear most likely attributable to natural causes."

The Review said a Norwegian study published in 1949 "measured small but definite levels of mercury in freshwater fish and revealed a correlation between mercury levels and the geological character of the neighboring land."

Dr. George Michaels, head of the Massachusetts Food and Drug Administration, does not subscribe to the federal guidelines. His department has set a state guideline of 1.0 ppm.

"I don't feel we should be dumping swordfish that we've been eating for centuries, that's been here for years and years. They've found samples many hundreds of years old that have run very high in mercury. This has been with us a long, long time," said Michaels.

Window Smashed

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give up to 30,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

40,000 miles	Miles Driven
45 month	$13.00

33 month	5.00
30 month	4.00

Two Professors Are Trying To Figure Out The Santa Myth

DALLAS (UPI) — From the child who stroked Santa Claus' beard saying, "Nice doggie," to the parent who answers a sticky childhood question by saying, "Why don't you ask Santa Claus," no one really understands the red suited old gentleman who sits in every department store in the land.

Dr. Eugene Bumpus and Dr. Martin Gluck, assistant professors at the Southwestern Medical School, feel a study is in order.

"Santa is a very important and meaningful person," said Bumpus, assistant professor of psychiatry at the school. "He affects an enormous amount of people and yet no one seems to have cone a scientific study into what all this means."

Bumpus and Gluck, assistant professor of psychology, plan to change all this, by interviewing Santas and attaching tape recorders under Santa's beard to find out what the youngsters think. They have been doing so this season and, though good results and data won't be available until summer, they have already learned enough to underscore the fact that nobody understands Santa.

"For instance," Bumpus said, "my own child had never been exposed to a full beard up close. He saw a large fluffy white thing and assumed it was an animal. He kept yanking at the beard and saying, 'Nice doggie, nice doggie.'

"Well, there are some children who have a very excited reaction to meeting Santa—the first thing they do when they sit on his lap is wet him. But then that kind of thing happens to child psychologists too."

Gluck said promises that can't be kept are a major problem.

"If a child says all he wants for Christmas is his two front teeth or a baby sister or brother, you'd better get out of there quick," he said. "There is one Santa who handles this kind of thing perfectly. He says he strictly is a toy Santa."

Parents also use Santa, the doctors said.

"If a little girl tells her mother she'd rater be a little boy, her mother is likely to say, 'Oh, tell that to Santa, see what he can do!'"

Gluck summed it up.

"We want to know just how important Santa Claus is in the growing up process of a child. We'll be studying the children who sit on Santa's knee in the department stores; Jewish children who are exposed to the myth but are not a part of the observance, and the poverty children who, no matter how much they keep the faith, will never receive the goods."

6 Drivers Sentenced For Drinking

Six persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Robert A. Smallman for drunken driving.

Sentenced Tuesday were:

Richard William Skou, 22, of San Francisco, arrested Nov. 21 on the Golden Gate Bridge, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Douglas Perry Gunderson, 27, of 1516 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo, arrested March 26 on Highway 101, sentenced to 10 days in jail.

Joseph Francis Harrington, 21, of 65 Canal Street, San Rafael, arrested Nov. 5 in Sausalito, placed on probation for one year and ordered to work 10 days for Marin County Park and Recreation Department.

Robert Bernard Martel, 45, of 26 San Felipe Way, Novato, arrested Oct. 21 in Novato, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Vincent Marcellino, 37, of Santa Rosa, arrested Dec. 12 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $250.

Robert A. Leingang, 41, of 7568 Beth Court, Rohnert Park, arrested Dec. 5 in Sausalito, placed on probation for one year and fined $250.

Development Near Tiburon To Be Aired

A controversial hilltop housing development near Tiburon will be considered tomorrow by county supervisors, meeting at 10:30 a.m. at the Marin Civic Center.

The Highlands, as the development is called, would include 128 homes on a 32-acre site overlooking the Reedlands and Bel Aire subdivisions.

The county planning commission approved the project in September despite strong opposition by nearby residents, who said the project would be too dense and would add to already bad sewage, traffic and drainage conditions.

The Tiburon City Council, upon learning of the planning commissions endorsement of the project, reacted with anger and said it would ask supervisors to turn it down.

Supervisors, who will consider the project at 3 p.m., have received more than 20 letters in opposition.

The board will meet in a "workshop session" at 9 a.m. with the Marin County Youth Commission to discuss commission activities. That meeting will be held in Room 332.

The board also will discuss the county stance in the face of a breakdown in negotiations with the City of San Rafael over redevelopment.

STEP INTO SPACE — Mrs. Jan Evans (center) grips her children as she watches her husband, Apollo 17 command module pilot Ron Evans step out into space. Apollo 17 Speeding To Splashdown

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Apollo 17's moon pilots joined the festive spirit of their families back home and sped ever faster toward Earth today, adding to their final lunar harvest by studying stars, galaxies and the darkest spot in the Milky Way.

Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Jack Schmitt were following one of the most accurate courses ever traveled by returning lunar explorers as they headed for Tuesday's splashdown. Their spaceship was flawless.

Mission Control, taking a cue from the astronauts' belief their mission marked the beginning of space exploration, awakened the three crewmen at 8:53 a.m. EST by radioing up the strains of "It's Only Just Begun," by The Carpenters.

Then a Christmas carol recorded at Evans' home in Houston was beamed to the spaceship, 125,000 miles away at the time.

The space travelers are to splash down at 2:42 p. m. EST Tuesday in the South Pacific to conclude a peerless age of exploration. The aircraft carrier Ticonderoga was on station 403 miles southeast of Samoa and weathermen predicted satisfactory conditions will greet the pilots when three parachutes ease them into the sea.

The astronauts were anxious to get back and shortly before turning in for the night, Schmitt asked mission control, "How far are we from home?"

The command module America was packed with 253 pounds of the most unusual moon samples ever collected. Evans added a mile and a half of film to the treasure Sunday when he pulled three cassettes out of the aft instrument section during a climactic spacewalk 184,000 miles from Earth.

The astronauts will discuss their mission during a televised news conference scheduled for 6 p.m. while they are 111,700 miles from Earth, well past the halfway point. Questions from newsmen will be radioed to the pilots and Schmitt, preparing for queries, Sunday night asked for a report on the operation of the instruments left behind in Taurus Littrow valley.

Scientists said the final Apollo mission will probably go down in the books as the most productive of all six lunar landing expeditions. The three spacemen added to their scientific return while they slept this morning by slowly spinning their spaceship so a telescope in the service module scanned the galaxy for ultraviolet radiation from distant stars.

On Sunday, the instrument studied a conglomeration of 1,000 galaxies of stars called the Coma Cluster.

Dr. Richard G. Henry, Johns Hopkins University astronomer working on the project, said the telescope also will be used to examine what he called the "Dark South" —the darkest region of the sky near the south pole of our galaxy, the Milky Way.

Youth Institution Is Going To Be Used

CHINO, Calif. (AP) — A $7.5 million youth correctional institution, vacant since its completion here two years ago, is going to be used in 1973, officials say.

They decline to say for what it will be used, and have difficulty explaining why it was ever built at all.

"The announcement as to its proposed use will be made next month in connection with the governor's budget," George R. Roberts, chief deputy director of the California Youth Authority, said.

Uses under consideration for the Older Boys Reception Center are as a training headquarters for staff employes of several counties, a medical psychiatric institution for the Department of Corrections and the Youth Authority, and "just an ordinary correctional institution," he added.

Roberts said the 400-capacity institution was built because of projected increases in the number of convicted youths turned over to the authority. However, the year before the state legislature allocated $7.5 million for construction of the center, the legislature instituted its Probation Subsidy Program and the number of youths sent to institutions began decreasing immediately.

The state's Probation Subsidy Program, started in 1965, encourages counties to put offenders on probation by paying them a share of the savings of prison expenses, part of which were to be used on rehabilitation programs.

In 1966, when money for the center was allocated, total commitments to the Youth Authority had dropped from 6,190 to 5,470. By the time the construction contract was awarded in 1968, the previous year's commitments were only 4,998. And, when construction was completed at the end of 1970, commitments were down to 3,746.

Roberts said the Youth Authority did not wait to see how successful the Probation Subsidy Program would be before spending the $7.5 million because "we had no way of predicting that the rates would go down as far as they did. The decrease was far beyond anything we could reasonably expect."

Because of the decrease in commitments, a similar facility near Stockton, the DeWitt Nelson School for Boys, for which the contract was awarded in 1966, stood vacant from the time it was completed in 1968 until December 1971.

It cost about $6 million to build but now is being used, Roberts said, for about 350 young male offenders who are receiving conservation and vocational training and participating in a "work experience" program, in which they handle food, laundry and other services for the facility.

In addition, the Youth Authority has closed two of its institutions — the Fricot Ranch School near San Andreas in 1971 and the Paso Robles School in Paso Robles in 1972 — and plans to close a third, the Los Guilucos School near Santa Rosa in 1973.

The Older Boys Reception Center, which still is not furnished and has had a maximum occupancy of three maintenance men since it was completed, has four main buildings — each built to house 100 young men — and a swimming pool, basketball court, administration building and two small chapels.

BEARING A GIFT

Broke, Cold Class Of '32 To Reunite

By JEFF GREER

December 1932 was a cold time to be a senior graduating from San Rafael High School. The mercury shivered to a record low of 18 degrees on Dec. 13, and it was the depths of the Great Depression.

But 26 San Rafael High School students marched down the aisle of the school auditorium on Dec. 23, with a mixture of glee and solemnity.

The senior edition of the Red and White, the school newspaper, announced beforehand that senior class president Mary Frances Dodd would present the school with a gift during the commencement ceremonies.

Only there wasn't any gift to give.

"We were too darn broke," Angelo Turrini, one of the Christmas seniors of '32, recalled this week.

The Class of Christmas '32 still intends to do something about that gift that was never given.

The alumni will gather Saturday, exactly 40 years after graduation, in their first reunion. They'll have dinner and dancing and recollection at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant. Turrini said the class members will discuss what kind of a gift to give the school, where present-day students cannot remember even the days of World War II, much less the Depression.

At least 16 of the 1932 graduates plan to attend the reunion. The organizers have been unable to find any trace of eight graduates, despite six months of work. They know that two others are deceased, according to Marie Divita of 56 Manor Road, Fairfax, who is taking reservations for the dinner. Alumni families and San Rafael High teachers from the '30s also have been invited.

One of the graduates the reunion organizers haven't been able to locate is the class president, Mary Frances Dodd.

Many of the Depression-era youngsters stayed close to their hometown. Turrini now operates the United answering and ambulance service in San Rafael; Joseph Rossi is manager of Duffy Brothers garage; Mrs. Divita is secretary for a San Rafael glass firm.

Another organizer, Edwin Garcia, is with a major life insurance firm and lives in Kentfield. Henry Catala of San Rafael recently retired from operating a Miracle Mile dry cleaning business.

ANGELO TURRINI
Sparkplugging reunion

Of the graduates reached by reunion organizers, Walter Wraight lives the greatest distance from his old hometown — Poway, San Diego County.

Wright will attend the reunion, he wrote, and so will Turrini, Rossi, Garcia, Catala and Mrs. Divita, along with Victoria Ferrari Tarlton of Berkeley; Charles Giudici of San Rafael, Robert Johnson of Fairfax, Norman MacLachlan of Vacaville, Evelyn Gilardi Matison of Petaluma and Roger Camgros of San Rafael.

The reunion committee has been unable to locate Anna Avilla, Claire Collins, Miss Dodd, Harold Hildebrant, Robert Jones, Stanley Poyser, Lois Sappingfield and Wanda Lee Silvers.

Turrini said Poyser may have been the only member of the Class of '32 lost in World War II. Edwin Makinson and Suzanne Otten are known to be deceased, Mrs. Divita reported.

Ruth Mayo Goss, one of the teachers of the class 40 years ago, will also attend the reunion, the organizers said. A few more reservations are expected from other class members and teachers, Mrs. Divita reported.

"This cold weather is really ironic," Rossi said the other day as he discussed reunion plans. "This is the coldest since 1932."

"I remember having to walk to and from school two or three times a day" in the frigid weather, Mrs. Divita added. "Practically nobody had cars in those days."

Turrini was editor of the high school newspaper, but "we were the only senior class in the school's history that couldn't put out a yearbook." There wasn't enough money.

The school trustees decreed the seniors could not publish unless they sold 100 ads in the annual at $3 each. "By Christmas, we had 10 ads," Turrini said.

What money the seniors could gather went for firewood and coal to heat homes — and for dolls and Christmas gifts the students took to the school's Christmas Fiesta the night before graduation for donation to needier San Rafael families.

The seniors abandoned their traditional formal dance — again money was the culprit — and were guests of honor at the fiesta. The Marin Journal for the week carried news of the graduation ceremonies, the school party and the gifts on page one. Alongside was a story saying the Marin Grand Jury would recommend that all county officials take pay cuts to help the economy.

And Turrini wrote his own graduation headline on a back page in the Red and White:

"Cruel World Receives
Twenty-Six Hopefuls
For Annual Breadline"

Chinese Liquors To Be Marketed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — American consumers will soon be able to taste Chefoo wine, Shantung brandy, and other exotic beverages from China.

A California firm (Huntington and Rice in nearby Mountain View) announced today it would be the first distributor of premium Chinese wines, brandies, liqueurs and gin.

The firm said the products, made in the Shantung Province of China, will be sold in the U.S. under the "Sunflower" label.

SENIOR Red 'N' White EDITION

VOL. 12, NO. 14. SAN RAFAEL HIGH SCHOOL DECEMBER 22, 1932

Twenty-six to Receive Diplomas

GRADUATES' NEWSPAPER — This December 1932 edition of the San Rafael High School newspaper bannered the midyear graduation of 26 students and told of their honors and of school Christmas festivities.

Yuletide Decorations Add Xmas Spirit to Fiesta Friday Night

Toys, Foods, Furnish Admittance Fee For Pupils

With gay decorations of fir trees, greens and holly expressing the yuletide spirit, the annual Christmas Fiesta, under the supervision of Miss Bolton, will be held in the gymnasium next Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Plans have been made for entertainment and refreshments for the festivity.

A giant Christmas tree will be one of the attractions of the evening, under which the toys will be placed to lend an added Christmas atmosphere. Later they will be removed to their destination. The tree will be gayly decorated with colored ornaments, lights and silvery icicles.

One of the main events of the Fiesta is the crowning of the Ideal Girl, who as yet remains a mystery. She will be surrounded by her attendants, who are also winners of the contest. Their names will not be revealed until the night of the festival.

Girl Scrub Falls for Senior He-Man On Sight

"Gee, ain't he grand!"

Little thrills of ecstasy running up and down the young freshman's spinal column mark the entrance of the high and mighty senior into the classroom. Secret dreams steal into the cerebellum of the small scrub. Hopes, faint at first, grow stronger as the great upper classmen winks at the lowly frosh, who nearly has heart failure at the procedure.

"Wonder what he thinks of me?" "Is my lipstick on straight?" are only a few of the questions that now pop into the scrub's sconce.

Slowly eyeing the teacher, as she dabs little grains of powder over the freckles of youth, she coquettishly winks back at the senior, quite taken back at her own audaciousness. The senior now grins broadly. The freshman girl is so flattered that she is sure she will never be able to stand the shock.

Turning around intending to make a telling remark to that "stuck-up" sophomore girl behind her, with whom she was at swords' points, imagine her astonishment to see the sophomore making frantic gestures at the senior trying to convey the idea to him that she would meet him after school.

Opinions quickly change, as did the young scrub's of the great senior. She now felt like a penny waiting for change. To think that she should cheapen herself so! Her sweet expression and the flirtatious look in her eyes quickly turned to a glare of jealousy and hate as the senior, with another smile at the "soph" behind her, made his exit.

Two Girls Tied for High Honors in Contest

At last we have found her—rather, them! Two girls were tied for high points in the Ideal Girl Contest. Because each girl represents a distinct type Miss Olson insisted that both Margaret Schneider and Beverly Bell share honors.

Out of a possible 775 points, based on the following: Posture, teeth, nails, hair, skin, muscle tone, general appearance, weight, personality and scholarship, both girls totaled 689 points. Margaret Schneider represents the outdoor type of girl, while Beverly Bell typifies the social type. The prize, which will be awarded at the Christmas Fiesta, will be divided evenly between the two ideal girls.

There were nine girls who were high in points and deserve honor. They are Helen New, Eleanor Plaa, Marion Brazil, Irene Roselli, Jean Powell, Marn Dunlap, Edna Gardner, Bruna Ferrario, and Betty Jane Gettemy.

"I feel this contest has accomplished a great deal of good. More girls are interested in personal loveliness than ever before. We now have two ideals and we can chose the type we like best to emulate," said Miss Olson in closing the contest.

Thoughts On Graduation

Four years have gone by and now the high seniors must leave the school never again to return as undergraduates, never again return to enjoy the privileges of the lower classmen which they do not realize they are enjoying. Never again return to represent San Rafael High in its numerous activities such as athletics, dramas, councils, committees, social events and others which every one is entitled to take part in except the outside world and the prospective alumni.

Fellow students, it is hard to think of giving up your friends and privileges through the act of graduation.

No doubt we have all heard at some time or other of how glad we'll be when graduation night comes. In fact we all feel that way when we are freshmen, sophomores or juniors, but when the senior year enters our lives the sentiment toward that night is different, different in many ways.

It is only once during a lifetime that one may appreciate the thrills, experiences, honors and fun of a high school career. No matter if you live 10, 100 or 1000 years, high school comes but once.

ANGELO TURRINI.

"December Class Has Been Outstanding," Says Miss Binsacca

By Miss Dorothy Binsacca

The December class of 1932 has been noteworthy and outstanding as to caliber and quantity of work done during their four years here. This class has taken part in many of the school activities while keeping up an unusually heavy schedule of regular curricular work. Almost every member of the class has become distinguished in some activity. They have become eminent not because of what they themselves are, I have reference

Annual Performance Held Before Full House

Receipts Total $165; All Students to Benefit

What has been classed as one of the most outstanding vaudevilles ever to be given by the local high school was held last Friday night before an almost packed house.

It has been estimated that nearly 100 students took part among whom were five graduating high seniors.

The floor receipts, which were the largest for several years, totaled over $165, which will be used for the student body and the publication of the Red 'n' White.

A total of 15 acts composed the performance, which in order read as follows:

Selections from the orchestra, "Catching the Train," "The Dress Parade monologue, Musical Mussings Domesticated Papas, Hicks from the Sticks, the All-American Girl, "Sipping de Public, Tragic of the Foswells, "The Thief," "Blue Mood," "The Dark Side of Life," "A Modern Proposal," "Hobo Antics," "Justa Like De Olda Times," "On the Hop," "Is I in Love? I Is," "On the Hop," exit march.

Bids for Annual Xmas Dance Received By Seniors

Because they are to be guests of honor at the annual Christmas Fiesta, high seniors received bids to the affair early this week. These bids must be signed by both parents of the graduate, and only after this is done will the student and his guest be allowed to attend.

Mr. Hildebrant appointed a committee consisting of Mignon Lovejoy and Mary Frances Dodd, to see to it that all class members donated food, clothing, and toys to the needy families of San Rafael.

Christmas Graduates Rank Scholastically; High Records Lauded

By Miss Adele Newcomer

The Christmas graduates of the year 1932 have been very prominent scholastically. In this small class of 26 members there are three seal-bearers, making almost 12 per cent of the class life members of the California Scholarship Federation.

Victoria Ferrari, the first of these seal-bearers, has been a member of the Scholarship Society every semester during her high school attendance. She was president of the Scholarship Society during the spring of 1932, and has been chairman of the Entertainment Committee this year.

Charles Guidici and Joseph Rossi have been eligible to membership in the Scholarship Society every semester except one, and they will also become seal-bearers at graduation.

Henry Catalaa, Edwin Garcia, Herald Hildebrand, Lois Sappingfield, and Wanda Lee Silvers have all been members of the society one or more semesters, and their names have appeared frequently on the honor roll.

Other members of the class have not had sufficient points to be eligible to the Scholarship Society, but have had college recommending records. Among those who would probably average B minus to B plus are Claire Collins, Bruna Ferrari, Robert Johnson, Stanley Poyser, and Walter Wraight.

Largest Xmas Class To Date Will Graduate

The class which graduates Thursday night consists of 26 seniors. It is the largest Christmas class to date. The girls will be daintily gowned in pastel shades, while the boys will appear in dark suits.

Prior to 1930 the Christmas classes of San Rafael High School were not given a public graduation. Certificates of graduation were presented to them and in the following June they returned and received their diplomas with the class then graduating. The size of the December classes did not warrant a public graduation.

In the year 1931 the Christmas class numbered 20, and the first class graduation was held. The seniors dressed in formals.

The following Christmas a class of 24 seniors were graduated, attired in collegiate cap and gown.

Bud Fisher Wins in Close Race for President

The office of secretary was carried oft by May Lee, with Louise Dallara, Antoinette Kornell and John Palacio as yell leaders.

Class Will Be Third Xmas Group to Graduate

San Rafael High School's third annual Christmas commencement exercises will be held in the local auditorium tomorrow night at 8:30.

The procession of the graduating class down the aisle to the stage will begin the ceremonies. Stanley Poyser, president of the Student Body, will give the class greeting, after which a chorus, composed of boys and girls of the school, will entertain the audience with a selection entitled "Nightfall in Granada."

The senior class president, Mary Frances Dodd, will then present the school with a gift. Claire Collins will give a piano solo. A selection by San Rafael High School's Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Walton, will follow.

The senior class representative, Henry Catalaa, will give the farewell address, after which the ranting of awards by Mr. Hartzell will follow. Mr. Hartzell will also render the presentation of the graduating class.

Mr. A. L. Borkheim, president of the Board of Education, will award the diplomas. The mixed chorus will then give a selection.

As a fitting conclusion the "Recessional" will be played by the San Rafael High School Orchestra.

David Nurse Proves Himself Able Artist

David Nurse, well-known low senior, proved himself a competent photographer as well as an honor student when he finished pictures for the special high senior edition of the Red 'n' White in record-breaking time last Friday. His last picture was taken at 1 o'clock and the prints were ready for the engraver at 4:30.

Because the staff was greatly rushed, David showed himself well versed in his subject by applying an entirely new method in drying prints, never used in the school before.

Seniors' Reputations Shattered by Verdicts

"What do you think of the seniors," I asked a junior, "and why and for what reason?"

The junior looked at me sadly, shifted his gum and answered: "I try not to think of them at all. As a group they don't rate. As individuals they are blah."

"What do you think of the seniors?" I chirped at a passing Soph.

"Whatta yuh mean seniors?" he growled. "That bunch of mummified, ossified, petrified palookas? Let 'em graduate."

"Hey, Frosh," I yelled at a gruleless-looking first-year maid. "Have you heard about the seniors?"

The frosh replied, "I hate those horrid stuckup senior women. But, O Mister, ain't the men honeys? Isn't 'Stan' sweet and isn't 'Frenchy' just kissable. My heart just stops when Bob Johnson passes by, isn't he—"

"See here, Frosh, you are the one being interviewed—"

Dead Used To Smuggle Narcotics

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A federal court has been told that dope smugglers sewed heroin inside the bodies of American war dead being returned to the United States from Indochina.

The macabre operation was revealed in testimony by military and customs agents at a bail reduction hearing for Thomas E. Sutherland, 51, charged with using false documents and impersonating military personnel.

Sutherland is being held on $50,000 bail after his plea that it be lowered to $5,000 was denied by U.S. Magistrate Clarence E. Foetz. He was arrested Monday at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington.

Federal agents said Sutherland was wearing an Army sergeant's uniform and was accompanying two slain G.I.s aboard a plane headed for Dover Air Force Base in Delaware when they were tipped that dope might be sewn in the bodies. The plane was diverted to Andrews where it was searched and a pathologist examined the bodies.

U.S. Attorney Michael E. Marr told the court no dope was found either on the plane or the bodies, although one of the bodies showed a recent incision and stitching. Marr noted, however, that the body was unattended during a stopover in Honolulu.

Marr did not reveal how authorities learned about the operation, although he said it been under way for eight years and was based partly in the Baltimore-Washington area.

Attempts to break into three Corte Madera businesses were made Friday night, Corte Madera police reported.

The front door of the Old Time Applaince Repair Shop at 36 Tamalpais Drive was pried open, and pry marks also were found at the Marin Dog Parlor at 40 Tamalpais Drive, and at Corte Madera Hardware at 26 Tamalpais Drive. Nothing was taken from any of the businesses, said police.

Monuments Shut

SACRAMENTO — The Department of Parks and Recreation today reminded holiday travelers and vacationers that state historical monuments are closed to the public on Christmas Day. This includes that most popular tourist attraction Hearst San Simeon State Historical Monument along State Highway 1 in San Luis Obispo County.

Two Professors Are Trying To Figure Out The Santa Myth

DALLAS (UPI) — From the child who stroked Santa Claus' beard saying, "Nice doggie," to the parent who answers a sticky childhood question by saying, "Why don't you ask Santa Claus," no one really understands the red suited old gentleman who sits in every department store in the land.

Dr. Eugene Bumpus and Dr. Martin Gluck, assistant professors at the Southwestern Medical School, feel a study is in order.

"Santa is a very important and meaningful person," said Bumpus, assistant professor of psychiatry at the school. "He affects an enormous amount of people and yet no one seems to have cone a scientific study into what all this means."

Bumpus and Gluck, assistant professor of psychology, plan to change all this, by interviewing Santas and attaching tape recorders under Santa's beard to find out what the youngsters think. They have been doing so this season and, though good results and data won't be available until summer, they have already learned enough to underscore the fact that nobody understands Santa.

"For instance," Bumpus said, "my own child had never been exposed to a full beard up close. He saw a large fluffy white thing and assumed it was an animal. He kept yanking at the beard and saying, 'Nice doggie, nice doggie.'

"Well, there are some children who have a very excited reaction to meeting Santa—the first thing they do when they sit on his lap is wet him. But then that kind of thing happens to child psychologists too."

Gluck said promises that can't be kept are a major problem.

"If a child says all he wants for Christmas is his two front teeth or a baby sister or brother, you'd better get out of there quick," he said. "There is one Santa who handles this kind of thing perfectly. He says he strictly is a toy Santa."

Parents also use Santa, the doctors said.

"If a little girl tells her mother she'd rater be a little boy, her mother is likely to say, 'Oh, tell that to Santa, see what he can do!'"

Gluck summed it up.

"We want to know just how important Santa Claus is in the growing up process of a child. We'll be studying the children who sit on Santa's knee in the department stores; Jewish children who are exposed to the myth but are not a part of the observance, and the poverty children who, no matter how much they keep the faith, will never receive the goods."

6 Drivers Sentenced For Drinking

Six persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Robert A. Smallman for drunken driving.

Sentenced Tuesday were:

Richard William Skou, 22, of San Francisco, arrested Nov. 21 on the Golden Gate Bridge, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Douglas Perry Gunderson, 27, of 1516 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo, arrested March 26 on Highway 101, sentenced to 10 days in jail.

Joseph Francis Harrington, 21, of 65 Canal Street, San Rafael, arrested Nov. 5 in Sausalito, placed on probation for one year and ordered to work 10 days for Marin County Park and Recreation Department.

Robert Bernard Martel, 45, of 26 San Felipe Way, Novato, arrested Oct. 21 in Novato, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Vincent Marcellino, 37, of Santa Rosa, arrested Dec. 12 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $250.

Robert A. Leingang, 41, of 7568 Beth Court, Rohnert Park, arrested Dec. 5 in Sausalito, placed on probation for one year and fined $250.

Development Near Tiburon To Be Aired

A controversial hilltop housing development near Tiburon will be considered tomorrow by county supervisors, meeting at 10:30 a.m. at the Marin Civic Center.

The Highlands, as the development is called, would include 128 homes on a 32-acre site overlooking the Reedlands and Bel Aire subdivisions.

The county planning commission approved the project in September despite strong opposition by nearby residents, who said the project would be too dense and would add to already bad sewage, traffic and drainage conditions.

The Tiburon City Council, upon learning of the planning commissions endorsement of the project, reacted with anger and said it would ask supervisors to turn it down.

Supervisors, who will consider the project at 3 p.m., have received more than 20 letters in opposition.

The board will meet in a "workshop session" at 9 a.m. with the Marin County Youth Commission to discuss commission activities. That meeting will be held in Room 332.

The board also will discuss the county stance in the face of a breakdown in negotiations with the City of San Rafael over redevelopment.

32 Americans Selected For Rhodes Scholarships

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (UPI) — Thirty-two American students, ranging from an Olympic athlete to the grandson of an unsuccessful presidential candidate, have been named this year's Rhodes scholars.

The students, whose names were announced Sunday by William J. Barber, administrative head of the Rhodes Scholarship Program in the United States, will be eligible for study abroad.

Among this year's selections, the two mostly heavily represented institutions of higher learning were Yale and Harvard universities, each one credited with five scholars.

Wendell L. Willkie II, grandson of the 1940 GOP presidential contender, was one of the Harvard students. A Minnesota resident, he is a social studies major and has been active in youth programs and congressional campaigns in his home state.

John M. Petkevich of Great Falls, Mont., was another Harvard student selected. He represented the United States in the 1968 and 1972 Winter Olympics as a figure skater. He won the bronze medal in the past Olympics and currently holds the men's world figure skating championship.

The coveted scholarships provide for at least two years study in Britain at Oxford University, one of the world's oldest and most respected institutions of learning. Those named were part of an international group of scholars who will be given an annual stipend to cover necessary expenses.

The scholarships, which were first awarded in 1903, were subsidized in part by the seventh will of South African empire builder Cecil John Rhodes, who founded Rhodesia.

Rhodes hoped that the scholarships would contribute to world understanding and peace. He specified in his will that "no student shall be qualified or disqualified for election on account of his race or religious opinions."

Barber said this year's list of scholars was selected from 733 applicants endorsed by 256 colleges and universities throughout the nation, a record number.

AEC Boss Sees Energy Shortages

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Energy shortages are likely this winter and in the coming summer, says chairman James R. Schlesinger of the Atomic Energy Commission.

But Schlesinger said the shortages would be far short of "crisis" proportions.

Schlesinger was interviewed Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press".

Annenberg Subject Of Peace Slogans

BROADSTAIRS, England (UPI) —American Ambassador Walter H. Annenberg was met Sunday by shouting demonstrators when he arrived to attend the annual Christmas carol service conducted by Prime Minister Edward Heath.

More than 40 persons shouted such slogans as "Stop Bombing in Vietnam," and "Peace on Earth Means Peace in Vietnam," when Annenberg and his wife arrived at the Grand Ballroom.

Pontiff Urges Mankind To Realize 'Peace Is Possible'

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI urged mankind today to realize that peace is possible despite the "apocalyptic specter" of violence hanging over the world.

In his annual message of peace for 1973, which the Vatican released today, the pontiff said: "Peace is possible! It must be possible!"

The 75-year-old pontiff said that peace is "above all a state of mind (which) has at last penetrated as a logical human need into the minds of many people, and esecially of the young."

On Sunday the Pope expressed his bitterness over the failure of the Vietnam peace talks, and today he noted that continuing conflicts are breeding "an ever growing amount of injured prestige, of unrelenting desire for revenge and of endemic and organized disorder" which is being transmitted from generation to generation.

"Violence becomes fashionable again, and even clothes itself in the breastplate of justice," the pontiff said. "It becomes a way of life, abetted by all the ingredients of treacherous evildoing and by all the wiles of cowardice, of extortion and of complicity, and finally presents itself as an apocalyptic specter armed with the unheard of instruments of murderous destruction."

The Pope lamented that crime no longer horrifies, that cruelty has become legalized and that genocide is seen as a possible radical solution.

"Behind all these horrible visions," the Pope said, "there grows through cold-blooded and unerring calculations the huge economy of arms, with its hunger-producing markets."

He regretted that many developing nations are cutting down on food, medicine, education and housing —"and even sacrificing true economic and political development" —so that they can be well-armed and "inflict fear and slavery on their own neighbors."

The pontiff said his message that peace is possible is echoed in "the pitiable groan of the unnumbered graves in the military cemeteries and of the monuments dedicated to the Unknown Soldiers."

The Pope said that peace is possible if it is truly willed and added: "If peace is possible, it is a duty."

In his Sunday speech the Pope said "We had been awaiting peace in the Far East as a human gift worthy of the Feast of Christmas."

Barrel, Vinegar Taken From Barn

A thief took a 23-gallon barrel containing 10 gallons of vinegar from an unlocked barn near the Old Timers tavern, 1573 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, sometime Friday or Saturday, police reported today.

Police said the thief drained the barrel and left it behind.

Ecumenical Slate Picked

A slate of officers, headed by incoming president Betty Moody, who represents Our Lady or Loretto Church in Novato, has been nominated by the Ecumenical Association for Housing.

Other nominees are Thomas Zeller, St. Anselm's Church, San Anselmo, vice president, and Hazen Goddard, Christ Presbyterian Church, Terry Linda, secretary-treasurer.

William J. Parnow, Joseph Martino, Shirley Schell, Ellen Wagner, Rebecca Watkin and Henry Adrian have been nominated for the executive board. Officers are to be elected at a Jan. 17 meeting.

An exhibit of photographs by Arthur Zacks will continue on display at the Social Security Gallery, 549 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, through Feb. 2.

Viewing hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Heath In Jolly Mood For Caroling Concert

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Edward Heath laughed heartily at his own joke. His body shook like a bowl of jelly. Then he led the choir and audience in a rousing rendition of "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Conducting his annual Christmas carol service in his hometown of Broadstairs, Heath cracked jokes about Britain's current prices-and-incomes freeze. He did not let anti-Vietnam war demonstrators spoil the occasion.

The London Sunday Telegraph said Heath's Conservative government will inform Parliament after its Christmas recess ends Jan. 22 that he will extend the 90-day freeze for another 60 days beyond its present expiry date of Feb. 27.

Heath, in a jolly Christmas spirit, roared when he compared one line in a carol where he wanted the audience to pause with a "standstill or a freeze." The choir and audience laughed, too.

When U.S. Ambassador Walter H. Annenberg and his wife arrived for the service at the English Channel resort's grand ballroom, 40 demonstrators greeted them with shouts of "hypocrite," "stop bombing Vietnam" and "peace on earth means peace in Vietnam."

Department stores in London and other cities and towns said Christmas shoppers, apparently spurred by the freeze imposed on Nov. 6 to check soaring inflation, were engaging in an "orgy of spending."

A survey conducted by the London Sunday Express showed that Christmas sales were running at about 25 per cent more than last year, with shoppers stocking up on television sets, refrigerators and other expensive items in anticipation of price increases when the freeze ends.

"There is an enormous amount of spending going on," said Robert Midgley, manager of London's Harrods Department store. "We have never seen anything quite like it."

BEARING A GIFT

Broke, Cold Class Of '32 To Reunite

By JEFF GREER

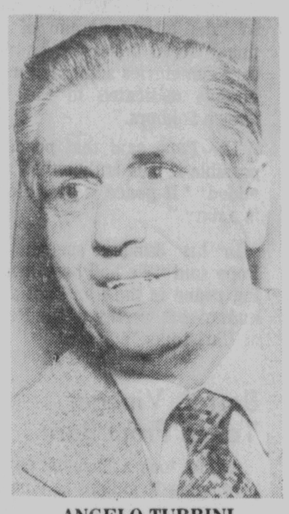
December 1932 was a cold time to be a senior graduating from San Rafael High School. The mercury shivered to a record low of 18 degrees on Dec. 13, and it was the depths of the Great Depression.

But 26 San Rafael High School students marched down the aisle of the school auditorium on Dec. 23, with a mixture of glee and solemnity.

The senior edition of the Red and White, the school newspaper, announced beforehand that senior class president Mary Frances Dodd would present the school with a gift during the commencement ceremonies.

Only there wasn't any gift to give.

"We were too darn broke," Angelo Turrini, one of the Christmas seniors of '32, recalled this week.



ANGELO TURRINI
Sparkplugging reunion

The Class of Christmas '32 still intends to do something about that gift that was never given.

The alumni will gather Saturday, exactly 40 years after graduation, in their first reunion. They'll have dinner and dancing and recollection at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant. Turrini said the class members will discuss what kind of a gift to give the school, where present-day students cannot remember even the days of World War II, much less the Depression.

At least 16 of the 1932 graduates plan to attend the reunion. The organizers have been unable to find any trace of eight graduates, despite six months of work. They know that two others are deceased, according to Marie Divita of 56 Manor Road, Fairfax, who is taking reservations for the dinner. Alumni families and San Rafael High teachers from the '30s also have been invited.

One of the graduates the reunion organizers haven't been able to locate is the class president, Mary Frances Dodd.

Many of the Depression-era youngsters stayed close to their hometown. Turrini now operates the United answering and ambulance service in San Rafael; Joseph Rossi is manager of Duffy Brothers garage; Mrs. Divita is secretary for a San Rafael glass firm.

Another organizer, Edwin Garcia, is with a major life insurance firm and lives in Kentfield. Henry Catala of San Rafael recently retired from operating a Miracle Mile dry cleaning business.

Wright will attend the reunion, he wrote, and so will Turrini, Rossi, Garcia, Catala and Mrs. Divita, along with Victoria Ferrari Tarlton of Berkeley; Charles Giudici of San Rafael, Robert Johnson of Fairfax, Norman MacLachlan of Vacaville, Evelyn Gilardi Matison of Petaluma and Roger Camgros of San Rafael.

The reunion committee has been unable to locate Anna Avilla, Claire Collins, Miss Dodd, Harold Hildebrant, Robert Jones, Stanley Poyser, Lois Sappingfield and Wanda Lee Silvers.

Turrini said Poyser may have been the only member of the Class of '32 lost in World War II. Edwin Makinson and Suzanne Otten are known to be deceased, Mrs. Divita reported.

Ruth Mayo Goss, one of the teachers of the class 40 years ago, will also attend the reunion, the organizers said. A few more reservations are expected from other class members and teachers, Mrs. Divita reported.

"This cold weather is really ironic," Rossi said the other day as he discussed reunion plans. "This is the coldest since 1932."

"I remember having to walk to and from school two or three times a day" in the frigid weather, Mrs. Divita added. "Practically nobody had cars in those days."

Turrini was editor of the high school newspaper, but "we were the only senior class in the school's history that couldn't put out a yearbook." There wasn't enough money.

The school trustees decreed the seniors could not publish unless they sold 100 ads in the annual at $3 each. "By Christmas, we had 10 ads," Turrini said.

What money the seniors could gather went for firewood and coal to heat homes — and for dolls and Christmas gifts the students took to the school's Christmas Fiesta the night before graduation for donation to needier San Rafael families.

The seniors abandoned their traditional formal dance — again money was the culprit — and were guests of honor at the fiesta. The Marin Journal for the week carried news of the graduation ceremonies, the school party and the gifts on page one. Alongside was a story saying the Marin Grand Jury would recommend that all county officials take pay cuts to help the economy.

And Turrini wrote his own graduation headline on a back page in the Red and White:

"Cruel World Receives
Twenty-Six Hopefuls
For Annual Breadline"

GRADUATES' NEWSPAPER — This December 1932 edition of the San Rafael High School newspaper bannered the midyear graduation of 26 students and told of their honors and of school Christmas festivities.

Chinese Liquors To Be Marketed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — American consumers will soon be able to taste Chefoo wine, Shantung brandy, and other exotic beverages from China.

A California firm (Huntington and Rice in nearby Mountain View) announced today it would be the first distributor of premium Chinese wines, brandies, liqueurs and gin.

The firm said the products, made in the Shantung Province of China, will be sold in the U.S. under the "Sunflower" label.

SENIOR Red 'N White EDITION

VOL. 12, NO. 14. SAN RAFAEL HIGH SCHOOL DECEMBER 22, 1932

Twenty-six to Receive Diplomas

Toys, Foods, Furnish Admittance Fee For Pupils

With gay decorations of fir trees, greens and holly expressing the yuletide spirit, the annual Christmas Fiesta, under the supervision of Miss Bolton, will be held in the gymnasium next Friday night at 8 o'clock.

Plans have been made for entertainment and refreshments for the festivity.

A giant Christmas tree will be one of the attractions of the evening, under which the toys will be placed to lend an added Christmas atmosphere. Later they will be removed to their destination. The tree will be gayly decorated with colored ornaments, lights and silvery icicles.

One of the main events of the Fiesta is the crowning of the Ideal Girl, who as yet remains a mystery. She will be surrounded by her attendants, who are also winners of the contest. Their names will not be revealed until the night of the festival.

"Gee, ain't he grand!"

Little thrills of ecstasy running up and down the young freshman's spinal column mark the entrance of the high and mighty senior into the classroom. Secret dreams steal into the cerebellum of the small scrub. Hopes, faint at first, grow stronger as the great upper classmen winks at the lowly frosh, who nearly has heart failure at the procedure.

"Wonder what he thinks of me?" "Is my lipstick on straight?" are only a few of the questions that now pop into the scrub's sconce.

Slowly eyeing the teacher, as she dabs little grains of powder over the freckles of youth, she coquettishly winks back at the senior, quite taken back at her own audaciousness. The senior now grins broadly. The freshman girl is so flattered that she is sure she will never be able to stand the shock.

Turning around intending to make a telling remark to that "stuck-up" sophomore girl behind her, with whom she was at swords' points, imagine her astonishment to see the sophomore making frantic gestures at the senior trying to convey the idea to him that she would meet him after school.

Opinions quickly change, as did the young scrub's of the great senior. She now felt like a penny waiting for change. To think that she should cheapen herself so! Her sweet expression and the flirtatious look in her eyes quickly turned to a glare of jealousy and hate as the senior, with another smile at the "soph" behind her, made his exit.

Thoughts On Graduation

Four years have gone by and now the high seniors must leave the school never again to return as undergraduates, never again return to enjoy the privileges of the lower classmen which they do not realize they are enjoying. Never again return to represent San Rafael High in its numerous activities such as athletics, dramas, councils, committees, social events and others which every one is entitled to take part in except the outside world and the prospective alumni.

Fellow students, it is hard to think of giving up your friends and privileges through the act of graduation.

No doubt we have all heard at some time or other of how glad we'll be when graduation night comes. In fact we all feel that way when we are freshmen, sophomores or juniors, but when the senior year enters our lives the sentiment toward that night is different, different in many ways.

It is only once during a lifetime that one may appreciate the thrills, experiences, honors and fun of a high school career. No matter if you live 10, 100 or 1000 years, high school comes but once.

ANGELO TURRINI.

"December Class Has Been Outstanding," Says Miss Binsacca

By Miss Dorothy Binsacca

The December class of 1932 has been noteworthy and outstanding as to caliber and quantity of work done during their four years here. This class has taken part in many of the school activities while keeping up an unusually heavy schedule of regular curricular work. Almost every member of the class has become distinguished in some activity. They have become eminent not because of what they themselves are, I have reference

Two Girls Tied for High Honors in Contest

At last we have found her—rather, them! Two girls were tied for high points in the Ideal Girl Contest. Because each girl represents a distinct type Miss Olson insisted that both Margaret Schneider and Beverly Bell share honors.

Out of a possible 775 points, based on the following: Posture, teeth, nails, hair, skin, muscle tone, general appearance, weight, personality and scholarship, both girls totaled 689 points. Margaret Schneider represents the outdoor type of girl, while Beverly Bell typifies the social type. The prize, which will be awarded at the Christmas Fiesta, will be divided evenly between the two ideal girls.

There were nine girls who were high in points and deserve honor. They are Helen New, Eleanor Plaa, Marion Brazil, Irene Roselli, Jean Powell, Marn Dunlap, Edna Gardner, Bruna Ferrario, and Betty Jane Gettemy.

"I feel this contest has accomplished a great deal of good. More girls are interested in personal loveliness than ever before. We now have two ideals and we can chose the type we like best to emulate," said Miss Olson in closing the contest.

Annual Performance Held Before Full House

Receipts Total $165; All Students to Benefit

What has been classed as one of the most outstanding vaudevilles ever to be given by the local high school was held last Friday night before an almost packed house.

It has been estimated that nearly 100 students took part among whom were five graduating high seniors.

The floor receipts, which were the largest for several years, totaled over $165, which will be used for the student body and the publication of the Red 'n' White.

A total of 15 acts composed the performance, which in order read as follows:

Selections from the orchestra, "Catching the Train," "The Dress Parade monologue, Musical Musings Domesticated Papas, Hicks from the Sticks, the All-American Girl, Pipping de Pebble, Misses of the Foswells, "The Thief," "Blue Mood," "The Dark Side of Life," "A Modern Proposal," "Hobo Antics," "Justa Lika De Odda Times," "On the Hop," "Is I in Love? I Is," "On the Hop," exit march.

Because they are to be guests of honor at the annual Christmas Fiesta, high seniors received bids to the affair early this week. These bids must be signed by both parents of the graduate, and only after this is done will the student and his guest be allowed to attend.

Mr. Hildebrant appointed a committee consisting of Mignon Lovejoy and Mary Frances Dodd, to see to it that all class members donated food, clothing, and toys to the needy families of San Rafael.

Christmas Graduates Rank Scholastically; High Records Lauded

By Miss Adele Newcomer

The Christmas graduates of the year 1932 have been very prominent scholastically. In this small class of 26 members there are three seal-bearers, making almost 12 per cent of the class life members of the California Scholarship Federation.

Victoria Ferrari, the first of these seal-bearers, has been a member of the Scholarship Society every semester during her high school attendance. She was president of the Scholarship Society during the spring of 1932, and has been chairman of the Entertainment Committee this year.

Charles Guidici and Joseph Rossi have been eligible to membership in the Scholarship Society every semester except one, and they will also become seal-bearers at graduation.

Henry Catalaa, Edwin Garcia, Herald Hildebrand, Lois Sappingfield, and Wanda Lee Silvers have all been members of the society one or more semesters, and their names have appeared frequently on the honor roll.

Other members of the class have not had sufficient points to be eligible to the Scholarship Society, but have had college recommending records. Among those who would probably average B minus to B plus are Claire Collins, Bruna Ferrari, Robert Johnson, Stanley Poyser, and Walter Wraight.

Largest Xmas Class To Date Will Graduate

The class which graduates Thursday night consists of 26 seniors. It is the largest Christmas class to date. The girls will be daintily gowned in pastel shades, while the boys will appear in dark suits.

Prior to 1930 the Christmas classes of San Rafael High School were not given a public graduation. Certificates of graduation were presented to them and in the following June they returned and received their diplomas with the class then graduating. The size of the December classes did not warrant a public graduation.

In the year 1931 the Christmas class numbered 20, and the first public graduation was held. The seniors dressed in formals.

The following Christmas a class of 21 seniors were graduated, attired in collegiate cap and gown.

The office of secretary was carried off by May Lee, with Louise Dallara, Antoinette Kornell and John Palacio as yell leaders.

Class Will Be Third Xmas Group to Graduate

San Rafael High School's third annual Christmas commencement exercises will be held in the local auditorium tomorrow night at 8:30.

The procession of the graduating class down the aisle to the stage will begin the ceremonies. Stanley Poyser, president of the Student Body, will give the class greeting, after which a chorus, composed of boys and girls of the school, will entertain the audience with a selection entitled "Nightfall in Granada."

The senior class president, Mary Frances Dodd, will then present the school with a gift. Claire Collins will give a piano solo. A selection by San Rafael High School's Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Walton, will follow.

The senior class representative, Henry Catalaa, will give the farewell address, after which the ranting of awards by Mr. Hartz II will follow. Mr. Hartzell will also render the presentation of the graduating class.

Mr. A. L. Borkheim, president of the Board of Education, will award the diplomas. The mixed chorus will then give a selection.

As a fitting conclusion the "Recessional" will be played by the San Rafael High School Orchestra.

David Nurse Proves Himself Able Artist

David Nurse, well-known low senior, proved himself a competent photographer as well as an honor student when he finished pictures for the special high senior edition of the Red 'n' White in record-breaking time last Friday. His last picture was taken at 1 o'clock and the prints were ready for the engraver at 4:30.

Because the staff was greatly rushed, David showed himself well versed in his subject by applying an entirely new method in drying prints, never used in the school before.

Seniors' Reputations Shattered by Verdicts

"What do you think of the seniors," I asked a junior, "and why and for what reason?"

The junior looked at me sadly, shifted his gum and answered: "I try not to think of them at all. As a group they don't rate. As individuals they are blah."

"What do you think of the seniors?" I chirped at a passing Soph.

"Whata yuh mean seniors?" he growled. "That bunch of mummified, ossified, petrified paloukas? Let 'em graduate."

"Hey, Frosh," I yelled at a grubeless-looking first-year maid. "Have you heard about the seniors?"

The frosh replied, "I hate those horrid stuckup senior women. But, O Mister, ain't the men honeys? Isn't 'Stan' sweet and isn't 'Frenchy' just kissable. My heart just stops when Bob Johnson passes by, isn't he—"

"See here, Frosh, you are the one being interviewed—"

Dead Used To Smuggle Narcotics

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A federal court has been told that dope smugglers sewed heroin inside the bodies of American war dead being returned to the United States from Indochina.

The macabre operation was revealed in testimony by military and customs agents at a bail reduction hearing for Thomas E. Sutherland, 51, charged with using false documents and impersonating military personnel.

Sutherland is being held on $50,000 bail after his plea that it be lowered to $5,000 was denied by U.S. Magistrate Clarence E. Foetz. He was arrested Monday at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington.

Federal agents said Sutherland was wearing an Army sergeant's uniform and was accompanying two slain G.I.s aboard a plane headed for Dover Air Force Base in Delaware when they were tipped that dope might be sewn in the bodies. The plane was diverted to Andrews where it was searched and a pathologist examined the bodies.

U.S. Attorney Michael E. Marr told the court no dope was found either on the plane or the bodies, although one of the bodies showed a recent incision and stitching. Marr noted, however, that the body was unattended during a stopover in Honolulu.

Marr did not reveal how authorities learned about the operation, although he said it been under way for eight years and was based partly in the Baltimore-Washington area.

SOME EXPERTS TALK

Handling The Santa Myth

By JOAN LISETOR

Santa Claus is a fat, white bearded, jolly old man in a red suit, who distributes gifts at Christmas, according to Webster's "New World Dictionary of the American Language."

To children throughout the world Santa Claus is real, whether he is known as Kris Kringle, La Befana, Yule Tomten or Christkindli, but only in the United States is his headquarters in department stores, where children climb up on his lap, pose for a picture and give him a list of anticipated gifts in exchange for a candy cane.

Children are encouraged to build a fantasy around Santa Claus, encouraged by parents, friends and most everyone they meet during the holiday season.

What are the effects of the "Santa Claus myth" on children? How should parents handle children's questions about Santa Claus?

ACCORDING TO Dr. Martin Blinder, a psychiatrist for the Family Therapy Institute, myths have been used since primitive times to explain what people have found unfathomable.

"Children have personal fantasies. When they get older, fantasies become less necessary and often, without the parents even becoming aware, they dispose of the fantasies," Dr. Blinder said.

Santa Claus is really not a parents' problem, since it is usually members of the child's peer group who tell the child Santa Claus is not real, he said.

"His friends will tell him. They know when the child no longer needs the myth," he said. "A child will utilize the information as long as it is acceptable. When he no longer needs the myth it goes.

"If a myth fits, let him have it, but don't impose myths on a child. Be honest, and let him set his own pace."

The interpersonal myths, which the child concocts to make excuses for a parent's behavior, are the ones that have adverse effects, according to the psychiatrist.

"I THINK many children take in the myth of Santa Claus in bits and stages and dismiss it without much ado when they catch on to its meaning — literal, symbolic, spiritual and commercial — according to the intelligence of the child and how well the parents deal with his questions," explained Elizabeth Sousa, recently retired child guidance and family counselor.

"Sensitive parents could lead their families to enjoy and respect the myth or identify with 'good old St. Nick' as a model of warmth, good cheer and generosity. We need these myths, stories, allegories, however quaint they may seem, in these times to ground the electric charge we all know in ourselves and in others," she said.

IT IS NOT bad to talk to children about the Santa Claus myth and perpetuate it, said Marin pediatrician Dr. Arthur Ablin.

"I can't see any harm has been done by the Santa Claus idea in my own family or families I see in my practice," Dr. Ablin said. "It is not a cunning lie, nor an ill conceived concept. It is conceived in love, good faith, humor, which children recognize."

The bad aspect of Santa Claus is when he is used as a threat, Dr. Ablin explained.

"Parents who tell their children, 'If you are not good Santa Claus won't bring you anything' or use the 'no presents if you are bad concept' are using Santa Claus badly," he said.

The Santa Claus myth is similar to reading fairy tales to children or allowing them to enjoy imaginary friends, he said.

"They enjoy them although they know they are not real. Parents who point to a Santa Claus and say 'this is the real Santa Claus' are wrong. Making logic of Santa's coming down the chimney is also wrong," he said.

"Always be truthful, but there is nothing wrong with stretching the truth with a good bit of imagination."

CHILDREN UNDER the age of 3 are unable to distinguish between fantasy and reality, according to Marion Hayes Cain, children's theater producer and former elementary school teacher.

"Santa Claus should represent the total love of children," Mrs. Cain said, "but unfortunately some parents are stupid and don't know who to explain the spirit that means love.

"It is nice to think of Santa Claus as a jolly elf. The commercial Santa is crummy, and it's an ordeal for a 3-year-old to climb up on his lap. Most children cry," she said.

SAN RAFAEL pediatrician Dr. Albert C. Goldberg does not think a myth will have a lasting harm on a child.

"A myth is acceptable when it helps us comprehend that which is incomprehensible through reason," he said.

"When a child can understand the natural phenomena of birth the legend of the stork is overridden," he explained. "To insist upon the truth of a myth after the time when a child's maturity has developed to the point where he can understand the inadequacies of the mythical explanation would be asking the child to sell out his intellect."

DR. LEE Salk, director of pediatric psychology at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, believes it is best to tell children Santa Claus is make believe.

"I think it is crucially important for parents to be honest with their children, even if the matters concerned seem trivial and harmless to adults," he said.

"Making Santa Claus 'real' requires many lies. How do you explain all the Santas in all the different stores at Christmastime? How does he get down your chimney when you don'thave a fireplace? And most important, how do you one day explain that all the answers you gave to all these questions weren't really true?"

Asked her opinion on handling the Santa Claus myth, Mill Valley School District psychologist Vera Obermeyer suggested asking children how they felt when they realized Santa Claus was not real.

MY 8-YEAR-old son Scott, entering his fourth season as a "non-believer," said "if a child asks, tell him, 'I don't know. I've never thought of it.' The child will believe in some way if he wants to, and if he wants to, let him.

"If your child asks how Santa gets down the chimney, say, 'I'm not sure. What do you think?' Ask him questions."

Children grow up believing in Santa Claus. Parents don't stand over a baby's crib saying "there is a Santa Claus" over and over, he said.

"Parents shouldn't lie," Scott said. "And if another child tells your child say, 'Maybe he's right. I'm not sure. Pretend you don't know, but don't lie."

Scott said he knew Santa was a fake when he touched Santa's beard and it felt phony.

"Then I began to ask myself questions like 'how could reindeer fly?' How I knew for sure was, once I had a dream that nobody could live at the North Pole," he said.

An 18-year-old home economics major at College of Marin, Geralyn Miknis of Novato, is the senior winner of the "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest in the district competition held in Santa Rosa. The district includes Sonoma, Marin, Napa and Lake counties.

Geralyn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Miknis of Novato, made a pant suit of forest green wool. The jacket has a plaid lining with a yoke in back, notched collar, four patch pockets and a mock waist band. The pants are straight legged and have a fly front.

The senior winner said she is excited about competing in the state contest on Jan. 13 and 14 at the Sheraton Universal Hotel in Hollywood. Her mother will accompany her.

Geralyn began sewing when she was 10 years old, while living in New Orleans. Her sisters, Laurie, 16, Dee Dee, 15, and Robin, 12 years old, and their mother all sew. There are three sewing machines in the home. Their brother, Don, crochets, and Robin displayed a scarf of orange yarn he had made for her.

Californians For Beef

To purchase the right amount of beef, the California Beef Council suggests allowing anywhere from four to eight ounces of lean boneless beef per person. For bone-in beef, three-fourths to one pound per adult serving is practical.

32 Americans Selected For Rhodes Scholarships

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (UPI) — Thirty-two American students, ranging from an Olympic athlete to the grandson of an unsuccessful presidential candidate, have been named this year's Rhodes scholars.

The students, whose names were announced Sunday by William J. Barber, administrative head of the Rhodes Scholarship Program in the United States, will be eligible for study abroad.

Among this year's selections, the two mostly heavily represented institutions of higher learning were Yale and Harvard universities, each one credited with five scholars.

Wendell L. Willkie II, grandson of the 1940 GOP presidential contender, was one of the Harvard students. A Minnesota resident, he is a social studies major and has been active in youth programs and congressional campaigns in his home state.

John M. Petkevich of Great Falls, Mont., was another Harvard student selected. He represented the United States in the 1968 and 1972 Winter Olympics as a figure skater. He won the bronze medal in the past Olympics and currently holds the men's world figure skating championship.

The coveted scholarships provide for at least two years study in Britain at Oxford University, one of the world's oldest and most respected institutions of learning. Those named were part of an international group of scholars who will be given an annual stipend to cover necessary expenses.

The scholarships, which were first awarded in 1903, were subsidized in part by the seventh will of South African empire builder Cecil John Rhodes, who founded Rhodesia.

Rhodes hoped that the scholarships would contribute to world understanding and peace. He specified in his will that "no student shall be qualified or disqualified for election on account of his race or religious opinions."

Barber said this year's list of scholars was selected from 733 applicants endorsed by 256 colleges and universities throughout the nation, a record number.

AEC Boss Sees Energy Shortages

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Energy shortages are likely this winter and in the coming summer, says chairman James R. Schlesinger of the Atomic Energy Commission.

But Schlesinger said the shortages would be far short of "crisis" proportions.

Schlesinger was interviewed Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press".

Annenberg Subject Of Peace Slogans

BROADSTAIRS, England (UPI) —American Ambassador Walter H. Annenberg was met Sunday by shouting demonstrators when he arrived to attend the annual Christmas carol service conducted by Prime Minister Edward Heath.

More than 40 persons shouted such slogans as "Stop Bombing in Vietnam," and "Peace on Earth Means Peace in Vietnam," when Annenberg and his wife arrived at the Grand Ballroom.

Pontiff Urges Mankind To Realize 'Peace Is Possible'

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI urged mankind today to realize that peace is possible despite the "apocalyptic specter" of violence hanging over the world.

In his annual message of peace for 1973, which the Vatican released today, the pontiff said: "Peace is possible! It must be possible!"

The 75-year-old pontiff said that peace is "above all a state of mind (which) has at last penetrated as a logical human need into the minds of many people, and esecially of the young."

On Sunday the Pope expressed his bitterness over the failure of the Vietnam peace talks, and today he noted that continuing conflicts are breeding "an ever growing amount of injured prestige, of unrelenting desire for revenge and of endemic and organized disorder" which is being transmitted from generation to generation.

"Violence becomes fashionable again, and even clothes itself in the breastplate of justice," the pontiff said. "It becomes a way of life, abetted by all the ingredients of treacherous evildoing and by all the wiles of cowardice, of extortion and of complicity, and finally presents itself as an apocalyptic specter armed with the unheard of instruments of murderous destruction."

The Pope lamented that crime no longer horrifies, that cruelty has become legalized and that genocide is seen as a possible radical solution.

"Behind all these horrible visions," the Pope said, "there grows through cold-blooded and unerring calculations the huge economy of arms, with its hunger-producing markets."

He regretted that many developing nations are cutting down on food, medicine, education and housing —"and even sacrificing true economic and political development" —so that they can be well-armed and "inflict fear and slavery on their own neighbors."

The pontiff said his message that peace is possible is echoed in "the pitiable groan of the unnumbered graves in the military cemeteries and of the monuments dedicated to the Unknown Soldiers."

The Pope said that peace is possible if it is truly willed and added: "If peace is possible, it is a duty."

In his Sunday speech the Pope said "We had been awaiting peace in the Far East as a human gift worthy of the Feast of Christmas."

Barrel, Vinegar Taken From Barn

A thief took a 23-gallon barrel containing 10 gallons of vinegar from an unlocked barn near the Old Timers tavern, 1573 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, sometime Friday or Saturday, police reported today.

Police said the thief drained the barrel and left it behind.

Ecumenical Slate Picked

A slate of officers, headed by incoming president Betty Moody, who represents Our Lady or Loretto Church in Novato, has been nominated by the Ecumenical Association for Housing.

Other nominees are Thomas Zeller, St. Anselm's Church, San Anselmo, vice president, and Hazen Goddard, Christ Presbyterian Church, Terra Linda, secretary-treasurer.

William J. Parnow, Joseph Martino, Shirley Schell, Ellen Wagner, Rebecca Watkin and Henry Adrian have been nominated for the executive board. Officers are to be elected at a Jan. 17 meeting.

Photos By Zacks Still On Display

An exhibit of photographs by Arthur Zacks will continue on display at the Social Security Gallery, 549 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, through Feb. 2.

Viewing hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Heath In Jolly Mood For Caroling Concert

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Edward Heath laughed heartily at his own joke. His body shook like a bowl of jelly. Then he led the choir and audience in a rousing rendition of "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Conducting his annual Christmas carol service in his hometown of Broadstairs, Heath cracked jokes about Britain's current prices-and-incomes freeze. He did not let anti-Vietnam war demonstrators spoil the occasion.

The London Sunday Telegraph said Heath's Conservative government will inform Parliament after its Christmas recess ends Jan. 22 that he will extend the 90-day freeze for another 60 days beyond its present expiry date of Feb. 27.

Heath, in a jolly Christmas spirit, roared when he compared one line in a carol where he wanted the audience to pause with a "standstill or a freeze." The choir and audience laughed, too.

When U.S. Ambassador Walter H. Annenberg and his wife arrived for the service at the English Channel resort's grand ballroom, 40 demonstrators greeted them with shouts of "hypocrite," "stop bombing Vietnam" and "peace on earth means peace in Vietnam."

Department stores in London and other cities and towns said Christmas shoppers, apparently spurred by the freeze imposed on Nov. 6 to check soaring inflation, were engaging in an "orgy of spending."

A survey conducted by the London Sunday Express showed that Christmas sales were running at about 25 per cent more than last year, with shoppers stocking up on television sets, refrigerators and other expensive items in anticipation of price increases when the freeze ends.

"There is an enormous amount of spending going on," said Robert Midgley, manager of London's Harrods Department store. "We have never seen anything quite like it."

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Smile A Lot Around Gloomy People—They May Take Off

DEAR HELEN:

I have a neighbor who is actually afraid to enjoy herself, even if it's legal, moral, whatever. Somehow she was brought up to think that if you covered yourself with gloom — suffered a lot — you'd earn your big reward in Heaven.

She says we aren't put on this earth to have a good time. We must wait, strive and endure, so we can walk the Streets of Gold in joy forever, and all that jazz.

She's never "happier" than when things go wrong, as each new misery adds a string to her harp, sort of.

All this I could stand, though she IS depressing, but she tries to push her beliefs on me. When she visits, I'm left with the glooms. I can't throw her out; really, she's a good person. But how do I shut off the "suffering Job" act. — FEELING GUILTY WHEN I SMILE

DEAR FGWIS:

Smile! In fact, laugh a lot whenever your sorrowful neighbor starts on her "wait" problem. Pleasant kidding probably won't derail her one-track mind, but she may soon give you up as a disturbing influence . . . someone she'll never meet in the Great Beyond, so why bother with you here in this "Vale of Tears." — H.

DEAR HELEN:

With all the warnings about the dangers of wearing long scarves, you'd think people would be more careful. Yet I still see kids on the ski slopes (older persons too) with scarves trailing in the wind.

The other day I noticed a girl riding double on a motorcycle, and her scarf had pulled down on one side so it almost touched the back wheel.

Maybe if you'd say something in your widely syndicated column you might reach people who still don't realize how dangerous it is to wear loose ties (around the neck) that might be caught in machinery. — CAUTIOUS

DEAR CAUTIOUS:

Dancer Isadora Dunca died when her long silk scarf tangled in the wheels of a sports car, breaking her neck. Many men have been injured or killed when their neckties caught in machinery. With long, trailing scarves in high style this year, such accidents may increase unless we're made doubly aware of the dangers. Thus, my warning, added to yours:

If you must wear fashionable neck pieces, you active people, tuck them securely inside your sweaters of shirts. Otherwise the hang-up on the ski lift, or whatever, might be you. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I've been reading about the sex way to reduce — like make love and grow thin. I'm willing to try, but my wife wonders whether I'll need to go on a diet also. — 200-POUND HOPEFUL

DEAR 200:

Let's put it this way: you must burn off approximately 3500 calaries to lose ONE pound. An average lovemaking session burns around 200 calaries, maybe 150 for married couples. So . . . if you want to lose a pound a week without dieting, well — lots of luck. But your wife may remind you that 150 gozinta 3500—23.3 times!!! — H.

This column is deciated to family living so if you're having kid trouple or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of the Independent-Journal.

Vows Repeated At Peacock Gap Club

Kimberly Bacharach and Louis F. Arnone III, both of San Rafael, were married Saturday evening at Peacock Gap Country Club in San Rafael. A reception at the club followed the ceremony.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bacharach, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Arnone Jr., all of San Rafael.

Debbie Cerrudo of San Rafael was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Christie MacIlraith of San Rafael and the bridegroom's sisters, Cecelia Arnone of Fairfax and Linda Weese and Elaine Arnone, both of San Rafael.

Frank Soares of San Rafael was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by the bride's brother, Craig Bacharach, and Robert Weese, both of San Rafael; Ron Shurke of Petaluma; and Bruce Nave of Spokane, Wash.

Following a wedding trip to Acapulco the couple will live in Berkeley.

THE MARIO BOTTINIS

Novato Couple Observes 50th Wedding Anniversary

Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bottini of Bel Marin Keys, hosted a dinner at Nero's Restaurant for more than 100 friends and relatives.

The former Tersilla Rolla, who lived near Asti, Italy, and Bottini, who lived in a village near Milan, came to the United States two years before they were married.

They were introduced by relatives in El Cerrito and were married at Saints Peter and Paul Church in San Francisco. Each was living in San Rafael when they were married. They lived there 41 years before moving to Novato 11 years ago when Bottini retired from his general construction business.

Bottini's hobbies are hunting, fishing, gardening and particularly, hunting abalone along the coast. He often goes alone to the coast and climbs the cliffs searching for the delicacies, never coming home empty handed.

Mrs. Bottini's hobbies are crocheting, embroidering and cooking.

"She's a good cook," Bottini said, and added that the grandchildren say, "Nobody cooks like Noni," They have three grandchildren. Gary is 18, Terry, 16, and Mark, 12. Mrs. Bottini has an extra cooking room in the garage, where in the summer she makes her ravioli and sauce and puts them in the freezer for the rest of the year.

They both belong to the Sons of Italy — Mrs. Bottini belongs to the Druids and Italian Catholic Federation, and Bottini belongs to Club Italia, all in San Rafael.

Bakersfield Couple Repeats Vows Locally

Bakersfield residents, Dorothy Lee Clark and John R. Keen, were married Saturday at Mission San Rafael Arcangel in San Rafael.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Lee Clark of San Rafael. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Keen of Corona del Mar.

Maid of honor for her sister was Beatrice Clark of San Francisco, and another sister of the bride, Stella Clark of San Rafael, was the bridesmaid.

Neal Huston of Bend, Ore., was best man, and the bride's brother Michael Clark of San Rafael ushered.

Following a wedding trip skiing near Lake Tahoe the couple will live in Bakersfield.

Dorothy is a graduate of the College of Notre Dame and has an elementary teaching credential. She teaches first grade in Shafter. The bride is also the sister of Chris, Steve, Tom, Bernard and Gus Clark, all of San Rafael. Mrs. Alice Clark of San Francisco is her grandmother.

The bridegroom was graduated from high school in McMinnville, Ore., and from the University of Oregon. He is employed by the Ralston Purina Co. as a sales representative in Kern County. Mrs. Caroly Guistina is his sister.

Film Coating For Poultry

According to Manfred Kroger, food scientist at Pennsylvania State University, restaurants can buy poultry products coated with a nutritious, transparent film that maintains the original fresh quality during frozen storage. The nutritious film is left on during cooking.

Now being used on meat, the film can be obtained in a variety of flavors.

Kimberley was grdauted from San Rafael High School and the College of Marin dental assisting program. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Bacharach of Oakland and Mrs. Ann Mortimer of San Francisco.

Louis is also a graduate of San Rafael High School. He is in his junior year at the University of California at Berkeley and is employed by Kaufman's Fabric Land. The senior Louis Arnones of San Francisco are his grandparents.

Captain Of Club Named

Mrs. Henry Martens of Kentfield has been elected captain of the Meadow Club Women's Golf Section for the new year.

Other new members of the board are Mmes. George Herrero, co-captain; William Carewe, treasurer; Charles McFarland, recording secretary; Paul Sather, handicapper; George Frazer, rules; Joseph Dickover, tournament chairman, and Niels Schultz Jr., parliamentarian.

Honors were given by the group to Mrs. John Cann of San Anselmo, championship tournament winner; Mrs. Ernest Peterson of San Rafael, winner of the handicap tournament, and Mrs. Douglas Ramsey of San Rafael, most improved golfer award.

How To Get Ready For Next Party

I-J Special Report

Tone up your complexion with a quick mask that will deep-cleanse and de-clog pores, leave your skin smooth and soft. For the rest of your body, take a long soak in scented bubbles.

Put back the sparkle in your eyes by lying down (feet up for improved circulation) with refreshing eye pads on lids; a few minutes is all you need. For added sparkle, try silver eye shadow.

Brush with force for lively hair. Be sure to do it right: bend from the waist, head forward, and brush starting from the roots and working down to the ends of hair.

Nails are worth some time. Be creative: Use new colors and paint designs. For example, try a coat of pink and then add dots of blue.

Night lights can be hard on a face, so make up with care. Wipe out under-eye circles with a cover stick. Apply gently and be sure to blend edges. Use a base color to even out skin tones, then add some blusher on cheeks, chin and forehead.

SOME EXPERTS TALK

Handling The Santa Myth

By JOAN LISETOR

Santa Claus is a fat, white bearded, jolly old man in a red suit, who distributes gifts at Christmas, according to Webster's "New World Dictionary of the American Language."

To children throughout the world Santa Claus is real, whether he is known as Kris Kringle, La Befana, Yule Tomten or Christkindli, but only in the United States is his headquarters in department stores, where children climb up on his lap, pose for a picture and give him a list of anticipated gifts in exchange for a candy cane.

Children are encouraged to build a fantasy around Santa Claus, encouraged by parents, friends and most everyone they meet during the holiday season.

What are the effects of the "Santa Claus myth" on children? How should parents handle children's questions about Santa Claus?

ACCORDING TO Dr. Martin Blinder, a psychiatrist for the Family Therapy Institute, myths have been used since primitive times to explain what people have found unfathomable.

"Children have personal fantasies. When they get older, fantasies become less necessary and often, without the parents even becoming aware, they dispose of the fantasies," Dr. Blinder said.

Santa Claus is really not a parents' problem, since it is usually members of the child's peer group who tell the child Santa Claus is not real, he said.

"His friends will tell him. They know when the child no longer needs the myth," he said. "A child will utilize the information as long as it is acceptable. When he no longer needs the myth it goes.

"If a myth fits, let him have it, but don't impose myths on a child. Be honest, and let him set his own pace."

The interpersonal myths, which the child concoots to make excuses for a parent's behavior, are the ones that have adverse effects, according to the psychiatrist.

"I THINK many children take in the myth of Santa Claus in bits and stages and dismiss it without much ado when they catch on to its meaning — literal, symbolic, spiritual and commercial — according to the intelligence of the child and how well the parents deal with his questions," explained Elizabeth Sousa, recently retired child guidance and family counselor.

"Sensitive parents could lead their families to enjoy and respect the myth or identify with 'good old St. Nick' as a model of warmth, good cheer and generosity. We need these myths, stories, allegories, however quaint they may seem, in these times to ground the electric charge we all know in ourselves and in others," she said.

IT IS NOT bad to talk to children about the Santa Claus myth and perpetuate it, said Marin pediatrician Dr. Arthur Ablin.

"I can't see any harm has been done by the Santa Claus idea in my own family or families I see in my practice," Dr. Ablin said. "It is not a cunning lie, nor an ill conceived concept. It is conceived in love, good faith, humor, which children recognize."

The bad aspect of Santa Claus is when he is used as a threat, Dr. Ablin explained.

"Parents who tell their children, 'If you are not good Santa Claus won't bring you anything' or use the 'no presents if you are bad concept' are using Santa Claus badly," he said.

The Santa Claus myth is similar to reading fairy tales to children or allowing them to enjoy imaginary friends, he said.

"They enjoy them although they know they are not real. Parents who point to a Santa Claus and say 'this is the real Santa Claus' are wrong. Making logic of Santa's coming down the chimney is also wrong," he said.

"Always be truthful, but there is nothing wrong with stretching the truth with a good bit of imagination."

CHILDREN UNDER the age of 3 are unable to distinguish between fantasy and reality, according to Marion Hayes Cain, children's theater producer and former elementary school teacher.

"Santa Claus should represent the total love of children," Mrs. Cain said, "but unfortunately some parents are stupid and don't know who to explain the spirit that means love.

"It is nice to think of Santa Claus as a jolly elf. The commercial Santa is crummy, and it's an ordeal for a 3-year-old to climb up on his lap. Most children cry," she said.

SAN RAFAEL pediatrician Dr. Albert C. Goldberg does not think a myth will have a lasting harm on a child.

"A myth is acceptable when it helps us comprehend that which is incomprehensible through reason," he said.

"When a child can understand the natural phenomena of birth the legend of the stork is overridden," he explained. "To insist upon the truth of a myth after the time when a child's maturity has developed to the point where he can understand the inadequacies of the mythical explanation would be asking the child to sell out his intellect."

DR. LEE Salk, director of pediatric psychology at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, believes it is best to tell children Santa Claus is make believe.

"I think it is crucially important for parents to be honest with their children, even if the matters concerned seem trivial and harmless to adults," he said.

"Making Santa Claus 'real' requires many lies. How do you explain all the Santas in all the different stores at Christmastime? How does he get down your chimney when you don'thave a fireplace? And most important, how do you one day explain that all the answers you gave to all these questions weren't really true?"

Asked her opinion on handling the Santa Claus myth, Mill Valley School District psychologist Vera Obermeyer suggested asking children how they felt when they realized Santa Claus was not real.

MY 8-YEAR-old son Scott, entering his fourth season as a "non-believer," said "if a child asks, tell him, 'I don't know. I've never thought of it.' The child will believe in some way if he wants to, and if he wants to, let him.

"If your child asks how Santa gets down the chimney, say, 'I'm not sure. What do you think?' Ask him questions."

Children grow up believing in Santa Claus. Parents don't stand over a baby's crib saying "there is a Santa Claus" over and over, he said.

"Parents shouldn't lie," Scott said. "And if another child tells your child say, 'Maybe he's right. I'm not sure. Pretend you don't know, but don't lie."

Scott said he knew Santa was a fake when he touched Santa's beard and it felt phony.

"Then I began to ask myself questions like 'how could reindeer fly?' How I knew for sure was, once I had a dream that nobody could live at the North Pole," he said.

An 18-year-old home economics major at College of Marin, Geralyn Miknis of Novato, is the senior winner of the "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest in the district competition held in Santa Rosa. The district includes Sonoma, Marin, Napa and Lake counties.

Geralyn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Miknis of Novato, made a pant suit of forest green wool. The jacket has a plaid lining with a yoke in back, notched collar, four patch pockets and a mock waist band. The pants are straight legged and have a fly front.

The senior winner said she is excited about competing in the state contest on Jan. 13 and 14 at the Sheraton Universal Hotel in Hollywood. Her mother will accompany her.

Geralyn began sewing when she was 10 years old, while living in New Orleans. Her sisters, Laurie, 16, Dee Dee, 15, and Robin, 12 years old, and their mother all sew. There are three sewing machines in the home. Their brother, Don, crochets, and Robin displayed a scarf of orange yarn he had made for her.

Her aunt, Miss Barbara Miknis of Detroit, sent her the money to make her winning outfit, she added.

Californians For Beef

To purchase the right amount of beef, the California Beef Council suggests allowing anywhere from four to eight ounces of lean boneless beef per person. For bone-in beef, three-fourths to one pound per adult serving is practical.

ON THE AGENDA

Four 'Nutcracker' Performances Are On Schedule For This Week

Right along with the Christmas season come performances of the "Nutcracker" ballet, and a group of Marin women from the Marin Civic Ballet Association are busy with duties for the ballet's four "Nutcracker" performances Wednesday through Friday at Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

On the committee are Mmes. Dudley Deane, chairman; R. B. Doyle, backstage coordinator; Barry MacKay, makeup; Robert Knox, cast hospitality; Caesar Taverna, costumes and props; J. H. Rolling, tickets; Leon Fish, group tickets; and Russell Shatz, poster and flyer design. Tickets are available at the Marin Memorial Building box office.

THE SAN Francisco Pacific Ballet Company will present Tschaikowsky's 'Nutcracker Suite' on Saturday at the Veterans Memorial Building in Sonoma.

The production is under the direction of Alan Howard, former premier danseur of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, and will feature Sally Street, Kyro Alexander and Carolyn Goto.

The program is a first for Sonoma, and is being presented through the efforts of Yanina Cywinska of the Sonoma Ballet Academy.

The ballet will be performed at a 2:30 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are available at the Sonoma Valley Chamber of Commerce.

DONALD V. Westlund Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of Novato, will have its Christmas dinner at the Alvarado Inn in Ignacio at 7 p.m., Thursday. Reservations chairman is Mrs. Grover Owen.

Following dinner, members will go to the home of Mrs. Harold Harker for an exchange of gifts. They will also bring secret pal gifts, and groceries for Christmas for a needy family.

WESTMINSTER PRESBYTERIAN Church women and their friends will gather at the home of Mrs. Benton Bostick Jr. of Tiburon at noon on Wednesday, for lunch and a program of Christmas music sponsored by United Presbyterian Women.

A CHRISTMAS luncheon will be held by Bel Marin Keys Women's Club members on Wednesday at the club. Cocktails will be served at noon and luncheon at 1 p.m. The Novato High School choral singers will entertain. Mrs. John Klein is reservations chairman.

BUD SCHAEFFER, executive secretary of Sport Ambassadors, affiliate of Overseas Crusade, will speak at the Santa Rosa Christian Women's Club luncheon at noon Wednesday at Los Robles Lodge in Santa Rosa.

Schaeffer, a professional athlete, played basketball with the Boston Whirlwinds and the U.S. All Stars who played exhibition games against the Harlem Globetrotters in South America. He is also a 14 year veteran of Venture for Victory basketball tournaments and traveled with the first Venture for Victory team to the Orient.

Schaeffer and his wife will also provide music for the luncheon. The program will include a candle exhibition and instructions on how to make candles.

Mrs. Simon Brodersen is reservations chairman. Nursery care will be provided at the Christian Life Center in Santa Rosa.

A CHRISTMAS party and puppet show will be given by the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club at 7 p.m. Thursday at the clubhouse. Kitty Adams will give the puppet show and Santa Claus will give out candy canes. A film and refreshments are also scheduled.

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS of America, Court 1707, will have its Christmas party at 8 p.m., Wednesday at Our Lady of Loretto parish hall in Novato.

Guests will be the Rev. Daniel Sheehan, Rev. Charles Farrell and Ursuline nuns and lay teachers of Our Lady of Loretto School.

Members will bring canned goods for Christmas baskets to be given to a needy family.

CHRISTMAS WILL be celebrated by Rosarium Institute 175, Young Ladies Institute, on Thursday at St. Patrick's Hall in Larkspur. The institute will hold a business meeting at 8:15 p.m., followed by its Yuletide party.

Mrs. David Miller is chairman.

DOLLARS AND SENSE

Record Keeping Is Necessary In Right-Of-Survivorship Cases

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Miss E. J. of Hanover, N.H., asks,

"What does and or with right of survivorship mean with respect to owning property?

"How can two sisters handle their stocks, savings accounts and property so they pay the least amount of taxes in case of demise of one or the other?"

In the term "and or" the "and" means both; the "or" means one or the other.

In the case of survivorship, it means the survivor. As to federal taxes, the government does not impose an inheritance tax unless the estate exceeds $60,000.

If it does exceed that amount, the government will want to know whose money was involved in the purchase of the property.

In your case, if both you and your sister contributed to the property or other possessions, part of these possessions are owned by you. That part is not subject to the federal tax since it is not actually inherited but owned by you.

This would reduce or perhaps avoid any federal inheritance tax at all. But record keeping is necessary in order to prove your contribution to these assets, it would be advisable for you to consult your lawyer or banker with respect to any state inheritance laws which might apply in your case.

Mrs. R.L.N. of Boise, Idaho, asks,

"Can you tell us if there are any serious disadvantages in having all common-stock certificates issued in the name of both husband and wife as joint tenants with right of survivorship?"

Probably no serious disadvantages, but you might want to consult a lawyer with respect to probate or state inheritance-tax problems, if any.

In response to a recent query on British laws concerning wills, Monitor bureau chief John Allan May writes from London,

"When planning to make a will the British have several special considerations to remember:

"Estate duty begins at 15,000 pounds ($36,000). The 1972 Finance Act, however, exempts the first 15,000 left to the surviving spouse, meaning that where an estate is valued at less than 30,000 pounds and everything is left to the surviving spouse, no tax at all is payable.

"In the event an estate is greater than 30,000 pounds, the first 5,000 ($12,000) after the initial exemptions carries a 25 per cent rate of duty in Britain, the next 10,000 pounds a 30 per cent rate, the next a 35 per cent rate and so on until estates worth more than 500,000 pounds pay 75 per cent.

"A 50,000-pound estate in which at least 15,000 pounds is left to the surviving spouse would pay 6,000 pounds in duty. If no property was left to the spouse it would be required to pay 11,750 pounds.

"There is therefore a big incentive for everyone to reduce the size of his estate. . ."

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Smile A Lot Around Gloomy People—They May Take Off

DEAR HELEN:

I have a neighbor who is actually afraid to enjoy herself, even if it's legal, moral, whatever. Somehow she was brought up to think that if you covered yourself with gloom — suffered a lot — you'd earn your big reward in Heaven.

She says we aren't put on this earth to have a good time. We must wait, strive and endure, so we can walk the Streets of Gold in joy forever, and all that jazz.

She's never "happier" than when things go wrong, as each new misery adds a string to her harp, sort of.

All this I could stand, though she IS depressing, but she tries to push her beliefs on me. When she visits, I'm left with the glooms. I can't throw her out; really, she's a good person. But how do I shut off the "suffering Job" act. — FEELING GUILTY WHEN I SMILE

DEAR FGWIS:

Smile! In fact, laugh a lot whenever your sorrowful neighbor starts on her "wait" problem. Pleasant kidding probably won't derail her one-track mind, but she may soon give you up as a disturbing influence . . . someone she'll never meet in the Great Beyond, so why bother with you here in this "Vale of Tears." — H.

DEAR HELEN:

With all the warnings about the dangers of wearing long scarves, you'd think people would be more careful. Yet I still see kids on the ski slopes (older persons too) with scarves trailing in the wind.

The other day I noticed a girl riding double on a motorcycle, and her scarf had pulled down on one side so it almost touched the back wheel.

Maybe if you'd say something in your widely syndicated column you might reach people who still don't realize how dangerous it is to wear loose ties (around the neck) that might be caught in machinery. — CAUTIOUS

DEAR CAUTIOUS:

Dancer Isadora Dunca died when her long silk scarf tangled in the wheels of a sports car, breaking her neck. Many men have been injured or killed when their neckties caught in machinery. With long, trailing scarves in high style this year, such accidents may increase unless we're made doubly aware of the dangers. Thus, my warning, added to yours:

If you must wear fashionable neck pieces, you active people, tuck them securely inside your sweaters of shirts. Otherwise the hang-up on the ski lift, or whatever, might be you. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I've been reading about the sex way to reduce — like make love and grow thin. I'm willing to try, but my wife wonders whether I'll need to go on a diet also. — 200-POUND HOPEFUL

DEAR 200:

Let's put it this way: you must burn off approximately 3500 calaries to lose ONE pound. An average lovemaking session burns around 200 calaries, maybe 150 for married couples. So . . . if you want to lose a pound a week without dieting, well — lots of luck. But your wife may remind you that 150 gozinta 3500—23.3 times!!! — H.

This column is deciated to family living so if you're having kid trouple or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of the Independent-Journal.

Mother Of Seven Breaks One Barrier

ROCHESTER, Minn. (UPI) — Lois Douglas, mother of seven children, is the first woman customer engineer in the Midwest for IBM's office products division and the second typewriter repairwoman in the history of the division which makes and services word processing equipment.

"I took some kidding at first, especially about who would carry my heavy tool bag for me,' she said."But the fellows in the program have all been a big help and there was never any doubt in my mind that I could make the change from operating a typewriter to fixing one."

Vows Repeated At Peacock Gap Club

Kimberly Bacharach and Louis F. Arnone III, both of San Rafael, were married Saturday evening at Peacock Gap Country Club in San Rafael. A reception at the club followed the ceremony.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bacharach, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Arnone Jr., all of San Rafael.

Debbie Cerrudo of San Rafael was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Christie MacIlraith of San Rafael and the bridegroom's sisters, Cecelia Arnone of Fairfax and Linda Weese and Elaine Arnone, both of San Rafael.

Frank Soares of San Rafael was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by the bride's brother, Craig Bacharach, and Robert Weese, both of San Rafael; Ron Shurke of Petaluma; and Bruce Nave of Spokane, Wash.

Following a wedding trip to Acapulco the couple will live in Berkeley.

THE MARIO BOTTINIS

Novato Couple Observes 50th Wedding Anniversary

Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bottini of Bel Marin Keys, hosted a dinner at Nero's Restaurant for more than 100 friends and relatives.

The former Tersilla Rolla, who lived near Asti, Italy, and Bottini, who lived in a village near Milan, came to the United States two years before they were married.

They were introduced by relatives in El Cerrito and were married at Saints Peter and Paul Church in San Francisco. Each was living in San Rafael when they were married. They lived there 41 years before moving to Novato 11 years ago when Bottini retired from his general construction business.

Bottini's hobbies are hunting, fishing, gardening and particularly, hunting abalone along the coast. He often goes alone to the coast and climbs the cliffs searching for the delicacies, never coming home empty handed.

Mrs. Bottini's hobbies are crocheting, embroidering and cooking.

"She's a good cook," Bottini said, and added that the grandchildren say, "Nobody cooks like Noni," They have three grandchildren. Gary is 18, Terry, 16, and Mark, 12. Mrs. Bottini has an extra cooking room in the garage, where in the summer she makes her ravioli and sauce and puts them in the freezer for the rest of the year.

They both belong to the Sons of Italy — Mrs. Bottini belongs to the Druids and Italian Catholic Federation, and Bottini belongs to Club Italia, all in San Rafael.

Bakersfield Couple Repeats Vows Locally

Bakersfield residents, Dorothy Lee Clark and John R. Keen, were married Saturday at Mission San Rafael Arcangel in San Rafael.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Lee Clark of San Rafael. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Keen of Corona del Mar.

Maid of honor for her sister was Beatrice Clark of San Francisco, and another sister of the bride, Stella Clark of San Rafael, was the bridesmaid.

Neal Huston of Bend, Ore., was best man, and the bride's brother Michael Clark of San Rafael ushered.

Following a wedding trip skiing near Lake Tahoe the couple will live in Bakersfield.

Dorothy is a graduate of the College of Notre Dame and has an elementary teaching credential. She teaches first grade in Shafter. The bride is also the sister of Chris, Steve, Tom, Bernard and Gus Clark, all of San Rafael. Mrs. Alice Clark of San Francisco is her grandmother.

The bridegroom was graduated from high school in McMinnville, Ore., and from the University of Oregon. He is employed by the Ralston Purina Co. as a sales representative in Kern County. Mrs. Caroly Guistina is his sister.

Film Coating For Poultry

According to Manfred Kroger, food scientist at Pennsylvania State University, restaurants can buy poultry products coated with a nutritious, transparent film that maintains the original fresh quality during frozen storage. The nutritious film is left on during cooking.

Kimberley was grdauted from San Rafael High School and the College of Marin dental assisting program. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Bacharach of Oakland and Mrs. Ann Mortimer of San Francisco.

Louis is also a graduate of San Rafael High School. He is in his junior year at the University of California at Berkeley and is employed by Kaufman's Fabric Land. The senior Louis Arnones of San Francisco are his grandparents.

Captain Of Club Named

Mrs. Henry Martens of Kentfield has been elected captain of the Meadow Club Women's Golf Section for the new year.

Other new members of the board are Mmes. George Herrero, co-captain; William Carewe, treasurer; Charles McFarland, recording secretary; Paul Sather, handicapper; George Frazer, rules; Joseph Dickover, tournament chairman, and Niels Schultz Jr., parliamentarian.

Honors were given by the group to Mrs. John Cann of San Anselmo, championship tournament winner; Mrs. Ernest Peterson of San Rafael, winner of the handicap tournament, and Mrs. Douglas Ramsey of San Rafael, most improved golfer award.

How To Get Ready For Next Party

I-J Special Report

Tone up your complexion with a quick mask that will deep-cleanse and de-clog pores, leave your skin smooth and soft. For the rest of your body, take a long soak in scented bubbles.

Put back the sparkle in your eyes by lying down (feet up for improved circulation) with refreshing eye pads on lids; a few minutes is all you need. For added sparkle, try silver eye shadow.

Brush with force for lively hair. Be sure to do it right: bend from the waist, head forward, and brush starting from the roots and working down to the ends of hair.

Nails are worth some time. Be creative: Use new colors and paint designs. For example, try a coat of pink and then add dots of blue.

Night lights can be hard on a face, so make up with care. Wipe out under-eye circles with a cover stick. Apply gently and be sure to blend edges. Use a base color to even out skin tones, then add some blusher on cheeks, chin and forehead.

Release Of Viet POWs Will Resemble Negotiations In Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only once before in the history of American warfare has a formal prisoner exchange at war's end been a key to the negotiated settlement.

That was in 1953 when the allied and communist sides repatriated thousands of soldiers and airmen captured during three years of bitter fighting in Korea.

In previous wars the United States liberated the prison camps of its defeated enemies.

In some cases exchanges of sick and wounded prisoners took place even before a cessation of hostilities. But in Korea and now Vietnam where there is no decisive victor, the POW release has become a part of the negotiated settlement.

Although the finishing touches remain for the Vietnam cease-fire agreement, the arrangement for the prisoner release is likely to resemble that of the Korean experience.

A total of 4,428 American fighting men were recovered from enemy prison camps in Kirea in exchange for 74,000 North Korean and Chinese prisoners.

The initial exchange, Operation Little Switch, began in April 1593, three months before the cease-fire, and involved only a small group of sick and wounded men — about 680 allied prisoners including 149 Americans for some 6,670 Communists.

But it wasn't until Operation Big Switch at Panmunjom in August of that year that the trade took place.

The armistice agreement called for the prisoners to be repatriated within 60 days but it took only 33. A similar 60-day timetable is part of the draft agreement for ending the Vietnam war, but Pentagon officials predict the exchange will be speeded up once it gets under way, probably in Vientiane, Laos.

As of Dec. 2, the Pentagon listed 552 U.S. captives in Indochina.

In Korea, the allied prisoners were loaded aboard trains at the prison camps in the North and brought south of Panmunjom. Communists held in the South were trucked north for the trade that began Aug. 5, 1953, with the release of 70 happy, shouting American GIs who marched across Freedom Bridge under the protective eyes of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

Once in American hands, the GIs were trucked to nearby Freedom Village for quick medical checks and debriefings by intelligence officers searching for clues to the whereabouts of the missing. Within a few days they were loaded aboard troop ships for the long journey home.

More than 2,700 of the 7,200 captured Americans died in the Korean prison camps. The toll — 38 per cent of the total captured — was the worst since the American Revolution.

Twenty-one other American POWs voluntarily stayed behind, but most eventually came home.

In World War II, nearly 11 per cent or 14,090 of the 129,701 Americans captured died in enemy prison camps.

Allied forces liberated the camps as they overran the German lines, freeing the POWs as they went. In the Pacific, the surrendering Japanese located scores of camps for the occupation forces which went in and brought the POWs out.

A major problem facing the United States at the end of the Vietnam war will be the fate of 1,266 Americans listed as missing in action.

The Pentagon hopes that the International Red Cross will be permitted to inspect the communist prison camps. But it is expected that after all the evidence is examined a presumptive finding of death will be issued in many cases.

Such was the problem in the Korean war which left 389 Americans unaccounted for even now.

Under terms of the Korean armistice agreement, each side agreed to repatriate or otherwise account for all POWs and deceased combatants of the other side if it knew their fate.

After completing the prisoner exchange September 1953, the United National Command handed the Communists a list of 944 American servicemen and 2,460 other allied personnel believed to have been in communist hands during the war.

After efforts by Army Graves Registration Units plus the sifting of thousands of reports from prisoners who were repatriated, the number of unaccounted-for Americans was reduced to 389.

To this day, when asked about the missing 389, the U.S. government's response is:

"The Departments of Defense and State have endeavored to obtain a satisfactory accounting from the Communists . . .

"The Communists, however, consistently ignore or reject the demands and maintain they have no further information.

"Countless investigations of tips, leads and rumors relating to the servicemen have been made by government intelligence agencies without developing any significant evidence to indicate that they survived the period of hostilities."

First UNICEF Christmas Designer Likes Quiet Life

CESKE BUDEJOVICE, Czechoslovakia (UPI) —Since 1949, when the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF), printed its first Christmas card, it has sold 697 million of them.

But the artist who started it all has never received one.

And although such big names as Pablo Picasso and Salvador Dali have followed in her footsteps, Mrs. Jitka Samkova Vejdova remains virtually unknown.

This suits her fine.

"I don't care for publicity because it didn't do me much good," said Mrs. Vejdova, a pert 32-year-old blonde whose cheerful painting of children dancing around a Maypole was selected by UNICEF for its first printing.

She was seven years old at the time.

"People don't believe I got nothing out of it," said Mrs. Vejdova, now married with two children. "I never received a single crown (cent)—not even a Christmas card.

"All I have to show for it is a photocopy of my original painting and a trip to Switzerland four years ago to attend the 25th anniversary celebrations of UNICEF," she said.

In 1949, Mrs. Vejdova was one of many Czech schoolchildren who sent their thanks in the form of paintings to UNICEF for providing milk to replace losses caused by Nazi slaughter of her village's dairy cattle.

She made her painting on glass because there was no paper.

Hers was chosen for a poster at UNICEF feeding centers throughout her homeland and later for the first UNICEF Christmas card.

Asked to describe her design, she said, "The picture expresses joy, by going round and round, and the wreath at the top of the Maypole is to show that the line of children to help is endless."

Twenty-three years later, this is still true. One reason for the sale of UNICEF Christmas cards is to remind people and governments everywhere that there are still millions of children in desperate need of food and basic education. A second purpose is to raise funds to buy milk, medicine and textbooks to fill that need.

From a modest beginning—Mrs. Vejdova's design sold 4,000 copies the first season—total sales since 1949 topped 697 million this year, with an annual profit of $3 million.

UNICEF cards are also credited with having spread the custom of annual exchanges of Christmas-New Year greetings far beyond Europe and North America.

Asked about it now, Mrs. Vejdova's green eyes twinkle and she says with a smile: "It was all a children's game."

"Who knows?" she said. "Maybe this year someone will send me a UNICEF Christmas card."

WHERE VOLVOS COME FROM, A CAR MUST EAT UP THE ROAD. NOT VICE VERSA.

Swedish winters are car killers. With slush and raw salt on the road half the year, a car can be eaten away in short order. Unless it's protected as well as a Volvo. Every Volvo in our showroom has two undercoats protecting its underside. Vulnerable body parts are made of anti-corrosive galvanized steel. And instead of shiny chrome trim, which rusts, Volvo has shiny, stainless steel and aluminum, which don't.

So come buy a Volvo from us. Even if the winters aren't kind to it, the years should be.

ON THE AGENDA

Four 'Nutcracker' Performances Are On Schedule For This Week

Right along with the Christmas season come performances of the "Nutcracker" ballet, and a group of Marin women from the Marin Civic Ballet Association are busy with duties for the ballet's four "Nutcracker" performances Wednesday through Friday at Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

On the committee are Mmes. Dudley Deane, chairman; R. B. Doyle, backstage coordinator; Barry MacKay, makeup; Robert Knox, cast hospitality; Caesar Taverna, costumes and props; J. H. Rolling, tickets; Leon Fish, group tickets; and Russell Shatz, poster and flyer design. Tickets are available at the Marin Memorial Building box office.

THE SAN Francisco Pacific Ballet Company will present Tschaikowsky's 'Nutcracker Suite' on Saturday at the Veterans Memorial Building in Sonoma.

The production is under the direction of Alan Howard, former premier danseur of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, and will feature Sally Street, Kyro Alexander and Carolyn Goto.

The program is a first for Sonoma, and is being presented through the efforts of Yanina Cywinska of the Sonoma Ballet Academy.

The ballet will be performed at a 2:30 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are available at the Sonoma Valley Chamber of Commerce.

DONALD V. Westlund Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of Novato, will have its Christmas dinner at the Alvarado Inn in Ignacio at 7 p.m., Thursday. Reservations chairman is Mrs. Grover Owen.

Following dinner, members will go to the home of Mrs. Harold Harker for an exchange of gifts. They will also bring secret pal gifts, and groceries for Christmas for a needy family.

WESTMINSTER PRESBYTERIAN Church women and their friends will gather at the home of Mrs. Benton Bostick Jr. of Tiburon at noon on Wednesday, for lunch and a program of Christmas music sponsored by United Presbyterian Women.

A CHRISTMAS luncheon will be held by Bel Marin Keys Women's Club members on Wednesday at the club. Cocktails will be served at noon and luncheon at 1 p.m. The Novato High School choral singers will entertain. Mrs. John Klein is reservations chairman.

BUD SCHAEFFER, executive secretary of Sport Ambassadors, affiliate of Overseas Crusade, will speak at the Santa Rosa Christian Women's Club luncheon at noon Wednesday at Los Robles Lodge in Santa Rosa.

Schaeffer, a professional athlete, played basketball with the Boston Whirlwinds and the U.S. All Stars who played exhibition games against the Harlem Globetrotters in South America. He is also a 14 year veteran of Venture for Victory basketball tournaments and traveled with the first Venture for Victory team to the Orient.

Schaeffer and his wife will also provide music for the luncheon. The program will include a candle exhibition and instructions on how to make candles.

Mrs. Simon Brodersen is reservations chairman. Nursery care will be provided at the Christian Life Center in Santa Rosa.

A CHRISTMAS party and puppet show will be given by the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club at 7 p.m. Thursday at the clubhouse. Kitty Adams will give the puppet show and Santa Claus will give out candy canes. A film and refreshments are also scheduled.

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS of America, Court 1707, will have its Christmas party at 8 p.m., Wednesday at Our Lady of Loretto parish hall in Novato.

Guests will be the Rev. Daniel Sheehan, Rev. Charles Farrell and Ursuline nuns and lay teachers of Our Lady of Loretto School.

Members will bring canned goods for Christmas baskets to be given to a needy family.

CHRISTMAS WILL be celebrated by Rosarium Institute 175, Young Ladies Institute, on Thursday at St. Patrick's Hall in Larkspur. The institute will hold a business meeting at 8:15 p.m., followed by its Yuletide party.

Mrs. David Miller is chairman.

DOLLARS AND SENSE

Record Keeping Is Necessary In Right-Of-Survivorship Cases

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Miss E. J. of Hanover, N.H., asks,

"What does and or with right of survivorship mean with respect to owning property?

"How can two sisters handle their stocks, savings accounts and property so they pay the least amount of taxes in case of demise of one or the other?"

In the term "and or" the "and" means both; the "or" means one or the other.

In the case of survivorship, it means the survivor. As to federal taxes, the government does not impose an inheritance tax unless the estate exceeds $60,000.

If it does exceed that amount, the government will want to know whose money was involved in the purchase of the property.

In your case, if both you and your sister contributed to the property or other possessions, part of these possessions are owned by you. That part is not subject to the federal tax since it is not actually inherited but owned by you.

This would reduce or perhaps avoid any federal inheritance tax at all. But record keeping is necessary in order to prove your contribution to these assets, it would be advisable for you to consult your lawyer or banker with respect to any state inheritance laws which might apply in your case.

Mrs. R.L.N. of Boise, Idaho, asks,

"Can you tell us if there are any serious disadvantages in having all common-stock certificates issued in the name of both husband and wife as joint tenants with right of survivorship?"

Probably no serious disadvantages, but you might want to consult a lawyer with respect to probate or state inheritance-tax problems, if any.

In response to a recent query on British laws concerning wills, Monitor bureau chief John Allan May writes from London,

"When planning to make a will the British have several special considerations to remember:

"Estate duty begins at 15,000 pounds ($36,000). The 1972 Finance Act, however, exempts the first 15,000 left to the surviving spouse, meaning that where an estate is valued at less than 30,000 pounds and everything is left to the surviving spouse, no tax at all is payable.

"In the event an estate is greater than 30,000 pounds, the first 5,000 ($12,000) after the initial exemptions carries a 25 per cent rate of duty in Britain, the next 10,000 pounds a 30 per cent rate, the next a 35 per cent rate and so on until estates worth more than 500,000 pounds pay 75 per cent.

"A 50,000-pound estate in which at least 15,000 pounds is left to the surviving spouse would pay 6,000 pounds in duty. If no property was left to the spouse it would be required to pay 11,750 pounds.

"There is therefore a big incentive for everyone to reduce the size of his estate. . ."

GUARD RAIL IMPALES AUTO

A tow truck operator studies the damage to an auto that slid off of East Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley. Driver Leslie Duffy Lyon, 23, of 32 El Paseo, Mill Valley, told police she was westbound on the rain-slickened road shortly before midnight Saturday when her car crossed the center line and ploughed into the rail. Although railings shot through the auto like spears, neither the driver nor her passenger, Lisa Robin Lyon of Los Angeles, suffered more than scratches and bruises. (Photo by Ty Barbour)

2 Extradited In Nomadic Killing Case

GOLDEN, Colo. (UPI) — Two more members of a nomadic Texas family accused of committing more than 20 murders from Florida to Oregon have been extradited to Colorado on kidnap and murder charges. Both were in jail today.

Carl Robert Taylor, 34, and Sherman McCrary, his father-in-law, 47, were flown from California to Colorado Friday night.

They are charged with the 1971 slaying of Leora Rose Looney, 20, of Thornton, Colo., a Denver suburb.

Taylor and McCrary are also charged in Nevada with the murder of Sherri Martin, 17, of Kearns, Utah, a waitress.

Miss Martin disappeared from the restaurant where she worked eight days before Miss Looney was abducted.

The two men were serving prison terms in California for armed robbery. They re charged with other family members with more than 20 slayings from Florida to Oregon.

Carolyn C. McCrary, 47, of Duncanville, Tex., was returned to Colorado two weeks ago in connection with Miss Looney's slaying.

The extraditions followed grand jury testimony in Denver by Ginger McCrary Taylor, 22, last month.

She was presumably granted

She was presumably granted immunity for her testimony that resulted in the charges against Taylor, her husband, and McCary, her father.

family member, has waived extradition and was returned to Texas to face charges in another slaying.

Miss Looney was abducted from the Lakewood Doughnut Shop Aug. 20, 1971. Her body was found three days later near the Colorado-Wyoming state line. She had been strangled and shot.

Russia Is Held Unlikely To Rearm Egypt Again

By K.C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has decided it will not return to Egypt in any active military capacity for fear of direct involvement with unpredictable consequences, East European diplomats said today.

Even if asked by Cairo to return, Russia is not likely to respond in view of its disappointments in the past and dangers in the future except on terms which Egypt would hardly accept, the sources said.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat unceremoniously ousted 15,000 Soviet advisers and military personnel from his country last summer, but reportedly has recently tried to win back some of Moscow's cooperation.

The diplomatic sources said the Russians fear if they return in strength they might find themselves involved in some military offensive against Israel which they hold Egypt is unlikely to win in the present state of her relative military inadequacy.

Moscow fears if the Russians were to stand aside from any such conflict they would be blamed by the Arabs for letting them down. On the other hand if any such military action were to prove successful, the Russians would probably find themselves once more asked to go home.

But the overriding Soviet consideration was said to center on the Kremlin's overall strategy of co-operation with the United states and avoidance of direct involvement in dubious military ventures—anywhere.

The sources stressed that Moscow still will keep up a degree of cooperation with Cairo, for political and economic reasons. This will include the supply of some—but not all, or abundant — spare parts for weapons delivered in the past. This would be tied up with so-called "facilities" which Russia requires and will seek to maintain.

Latest reports that some 40 per cent of the war material in Egypt is not useable at present and that some 100 planes have been lost since the 1967 war because of crashes in training or in fights with Israelis have added to Moscow's reluctance to supply new large quantities of weapons.

No offensive sophisticated arms are to be supplied, 'or political considerations and because of lack of adequate expertise to handle them, the sources reported.

Furthermore, Moscow is apparently marking time to see what happens to Sadat, whose position is considered uncertain. Whether Moscow would be more amenable toward a regime that is pro-Soviet was not clear.

The Russians have a multibillion dollar investment in Egypt in terms of assistance with the Aswan Dam, economic and industrial commitments and the vast variety of arms supplied in the past.

They would want some of these debts to be repaid, but at the same time intend to continue a degree of outright aid to Egypt which has not been notably cut since the Cairo-Moscow honeymoon came to an abrupt end, according to the sources.

Academy Chapel Attendance Booted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court upheld today a lower court decision that it is unconstitutional for the Army, Air Force and Naval academies to require chapel attendance.

The Court, without comment, rejected the government's appeal from a 2-1 ruling of June 30 by the U.S. Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia that such regulations were a violation of religious freedom.

The appeals court had overruled a decision by a federal district judge who found nothing unconstitutional about mandatory chapel attendance.

The action strikes down the compulsory requirements in force at the three service academies.

In other actions before recessing until Jan. 8, the Court:

Let stand lower court findings which held that a section of the 1965 Social Security law limiting dependency benefits to some illegitimate children is unconstitutional. The proviso denied payments to the illegitimate children if the legitimate family of a parent used up the maximum benefits allowed under social security. The Court refused to hear the government's appeal from adverse lower court rulings in a Connecticut test case.

Refused to hear an appeal from a lower court order that the Irish Northern Aid Committee, a New York-based group, must turn over to the FBI its books and records, including the names of contributors.

Declined to review the perjury conviction of Louisiana's former attorney general, Jack P. F. Gremillion, on charges of lying to a federal grand jury investigating a bankrupt loan company. He must now begin serving a three-year jail sentence.

Sent back to a lower appeals court the case of Air Force Capt. Susan Struck who fought being discharged from the service when she became pregnant. The Court said the appeals court should consider whether any legal dispute is now involved since the Air Force now allows retention of pregnant women, including Capt. Struck.

Agreed to rule later this term on a ruling which the government says threatens to curtail its water pollution control program. At issue is an appeals court decision in a Pennsylvania case reversing the conviction of a chemical firm from dumping wastes into the Monongahela River near Pittsburgh.

The service academy chapel case was initiated by two West Point cadets and nine Naval Academy midshipmen.

Historic Group To Incorporate

The San Rafael Historic Preservation Committee has decided to incorporate under the name "Marin Heritage," according to Mary C. Dekker, chairman pro tem of the committee formed originally to preserve the Dollar Estate in San Rafael.

She said the new nonprofit corporation will have a broder scope of interests and soon will start a membership drive and fund-raising campaign under the leadership of Lynn MacInnes of Mill Valley.

Incorporation papers will be signed by Mrs. Dekker and George J. Silvestri Jr., co-founders of the organization, and Wilma Neuhaus, recording secretary.

Release Of Viet POWs Will Resemble Negotiations In Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only once before in the history of American warfare has a formal prisoner exchange at war's end been a key to the negotiated settlement.

That was in 1953 when the allied and communist sides repatriated thousands of soldiers and airmen captured during three years of bitter fighting in Korea.

In previous wars the United States liberated the prison camps of its defeated enemies.

In some cases exchanges of sick and wounded prisoners took place even before a cessation of hostilities. But in Korea and now Vietnam where there is no decisive victor, the POW release has become a part of the negotiated settlement.

Although the finishing touches remain for the Vietnam cease-fire agreement, the arrangement for the prisoner release is likely to resemble that of the Korean experience.

A total of 4,428 American fighting men were recovered from enemy prison camps in Kirea in exchange for 74,000 North Korean and Chinese prisoners.

The initial exchange, Operation Little Switch, began in April 1593, three months before the cease-fire, and involved only a small group of sick and wounded men — about 680 allied prisoners including 149 Americans for some 6,670 Communists.

But it wasn't until Operation Big Switch at Panmunjom in August of that year that the trade took place.

The armistice agreement called for the prisoners to be repatriated within 60 days but it took only 33. A similar 60-day timetable is part of the draft agreement for ending the Vietnam war, but Pentagon officials predict the exchange will be speeded up once it gets under way, probably in Vientiane, Laos.

As of Dec. 2, the Pentagon listed 552 U.S. captives in Indochina.

In Korea, the allied prisoners were loaded aboard trains at the prison camps in the North and brought south of Panmunjom. Communists held in the South were trucked north for the trade that began Aug. 5, 1953, with the release of 70 happy, shouting American GIs who marched across Freedom Bridge under the protective eyes of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

Once in American hands, the GIs were trucked to nearby Freedom Village for quick medical checks and debriefings by intelligence officers searching for clues to the whereabouts of the missing. Within a few days they were loaded aboard troop ships for the long journey home.

More than 2,700 of the 7,200 captured Americans died in the Korean prison camps. The toll — 38 per cent of the total captured — was the worst since the American Revolution.

Twenty-one other American POWs voluntarily stayed behind, but most eventually came home.

In World War II, nearly 11 per cent or 14,090 of the 129,701 Americans captured died in enemy prison camps.

Allied forces liberated the camps as they overran the German lines, freeing the POWs as they went. In the Pacific, the surrendering Japanese located scores of camps for the occupation forces which went in and brought the POWs out.

A major problem facing the United States at the end of the Vietnam war will be the fate of 1,266 Americans listed as missing in action.

The Pentagon hopes that the International Red Cross will be permitted to inspect the communist prison camps. But it is expected that after all the evidence is examined a presumptive finding of death will be issued in many cases.

Such was the problem in the Korean war which left 389 Americans unaccounted for even now.

Under terms of the Korean armistice agreement, each side agreed to repatriate or otherwise account for all POWs and deceased combatants of the other side if it knew their fate.

After completing the prisoner exchange September 1953, the United National Command handed the Communists a list of 944 American servicemen and 2,460 other allied personnel believed to have been in communist hands during the war.

After efforts by Army Graves Registration Units plus the sifting of thousands of reports from prisoners who were repatriated, the number of unaccounted-for Americans was reduced to 389.

To this day, when asked about the missing 389, the U.S. government's response is:

"The Departments of Defense and State have endeavored to obtain a satisfactory accounting from the Communists . . .

"The Communists, however, consistently ignore or reject the demands and maintain they have no further information.

"Countless investigations of tips, leads and rumors relating to the servicemen have been made by government intelligence agencies without developing any significant evidence to indicate that they survived the period of hostilities."

First UNICEF Christmas Designer Likes Quiet Life

CESKE BUDEJOVICE, Czechoslovakia (UPI) —Since 1949, when the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF), printed its first Christmas card, it has sold 697 million of them.

But the artist who started it all has never received one.

And although such big names as Pablo Picasso and Salvador Dali have followed in her footsteps, Mrs. Jitka Samkova Vejdova remains virtually unknown.

This suits her fine.

"I don't care for publicity because it didn't do me much good," said Mrs. Vejdova, a pert 32-year-old blonde whose cheerful painting of children dancing around a Maypole was selected by UNICEF for its first printing.

She was seven years old at the time.

"People don't believe I got nothing out of it," said Mrs. Vejdova, now married with two children. "I never received a single crown (cent)—not even a Christmas card.

"All I have to show for it is a photocopy of my original painting and a trip to Switzerland four years ago to attend the 25th anniversary celebrations of UNICEF," she said.

In 1949, Mrs. Vejdova was one of many Czech schoolchildren who sent their thanks in the form of paintings to UNICEF for providing milk to replace losses caused by Nazi slaughter of her village's dairy cattle.

She made her painting on glass because there was no paper.

Hers was chosen for a poster at UNICEF feeding centers throughout her homeland and later for the first UNICEF Christmas card.

Asked to describe her design, she said, "The picture expresses joy, by going round and round, and the wreath at the top of the Maypole is to show that the line of children to help is endless."

Twenty-three years later, this is still true. One reason for the sale of UNICEF Christmas cards is to remind people and governments everywhere that there are still millions of children in desperate need of food and basic education. A second purpose is to raise funds to buy milk, medicine and textbooks to fill that need.

From a modest beginning—Mrs. Vejdova's design sold 4,000 copies the first season—total sales since 1949 topped 697 million this year, with an annual profit of $3 million.

UNICEF cards are also credited with having spread the custom of annual exchanges of Christmas-New Year greetings far beyond Europe and North America.

Asked about it now, Mrs. Vejdova's green eyes twinkle and she says with a smile: "It was all a children's game."

"Who knows?" she said. "Maybe this year someone will send me a UNICEF Christmas card."

WHERE VOLVOS COME FROM, A CAR MUST EAT UP THE ROAD. NOT VICE VERSA.

Swedish winters are car killers. With slush and raw salt on the road half the year, a car can be eaten away in short order. Unless it's protected as well as a Volvo. Every Volvo in our showroom has two undercoats protecting its underside. Vulnerable body parts are made of anti-corrosive galvanized steel. And instead of shiny chrome trim, which rusts, Volvo has shiny, stainless steel and aluminum, which don't.

So come buy a Volvo from us. Even if the winters aren't kind to it, the years should be.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Good News For Beginners, Experts Not The Supermen

If you have enjoyed thinking of bridge experts as supermen, I don't want to disillusion you. I just want to point out that some of the best players in the world pull some awful clinkers even when they're trying as hard as they can. West's boner in today's hand occurred during a playoff to pick the North American team for the 1973 world championship.

NORMAL OPENING

West opened the queen of spades, normally enough. New York expert Jeff Rubens won in dummy with the ace of spades and returned the ten of clubs for a finesse, losing to the king.

West switched to the ace of diamonds and continued with the jack of diamonds in the hope of getting two fast tricks in that suit. South had to overtake dummy's queen of diamonds with the king.

South drew another round of trumps, led a low heart to dummy's ace and returned to his hand by ruffing a spade. He then led a trump to dummy's nine and ruffed dummy's last spade.

MOMENT OF TRUTH

Finally South led the jack of hearts, and West made the typical beginner's error of covering with the queen. South promptly claimed the rest of the tricks.

The play had been slow enough for West to count declarer's hand. He knew South had started with six trumps, one spade and two diamonds. South surely held four hearts to complete his 13-card hand.

ONLY CHANCE

West's only chance to defeat the contract was to play low casually on declarer's jack of hearts. If South decided not to finesse (as he might, with nine hearts in the combined hands), West would eventually get the setting trick with the queen of hearts.

If West made his correct play, South might still guess right; but when West made the incorrect play South had no chance of going wrong.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two spades.

The hand is not quite strong enough for a jump to four spades.

Seven Buried By A Molasses Stream

NEW DELHI (UPI) —A thick layer of molasses burst out of an underground tank in Gangavati, a town 400 miles southeast of Bombay, and buried seven persons, the Press Trust of India said today.

It said all seven persons, including one woman and one child, died.

More Arab Spy Suspects Arrested

TEL AVIV (UPI) —Police said today they arrested two more Arab spy suspects in an alleged Syrian espionage network during the night, bringing the total number of persons in custody to 39.

Four of the suspects, police said, are Israeli Jews.

GUARD RAIL IMPALES AUTO

A tow truck operator studies the damage to an auto that slid off of East Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley. Driver Leslie Duffy Lyon, 23, of 32 El Paseo, Mill Valley, told police she was westbound on the rain-slickened road shortly before midnight Saturday when her car crossed the center line and ploughed into the rail. Although railings shot through the auto like spears, neither the driver nor her passenger, Lisa Robin Lyon of Los Angeles, suffered more than scratches and bruises. (Photo by Ty Barbour)

2 Extradited In Nomadic Killing Case

GOLDEN, Colo. (UPI) — Two more members of a nomadic Texas family accused of committing more than 20 murders from Florida to Oregon have been extradited to Colorado on kidnap and murder charges. Both were in jail today.

Carl Robert Taylor, 34, and Sherman McCrary, his father-in-law, 47, were flown from California to Colorado Friday night.

They are charged with the 1971 slaying of Leora Rose Looney, 20, of Thornton, Colo., a Denver suburb.

Taylor and McCrary are also charged in Nevada with the murder of Sherri Martin, 17, of Kearns, Utah, a waitress.

Miss Martin disappeared from the restaurant where she worked eight days before Miss Looney was abducted.

The two men were serving prison terms in California for armed robbery. They re charged with other family members with more than 20 slayings from Florida to Oregon.

Carolyn C. McCrary, 47, of Duncanville, Tex., was returned to Colorado two weeks ago in connection with Miss Looney's slaying.

The extraditions followed grand jury testimony in Denver by Ginger McCrary Taylor, 22, last month.

She was presumably granted

She was presumably granted immunity for her testimony that resulted in the charges against Taylor, her husband, and McCary, her father.

family member, has waived extradition and was returned to Texas to face charges in another slaying.

Miss Looney was abducted from the Lakewood Doughnut Shop Aug. 20, 1971. Her body was found three days later near the Colorado-Wyoming state line. She had been strangled and shot.

Russia Is Held Unlikely To Rearm Egypt Again

By K.C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has decided it will not return to Egypt in any active military capacity for fear of direct involvement with unpredictable consequences, East European diplomats said today.

Even if asked by Cairo to return, Russia is not likely to respond in view of its disappointments in the past and dangers in the future except on terms which Egypt would hardly accept, the sources said.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat unceremoniously ousted 15,000 Soviet advisers and military personnel from his country last summer, but reportedly has recently tried to win back some of Moscow's cooperation.

The diplomatic sources said the Russians fear if they return in strength they might find themselves involved in some military offensive against Israel which they hold Egypt is unlikely to win in the present state of her relative military inadequacy.

Moscow fears if the Russians were to stand aside from any such conflict they would be blamed by the Arabs for letting them down. On the other hand if any such military action were to prove successful, the Russians would probably find themselves once more asked to go home.

But the overriding Soviet consideration was said to center on the Kremlin's overall strategy of co-operation with the United states and avoidance of direct involvement in dubious military ventures—anywhere.

The sources stressed that Moscow still will keep up a degree of cooperation with Cairo, for political and economic reasons. This will include the supply of some—but not all, or abundant — spare parts for weapons delivered in the past. This would be tied up with so-called "facilities" which Russia requires and will seek to maintain.

Latest reports that some 40 per cent of the war material in Egypt is not useable at present and that some 100 planes have been lost since the 1967 war because of crashes in training or in fights with Israelis have added to Moscow's reluctance to supply new large quantities of weapons.

No offensive sophisticated arms are to be supplied, 'yr political considerations and because of lack of adequate expertise to handle them, the sources reported.

Furthermore, Moscow is apparently marking time to see what happens to Sadat, whose position is considered uncertain. Whether Moscow would be more amenable toward a regime that is pro-Soviet was not clear.

The Russians have a multibillion dollar investment in Egypt in terms of assistance with the Aswan Dam, economic and industrial commitments and the vast variety of arms supplied in the past.

They would want some of these debts to be repaid, but at the same time intend to continue a degree of outright aid to Egypt which has not been notably cut since the Cairo-Moscow honeymoon came to an abrupt end, according to the sources.

Academy Chapel Attendance Booted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court upheld today a lower court decision that it is unconstitutional for the Army, Air Force and Naval academies to require chapel attendance.

The Court, without comment, rejected the government's appeal from a 2-1 ruling of June 30 by the U.S. Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia that such regulations were a violation of religious freedom.

The appeals court had overruled a decision by a federal district judge who found nothing unconstitutional about mandatory chapel attendance.

The action strikes down the compulsory requirements in force at the three service academies.

In other actions before recessing until Jan. 8, the Court:

Let stand lower court findings which held that a section of the 1965 Social Security law limiting dependency benefits to some illegitimate children is unconstitutional. The proviso denied payments to the illegitimate children if the legitimate family of a parent used up the maximum benefits allowed under social security. The Court refused to hear the government's appeal from adverse lower court rulings in a Connecticut test case.

Refused to hear an appeal from a lower court order that the Irish Northern Aid Committee, a New York-based group, must turn over to the FBI its books and records, including the names of contributors.

Declined to review the perjury conviction of Louisiana's former attorney general, Jack P. F. Gremillion, on charges of lying to a federal grand jury investigating a bankrupt loan company. He must now begin serving a three -year jail sentence.

Sent back to a lower appeals court the case of Air Force Capt. Susan Struck who fought being discharged from the service when she became pregnant. The Court said the appeals court should consider whether any legal dispute is now involved since the Air Force now allows retention of pregnant women, including Capt. Struck.

Agreed to rule later this term on a ruling which the government says threatens to curtail its water pollution control program. At issue is an appeals court decision in a Pennsylvania case reversing the conviction of a chemical firm from dumping wastes into the Monongahela River near Pittsburgh.

The service academy chapel case was initiated by two West Point cadets and nine Naval Academy midshipmen.

Historic Group To Incorporate

The San Rafael Historic Preservation Committee has decided to incorporate under the name "Marin Heritage," according to Mary C. Dekker, chairman pro tem of the committee formed originally to preserve the Dollar Estate in San Rafael.

She said the new nonprofit corporation will have a broder scope of interests and soon will start a membership drive and fund-raising campaign under the leadership of Lynn MacInnes of Mill Valley.

Incorporation papers will be signed by Mrs. Dekker and George J. Silvestri Jr., co-founders of the organization, and Wilma Neuhaus, recording secretary.

DANCE REVIEW

Oakland Ballet's 'Nutcracker' Plays To A Responsive Audience

By MARIE RAMEAU

OAKLAND — Judging from the Oakland Metropolitan Ballet's performance of "Nutcracker" this season, ballet in the East Bay is something to be reckoned with. The company, which will come to Marin this spring to participate in the West Coast Regional Ballet Conference hosted by Marin Civic Ballet, played Friday evening to a responsive, near-capacity house in Oakland's Metropolitan Theater, Oakland.

I have seen better "Nutcrackers" by professional companies, but for a regional company, this performance was unusually strong. Most parts of this traditional Christmas ballet were well rehearsed, and the dancers obviously enjoyed performing as much as the audience enjoyed watching them.

In the first act, the Party Scene, the children were outstanding, particularly Leslie Earls, who played Clara. The parents did too much dancing, which made an otherwise lively act drag along, but some comic relief was provided by Barbara Carroll's witty acting as the simpering governess. The battle between the mice and the toy soldiers was highlighted by some excellent pantomime from Richard Faulkner as the Nutcracker doll and Orrin Cross as the Mouse King, who finally got done in, in true comic-opera fashion. In the snowflake scene, the corps de ballet was perfection itself, although Diane Restivo as the Snow Queen needed more rehearsal.

Nicki Smith stole the show as soloist of the Reed Flutes in Act Two. Although this is not a principal role, Miss Smith's impeccable placement and technique, coupled with a lovely face and naturally elegant manner placed her far ahead of any other soloist in the ballet. Another exciting performer was Trip Pierce, who gave us some brilliant jumps and dazzling lines as Spanish Chocolate. The Waltz of the Flowers was a bit ragged, but was saved by four demi-soloists who obviously knew what they were doing.

"Arabian Coffee' this time was a radical departure from the traditional version, consisting of some breathtaking acrobatics which were pure display.

The principal role of the Sugar Plum Fairy should have been more carefully cast, as Lynette Alaine was hardly suited to its technical demands. She was better toward the end of the act, where well-placed arms and strong acting are required. Richard Faulkner, as the Nutcracker Prince, shows promise of becoming a fine technician and already presented a striking appearance.

School Bond Elections Do Rather Poorly

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A 12-month study shows only about one in five school bond elections won approval from voters, the California Teachers Association says.

The CTA, in a report released yesterday in the capital, said in 113 school bond elections between July 1, 1971 and June 30, 1972, only 21.2 per cent were approved while 74.6 per cent failed.

Half the school operating taxes in 190 elections during the same period failed and half won approval, the CTA added.

The CTA said voter turnout in the school-related elections was light, averaging 51.1 per cent of eligible voters in the school bond elections and only about 47 per cent in the school tax elections.

A New Auto Industry Mark Is Due

DETROIT (UPI) —U.S. auto workers will put in only five days on the job this week before closing down their plants Friday for a long Christmas vacation and the windup of the most successful production year in automotive history.

By the time the last car or truck rolls off an assembly line somewhere in the United States, a record 11,300,000 cars and trucks will have been built. That will top the 11,114,000 produced in the best previous year of 1965.

Under their contracts with the companies, more than 800,000 United Auto Workers members will be on an extended vacation from the end of their shifts Friday to Jan. 2.

But before they settle down to opening their Christmas gifts, auto workers will have put in some long hours. Seventeen car assembly plants and 11 truck plants worked overtime Saturday, the final overtime in 1972.

Berrigan To Resume His Active Role

BALTIMORE (UPI) —Barring a change in ideas and determination, the Rev. Phillip Berrigan will resume his social activism and fight against war after his parole from a federal prison Wednesday.

Under parole terms, Berrigan will be specifically assigned to research the needs of blacks after he is released from the prison at Danbury, Conn.

The 49-year-old Roman Catholic priest is a member of the Josephite Order, which is dedicated to helping blacks. He is to return to Baltimore Jan. 27 after first spending more than a month on approved Christmas leave in New York with his family

"He will live here at the Josephite house of administration and do research work relevant to our aims," said the Rev. Matthew J. O'Rourke, superior general of the order and his parole sponsor.

"I don't anticipate any restrictions on his speaking or activities from our point of view," O'Rourke said. "But under parole conditions he is restricted to Maryland unless he gets travel permission from his parole officer."

Berrigan has served slightly more than three years of a six-year term for mutilating draft records in a 1967 Selective Service raid here, plus part of a concurrent three and one-half year-term for the so-called "Catonsville nine" raid on a suburban draft board with his brother Daniel and others a year later.

A Noel In Trouble

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Police have charged Martin Lewis Noel, 23, with larceny in the Dec. 11 theft of between $500 and $600 worth of Christmas trees from a lot in suburban Penn Hills.

MUSIC REVIEW

Community Orchestra's Spotlight On Soloists

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

With a growing reputation for presenting fine concerts, John Myers' College of Marin Community Orchestra drew a near-capacity audience to the Fine Arts Theater on the campus Sunday night.

Myers decided upon a program of great challenge and difficulty for himself and his musicians. The fact that he was able to pull it off successfully was due in large part to the excellence of first chair soloists.

The orchestra warmed up instruments and audience with the Zampa Overture by Ferdinand Herold. This light-hearted work is made up of selections of the ballet music from the opera strung together by brass fanfares. It reminds the listener of such works as Offenbach's La Vie Parisienne, and is from the same school of opera comique, but Herold predates Offenbach by 30 years.

Myers took the work at a lively clip while keeping articulation and rhythms precise. Wayne Ellerman did a nice job with the clarinet solo.

Talented young violinist, Mary Helen Weinstein, concertmaster of the orchestra, was the featured soloist for the evening in the performance of the Violin Concerto by Alexander Glazunov.

A student of Rimsky-Korsakov's, Glazunov is said to nearly equal him in techniques of orchestration, but he lacks Korsakov's forceful expressive powers. The violin concerto alternates haunting melodies of Russian folk-tune implications with passages of great technical difficulty. Although it is actually in three movements it is presented as one.

Miss Weinstein handled the virtuoso sections with clarity, and was at her best in the lyrical cadenza with its effect of two intertwining voices each with an independent but important line.

The orchestra had some difficulties in working with the soloist and occasionally tended to overpower her lower notes, but was otherwise fine. Roberta Willat, flute, played well in her lovely duet with the violinist.

Charles Ives Second Symphony of 1902 comprised the second half of the program. This work was completed while Ives was studying with Horatio Parker at Yale but was performed for the first time in its entirety by Leonard Bernstein in 1951. It was the only one of his symphonies Ives heard performed, and even then he did not attend the performance itself but listened to a later radio transcription.

The Second Symphony is almost completely tonal in content and employs none of Ives' trademarks such as polyrhythms, polytonality and tone clusters. What does mark the composition Ivesian though, is the great use of hymn tunes, patriotic songs and other well-known American tunes.

The last movement most nearly resembles the later Ives. It contains polyphonic overlapping of tunes, reveille calls, and a fine rendition of "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean." The work ends with a loud dissonant blast suggestive of a horse laugh. Audience and orchestra enjoyed the piece equally. Difficulties arose mainly in intonation problems in the violins, and the lack of a clean cut-off in an important climax, but direction was clear, and the rapid shifts of rhythms and melodies well executed.

Ives present difficulties for even the most professional musicians. Myers is fortunate not only in his solo performers, but in having excellent brass and wind sections. The strong viola section is unusual for a college-community orchestra and it contributed much to both the Glazunov and the Ives.

Boy, 16, Cited For Burglary

A 16-year-old Novato boy was cited to juvenile authorities Saturday for burglary of a Novato home on Friday, Novato police reported.

According to reports, police recovered tape recordings, a radio and stereo valued at $580 from the boy. They had been taken from the home of Virginia B. Russell at 4 Carmel Drive, police reported.

The boy's name was withheld in accordance with a standing order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Good News For Beginners, Experts Not The Supermen

If you have enjoyed thinking of bridge experts as supermen, I don't want to disillusion you. I just want to point out that some of the best players in the world pull some awful clinkers even when they're trying as hard as they can. West's boner in today's hand occurred during a playoff to pick the North American team for the 1973 world championship.

NORMAL OPENING

West opened the queen of spades, normally enough. New York expert Jeff Rubens won in dummy with the ace of spades and returned the ten of clubs for a finesse, losing to the king.

West switched to the ace of diamonds and continued with the jack of diamonds in the hope of getting two fast tricks in that suit. South had to overtake dummy's queen of diamonds with the king.

South drew another round of trumps, led a low heart to dummy's ace and returned to his hand by ruffing a spade. He then led a trump to dummy's nine and ruffed dummy's last spade.

MOMENT OF TRUTH

Finally South led the jack of hearts, and West made the typical beginner's error of covering with the queen. South promptly claimed the rest of the tricks.

The play had been slow enough for West to count declarer's hand. He knew South had started with six trumps, one spade and two diamonds. South surely held four hearts to complete his 13-card hand.

ONLY CHANCE

West's only chance to defeat the contract was to play low casually on declarer's jack of hearts. If South decided not to finesse (as he might, with nine hearts in the combined hands), West would eventually get the setting trick with the queen of hearts.

If West made his correct play, South might still guess right; but when West made the incorrect play South had no chance of going wrong.

DAILY QUESTION

Partner bids one spade, and the next player passes.

You hold:
♠ - K 8 5 4
♥ - 9
♦ - 9 8 6 5 3 2
♣ - 8 2.

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two spades.

The hand is not quite strong enough for a jump to four spades.

Seven Buried By A Molasses Stream

NEW DELHI (UPI) —A thick layer of molasses burst out of an underground tank in Gangavati, a town 400 miles southeast of Bombay, and buried seven persons, the Press Trust of India said today.

It said all seven persons, including one woman and one child, died.

More Arab Spy Suspects Arrested

TEL AVIV (UPI) —Police said today they arrested two more Arab spy suspects in an alleged Syrian espionage network during the night, bringing the total number of persons in custody to 39.

Four of the suspects, police said, are Israeli Jews.

A REALISTIC DISPLAY

Exhibit preparator Raymond de Lucia of the American Museum of Natural History in New York City set up a display featuring an Indian "reticulated python" (Python Reticulatus) in the museum. The replicas, made of plastic, wood and glue, and which are extremely realistic, are expected to go on public display in 1974.

DANCE REVIEW

By MARIE RAMEAU

OAKLAND — Judging from the Oakland Metropolitan Ballet's performance of "Nutcracker" this season, ballet in the East Bay is something to be reckoned with. The company, which will come to Marin this spring to participate in the West Coast Regional Ballet Conference hosted by Marin Civic Ballet, played Friday evening to a responsive, near-capacity house in Oakland's Metropolitan Theater, Oakland.

I have seen better "Nutcrackers" by professional companies, but for a regional company, this performance was unusually strong. Most parts of this traditional Christmas ballet were well rehearsed, and the dancers obviously enjoyed performing as much as the audience enjoyed watching them.

In the first act, the Party Scene, the children were outstanding, particularly Leslie Earls, who played Clara. The parents did too much dancing, which made an otherwise lively act drag along, but some comic relief was provided by Barbara Carroll's witty acting as the simpering governess. The battle between the mice and the toy soldiers was highlighted by some excellent pantomime from Richard Faulkner as the Nutcracker doll and Orrin Cross as the Mouse King, who finally got done in, in true comic-opera fashion. In the snowflake scene, the corps de ballet was perfection itself, although Diane Restivo as the Snow Queen needed more rehearsal.

Nicki Smith stole the show as soloist of the Reed Flutes in Act Two. Although this is not a principal role, Miss Smith's impeccable placement and technique, coupled with a lovely face and naturally elegant manner placed her far ahead of any other soloist in the ballet. Another exciting performer was Trip Pierce, who gave us some brilliant jumps and dazzling lines as Spanish Chocolate. The Waltz of the Flowers was a bit ragged, but was saved by four demi-soloists who obviously knew what they were doing.

"Arabian Coffee' this time was a radical departure from the traditional version, consisting of some breathtaking acrobatics which were pure display.

The principal role of the Sugar Plum Fairy should have been more carefully cast, as Lynette Alaine was hardly suited to its technical demands. She was better toward the end of the act, where well-placed arms and strong acting are required. Richard Faulkner, as the Nutcracker Prince, shows promise of becoming a fine technician and already presented a striking appearance.

Berrigan To Resume His Active Role

BALTIMORE (UPI) —Barring a change in ideas and determination, the Rev. Phillip Berrigan will resume his social activism and fight against war after his parole from a federal prison Wednesday.

Under parole terms, Berrigan will be specifically assigned to research the needs of blacks after he is released from the prison at Danbury, Conn.

The 49-year-old Roman Catholic priest is a member of the Josephite Order, which is dedicated to helping blacks. He is to return to Baltimore Jan. 27 after first spending more than a month on approved Christmas leave in New York with his family.

"He will live here at the Josephite house of administration and do research work relevant to our aims," said the Rev. Matthew J. O'Rourke, superior general of the order and his parole sponsor.

"I don't anticipate any restrictions on his speaking or activities from our point of view," O'Rourke said. "But under parole conditions he is restricted to Maryland unless he gets travel permission from his parole officer."

Berrigan has served slightly more than three years of a six-year term for mutilating draft records in a 1967 Selective Service raid here, plus part of a concurrent three and one-half year-term for the so-called "Catonsville nine" raid on a suburban draft board with his brother Daniel and others a year later.

A Noel In Trouble

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Police have charged Martin Lewis Noel, 23, with larceny in the Dec. 11 theft of between $500 and $600 worth of Christmas trees from a lot in suburban Penn Hills.

MUSIC REVIEW

Community Orchestra's Spotlight On Soloists

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

With a growing reputation for presenting fine concerts, John Myers' College of Marin Community Orchestra drew a near-capacity audience to the Fine Arts Theater on the campus Sunday night.

Myers decided upon a program of great challenge and difficulty for himself and his musicians. The fact that he was able to pull it off successfully was due in large part to the excellence of first chair soloists.

The orchestra warmed up instruments and audience with the Zampa Overture by Ferdinand Herold. This light-hearted work is made up of selections of the ballet music from the opera strung together by brass fanfares. It reminds the listener of such works as Offenbach's La Vie Parisienne, and is from the same school of opera comique, but Herold predates Offenbach by 30 years.

Myers took the work at a lively clip while keeping articulation and rhythms precise. Wayne Ellerman did a nice job with the clarinet solo.

Talented young violinist, Mary Helen Weinstein, concertmaster of the orchestra, was the featured soloist for the evening in the performance of the Violin Concerto by Alexander Glazunov.

A student of Rimsky-Korsakov's, Glazunov is said to nearly equal him in techniques of orchestration, but he lacks Korsakov's forceful expressive powers. The violin concerto alternates haunting melodies of Russian folk-tune implications with passages of great technical difficulty. Although it is actually in three movements it is presented as one.

Miss Weinstein handled the virtuoso sections with clarity, and was at her best in the lyrical cadenza with its effect of two intertwining voices each with an independent but important line.

The orchestra had some difficulties in working with the soloist and occasionally tended to overpower her lower notes, but was otherwise fine. Roberta Willat, flute, played well in her lovely duet with the violinist.

Charles Ives Second Symphony of 1902 comprised the second half of the program. This work was completed while Ives was studying with Horatio Parker at Yale but was performed for the first time in its entirety by Leonard Bernstein in 1951. It was the only one of his symphonies Ives heard performed, and even then he did not attend the performance itself but listened to a later radio transcription.

The Second Symphony is almost completely tonal in content and employs none of Ives' trademarks such as polyrhythms, polytonality and tone clusters. What does mark the composition Ivesian though, is the great use of hymn tunes, patriotic songs and other well-known American tunes.

The last movement most nearly resembles the later Ives. It contains polyphonic overlapping of tunes, reveille calls, and a fine rendition of "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean." The work ends with a loud dissonant blast suggestive of a horse laugh. Audience and orchestra enjoyed the piece equally. Difficulties arose mainly in intonation problems in the violins, and the lack of a clean cut-off in an important climax, but direction was clear, and the rapid shifts of rhythms and melodies well executed.

Ives present difficulties for even the most professional musicians. Myers is fortunate not only in his solo performers, but in having excellent brass and wind sections. The strong viola section is unusual for a college-community orchestra and it contributed much to both the Glazunov and the Ives.

Boy, 16, Cited For Burglary

A 16-year-old Novato boy was cited to juvenile authorities Saturday for burglary of a Novato home on Friday, Novato police reported.

According to reports, police recovered tape recordings, a radio and stereo valued at $580 from the boy. They had been taken from the home of Virginia B. Russell at 4 Carmel Drive, police reported.

The boy's name was withheld in accordance with a standing order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

A New Auto Industry Mark Is Due

DETROIT (UPI) —U.S. auto workers will put in only five days on the job this week before closing down their plants Friday for a long Christmas vacation and the windup of the most successful production year in automotive history.

By the time the last car or truck rolls off an assembly line somewhere in the United States, a record 11,300,000 cars and trucks will have been built. That will top the 11,114,000 produced in the best previous year of 1965.

Under their contracts with the companies, more than 800,000 United Auto Workers members will be on an extended vacation from the end of their shifts Friday to Jan. 2.

But before they settle down to opening their Christmas gifts, auto workers will have put in some long hours. Seventeen car assembly plants and 11 truck plants worked overtime Saturday, the final overtime in 1972.

School Bond Elections Do Rather Poorly

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A 12-month study shows only about one in five school bond elections won approval from voters, the California Teachers Association says.

The CTA, in a report released yesterday in the capital, said in 113 school bond elections between July 1, 1971 and June 30, 1972, only 21.2 per cent were approved while 74.6 per cent failed.

Half the school operating taxes in 190 elections during the same period failed and half won approval, the CTA added.

The CTA said voter turnout in the school-related elections was light, averaging 51.1 per cent of eligible voters in the school bond elections and only about 47 per cent in the school tax elections.

BAZAAR — Shoppers browse among the stalls that transform a humdrum corridor at the Sausalito Art Center into an exotic bazaar. The event was staged Saturday and yesterday by members of the Sufi sect, and offered oddities and art and artifacts.

Sausalito Art Center Is Turned Into Marketplace

By PAT ANGLE

The gentle Sufis came to Sausalito Saturday, brightening a cold, rainy day with the sights, sounds and delights of their annual whirling dervish bazaar.

For the two-day event, the Sausalito Art Center was transformed into an ancient Persian market, with tiny, colorful stalls draped in Persian carpets and hangings. Just about everything imaginable was for sale.

At Michael Gest's Al Muti Herb stall, the discriminating buyer could purchase such exotic compounds as avocado-orange face lotion, true unicorn root (for female troubles) and a tea that smelled like lying in an herb field under an orange tree.

Wonderful spicy odors of massage oils from the hot, slightly mysterious lands of Egypt, India and Spain predominated the stall's many unusual smells. Gest said the oils, which just lately have come into fashion, are his biggest sellers.

Farther down the hall, other Sufis sold stained glass hangings, intricate jewelry, pottery, multicolored clothing, plants and musical instruments, while Sufi musicians played and sang nearby.

Another booth proclaimed that bee pollen was the answer to many of mankind's problems. "it has vitamins A, B, C, D, E, and B12 and B complex and easily digested proteins and all kinds of minerals, the pretty young seller said enthusiastically. "As soon as you eat it, you get very high energy."

From a pamphlet, a visitor learned it was none other than plain old bee pollen which "sustained the original Olympic athletes, the Arab caravans and the Apache warriors." The pamphlet said further the substance was "entombed with the Pharoahs and praised by (great Greek thinkers) Hypocrates and Pythagoras," that it is "the secret of fertility and will "prime your sacred union and spark your meditation."

A bookseller's stall offered all kinds of reading material, from "in Tune with the Infinite — a Modern Classic of Spiritual Inspiration" to a work titled "Zask a Potato." One was almost afraid to ask the subject matter of that one.

As a test of wits, a person guessing the right answer to a riddle won two brownies, two sand dollars or two Christmas cards.

"What is empty at night when you're asleep, but when you're awake by day is full of bones?" riddle-maker Wayne Buecher asked. "Shoes," a visitor replied promptly, becoming a big winner.

Buecher said he collects the puzzlers from children's books and from the youngsters themselves. "They have a lot of great ones," he said with a smile, noting that most adults can't answer them.

At the Shasta Abbey's Zen Missionary Society's booth, one could find "selling water by the river," a Zen training manual, Buddhist rosaries, meditation cushions, monk's hats, jizo amulets (to protect pregnant women) and even three grey and white kittens who were waiting patiently for new homes.

Rev. Jitsudo Baran of the abbey said he wasn't at the bazzar to make converts, but was there because it was such fun.

And, of course one could not leave the bazaar without a palm reading by Bashira and crystal gazing by Tom Singh of the Kabalistic Church of San Francisco.

Using a crystal the size of a large marble, Singh said a visitor masked a natural inferiority complex with personality, was defensive with men, had trouble making commitments and was suffering from an identity crisis.

As remedies for these ills, the crystal gazer suggested the visitor should come to the Sufi dances at the art center on Wednesday nights, keep a diary of her dreams and go home and clean her house.

Basira, the seeet-faced palmist, said the visitor's hand showed she worked hard, liked to listen, possessed great intuition and would live to be 90. She also confided that, at age 70, the person either would settle down to a quiet life or leave family, friends and home and just take off to go traveling. It sounded like fun.

While the selling, buying, bargaining and readings went on, the Sufi "people's choir" made beautiful music, sometimes soft and gentle, at other times rhythmic and stirring.

People laughed and hugged each other frequently. Dogs ran around loose, their tails wagging and children played happily.

It was a nice place to be on a rainy day.

Driver, 16, Cuts Face In Collision

Novato police said cars driven by Bryan L. Youngclaus, 62, of 10 Court Lane, Fairfax, northbound on Machin Street, and Linda Dianne Johannsen, 16, of 663 Olive Street, Novato, westbound on Grant Avenue, collided at the intersection at 2:45 p.m.

The Johannsen car then struck the front of Barlow and Sons Printing Co. at 900 Grant Avenue where the structure was damaged and a shop window broken. Police didn't have any estimate on the damage.

Dollar Estate Wins Historical Status

The Robert Dollar estate in San Rafael has been included in the National Register of Historic Places, Congressman William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, announced today.

The action, which could lead to the possibility of federal funds for purchase and acquisition, was taken by George B. Hartzog Jr., director of the National Park Service, Mailliard said.

Sites included in the national registry are eligible for federal matching funds of up to 50 per cent for acquisition and refurbishment, according to the state department of parks and recreation.

The historic property on Mission Avenue was recommended for inclusion in the registry by William Penn Mott Jr., director of the state parks department. Marin Heritage, a preservation group formerly known as the San Rafael Historic Preservation Committee, made the original application for inclusion of the property in the register.

Preservationists have long fought plans by attorney Thomas R. Schaal to develop the property. Though previous proposals by Schaal to develop the site have been rejected by both the planning commission and the city council, the attorney has again filed for permits to proceed with development plans.

Schaal's latest proposal calls for a 72-unit apartment building and the relocation and renovation of the Dollar mansion. The planning commission will consider the permit application at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 9.

Open Space Bonds To Be Discussed

The Corte Madera Town Council will again discuss a bond measure to buy open space at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at the Town Hall.

At its Nov. 20 meeting the council agreed to go ahead with the bond measure, prompted by Councilman Robert J. Flahive who said it appeared that county regional park money for open space acquisition was more likely to go to cities that provided matching funds.

No dollar amount or repayment has been discussed yet, and the matter was delayed from the council's Dec. 4 meeting because Councilman Flahive was absent.

Also before the council will be an ordinance increasing the size of the town's Board of Design membership from three to five persons.

College Slates Credit Courses

More than 40 college credit courses have been scheduled for late afternoon or evening hours during spring semester at Dominican College of San Rafael for the convenience of working students, according to college officials.

A new "extended learning program" will additionally offer noncredit classes, including one on the "art of grandparentry" to adult parttime students.

Registration for graduate students is Jan. 12 and undergraduates must register Jan. 15. Classes will begin Jan. 16.

Jan. 18 is the registration date for the grandparent course, which will meet three Monday evenings in January and February.

Plant Prints Are On Exhibit

A collection of 79 original plant prints from "The Leaf Book" by Ida Geary is being exhibited at the Marin County Library at the Civic Center Mondays through Friday until the end of this month.

The library hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The book was published by Arlen Philpott, The Tamal Land Press of Fairfax. Copies of another of her books, "How to Make Plant Prints" are being given away at the library.

She will give a free course in printmaking with plants beginning Jan. 2 at San Francisco Community College.

Rezoning Issue Before Council

Plans to rezone 680 acres for future development will be reviewed at a public hearing before the Rohnert Park City Council at 7 p.m. today.

Shapell Industries will seek new zoning on the land near the Rohnert Park Golf Course to permit homes, apartments, townhouses and a neighborhood shopping center.

The council will also request the county of Sonoma to file a joint grant application to buy land in the Sonoma hills for a regional park.

Property Taxes Play Big Part In Budget

Marin County's budget relies more heavily on property tax revenue than in 57 of California's 58 counties, largely because its welfare cost is the second lowest in the state.

Figures released today by the state controller's office show that 39.31 per cent of Marin's budget this fiscal year comes from property taxes. Only Calaveras County was higher at 39.71 per cent.

The statewide average was 31.78 per cent.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said the high percentage reliance on property taxes was because Marin's welfare cost per capita was so low that the county failed to get state and federal welfare subventions going to counties with higher welfare costs.

Marin's per capita welfare cost last year, he said, was $50.06, compared to the statewide average of about $120. The lowest was $45.25 in Orange County, and the highest was $176.63 in Madera County, he said.

The county budget this fiscal year is $48,898,312, requiring a property tax rate of $2.75 per $100 assessed valuation to raise $19,223,887. Last year, 42.22 per cent of the county budget was financed from property taxes, the highest in the state.

The lowest this year was 21.56 per cent in Mariposa County

Families Flee High Snake River

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) —More than 100 families were evacuated during the weekend in southwestern Idaho and eastern Oregon as the flooding Snake River spilled over its banks behind a 30-mile long ice jam.

The two states, snapping out of a 12-day Arctic chill which brought record low temperatures, warmed up to the 20s and 30s and flood waters began to flow behind the ice jam in the river.

Cooke Celebrates Special Rock Mass

Cardinal Cooke read a special Christmas message which President Nixon sent to him to deliver to the children.

Arrest At Ransacked Apartment

Justine Virginia Thompson, 49, of 120 G Street, was arrested on suspicion of malicious mischief, possession of marijuana and a $90 outstanding traffic warrant. She was booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $1,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said they found the woman lying on a bed in an apartment at 804 A Street after a tenant had called to report furniture was being tossed from a window. Police found the apartment ransacked, the phone ripped from the wall, a furnace tipped over and various possessions scattered about. Officers said Mrs. Thompson told them she had ransacked the apartment because it belonged to Clifford A. Thomspon, her ex-husband.

She was taken to Marin County Jail, where a routine search produced three bags of suspected marijuana, a vial containing suspected hashish and cigarette papers, according to police.

More Demands For Oil Seen

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A growing demand for oil will mean increased dependence on foreign exports to the United States, an industry executive said Sunday.

Otto N. Miller, chairman of the board for Standard Oil of California, said imports amounted to 30 per cent of the total supply of oil used in the U.S. in 1972, and will zoom to about 55 per cent of the total supply within seven years.

That would be a jump of 4.9 million barrels daily now imported to more than 13 million barrels daily in 1980.

Miller said a surge in the nation's economic growth creates more demand for oil at a time when the U.S. production of the fuel has begun a gradual decline.

BAZAAR — Shoppers browse among the stalls that transform a humdrum corridor at the Sausalito Art Center into an exotic bazaar. The event was staged Saturday and yesterday by members of the Sufi sect, and offered oddities and art and artifacts.

By PAT ANGLE

The gentle Sufis came to Sausalito Saturday, brightening a cold, rainy day with the sights, sounds and delights of their annual whirling dervish bazaar.

For the two-day event, the Sausalito Art Center was transformed into an ancient Persian market, with tiny, colorful stalls draped in Persian carpets and hangings. Just about everything imaginable was for sale.

At Michael Gest's Al Muti Herb stall, the discriminating buyer could purchase such exotic compounds as avocado-orange face lotion, true unicorn root (for female troubles) and a tea that smelled like lying in an herb field under an orange tree.

Wonderful spicy odors of massage oils from the hot, slightly mysterious lands of Egypt, India and Spain predominated the stall's many unusual smells. Gest said the oils, which just lately have come into fashion, are his biggest sellers.

Farther down the hall, other Sufis sold stained glass hangings, intricate jewelry, pottery, multicolored clothing, plants and musical instruments, while Sufi musicians played and sang nearby.

Another booth proclaimed that bee pollen was the answer to many of mankind's problems. "it has vitamins A, B, C, D, E, and B12 and B complex and easily digested proteins and all kinds of minerals, the pretty young seller said enthusiastically. "As soon as you eat it, you get very high energy."

From a pamphlet, a visitor learned it was none other than plain old bee pollen which "sustained the original Olympic athletes, the Arab caravans and the Apache warriors." The pamphlet said further the substance was "entombed with the Pharoahs and praised by (great Greek thinkers) Hypocrates and Pythagoras," that it is "the secret of fertility and will "prime your sacred union and spark your meditation."

A bookseller's stall offered all kinds of reading material, from "in Tune with the Infinite — a Modern Classic of Spiritual Inspiration" to a work titled "Zask a Potato." One was almost afraid to ask the subject matter of that one.

As a test of wits, a person guessing the right answer to a riddle won two brownies, two sand dollars or two Christmas cards.

"What is empty at night when you're asleep, but when you're awake by day is full of bones?" riddle-maker Wayne Buecher asked. "Shoes," a visitor replied promptly, becoming a big winner.

Buecher said he collects the puzzlers from children's books and from the youngsters themselves. "They have a lot of great ones," he said with a smile, noting that most adults can't answer them.

At the Shasta Abbey's Zen Missionary Society's booth, one could find "selling water by the river," a Zen training manual, Buddhist rosaries, meditation cushions, monk's hats, jizo amulets (to protect pregnant women) and even three grey and white kittens who were waiting patiently for new homes.

Rev. Jitsudo Baran of the abbey said he wasn't at the bazzar to make converts, but was there because it was such fun.

And, of course one could not leave the bazaar without a palm reading by Bashira and crystal gazing by Tom Singh of the Kabalistic Church of San Francisco.

Using a crystal the size of a large marble, Singh said a visitor masked a natural inferiority complex with personality, was defensive with men, had trouble making commitments and was suffering from an identity crisis.

As remedies for these ills, the crystal gazer suggested the visitor should come to the Sufi dances at the art center on Wednesday nights, keep a diary of her dreams and go home and clean her house.

Basira, the seeet-faced palmist, said the visitor's hand showed she worked hard, liked to listen, possessed great intuition and would live to be 90. She also confided that, at age 70, the person either would settle down to a quiet life or leave family, friends and home and just take off to go traveling. It sounded like fun.

While the selling, buying, bargaining and readings went on, the Sufi "people's choir" made beautiful music, sometimes soft and gentle, at other times rhythmic and stirring.

Would-be dervishes whirled ecstatically around the room as the mood struck them.

People laughed and hugged each other frequently. Dogs ran around loose, their tails wagging and children played happily.

It was a nice place to be on a rainy day.

Driver, 16, Cuts Face In Collision

Novato police said cars driven by Bryan L. Youngclaus, 62, of 10 Court Lane, Fairfax, northbound on Machin Street, and Linda Dianne Johannsen, 16, of 663 Olive Street, Novato, westbound on Grant Avenue, collided at the intersection at 2:45 p.m.

The Johannsen car then struck the front of Barlow and Sons Printing Co. at 900 Grant Avenue where the structure was damaged and a shop window broken. Police didn't have any estimate on the damage.

Dollar Estate Wins Historical Status

The Robert Dollar estate in San Rafael has been included in the National Register of Historic Places, Congressman William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, announced today.

The action, which could lead to the possibility of federal funds for purchase and acquisition, was taken by George B. Hartzog Jr., director of the National Park Service, Mailliard said.

Sites included in the national registry are eligible for federal matching funds of up to 50 per cent for acquisition and refurbishment, according to the state department of parks and recreation.

The historic property on Mission Avenue was recommended for inclusion in the registry by William Penn Mott Jr., director of the state parks department. Marin Heritage, a preservation group formerly known as the San Rafael Historic Preservation Committee, made the original application for inclusion of the property in the register.

Preservationists have long fought plans by attorney Thomas R. Schaal to develop the property. Though previous proposals by Schaal to develop the site have been rejected by both the planning commission and the city council, the attorney has again filed for permits to proceed with development plans.

Schaal's latest proposal calls for a 72-unit apartment building and the relocation and renovation of the Dollar mansion. The planning commission will consider the permit application at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 9.

Open Space Bonds To Be Discussed

The Corte Madera Town Council will again discuss a bond measure to buy open space at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at the Town Hall.

At its Nov. 20 meeting the council agreed to go ahead with the bond measure, prompted by Councilman Robert J. Flahive who said it appeared that county regional park money for open space acquisition was more likely to go to cities that provided matching funds.

No dollar amount or repayment has been discussed yet, and the matter was delayed from the council's Dec. 4 meeting because Councilman Flahive was absent.

Also before the council will be an ordinance increasing the size of the town's Board of Design membership from three to five persons.

College Slates Credit Courses

More than 40 college credit courses have been scheduled for late afternoon or evening hours during spring semester at Dominican College of San Rafael for the convenience of working students, according to college officials.

A new "extended learning program" will additionally offer noncredit classes, including one on the "art of grandparentry" to adult parttime students.

Registration for graduate students is Jan. 12 and undergraduates must register Jan. 15. Classes will begin Jan. 16.

Jan. 18 is the registration date for the grandparent course, which will meet three Monday evenings in January and February.

Plant Prints Are On Exhibit

A collection of 79 original plant prints from "The Leaf Book" by Ida Geary is being exhibited at the Marin County Library at the Civic Center Mondays through Friday until the end of this month.

The library hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The book was published by Arlen Philpott, The Tamal Land Press of Fairfax. Copies of another of her books, "How to Make Plant Prints" are being given away at the library.

She will give a free course in printmaking with plants beginning Jan. 2 at San Francisco Community College.

Rezoning Issue Before Council

Plans to rezone 680 acres for future development will be reviewed at a public hearing before the Rohnert Park City Council at 7 p.m. today.

Shapell Industries will seek new zoning on the land near the Rohnert Park Golf Course to permit homes, apartments, townhouses and a neighborhood shopping center.

The council will also request the county of Sonoma to file a joint grant application to buy land in the Sonoma hills for a regional park.

Property Taxes Play Big Part In Budget

Marin County's budget relies more heavily on property tax revenue than in 57 of California's 58 counties, largely because its welfare cost is the second lowest in the state.

Figures released today by the state controller's office show that 39.31 per cent of Marin's budget this fiscal year comes from property taxes. Only Calaveras County was higher at 39.71 per cent.

The statewide average was 31.78 per cent.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said the high percentage reliance on property taxes was because Marin's welfare cost per capita was so low that the county failed to get state and federal welfare subventions going to counties with higher welfare costs.

Marin's per capita welfare cost last year, he said, was $50.06, compared to the statewide average of about $120. The lowest was $45.25 in Orange County, and the highest was $176.63 in Madera County, he said.

The county budget this fiscal year is $48,898,312, requiring a property tax rate of $2.75 per $100 assessed valuation to raise $19,223,887. Last year, 42.22 per cent of the county budget was financed from property taxes, the highest in the state.

The lowest this year was 21.56 per cent in Mariposa County

Families Flee High Snake River

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) —More than 100 families were evacuated during the weekend in southwestern Idaho and eastern Oregon as the flooding Snake River spilled over its banks behind a 30-mile long ice jam.

The two states, snapping out of a 12-day Arctic chill which brought record low temperatures, warmed up to the 20s and 30s and flood waters began to flow behind the ice jam in the river.

Cooke Celebrates Special Rock Mass

Cardinal Cooke read a special Christmas message which President Nixon sent to him to deliver to the children.

Arrest At Ransacked Apartment

Justine Virginia Thompson, 49, of 120 G Street, was arrested on suspicion of malicious mischief, possession of marijuana and a $90 outstanding traffic warrant. She was booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $1,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said they found the woman lying on a bed in an apartment at 804 A Street after a tenant had called to report furniture was being tossed from a window. Police found the apartment ransacked, the phone ripped from the wall, a furnace tipped over and various possessions scattered about. Officers said Mrs. Thompson told them she had ransacked the apartment because it belonged to Clifford A. Thomspon, her ex-husband.

She was taken to Marin County Jail, where a routine search produced three bags of suspected marijuana, a vial containing suspected hashish and cigarette papers, according to police.

More Demands For Oil Seen

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A growing demand for oil will mean increased dependence on foreign exports to the United States, an industry executive said Sunday.

Otto N. Miller, chairman of the board for Standard Oil of California, said imports amounted to 30 per cent of the total supply of oil used in the U.S. in 1972, and will zoom to about 55 per cent of the total supply within seven years.

That would be a jump of 4.9 million barrels daily now imported to more than 13 million barrels daily in 1980.

Miller said a surge in the nation's economic growth creates more demand for oil at a time when the U.S. production of the fuel has begun a gradual decline.

Join A Winner!

Our track record is great and we are continuing to grow. And we need qualified technicians and mechanics to join our winning team. If you are seeking a more rewarding career with a winner, then we want you. Openings include:

TEST TECHNICIANS
You will perform electrical tests on products to determine functional needs and must be capable of performing diagnostics to locate failure. You will use standard test equipment and other specialized test devices. Technical school or military electronics training essential. AA degree preferred.

ELECTROMECHANICAL TECHNICIANS
You will perform a variety of activities such as wire wrapping, harness assembly, mechanical assembly and modification, power supply testing and system test. Previous EM experience required. Military electronics training or technical school education required.

LINE MAINTENANCE MECHANICS
Preference will be given persons with experience in maintaining semi conductor manufacturing equipment. Serious consideration will be given to persons with electromechanical experience. We will train.

In addition to excellent salary and career growth opportunities, we can offer you a superior benefits program that includes both stock option and stock purchase plan.

Send your resume in confidence to our Personnel Dept., 3065 Bowers Ave, Santa Clara, Ca. 95051. An equal opportunity employer.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Monday, December 18th, the 352nd day of 1972 with 13 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

American composer Edward MacDowell was born Dec. 18, 1861.

For draft eligibles the lottery number is 73.

On this day in history:

In 1787, New Jersey ratified the proposed constitution of the United States.

In 1865, the 13th Amendment to the Constitution abolished slavery in the United States.

In 1915, President Woodrow Wilson, a widower for about one year, was married to Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt, a widow.

In 1965, a U.S. spaceship returned to Earth after spending 14 days in orbit.

A thought for the day: American novelist Gertrude Franklin Atherton said: "No matter how hard a man may labor, some woman is always in the background of his mind. She is the one reward of virtue."

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, clean air.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

A Health Problem In Tropical Regions

What are the world's greatest health problems? Malaria? Malnutrition? Perhaps. But there is an equally serious one that most Americans have never heard of. It is called schistosomiasis, or Bilharzia. It is a chronic infection that leads to such symptoms as anemia, perforated intestines and painful swelling of the abdomen. The sufferers lose bodily function and energy; in severe cases they are unable to work at all.

Some 200 million persons in Asia, Africa, South America and other tropical regions have this disease; developing nations in those areas list the disease as one of the major obstacles to their development.

The disease is caused by small worms called schistosomes, which live in the veins that serve the digestive organs and the intestines. There they mate and release eggs. Many of the eggs penetrate the walls of the alimentary canal or the bladder; others become trapped in the liver or in the lungs.

The body is damaged through lesions to these tissues, through complications arising from its own immune reaction to the eggs.

Some of the eggs pass out through the digestive wastes, and in fresh water, hatch into free-swimming larvae, which infect snails living in the water.

Another developmental form of the worm emerges from the snails and infects, by skin penetration, humans who happen to touch or be in the water. These forms develop into adults in their human hosts, release eggs and start the cycle all over again.

It is easy to see why the disease is widespread in tropical underdeveloped countries. Sanitary treatment of human wastes (often a source of fertilizer) is inadequate and the people are exposed to river or lake water through irrigation, bathing and other activities.

Several serious efforts at controlling the disease have been made by treating victims with drugs, killing the snails or changing the water-usage habits of the people. But the success has been limited by the costs and manpower required.

Now evidence is accumulating that a vaccine to immunize against schistosomiasis may be feasible. Recently scientists at The Salk Institute who conducted an informal review of the problem concluded that a vaccine was the most promising approach.

In the last few years researchers have moved much closer to an understanding of the infection and the immune response. In England, experimental systems have been developed that permit most of the life cycle of the worm to be carried out in vitro — that is, in test tubes in the laboratory, without animal hosts. Thus detailed analysis of the worms can be made, even at the cellular and molecular levels. Elsewhere, vaccination experiments with cattle have already been started.

If the nature of the immunity and of the adult worms' defenses can be determined, the elements of a vaccine will be at hand.

38 Children's Books On Display

George B. Duncan III of San Anselmo is displaying a collection of 38 children's books and three scrolls from other lands at the Marin County Library at the Civic Center.

The collection, which will be exhibited through the end of December, may be viewed during library hours, 8 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Duncan was chairman of the modern languages department at the College of Marin when he retired in 1970 after 24 years of teaching.

Hearing Set On Improvement District

The North Marin County Water District will hold a public hearing on the proposed Olema Improvement District at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the West Marin School, Point Reyes Station.

Directors also will consider an interim policy on environmental impact reports.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Injuries Which Damage Liver Increasing Due To Car Wrecks

Abdominal injuries which damage the liver are increasing due to more serious highway accidents. Autopsy studies revealed liver damage in six of ten victims.

Location makes this large organ vulnerable. It is in the front part of the abdomen under the ribs on the right side. The rib cage offers some protection, but not enough when the area receives a devastating blow as might occur during a high-speed accident.

THE LIVER usually is torn and the substance, blood vessels, and bile ducts are damaged. It pops open like a melon. All of this occurs even though the abdominal wall is not lacerated or penetrated. The result is internal bleeding and bile leakage, which is serious, unless recognized and corrected. Emergency care involves an exploratory operation which usually is done on a person who is in death, in shock, and often suffering from other severe injuries.

Advances in surgery, transfusion techniques, and a better resuscitation method have reduced deaths from this type of operation from 80 to 30 per cent or less. Without it, the chances of death are almost 100 per cent.

The lower part of the steering wheel is at the same level as the liver and is the blunt object that injures the driver during the crash. Spleen damage may also be present and the lower chest caved in, causing injury to the heart and aortic artery. When the windpipe is struck and the ensuing swelling blocks off the air supply, an artificial airway (tracheotomy) must be inserted.

OTHERS RIDING in the car may also be injured, especially when the vehicle stops suddenly and they are thrown against the dashborad, front seat, or out of the car. A damaged liver is always suspected when the upper abdomen or lower chest is struck.

A simple tear in the liver usually causes profuse bleeding, but it can be closed to its full depth by a simple suture, which also controls the hemorrhage. This type of treatment is not adequate for a major injury. Under these circumstances, the lobe of the liver containing the injured and devitalized part is carefully removed (hepatectomy). Studies show that the organ regenerates almost to its original size; recovery of liver function occurs within a few weeks.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

DRUGS AND STROKES

K. E. writes: If a person has had a stroke, will he have to take pills the rest of his life?

REPLY

The answer depends upon the cause of the stroke. Some physicians recommend anticoagulant drugs when the stroke was induced by a clot. But these compounds are contraindicated if brain hemorrhage was responsible. Tablets that lower blood pressure, on the other hand, may be needed.

STARVED HEART

M. A. writes: What is ischemia of the heart?

REPLY

Ischemia is a condition in which the heart muscle does not get enough blood because the coronary arteries are narrowed. This local starvation causes angina pectoris (chest pain) on exertion or excitement when the heart beats faster and needs more blood.

Theologians Agree Satan Does Exist

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano devoted two of its eight pages Sunday to a subject the Vatican rarely discusses at length — the devil.

Seven theologians agreed Satan exists.

Their findings supported a speech Pope Paul VI made last month which said the devil exists, the first time the 75-year-old pontiff had dedicated an entire speech to the subject.

The speech stirred criticism because the Pope used language which was all but discarded in the Roman Catholic church after the Vatican Ecumenical Council a decade ago.

The Pope and several of the authors in L'Osservatore Romano said belief in Satan is an essential part of Christian faith.

Martha Hoffman At Divorce Unit

Martha Hoffman, a former Marin County social worker who will staff a new "do-it-yourself" divorce center in San Rafael, was incorrectly identified as Martha Thompson in Friday's Independent-Journal.

The office, at 1029 Fourth Street, is designed to assist couples who agree to an uncontested dissolution of their marriage and wish to save attorney's fees.

Celler Is Honored By B'Nai B'rith

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., leaving Congress after nearly 50 years in office, has been awarded the B'nai B'rith's "President's Medal."

During a luncheon Sunday given in his honor by the Jewish service organization, a "Dear Mannie" letter from President Nixon was read in which Nixon told Celler "your half-century of service to this country has earned you the profound gratitude of every fellow citizen." Celler was defeated last spring in a primary election.

Giacomini To Move Offices

Supervisor-elect Gary T. Giacomini has announced he will close his San Rafael headquarters next month and move offices to the Marin County Civic Center office being vacated by outgoing supervisor Louis H. (Bud) Baar.

Giacomini told the Independent-Journal his administrative assistant, Judy Ainsworth, will staff the new office to handle constituents' questions and problems.

He said his San Rafael headquarters, operated by volunteers, received 50 to 60 phone calls a day and proved a valuable link with residents of his fourth district.

A campaign promise, that he would serve as a full-time supervisor, is not feasible at this time because of supervisors' low salary, Giacomini said. Supervisors currently earn $13,200 per year.

KEEP YOUR COOL!

Cool eye, cool hand... cool holiday weekend

If you're on the highway this weekend, play it cool. Don't race your motor or the next guy. Don't let your car run away with your judgment. Keep a cool head, use a light foot, and keep the needle down. This is mature driving which not only saves tension and wear and tear—it can save your life. Lot better than driving home in an ambulance!

State Highway Patrol officers will be on the road, guiding traffic . . . helping you go places safely

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Injuries Which Damage Liver Increasing Due To Car Wrecks

Abdominal injuries which damage the liver are increasing due to more serious highway accidents. Autopsy studies revealed liver damage in six of ten victims.

Location makes this large organ vulnerable. It is in the front part of the abdomen under the ribs on the right side. The rib cage offers some protection, but not enough when the area receives a devastating blow as might occur during a high-speed accident.

THE LIVER usually is torn and the substance, blood vessels, and bile ducts are damaged. It pops open like a melon. All of this occurs even though the abdominal wall is not lacerated or penetrated. The result is internal bleeding and bile leakage, which is serious, unless recognized and corrected. Emergency care involves an exploratory operation which usually is done on a person who is near death, in shock, and often suffering from other severe injuries.

Advances in surgery, transfusion techniques, and a better resuscitation method have reduced deaths from this type of operation from 80 to 30 per cent or less. Without it, the chances of death are almost 100 per cent.

The lower part of the steering wheel is at the same level as the liver and is the blunt object that injures the driver during the crash. Spleen damage may also be present and the lower chest caved in, causing injury to the heart and aortic artery. When the windpipe is struck and the ensuing swelling blocks off the air supply, an artificial airway (tracheotomy) must be inserted.

OTHERS RIDING in the car may also be injured, especially when the vehicle stops suddenly and they are thrown against the dashborad, front seat, or out of the car. A damaged liver is always suspected when the upper abdomen or lower chest is struck.

A simple tear in the liver usually causes profuse bleeding, but it can be closed to its full depth by a simple suture, which also controls the hemorrhage. This type of treatment is not adequate for a major injury. Under these circumstances, the lobe of the liver containing the injured and devitalized part is carefully removed (hepatectomy). Studies show that the organ regenerates almost to its original size; recovery of liver function occurs within a few weeks.

(Questions on medical topics will be answered by mail if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the Independent-Journal.)

DRUGS AND STROKES

K. E. writes: If a person has had a stroke, will he have to take pills the rest of his life?

REPLY

The answer depends upon the cause of the stroke. Some physicians recommend anticoagulant drugs when the stroke was induced by a clot. But these compounds are contraindicated if brain hemorrhage was responsible. Tablets that lower blood pressure, on the other hand, may be needed.

STARVED HEART

M. A. writes: What is ischemia of the heart?

REPLY

Ischemia is a condition in which the heart muscle does not get enough blood because the coronary arteries are narrowed. This local starvation causes angina pectoris (chest pain) on exertion or excitement when the heart beats faster and needs more blood.

Giacomini To Move Offices

Supervisor-elect Gary T. Giacomini has announced he will close his San Rafael headquarters next month and move offices to the Marin County Civic Center office being vacated by outgoing supervisor Louis H. (Bud) Baar.

Giacomini told the Independent-Journal his administrative assistant, Judy Ainsworth, will staff the new office to handle constituents' questions and problems.

He said his San Rafael headquarters, operated by volunteers, received 50 to 60 phone calls a day and proved a valuable link with residents of his fourth district.

A campaign promise, that he would serve as a full-time supervisor, is not feasible at this time because of supervisors' low salary, Giacomini said. Supervisors currently earn $13,200 per year.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Monday, December 18th, the 352nd day of 1972 with 13 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

American composer Edward MacDowell was born Dec. 18, 1861.

For draft eligibles the lottery number is 73.

On this day in history:

In 1787, New Jersey ratified the proposed constitution of the United States.

In 1865, the 13th Amendment to the Constitution abolished slavery in the United States.

In 1915, President Woodrow Wilson, a widower for about one year, was married to Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt, a widow.

In 1965, a U.S. spaceship returned to Earth after spending 14 days in orbit.

A thought for the day: American novelist Gertrude Franklin Atherton said: "No matter how hard a man may labor, some woman is always in the background of his mind. She is the one reward of virtue."

A Health Problem In Tropical Regions

What are the world's greatest health problems? Malaria? Malnutrition? Perhaps. But there is an equally serious one that most Americans have never heard of. It is called schistosomiasis, or Bilharzia. It is a chronic infection that leads to such symptoms as anemia, perforated intestines and painful swelling of the abdomen. The sufferers lose bodily function and energy; in severe cases they are unable to work at all.

Some 200 million persons in Asia, Africa, South America and other tropical regions have this disease; developing nations in those areas list the disease as one of the major obstacles to their development.

The disease is caused by small worms called schistosomes, which live in the veins that serve the digestive organs and the intestines. There they mate and release eggs. Many of the eggs penetrate the walls of the alimentary canal or the bladder; others become trapped in the liver or in the lungs.

The body is damaged through lesions to these tissues, through complications arising from its own immune reaction to the eggs.

Some of the eggs pass out through the digestive wastes, and in fresh water, hatch into free-swimming larvae, which infect snails living in the water.

Another developmental form of the worm emerges from the snails and infects, by skin penetration, humans who happen to touch or be in the water. These forms develop into adults in their human hosts, release eggs and start the cycle all over again.

It is easy to see why the disease is widespread in tropical underdeveloped countries. Sanitary treatment of human wastes (often a source of fertilizer) is inadequate and the people are exposed to river or lake water through irrigation, bathing and other activities.

Several serious efforts at controlling the disease have been made by treating victims with drugs, killing the snails or changing the water-usage habits of the people. But the success has been limited by the costs and manpower required.

Now evidence is accumulating that a vaccine to immunize against schistosomiasis may be feasible. Recently scientists at The Salk Institute who conducted an informal review of the problem concluded that a vaccine was the most promising approach.

In the last few years researchers have moved much closer to an understanding of the infection and the immune response. In England, experimental systems have been developed that permit most of the life cycle of the worm to be carried out in vitro — that is, in test tubes in the laboratory, without animal hosts. Thus detailed analysis of the worms can be made, even at the cellular and molecular levels. Elsewhere, vaccination experiments with cattle have already been started.

If the nature of the immunity and of the adult worms' defenses can be determined, the elements of a vaccine will be at hand.

(From The Salt Institute, San Diego)

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.
Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.
Carbon monoxide, clean air.
Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Theologians Agree Satan Does Exist

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano devoted two of its eight pages Sunday to a subject the Vatican rarely discusses at length — the devil.

Seven theologians agreed Satan exists.

Their findings supported a speech Pope Paul VI made last month which said the devil exists, the first time the 75-year-old pontiff had dedicated an entire speech to the subject.

The speech stirred criticism because the Pope used language which was all but discarded in the Roman Catholic church after the Vatican Ecumenical Council a decade ago.

The Pope and several of the authors in L'Osservatore Romano said belief in Satan is an essential part of Christian faith.

Martha Hoffman At Divorce Unit

Martha Hoffman, a former Marin County social worker who will staff a new "do-it-yourself" divorce center in San Rafael, was incorrectly identified as Martha Thompson in Friday's Independent-Journal.

The office, at 1029 Fourth Street, is designed to assist couples who agree to an uncontested dissolution of their marriage and wish to save attorney's fees.

38 Children's Books On Display

George B. Duncan III of San Anselmo is displaying a collection of 38 children's books and three scrolls from other lands at the Marin County Library at the Civic Center.

The collection, which will be exhibited through the end of December, may be viewed during library hours, 8 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Duncan was chairman of the modern languages department at the College of Marin when he retired in 1970 after 24 years of teaching.

Hearing Set On Improvement District

The North Marin County Water District will hold a public hearing on the proposed Olema Improvement District at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the West Marin School, Point Reyes Station.

Directors also will consider an interim policy on environmental impact reports.

Celler Is Honored By B'Nai B'rith

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., leaving Congress after nearly 50 years in office, has been awarded the B'nai B'rith's "President's Medal."

During a luncheon Sunday given in his honor by the Jewish service organization, a "Dear Mannie" letter from President Nixon was read in which Nixon told Celler "your half-century of service to this country has earned you the profound gratitude of every fellow citizen." Celler was defeated last spring in a primary election.

'Eurocrats' End Strike Over Pay

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The 10,000 civil servants who run the European Common Market ended a one-week strike over both pay and principle today but the basic issues were still unresolved.

The strike ended just in time for three simultaneous meetings of the nine foreign, agriculture and transport ministers of the enlarged market to wrap up details before the community's expansion Jan. 1.

The "Eurocrats," as the civil servants are called, stayed home last week to protest the method used in calculating their pay raises. They said the member governments agreed earlier this year to a formula fixing raises, then broke that agreement by departing from the formula to calculate pay scales for next year.

The difference between the governments' offer and the Eurocrats' demands came to only about $1 million. But the strikers said the offer failed to take enough notice of inflation.

BEST SHOWS FOR TONIGHT

Are there people today who care about their fellow-men?

Read the I-J's four part series on modern Good Samaritans, starting Tuesday.

All around the world there are people who see a need and do something about it. They're ordinary people, but they show an extraordinary interest in others who need help. They're people who take time to care. Read this special holiday feature in the I-J.

KEEP YOUR COOL!

Cool eye, cool hand... cool holiday weekend

If you're on the highway this weekend, play it cool. Don't race your motor or the next guy. Don't let your car run away with your judgment. Keep a cool head, use a light foot, and keep the needle down. This is mature driving which not only saves tension and wear and tear—it can save your life. Lot better than driving home in an ambulance!

LISA JO MORRISON
Wins contest

ELLIOTT MARSHALL
Elks Lodge award

Leadership Winners Named By Elks Lodge

Lisa Jo Morrison, a senior at Marin Catholic High School in Kentfield, and Eliott Owen Marshall, a senior at Redwood High School in Larkspur, have been named winners of the San Rafael Elks Lodge's annual leadership contest for Marin high school students.

Each winner received a $100 award.

Miss Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morrison of 43 Kinross Drive, San Rafael, has been editor of her school's newspaper, vice president of her class and the student body and the recipient of several special school awards.

She has also been a Girl Scout member and leader and a member of the Young Men's Christian Association board of managers.

Young Marshall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Griffith O. Marshall of 190 Stewart Drive, Tiburon.

He has held both class and student body offices and has served as student representative on the faculty social studies class.

He also has been involved in school dramatics, public speaking and sports, winning letters in swimming and track. He is an Eagle Scout and serves as a church acolyte. He recently was elected president of a teenage Republican club.

Second places in the contest went to Candace Lynn Matson of Novato High School and Todd Evan Gulick of Terra Linda High School.

Diane Bessee of San Rafael High School and Janice Lynn Fuhrman of Novato High School tied for third place in the girls' contest, and William Lewis Larkins of Marin Catholic won the boys' third place.

The students were judged for such qualities as leadership, perseverence, resourcefulness and sense of honor.

King Hussein Of Jordan Marries A TV Announcer

JERUSALEM (UPI) —King Hussein of Jordan has left his second wife, Princess Muna, to marry an announcer on Jordanian television, the Arabic newspaper al Anba said today.

Quoting visitors arriving from Amman, the Isael governmentsupported newspaper said Hussein had wed Souha Toukan a week ago.

She is a descendant of a prominent family in Bablus on the Israeli-occupied West Bank of Jordan.

Al Anba said Hussein has not divorced Muna, who bore him two sons, because Moslem law provides that he can have four wives.

The newspaper said Muna, the daughter of a former British army officer, was planning to marry "a well-known American diplomat." She is living in London with her two sons.

Rooms Of Chinese Visitor Are Looted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A suitcase of clothing and Chinese artifacts were stolen during the weekend from the hotel room of Peng Ti, 55, a correspondent from China's Hsinhua News Agency.

Stolen from an adjoining room on the 18th floor of the Fairmont Hotel Saturday night was $500 worth of jewelry belonging to the wife of Peng Ti's American host, Associated Press general manager Wes Gallagher. Investigators said the same thief apparently broke into both rooms.

'Eurocrats' End Strike Over Pay

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The 10,000 civil servants who run the European Common Market ended a one-week strike over both pay and principle today but the basic issues were still unresolved.

The strike ended just in time for three simultaneous meetings of the nine foreign, agriculture and transport ministers of the enlarged market to wrap up details before the community's expansion Jan. 1.

The "Eurocrats," as the civil servants are called, stayed home last week to protest the method used in calculating their pay raises. They said the member governments agreed earlier this year to a formula fixing raises, then broke that agreement by departing from the formula to calculate pay scales for next year.

The difference between the governments' offer and the Eurocrats' demands came to only about $1 million. But the strikers said the offer failed to take enough notice of inflation.

Are there people today who care about their fellow-men?

Read the I-J's four part series on modern Good Samaritans, starting Tuesday.

All around the world there are people who see a need and do something about it. They're ordinary people, but they show an extraordinary interest in others who need help. They're people who take time to care. Read this special holiday feature in the I-J.

Confident 49ers Face Dallas In Pro Grid Playoffs

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — Only the San Francisco 49ers' won-lost record stamps them as the team least likely to succeed in the National Football League playoffs.

They have the most important thing going for them, confidence, after Saturday's 20-17 victory over Minnesota which gave them a third straight National Football Conference West championship.

They also have a rejuvenated superstar in John Brodie. He came off the bench to win the game with two late touchdown passes and probably will be the starting quarterback in Saturday's playoff opener here against Dallas.

"If you're going all the way, you have to win some hectic games like this," said young Steve Spurrier, who started at quarterback Saturday but wound up on the sidelines cheering Brodie.

The 37-year old veteran took the 49ers on scoring drives of 99 and 66 yards in the final quarter after the Vikings had built a 7-6 lead on two Fran Tarkenton touchdown passes and a Fred Cox field goal. Brodie completed 10 of 15 passes for 165 yards.

The winning touchdown came with 25 seconds to play. Brodie threw a 2-yard pass to reserve tight end Dick Witcher, another forgotten man on the roster.

"A lot of teams would have said it's all over. But this team has never ever backed off anybody at anytime in the five years I've been here," coach Dick Nolan said.

For the third straight year the 49ers went down to their final regular season game before clinching the NFC West. Their 8-5-1 record is the worst in the eight-team playoff field.

The Dallas Cowboys, defending Super Bowl champions, whipped the 49ers in the NFC title game the last two seasons. But in a regular season game this year the 49ers handled them rather easily, 31-10, at Texas Stadium.

Spurrier was at quarterback in the victory over Dallas, with Brodie still recovering from an ankle injury. The veteran returned to uniform three weeks ago, but stayed on the bench.

"The fun is in playing," Brodie said after his first game action since Oct. 15. "My arm felt as good as it ever did."

The 49ers go into the playoffs without strong safety Mel Phillip, who broke a shoulder Saturday. Rookie Windlan Hall will start in his place.

Meanwhile, in the visiting dressing room, Viking coach Bud Grant angrily defended his decision to go for a tying field goal with five seconds remaining. Grant chose not to have his quarterback Fran Tarkenton try a desperation pass in pulling out a victory.

Fred Cox missed the 43-yard attempt but even if he had made it the 49ers would have won the NFC West with a tie.

Falcons and Rams followers were hoping for a Viking victory so that their clubs might have a chance to win the NFC West Sunday. Understandably, they figured Grant Tarkenton to go for a touchdown pass on that last play, which saw the Vikings at the San Francisco 36.

"To hell with them," Grant shouted in no uncertain terms when reporters asked him about the field goal try. "I care only about us. A tie would have given us a winning season (7-6-1) instead of a break-even (7-7) year. I'd do it again (try for the tie) every time. In this business, we do the best we can for ourselves. It's not our business to knock anyone out of the running. We have to think about our own club first and chances of getting a touchdown pass in that situation were as slim ay they could be.

"Cox hit from 43 yards earlier and he has been consistent all year from that distance. I wanted a tie and a winning year."

A Happy Scene In 49er Dressing Room

The 49ers had just won their third straight division title in a dramatic comeback victory spearheaded by John Brodie and the reporters were swarming around the returning hero who was there when the 49ers needed him most.

Brodie, relegated to second string status by the winning ways of Steve Spurrier, had been called upon Saturday to bring the Niners back, to put a stop to the certain loss which was staring the team in the eyes late in the third quarter.

And Brodie did it, 20-17 over the Minnesota Vikings. Although coughing up two interceptions, Brodie oiled up that rusty arm which hadn't seen game action since Oct. 15 and led the team to fourth quarter touchdown drives of 99 and 66 yards. He had thrown a 24-yard touchdown pass to Gene Washington and a two-yard payoff pitch to Dick Witcher for the winner with just 25 seconds left.

SO NATURALLY the press swarmed around Brodie in the jubilant 49er dressing room after the game.

On the other side of the room, dressing in silence, was Elmer Collett, former Tamalpais High and College of Marin player who now is a special teams member for the 49ers. He had just come an eyelash away from being the "goat" of the game. It would have been a shame, because Elmer is the kind of guy who puts out 110 per cent all the time.

But with the 49ers trailing 17-13 and needing the ball back, an unfortunate thing happened to Collett. He was called for holding when Minnesota's Mike Eischeid punted the ball to the 49ers, and that meant an automatic first down for Minnesota which maintained possession with about five minutes left. If the Vikings had been able to sustain a drive the 49ers might not get the ball back.

But fortunately, the 49er defense stiffened and Eischeid again was forced to punt. This time there was no holding, but instead a personal foul against Minnesota's John Ward gave the 49ers a first down on their own 34-yard line. Then came the 66-yard drive and touchdown pass to Witcher.

"If I was holding then I am holding on every play," said Collett in obvious disagreement with the official's call. Elmer's head was still throbbing from a blow he suffered in the second quarter, which forced him to the sidelines for the rest of the first half. He didn't remember too much about that blow. "The whole thing was a blank to me. I remember coming in at halftime, but before that everything was a blank."

But he was remembering vividly that holding call which perhaps made him the only man in the dressing room who was not smiling. "But we won the game," he said. "That's what counts."

HEAD COACH Dick Nolan isn't announcing who will be starting quarterback for the playoff game Saturday against the Cowboys at Candlestick, but I will be completely shocked if he doesn't start Brodie.

When Brodie entered Saturday's game against Minnesota, it seemed to inspire the whole team. They realized he had the passing ability to pull out the game. His very first pass was to Gene Washington at the sidelines, an area in which Spurrier cannot safely throw because his passes don't have the zing needed for that type of pass. But that's the kind needed when you are racing a clock.

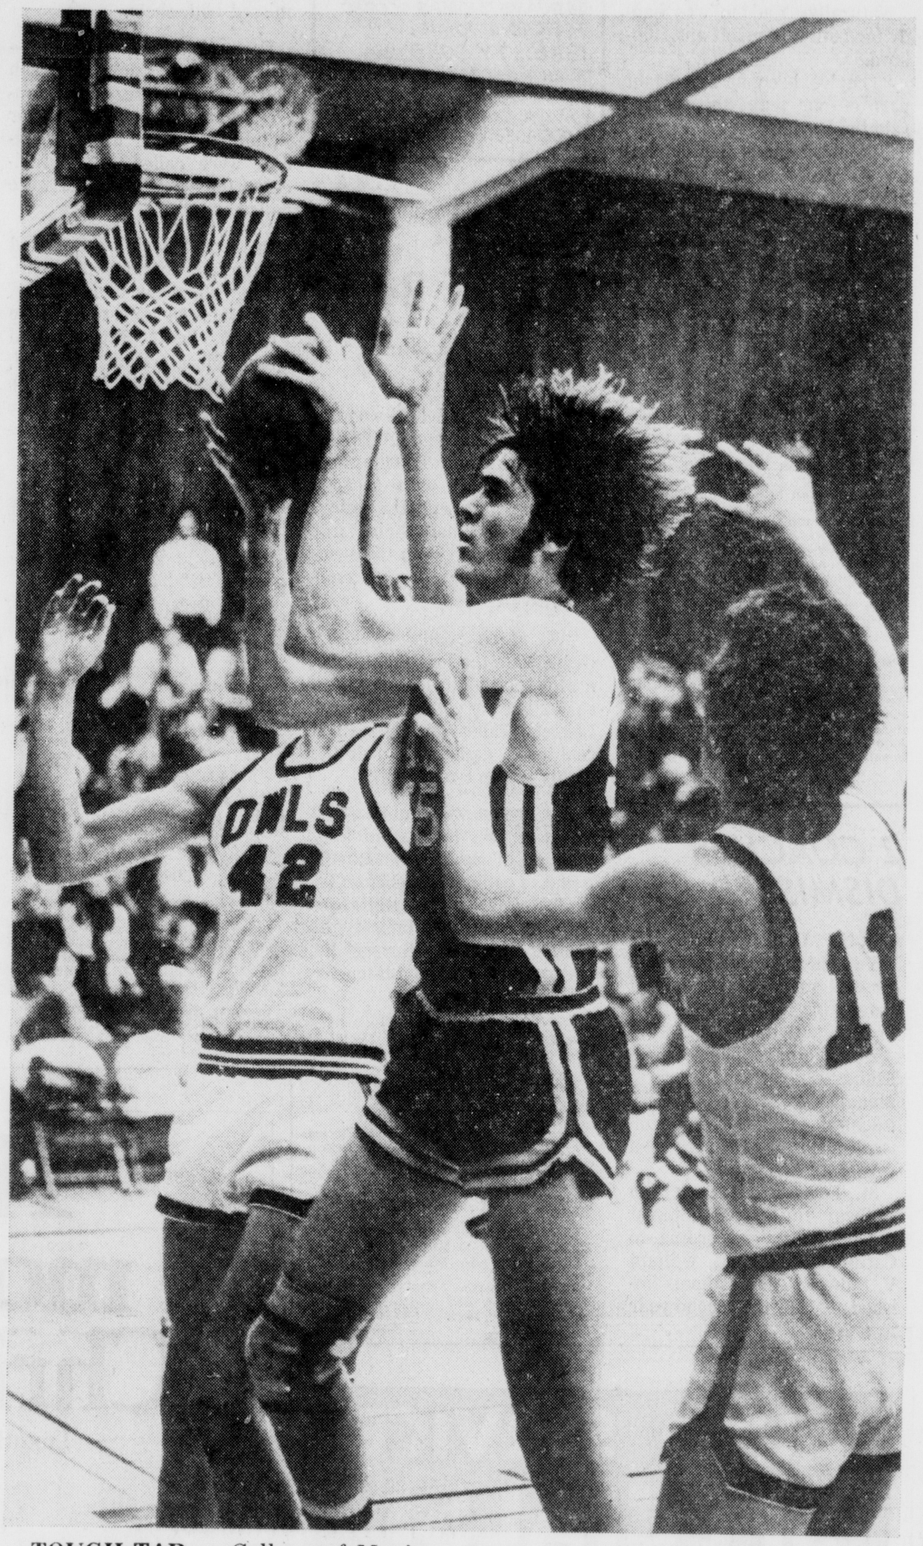
Spurrier did a fine job in taking Brodie's place while John was sidelined with a broken ankle. But when you have to choose between the two to find the best passer, you have to go with Brodie.

TOMMY HART, defensive end for the 49ers who was named winner of the Len Eshmont Award by his teammates the night before that Viking game, perhaps said it best after the game:

"Brodie was just great, but Spurrier had really carried us these last few games. We're just fortunate to have two guys like Spurrier and Brodie on this team."

Brodie was mobbed by the fans after the game and carried off the field on their shoulders. "I couldn't be any happier than I am today," he laughed. "I can't remember when I last came off the bench to win a game, but then I guess I haven't spent much time there."

Witcher has been described as a player who always comes up with the big catch and the one Saturday was his biggest. He had only caught two others all season. "John had the option to run or pass on that play and there is only one receiver out there — that's me."



TOUGH TAR — College of Marin center Neil Traub (55) grabbed a rebound Saturday night between two Foothill College of Los Altos defenders, Bob Ross (42) and Mike Roman (11). The Tars topped Foothill, 69-49, in Kentfield to capture the College of Marin Invitational basketball tournament title.

Tars' Defense Nets Cage Tourney Title

Foothill Throttled By Marin

By LEW CODDINGTON

There is an unorthodox course in spelling taught at College of Marin. Only basketball players take it, and they learn that "championship" is spelled with a capital "D."

The "D" stands for defense (pronounced DEE-fense), which the Tars showed consistently and well Saturday night while defeating Foothill College of Los Altos, 69-49, to win the College of Marin Invitational basketball tournament in Kentfield.

It marked the fourth time in seven years the Tars have captured their own tournament, and the first since 1970, as Reedley College took the title last year. This year the best Reedley could do was third place, achieved with an 87-69 victory over Ohlone of Fremont, while Santa Rosa won the consolation championship with a 79-65 triumph over Solano of Suisun City.

"We played awfully well on defense. This is what we have to do to win," said Marin coach John Panagakis, whose team won for the ninth time in 10 tries this year.

Marin opened up a 27-10 lead on Foothill (6-3) after the first 15 minutes, holding the Owls to just three field goals during that stretch. Then the Tars lapsed briefly, allowing Foothill to cut the gap to 27-20 at the half, but they reasserted themselves after intermission for a 38-22 lead, and the game never was close again.

"Any time we ran the offense and were patient, we scored," said Panagakis. "Any time we got lax, like at the end of the first half, we got blown out."

Forward Wil Garner led Marin's scoring with 21 points, including a dunk shot in the second half after which he hung on the rim, drawing a technical foul but eliciting a roar from the approximately 800 fans.

Center Neil Traub scored 13, guards Joe DeMaestri and Len Smith 10 each and forward Joe

Drake Beats Host Newman Five In Rose Tournament

By PAUL DWORIN

SANTA ROSA — With nothing much more than pride at stake, Drake High School responded with a 76-57 victory over host Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa to take third place in the Rose City Invitational Basketball Tournament which concluded Saturday. Hayward beat Montgomery of Santa Rosa, 39-31, for the championship.

In other Rose tournament games, Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park scored a last second 44-42 victory over Petaluma for the consolation title, and Marin Catholic dropped a 49-41 game to St. Patrick's of Vallejo to finish in eighth place.

"It's nice to know they have enough pride in themselves to come back and win after a touch loss (to Hayward, 6965)," Drake coach Pete Hayward commented. "The thing that pleased me the most is that the kids came out and hustled."

The Pirates hustled from the opening tip, and ran up a 10-2 lead in the first three minutes. After that, the only question remaining was how much Drake would win by.

Actually the score is no indication of the Pirates' complete dominance, for Hayward took out his starting five in the third quarter when they had built up a 59-33 lead.

The second unit performed well, playing the Cardinals even for a quarter until Hayward cleared his bench, after which Cardinal Newman cut into the lead.

John Channell, who led the Pirates in scoring for the tournament with 49 points, was selected for the all-tournament team along with teammate Eddie Chavez, who scored 38 points in three games.

Raiders To Start Second Season Versus Pittsburgh

Oakland In Playoffs Saturday

OAKLAND (UPI) —The first season is over and the second one begins today for the Oakland Raiders, who meet the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday in the opening round of the American Football Conference playoffs.

The Raiders, pro football's most successful team over the last 10 years, defeated the Chicago Bears, 28-21, Sunday to finish the regular season with a 10-3-1 record.

It was not an easy victory. But for the most part of the second half, Raiders coach John Madden went with his reserves.

Abe Gibron, the Bears coach, called the Raiders the team with the best personnel in the National Football League although he declined to pick a winner for Saturday's game with the Steelers.

"It will be a contest, I'll say that much," Gibron said. "The Raiders have many fine personnel, the best I think in the NFL, and they can hurt you with their depth. They showed me a lot in this game."

Daryle Lamonica played only the first half in the victory over Chicago and Ken Stabler, his backup, came on to complete 10 of 11 passes for 124 yards and a touchdown.

"That's what I mean," Gibron said, pointing to Stabler. "He's a fine young backup man and really there is no drop-off when he takes over."

Lamonica completed a 10-yardscoring pass to Charlie Smith on a 19-yard toss. Pete Banaszak ran one yard at the end of a 77-yard drive for a third score and Clarence Davis busted 46 yards for the final Raider tally. The Bears, who finished at 4-91, scored on a 94-yard kickoff return by Ron Smith to open the game, on a blocked punt in the end zone which Ross Brupbacher fell on and on a one-yard smash by Don Shy.

Madden will have the Raiders out this afternoon for the first practice leading up to Saturday's game.

"We don't have much time to get ready," Madden said, "but we know what we have to do."

By that Madden meant the Raiders will have to play mistake-free football to beat the Steelers, AFC Central champs who nailed down their first title over Sunday by beating San Diego. The Steelers whipped the Raiders, 34-28, in the opening game of the season, taking advantage of a flock of Oakland mistakes for a big early lead.

Sunday's Chicago game produced a few individual highlights.

The biggest one of all was the running of quarterback Bobby Douglass. He picked up 127 yards in 14 carries for a season total of 968. Gibron said he didn't know Douglass was close to the 1,000 mark or he would have had him running more late in the game.

Ron Smith won the NFC kickoff return title when he ran four times for 172 yards and a 918 total for the year, while Fred Biletnikoff of Oakland grabbed

LISA JO MORRISON
Wins contest

ELLIOTT MARSHALL
Elks Lodge award

Leadership Winners Named By Elks Lodge

Lisa Jo Morrison, a senior at Marin Catholic High School in Kentfield, and Eliott Owen Marshall, a senior at Redwood High School in Larkspur, have been named winners of the San Rafael Elks Lodge's annual leadership contest for Marin high school students.

Each winner received a $100 award.

Miss Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morrison of 43 Kinross Drive, San Rafael, has been editor of her school's newspaper, vice president of her class and the student body and the recipient of several special school awards.

She has also been a Girl Scout member and leader and a member of the Young Men's Christian Association board of managers.

Young Marshall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Griffith O. Marshall of 190 Stewart Drive, Tiburon.

He has held both class and student body offices and has served as student representative on the faculty social studies class.

He also has been involved in school dramatics, public speaking and sports, winning letters in swimming and track. He is an Eagle Scout and serves as a church acolyte. He recently was elected president of a teenage Republican club.

Second places in the contest went to Candace Lynn Matson of Novato High School and Todd Evan Gulick of Terra Linda High School.

Diane Bessee of San Rafael High School and Janice Lynn Fuhrman of Novato High School tied for third place in the girls' contest, and William Lewis Larkins of Marin Catholic won the boys' third place.

The students were judged for such qualities as leadership, perseverence, resourcefulness and sense of honor.

King Hussein Of Jordan Marries A TV Announcer

JERUSALEM (UPI) —King Hussein of Jordan has left his second wife, Princess Muna, to marry an announcer on Jordanian television, the Arabic newspaper al Anba said today.

Quoting visitors arriving from Amman, the Isael governmentsupported newspaper said Hussein had wed Souha Toukan a week ago.

She is a descendant of a prominent family in Bablus on the Israeli-occupied West Bank of Jordan.

Al Anba said Hussein has not divorced Muna, who bore him two sons, because Moslem law provides that he can have four wives.

The newspaper said Muna, the daughter of a former British army officer, was planning to marry "a well-known American diplomat." She is living in London with her two sons.

Rooms Of Chinese Visitor Are Looted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A suitcase of clothing and Chinese artifacts were stolen during the weekend from the hotel room of Peng Ti, 55, a correspondent from China's Hsinhua News Agency.

Stolen from an adjoining room on the 18th floor of the Fairmont Hotel Saturday night was $500 worth of jewelry belonging to the wife of Peng Ti's American host, Associated Press general manager Wes Gallagher. Investigators said the same thief apparently broke into both rooms.

Rooney, Steelers Get 1st Crown; Miami Unbeaten

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Art Rooney has seen a lot in the last 40 years but even at age 71 he still had time for a first on Sunday.

The first was the initial title for his Pittsburgh Steelers after 40 years of National Football League competition and the cigar-chomping owner took it all in stride.

"It's just my nature," said Rooney after watching the Steelers capture the American Football Conference Central Division title with a convincing 24-2 rout of the San Diego Chargers. "I never show my enthusiasm. I'd say this is the high point in my 40 years with the team."

The Steelers entered with a one-game lead over Cleveland but found their title chances in jeopardy when the Browns beat the New York Jets. A loss by Pittsburgh would have given it a 10-4 record, the same as Cleveland, but the Browns would have been awarded the Central title on the basis of best record within the conference.

But the Steelers left no doubt that this would be a year to remember for Rooney as they forced San Diego into seven turnovers and converted four of them into scores. Pittsburgh's menacing defense, which hasn't allowed a touchdown in the last three games, completely bottled up John Hadl and the San Diego offense and left the Chargers in last place in the AFC West as the season ended.

The Steelers needed little more than three minutes to take the lead when safety Ralph Anderson intercepted a Hadl pass and returned it to the San Diego 11 and Franco Harris then plunged over from the two. The Chargers' only score came when Dave Costa tackled quarterback Terry Bradshaw in the end zone for a safety but it was all Pittsburgh after that.

Larry Brown recovered a fumbled punt on the Charger 34 and Bradshaw's 28-yard screen pass to John Fuqua set up a short TD plunge by Fuqua. Jack Ham's interception set up Roy Gerela's 26-yard field goal and Mel Blount's interception helped set up Bradshaw's 17yard TD pass to Ron Shanklin.

The Steelers open the AFC playoffs at home Saturday against Oakland while Cleveland, the wild card or best runnerup team, is at Miami against the unbeaten Dolphins Sunday. In the NFC, wild card winner Dallas is at San Francisco Saturday and Green Bay tangles with Washington Sunday.

In other action of the final day of regular season NFL action, Cincinnati bombarded Houston 61-17, the New York Giants upended Dallas 23-3, Oakland downed Chicago 28-21, Green Bay dumped New Orleans 30-20, Buffalo upset Washington 24-17, Kansas City trimmed Atlanta 17-14, St. Louis edged Philadelphia 24-23, Denver clubbed New England 45-21 and Detroit trounced Los Angeles 34-17.

On Saturday, the Miami Dolphins became the first NFL team ever to go unbeaten in a 14-game schedule by beating Baltimore 16-0 and San Francisco took the NFC West title with a 20-17 comeback victory over Minnesota.

Mike Phipps threw TD passes of 80 and eight yards to Frank Pitts in the second half to lead Cleveland over the Jets, who played without Joe Namath. The 80-yard TD pass, which broke a 10-10 tie in the third quarter, was Cleveland's longest play from scrimmage this season.

Doug Dressler, a former College of Marin star, barrelled for three touchdowns and cornerback Lemar Parrish returned two pass interceptions for scores in the Bengals' rout of Houston. Dressler scored on runs of 43, one and 20 yards and Parrish scored on interception returns of 25 and 33 yards as Cincinnati broke a club scoring record.

DRESSLER SCORES 3 TOUCHDOWNS

Former College of Marin star Doug Dressler raced for three Cincinnati touchdowns yesterday to lead the Bengals to a crushing 61-17 victory over the Houston Oilers.

The bullish fullback ran 43 yards for one touchdown, ran one yard for another, and caught a 20-yard scoring pass from quarterback Ken Anderson to help turn the game into a rout. Cincinatti led 19-10 when Dressler started his spree, and 40-10 when he finished.

Dressler, who played tackle at Marin in 1966 and 67, led the Bengals' rushing attack with 83 yards in eight carries. He also caught five passes for 69 yards.

Jan. 6, will be another big day for Dressler. That day, he will be married to Laurie Ann Graumann of Orinda.

Angry Saints' End Parks Quits In Row

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Veteran New Orleans Saints tight end Dave Parks says he is quitting the team after five years of turbulent relations with coaches and administrators.

Parks, who has been the center of controversy since joining the Saints in 1968, made the announcement after Sunday's season finale—a lackluster 30-20 loss to the Green Bay Packers.

"I was going to announce my retirement from professional football today," Parks, a San Francisco 49er receiver in 1964-67, told a news conference following the game. "But after considering the reasons why, I've decided not to close the door completely on the possibility of playing somewhere."

The reasons why are many and varied, Parks said. He has had poor relations with former head Coach Tom Fears, and when J.D. Roberts took over the reins in the middle of the 1970 season, things seemed to get worse instead of better.

There was a rift between some players and coaches on the Saints team which deteriorated as the season went along, and Parks was right in the center of the problem, most of which centered around Roberts' coaching methods.

Many of the players, including Parks, wide receiver Danny Abramowicz and reserve quarterback Edd Hargett, did not care for the strict regimentation Roberts imposed.

"If a club wants to trade for me, it would be to their advantage to talk to me first," said Parks. "There are a few clubs that I would play for, but I will retire before playing under another situation like this one."

five passes to win the AFC reception championship with 58 and 802 yards.

Marv Hubbard picked up 41 yards in 10 carries to finish the year with 1,100 yards, one more than the Oakland club record set by Clem Daniels in 1963, while linebacker Dick Butkus of Chhicago recovered the 24th fumble of his career for an alltime NFL mark.

And George Blanda played long enough to become the second oldest player in NFL history at 45 years and three months. Only John Nesser of the 1921 Columbus, Ohio, Panhandles played later. He was 46.

Naturally, Madden was happy for both Biletnikoff and Hubbard.

"They've been an important part of our team this year," said the Raider coach.

Biletnikoff made five catches for 43 yards to win his title after learning before the game that he needed that many to beat out Otis Taylor of Kansas City and Chip Myers of Cincinnati.

Now, it's back to the drawing board for the Raiders by way of getting ready for the Steelers, while the Bears go home to think about next year.

2 COACHES DISMISSED

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Two head coaches and a general manager were fired today in National Football League activities.

Philadelphia head coach Eddie Khayat and general manager Pete Retzlaff were released after the club finished last in the East Division with only two wins.

St. Louis fired coach Bob Hollway "in the best interest of the team," according to Cardinals president William V. Bidwell. The Cardinals finished 4-9-1 for the second year in a row.

Leggett Beaten By Tomales '5'

Tomales High School won the consolation title of the Middletown Basketball Tournament Saturday night with a 72-46 thrashing of Leggett Valley. The Braves lost their first game Friday night to the eventual tourney champs, Geyserville, 66-52.

"We were really tight for Geyserville the first night," Tomales coach James Clahan said, "but we calmed down for Leggett Valley and played a real good game. Too bad the nights weren't reversed."

The Braves went out to a first quarter 17-5 lead, and kept building it up throughout the game. Leading scorer for Tomales was Spirito Ballatore with 18 points. Ballatore, who scored 19 against Geyserville, was named to the all-tournament team.

CAGERS

Cotate-Petaluma game was a fitting one for a contest that had been dominated from the start by the officiating. With 45 second left, Rancho's Dwaine Young sank two free throws for an apparent 45-42 lead, but his second was disallowed because of a lane violation.

Then, with nine seconds left, Petaluma's Larry David crashed through the lane, knocking down two Cougars, and was awarded two free throws which he missed. During the scramble for the ball, Steve Steady was fouled and Petaluma was given a last second reprieve in the form of two more free throws, Steady missed both shots.

Four players fouled out — Marshall Brant, John Sorenson and Scott Wlodarczyk for Rancho Cotate, and Kirk Smartt for Petaluma — and three technicals were called, which indicates that a lot of fouls were called.

Brant and David were named to the All-Tournament team, joining Channell and Chavez, Ray Jackson (Most Valuable Player), Scott Paulsen and Greg Volasgis from Hayward, Tom Buzzard and Ken Guido from Montgomery and Mike Lininger from Cardinal Newman.

Defense Lifts Tars To Victory

Casteel 9. Garner was named to the all-tournament team and Casteel was chosen the tourney's most valuable player. He scored only 32 points in three games but played fine defense and rebounded well, leading the Tars with eight Saturday.

Smith did not make the all-tourney team despite an outstanding three-game set on defense. "It's a typical example of a kid who plays good 'D' but he's unsung," said Panagakis.

Smith took on three all-tournament players — Rich Bakker of Napa, Chuck Pierce of Ohlone and K. C. Jackson of Foothill — and held them to 17, 12 and 14 respectively. Against other defenders, this trio averaged 25 points a game.

"DeMaestri also played great defense," said Tar assistant coach Jim Webster. "This No. 21 (Scott McLean) averaged 21 in his other two games, but got four off Joe."

Indeed, Foothill scored 91 and 83 in its other two victories. But the Tars held them to 34 per cent (21 of 61) from the floor, allowed them only seven free throws, and outrebounded them, 34-31.

Reedley (4-5) had no particular trouble with Ohlone (6-3) in the third-place game, expanding a six-point halftime lead to an 18-point victory. The victors shot 59 per cent from the floor (33 of 56) and had five men in double figures, led by Ben McDonald with 23 and all-tournament selection Earl Chapman with 17. Without Smith to bother him, Pierce netted 27 for Ohlone.

Likewise, Santa Rosa (6-3) handled Solano easily, building up a 12-point halftime lead and coasting to a 14-point win. David Long scored 25 and Gary Bartholomew dropped in 19 for the winners, who shot 52 per cent (29 of 56). Kelly McWilliams tallied 16 and Jim Hicks 12 for Solano (4-5), while former San Rafael High School star Donnie Canfield netted 8 for the third consecutive night.

Confident 49ers Face Dallas In Pro Grid Playoffs

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — Only the San Francisco 49ers' won-lost record stamps them as the team least likely to succeed in the National Football League playoffs.

They have the most important thing going for them, confidence, after Saturday's 20-17 victory over Minnesota which gave them a third straight National Football Conference West championship.

They also have a rejuvenated superstar in John Brodie. He came off the bench to win the game with two late touchdown passes and probably will be the starting quarterback in Saturday's playoff opener here against Dallas.

"If you're going all the way, you have to win some hectic games like this," said young Steve Spurrier, who started at quarterback Saturday but wound up on the sidelines cheering Brodie.

The 37-year old veteran took the 49ers on scoring drives of 99 and 66 yards in the final quarter after the Vikings had built a 7-6 lead on two Fran Tarkenton touchdown passes and a Fred Cox field goal. Brodie completed 10 of 15 passes for 165 yards.

The winning touchdown came with 25 seconds to play. Brodie threw a 2-yard pass to reserve tight end Dick Witcher, another forgotten man on the roster.

"A lot of teams would have said it's all over. But this team has never ever backed off anybody at anytime in the five years I've been here," coach Dick Nolan said.

For the third straight year the 49ers went down to their final regular season game before clinching the NFC West. Their 8-5-1 record is the worst in the eight-team playoff field.

The Dallas Cowboys, defending Super Bowl champions, whipped the 49ers in the NFC title game the last two seasons. But in a regular season game this year the 49ers handled them rather easily, 31-10, at Texas Stadium.

Spurrier was at quarterback in the victory over Dallas, with Brodie still recovering from an ankle injury. The veteran returned to uniform three weeks ago, but stayed on the bench.

"The fun is in playing," Brodie said after his first game action since Oct. 15. "My arm felt as good as it ever did."

The 49ers go into the playoffs without strong safety Mel Phillip, who broke a shoulder Saturday. Rookie Windlan Hall will start in his place.

Meanwhile, in the visiting dressing room, Viking coach Bud Grant angrily defended his decision to go for a tying field goal with five seconds remaining. Grant chose not to have his quarterback Fran Tarkenton try a desperation pass in pulling out a victory.

Fred Cox missed the 43-yard attempt but even if he had made it the 49ers would have won the NFC West with a tie.

Falcons and Rams followers were hoping for a Viking victory so that their clubs might have a chance to win the NFC West Sunday. Understandably, they figured Grant Tarkenton to go for a touchdown pass on that last play, which saw the Vikings at the San Francisco 36.

"To hell with them," Grant shouted in no uncertain terms when reporters asked him about the field goal try. "I care only about us. A tie would have given us a winning season (7-6-1) instead of a break-even (7-7) year. I'd do it again (try for the tie) every time. In this business, we do the best we can for ourselves. It's not our business to knock anyone out of the running. We have to think about our own club first and chances of getting a touchdown pass in that situation were as slim ay they could be.

"Cox hit from 43 yards earlier and he has been consistent all year from that distance. I wanted a tie and a winning year."

A Happy Scene In 49er Dressing Room

The 49ers had just won their third straight division title in a dramatic comeback victory spearheaded by John Brodie and the reporters were swarming around the returning hero who was there when the 49ers needed him most.

Brodie, relegated to second string status by the winning ways of Steve Spurrier, had been called upon Saturday to bring the Niners back, to put a stop to the certain loss which was staring the team in the eyes late in the third quarter.

And Brodie did it, 20-17 over the Minnesota Vikings. Although coughing up two interceptions, Brodie oiled up that rusty arm which hadn't seen game action since Oct. 15 and led the team to fourth quarter touchdown drives of 99 and 66 yards. He had thrown a 24-yard touchdown pass to Gene Washington and a two-yard payoff pitch to Dick Witcher for the winner with just 25 seconds left.

On the other side of the room, dressing in silence, was Elmer Collett, former Tamalpais High and College of Marin player who now is a special teams member for the 49ers. He had just come an eyelash away from being the "goat" of the game. It would have been a shame, because Elmer is the kind of guy who puts out 110 per cent all the time.

But with the 49ers trailing 17-13 and needing the ball back, an unfortunate thing happened to Collett. He was called for holding when Minnesota's Mike Eischeid punted the ball to the 49ers, and that meant an automatic first down for Minnesota which maintained possession with about five minutes left. If the Vikings had been able to sustain a drive the 49ers might not get the ball back.

But fortunately, the 49er defense stiffened and Eischeid again was forced to punt. This time there was no holding, but instead a personal foul against Minnesota's John Ward gave the 49ers a first down on their own 34-yard line. Then came the 66-yard drive and touchdown pass to Witcher.

"If I was holding then I am holding on every play," said Collett in obvious disagreement with the official's call. Elmer's head was still throbbing from a blow he suffered in the second quarter, which forced him to the sidelines for the rest of the first half. He didn't remember too much about that blow. "The whole thing was a blank to me. I remember coming in at halftime, but before that everything was a blank."

But he was remembering vividly that holding call which perhaps made him the only man in the dressing room who was not smiling. "But we won the game," he said. "That's what counts."

HEAD COACH Dick Nolan isn't announcing who will be starting quarterback for the playoff game Saturday against the Cowboys at Candlestick, but I will be completely shocked if he doesn't start Brodie.

When Brodie entered Saturday's game against Minnesota, it seemed to inspire the whole team. They realized he had the passing ability to pull out the game. His very first pass was to Gene Washington at the sidelines, an area in which Spurrier cannot safely throw because his passes don't have the zing needed for that type of pass. But that's the kind needed when you are racing a clock.

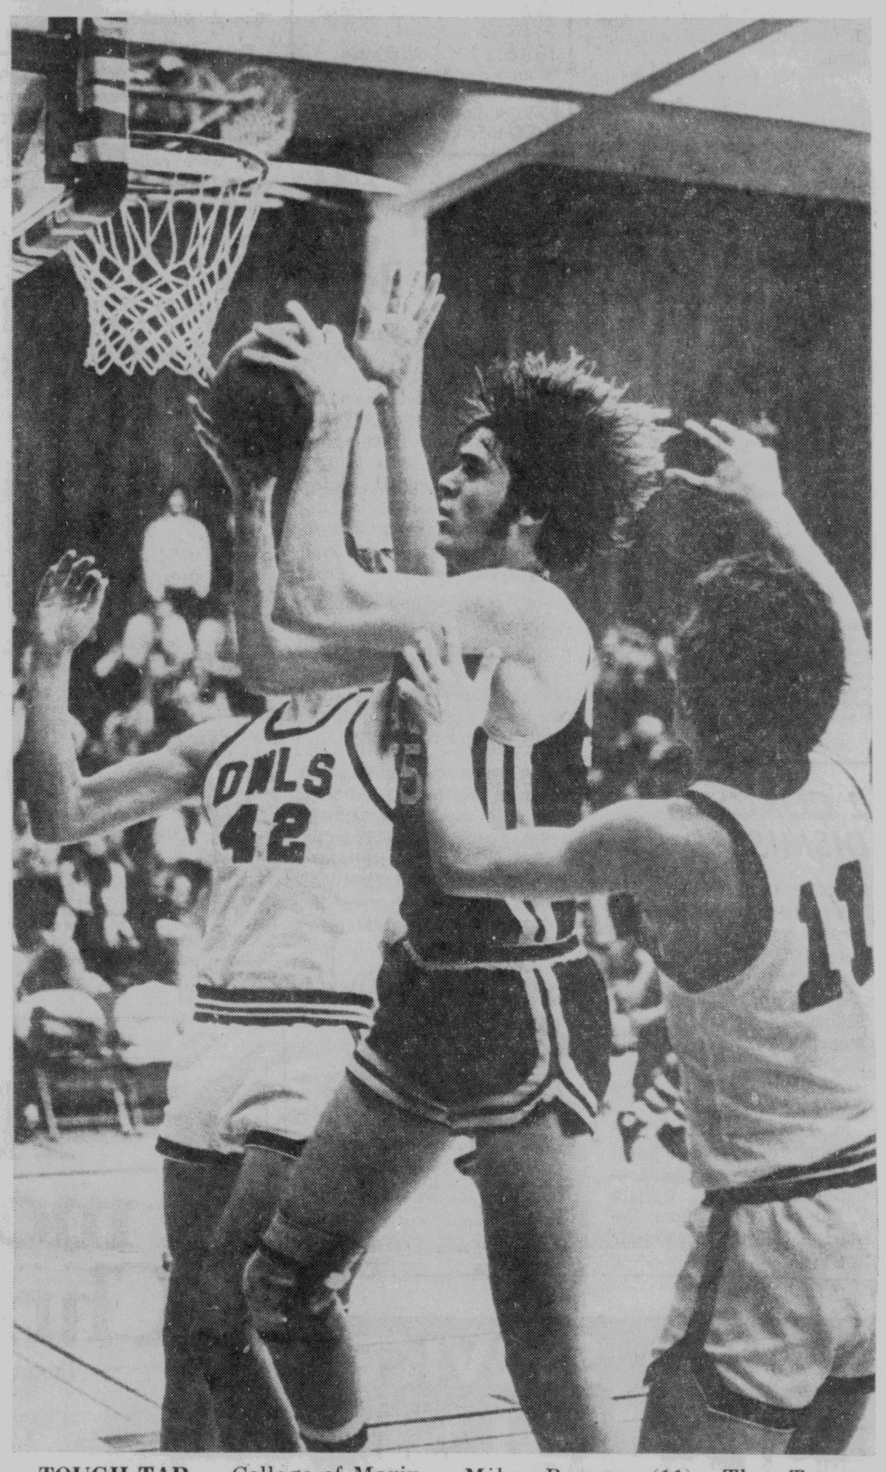
Spurrier did a fine job in taking Brodie's place while John was sidelined with a broken ankle. But when you have to choose between the two to find the best passer, you have to go with Brodie.

TOMMY HART, defensive end for the 49ers who was named winner of the Len Eshmont Award by his teammates the night before that Viking game, perhaps said it best after the game:

"Brodie was just great, but Spurrier had really carried us these last few games. We're just fortunate to have two guys like Spurrier and Brodie on this team."

Brodie was mobbed by the fans after the game and carried off the field on their shoulders. "I couldn't be any happier than I am today," he laughed. "I can't remember when I last came off the bench to win a game, but then I guess I haven't spent much time there."

Witcher has been described as a player who always comes up with the big catch and the one Saturday was his biggest. He had only caught two others all season. "John had the option to run or pass on that play and there is only one receiver out there — that's me."



TOUGH TAR — College of Marin center Neil Traub (55) grabbed a rebound Saturday night between two Foothill College of Los Altos defenders, Bob Ross (42) and Mike Roman (11). The Tars topped Foothill, 69-49, in Kentfield to capture the College of Marin Invitational basketball tournament title.

Tars' Defense Nets Cage Tourney Title

Foothill Throttled By Marin

By LEW CODDINGTON

There is an unorthodox course in spelling taught at College of Marin. Only basketball players take it, and they learn that "championship" is spelled with a capital "D."

The "D" stands for defense (pronounced DEE-fense), which the Tars showed consistently and well Saturday night while defeating Foothill College of Los Altos, 69-49, to win the College of Marin Invitational basketball tournament in Kentfield.

It marked the fourth time in seven years the Tars have captured their own tournament, and the first since 1970, as Reedley College took the title last year. This year the best Reedley could do was third place, achieved with an 87-69 victory over Ohlone of Fremont, while Santa Rosa won the consolation championship with a 79-65 triumph over Solano of Suisun City.

"We played awfully well on defense. This is what we have to do to win," said Marin coach John Panagakis, whose team won for the ninth time in 10 tries this year.

Marin opened up a 27-10 lead on Foothill (6-3) after the first 15 minutes, holding the Owls to just three field goals during that stretch. Then the Tars lapsed briefly, allowing Foothill to cut the gap to 27-20 at the half, but they reasserted themselves after intermission for a 38-22 lead, and the game never was close again.

"Any time we ran the offense and were patient, we scored," said Panagakis. "Any time we got lax, like at the end of the first half, we got blown out."

Forward Wil Garner led Marin's scoring with 21 points, including a dunk shot in the second half after which he hung on the rim, drawing a technical foul but eliciting a roar from the approximately 800 fans.

Center Neil Traub scored 13, guards Joe DeMaestri and Len Smith 10 each and forward Joe

By PAUL DWORIN

SANTA ROSA — With nothing much more than pride at stake, Drake High School responded with a 76-57 victory over host Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa to take third place in the Rose City Invitational Basketball Tournament which concluded Saturday. Hayward beat Montgomery of Santa Rosa, 39-31, for the championship.

In other Rose tournament games, Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park scored a last second 44-42 victory over Petaluma for the consolation title, and Marin Catholic dropped a 49-41 game to St. Patrick's of Vallejo to finish in eighth place.

"It's nice to know they have enough pride in themselves to come back and win after a touch loss (to Hayward, 6965)," Drake coach Pete Hayward commented. "The thing that pleased me the most is that the kids came out and hustled."

The Pirates hustled from the opening tip, and ran up a 10-2 lead in the first three minutes. After that, the only question remaining was how much Drake would win by.

Actually the score is no indication of the Pirates' complete dominance, for Hayward took out his starting five in the third quarter when they had built up a 59-33 lead.

The second unit performed well, playing the Cardinals even for a quarter until Hayward cleared his bench, after which Cardinal Newman cut into the lead.

John Channell, who led the Pirates in scoring for the tournament with 49 points, was selected for the all-tournament team along with teammate Eddie Chavez, who scored 38 points in three games.

Raiders To Start Second Season Versus Pittsburgh

Oakland In Playoffs Saturday

OAKLAND (UPI) —The first season is over and the second one begins today for the Oakland Raiders, who meet the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday in the opening round of the American Football Conference playoffs.

The Raiders, pro football's most successful team over the last 10 years, defeated the Chicago Bears, 28-21, Sunday to finish the regular season with a 10-3-1 record.

It was not an easy victory. But for the most part of the second half, Raiders coach John Madden went with his reserves.

Abe Gibron, the Bears coach, called the Raiders the team with the best personnel in the National Football League although he declined to pick a winner for Saturday's game with the Steelers.

"It will be a contest, I'll say that much," Gibron said. "The Raiders have many fine personnel, the best I think in the NFL, and they can hurt you with their depth. They showed me a lot in this game."

Daryle Lamonica played only the first half in the victory over Chicago and Ken Stabler, his backup, came on to complete 10 of 11 passes for 124 yards and a touchdown.

"That's what I mean," Gibron said, pointing to Stabler. "He's a fine young backup man and really there is no drop-off when he takes over."

SATURDAY, SUNDAY PRO GRID PLAYOFFS

Saturday

10 a.m. — Oakland (10-3-1, AFC West champion) at Pittsburgh (11-3, AFC Central Champion). Channels 3, 4, 8.

1 p.m. — Dallas (10-4, NFC wild card) at San Francisco (8-5-1, NFC West champion). No local TV.

Sunday

9 a.m. — Green Bay (10-4, NFC Central champion at Washington (11-3, NFC East champion). Channels 5, 10.

Noon — Cleveland (10-4, AFC wild card) at Miami, (14-0, AFC East champion). Channels 3, 4, 8.

Lamonica completed a 10-yardscoring pass to Charlie Smith on a 19-yard toss. Pete Banaszak ran one yard at the end of a 77-yard drive for a third score and Clarence Davis' busted 46 yards for the final Raider tally. The Bears, who finished at 4-91, scored on a 94-yard kickoff return by Ron Smith to open the game, on a blocked punt in the end zone which Ross Brupbacher fell on and on a one-yard smash by Don Shy.

Madden will have the Raiders out this afternoon for the first practice leading up to Saturday's game.

"We don't have much time to get ready," Madden said, "but we know what we have to do."

By that Madden meant the Raiders will have to play mistake-free football to beat the Steelers, AFC Central champs who nailed down their first title over Sunday by beating San Diego. The Steelers whipped the Raiders, 34-28, in the opening game of the season, taking advantage of a flock of Oakland mistakes for a big early lead.

Sunday's Chicago game produced a few individual highlights.

The biggest one of all was the running of quarterback Bobby Douglass. He picked up 127 yards in 14 carries for a season total of 968. Gibron said he didn't know Douglass was close to the 1,000 mark or he would have had him running more late in the game.

Ron Smith won the NFC kickoff return title when he ran four times for 172 yards and a 918 total for the year, while Fred Biletnikoff of Oakland grabbed

Battling Bruin Vadnais Freed

Combined AP & UPI

PHILADELPHIA — Boston Bruins defenseman Carol Vadnais was released from police custody without being charged late Sunday after he allegedly scuffled with a fan during his team's 5-3 victory over the Philadelphia flyers.

Vadnais, a former California Golden Seal, was taken to detective headquarters for questioning after Myerson Mausert, 57, Hammonton, N.J. complained the defenseman twice attempted to strike him with a hockey stick.

Police did not press charges after questioning Vadnais for about two hours. Police said they recommended Vadnais and Mausert seek individual warrants if they wanted to continue the controversy.

The incident occurred in the second period during a scramble for the puck on midice. Mausert allegedly leaned over the glass wall and shouted at Vadnais.

Vadnais waved his stick in Mausert's direction, police said, and the fan grabbed the stick.

Baseball

NEW YORK — World Series star Gene Tenace and two of his world champion Oakland Athletics teammates, Sal Bando and Reggie Jackson, will compete in the $30,000 American Airlines Golf Classic, tournament chairman Thomas J. Ross Jr. announced yesterday.

The seventh annual internationally prominent Classic will be played Feb. 2-4 at the plush El Conquistador Hotel and Country Club in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Bando and Jackson have competed previously but Tenace, who was voted the outstanding player in the World Series, will be making his debut.

Basketball

SANTA MONICA — UCLA basketball coach John Wooden was released from St. John's Hospital Sunday where he had been under treatment for a week for a mild heart condition.

Wooden, 62, missed his first game since becoming the Bruins' Coach 25 years ago. UCLA beat University of California of Santa Barbara, 93-67 Saturday night under assistant coach Gary Cunningham.

Skiing

VAL GARDENA, Italy — Roland Collombin of Switzerland skimmed down the Val Gardena course at a world record 2 minutes 5.67 seconds, topping the old record by a second while winning the downhill that put him in first place in the World Cup standings.

MADONNA DE CAMPGILIO, Italy — Piero Gros of Italy took the men's giant slalom with a combined 100.41 seconds for the two runs of his second World Cup win in as many starts.

Tennis

ADELAIDE, Australia — Alex Metreveli of Russia took his third straight South Australian single's title with a 7-5, 5-7, 6-7, 7-6, 6-2 win over Australia's Colin Dibley.

Minnesota In Oakland Game With The Seals

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Golden Seals, apparently hopelessly lost in the Western Division cellar, play Minnesota on Wednesday in a National Hockey League game in Oakland.

The Seals, who have won only four and tied seven of 30 games, dropped another Saturday by 4-3 to the Vancouver Canucks.

Seals goals were by Darryl Maggs, Joey Johnston and Bobby Stewart.

Minnesota, which lost to Detroit on Sunday by 6-4, has won 17, lost 12 and tied three.

Golfer Newton Wins

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI)—Jack Newton edged fellow Australian Bob Tuohy by one shot in the $14,000 Auckland Golf Classic Sunday, using a course record-tying 64 in the final round to finish at 277.

American George Archer finished third in the tournament.

Local Prep Cagers Have Short Schedule

High school basketball teams from Marin and southern Sonoma will play an abbreviated schedule this week due to Christmas vacation, with most of the excitement expected to stem from visits to Marin by San Francisco teams.

Washington will start things off by visiting Terra Linda at 1 p.m. tomorrow, and Riordan will play at Drake at 7:30 p.m. Also on tap tomorrow are San Rafael at Lincoln, 3:30 p.m.; El Molino of Forestville at Marin Catholic, 7:30 p.m.; and St. Vincent of Petaluma at California School for the Deaf in Oakland, 7 p.m.

Wednesday is an open date except for Drake's alumni game at 6:45 p.m., but on Thursday Terra Nova of Pacifica visits San Rafael at 1 p.m. and powerful Balboa plays Novato at San Marin at 7 p.m. Marin Catholic plays its alumni game at 6:30 p.m. and Tamalpais visits St. Ignatius at 8:15.

On Friday, Galileo meets Novato at San Marin at 7 p.m., Terra Linda journeys to Ells of Richmond at 3:30 p.m. and Tam heads to South San Francisco for an 8:15 game.

Redwood will be playing in the Yuba City Tournament, which it won last year, Thursday through Saturday.

Novato's home games against Balboa and Galileo were shifted to San Marin High because of work being done on the gymnasium floor at Novato.

Leemoi's Team In Bowling Win

Leemoi Bekey and her 16-year-old partner, Jim Phillips, won the third annual Marin County "600" Club — and Junior Tournament Saturday at Greenbrae Lanes with 1,273 pins, 12 pins more than their closest rivals, Penny Tauscher and Larry Walker.

Walker led all individual scorers, rolling a 237, while Bonnie Birkett led the women with a 230.

Some 72 entrants participated in the handicap tourney, where teams bowled three games each. There were 50 juniors and 22 women.

Warriors Vs. Boston In Oakland Tomorrow

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors hope to have Clyde Lee back in uniform tomorrow night when they open a home stand against the surging Boston Celtics.

Lee, a 6-foot-9 forward, injured the arch of his right foot three weeks ago and has been benched since. He was to resume practice today.

While the Warriors were idle Sunday, the Celts were walloping the Sonics at Seattle, 123-98, with John Havlicek throwing in 27 points for the winners. It was Boston's ninth straight victory and ran the Celts' record to 26-3.

The Warriors, who have a 19-11 record, lost to the Baltimore Bullets, 105-99, Saturday night.

And having Lee in that game might have helped stop Elvin Hayes who canned 33 points for Baltimore and blocked 11 shots.

Hayes is 6-foot-9 1-2 and there was nobody around to match him at his forward position. Rick Barry, who gave away 2 12 inches but tried to curb Hayes, put it this way:

"I was almost hanging all over him and he still made shot after shot."

Coach Al Attles blamed travel for some of the Warriors' problems. "It was the last game after 10 days on the road and I'm sure the team was thinking about getting home."

Lee says his foot still hurts but that doctors have given him permission to play. He noted that he hadn't been doing any running "so it will take me a while to get into shape."

Hofman To Head Farm Club For Atlanta Braves

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Atlanta Braves announced Sunday that Bobby Hofman, now a coach for the Cleveland Indians, will manage the Braves' International League farm club in Richmond next year.

The 46-year-old Hofman, formerly with Kansas City, Washington, and Oakland, will succeed Clyde King, formerly manager of the San Francisco Giants, recently named special assistant to Braves personnel director Eddie Robinson.

Hofman has been in professional baseball since 1944, and was an infielder for the New York Giants for seven years; in the 1950s he served as a minor-league manager for eight years, with his most successful season coming in 1958 when he led Danville, Va. to first place in the Carolina League.

Kansas Center Wins Cage Tourney Award

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—Kansas sophomore center Rick Suttle, who led the Jayhawks to victories Friday and Saturday nights, was an overwhelming choice over San Francisco's Kevin Restani for the Most Outstanding Player award in a poll of writers and sportscasters at the Jayhawk Classic.

Both Suttle, a unanimous choice, and Restani were named to the all-tournament team.

Ex-Tulsa Star Rhome To Coach

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—New Tulsa Cyclones' head football coach F.A. Dry today selected as his fifth varsity coach former Tulsa star quarterback Jerry Rhome to coach the Cyclones' quarterbacks and receivers as of January 1.

Rhome started his professional football career with the Dallas Cowboys and was backup quarterback to Don Meredith during the Cowboys' four NFL championships. He then moved to the Cleveland Browns and was on a championship team there as well; then played for Houston and Los Angeles before leaving for Montreal of the Canadian Football League.

At Tulsa, Rhome had broken 27 NCAA records in 1963 and 1964, personally setting 16 marks, and was runner-up in balloting for the Heisman Trophy in 1964 to Notre Dame's John Huarte.

Rooney, Steelers Get 1st Crown; Miami Unbeaten

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Art Rooney has seen a lot in the last 40 years but even at age 71 he still had time for a first on Sunday.

The first was the initial title for his Pittsburgh Steelers after 40 years of National Football League competition and the cigar-chomping owner took it all in stride.

"It's just my nature," said Rooney after watching the Steelers capture the American Football Conference Central Division title with a convincing 24-2 rout of the San Diego Chargers. "I never show my enthusiasm. I'd say this is the high point in my 40 years with the team."

The Steelers entered with a one-game lead over Cleveland but found their title chances in jeopardy when the Browns beat the New York Jets. A loss by Pittsburgh would have given it a 10-4 record, the same as Cleveland, but the Browns would have been awarded the Central title on the basis of best record within the conference.

But the Steelers left no doubt that this would be a year to remember for Rooney as they forced San Diego into seven turnovers and converted four of them into scores. Pittsburgh's menacing defense, which hasn't allowed a touchdown in the last three games, completely bottled up John Hadl and the San Diego offense and left the Chargers in last place in the AFC West as the season ended.

The Steelers needed little more than three minutes to take the lead when safety Ralph Anderson intercepted a Hadl pass and returned it to the San Diego 11 and Franco Harris then plunged over from the two. The Chargers' only score came when Dave Costa tackled quarterback Terry Bradshaw in the end zone for a safety but it was all Pittsburgh after that.

Larry Brown recovered a fumbled punt on the Charger 34 and Bradshaw's 28-yard screen pass to John Fuqua set up a short TD plunge by Fuqua. Jack Ham's interception set up Roy Gerela's 26-yard field goal and Mel Blount's interception helped set up Bradshaw's 17yard TD pass to Ron Shanklin.

The Steelers open the AFC playoffs at home Saturday against Oakland while Cleveland, the wild card or best runnerup team, is at Miami against the unbeaten Dolphins Sunday. In the NFC, wild card winner Dallas is at San Francisco Saturday and Green Bay tangles with Washington Sunday.

In other action of the final day of regular season NFL action, Cincinnati bombarded Houston 61-17, the New York Giants upended Dallas 23-3, Oakland downed Chicago 28-21, Green Bay dumped New Orleans 30-20, Buffalo upset Washington 24-17, Kansas City trimmed Atlanta 17-14, St. Louis edged Philadelphia 24-23, Denver clubbed New England 45-21 and Detroit trounced Los Angeles 34-17.

On Saturday, the Miami Dolphins became the first NFL team ever to go unbeaten in a 14-game schedule by beating Baltimore 16-0 and San Francisco took the NFC West title with a 20-17 comeback victory over Minnesota.

Mike Phipps threw TD passes of 80 and eight yards to Frank Pitts in the second half to lead Cleveland over the Jets, who played without Joe Namath. The 80-yard TD pass, which broke a 10-10 tie in the third quarter, was Cleveland's longest play from scrimmage this season.

Doug Dressler, a former College of Marin star, barrelled for three touchdowns and cornerback Lemar Parrish returned two pass interceptions for scores in the Bengals' rout of Houston. Dressler scored on runs of 43, one and 20 yards and Parrish scored on interception returns of 25 and 33 yards as Cincinnati broke a club scoring record.

DRESSLER SCORES 3 TOUCHDOWNS

Former College of Marin star Doug Dressler raced for three Cincinnati touchdowns yesterday to lead the Bengals to a crushing 61-17 victory over the Houston Oilers.

The bullish fullback ran 43 yards for one touchdown, ran one yard for another, and caught a 20-yard scoring pass from quarterback Ken Anderson to help turn the game into a rout. Cincinatti led 19-10 when Dressler started his spree, and 40-10 when he finished.

Dressler, who played tackle at Marin in 1966 and 67, led the Bengals' rushing attack with 83 yards in eight carries. He also caught five passes for 69 yards.

Jan. 6, will be another big day for Dressler. That day, he will be married to Laurie Ann Graumann of Orinda.

Angry Saints' End Parks Quits In Row

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Veteran New Orleans Saints tight end Dave Parks says he is quitting the team after five years of turbulent relations with coaches and administrators.

Parks, who has been the center of controversy since joining the Saints in 1968, made the announcement after Sunday's season finale—a lackluster 30-20 loss to the Green Bay Packers.

"I was going to announce my retirement from professional football today," Parks, a San Francisco 49er receiver in 1964-67, told a news conference following the game. "But after considering the reasons why, I've decided not to close the door completely on the possibility of playing somewhere."

The reasons why are many and varied, Parks said. He has had poor relations with former head Coach Tom Fears, and when J.D. Roberts took over the reins in the middle of the 1970 season, things seemed to get worse instead of better.

There was a rift between some players and coaches on the Saints team which deteriorated as the season went along, and Parks was right in the center of the problem, most of which centered around Roberts' coaching methods.

Many of the players, including Parks, wide receiver Danny Abramowicz and reserve quarterback Edd Hargett, did not care for the strict regimentation Roberts imposed.

"If a club wants to trade for me, it would be to their advantage to talk to me first," said Parks. "There are a few clubs that I would play for, but I will retire before playing under another situation like this one."

RAIDERS

five passes to win the AFC reception championship with 58 and 802 yards.

Marv Hubbard picked up 41 yards in 10 carries to finish the year with 1,100 yards, one more than the Oakland club record set by Clem Daniels in 1963, while linebacker Dick Butkus of Chhicago recovered the 24th fumble of his career for an alltime NFL mark.

And George Blanda played long enough to become the second oldest player in NFL history at 45 years and three months. Only John Nesser of the 1921 Columbus, Ohio, Panhandles played later. He was 46.

Naturally, Madden was happy for both Biletnikoff and Hubbard.

"They've been an important part of our team this year," said the Raider coach.

Biletnikoff made five catches for 43 yards to win his title after learning before the game that he needed that many to beat out Otis Taylor of Kansas City and Chip Myers of Cincinnati.

Now, it's back to the drawing board for the Raiders by way of getting ready for the Steelers, while the Bears go home to think about next year.

2 COACHES DISMISSED

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Two head coaches and a general manager were fired today in National Football League activities.

Philadelphia head coach Eddie Khayat and general manager Pete Retzlaff were released after the club finished last in the East Division with only two wins.

St. Louis fired coach Bob Hollway "in the best interest of the team," according to Cardinals president William V. Bidwell. The Cardinals finished 4-9-1 for the second year in a row.

Leggett Beaten By Tomales '5'

Tomales High School won the consolation title of the Middletown Basketball Tournament Saturday night with a 72-46 thrashing of Leggett Valley. The Braves lost their first game Friday night to the eventual tourney champs, Geyserville, 66-52.

"We were really tight for Geyserville the first night," Tomales coach James Clahan said, "but we calmed down for Leggett Valley and played a real good game. Too bad the nights weren't reversed."

The Braves went out to a first quarter 17-5 lead, and kept building it up throughout the game. Leading scorer for Tomales was Spirito Ballatore with 18 points. Ballatore, who scored 19 against Geyserville, was named to the all-tournament team.

Cotate-Petaluma game was a fitting one for a contest that had been dominated from the start by the officiating. With 45 second left, Rancho's Dwaine Young sank two free throws for an apparent 45-42 lead, but his second was disallowed because of a lane violation.

Then, with nine seconds left, Petaluma's Larry David crashed through the lane, knocking down two Cougars, and was awarded two free throws which he missed. During the scramble for the ball, Steve Steady was fouled and Petaluma was given a last second reprieve in the form of two more free throws, Steady missed both shots.

Four players fouled out — Marshall Brant, John Sorenson and Scott Wlodarczyk for Rancho Cotate, and Kirk Smartt for Petaluma — and three technicals were called, which indicates that a lot of fouls were called.

Brant and David were named to the All-Tournament team, joining Channell and Chavez, Ray Jackson (Most Valuable Player), Scott Paulsen and Greg Volasgis from Hayward, Tom Buzzard and Ken Guido from Montgomery and Mike Lininger from Cardinal Newman.

Defense Lifts Tars To Victory

Casteel 9. Garner was named to the all-tournament team and Casteel was chosen the tourney's most valuable player. He scored only 32 points in three games but played fine defense and rebounded well, leading the Tars with eight Saturday.

Smith did not make the all-tourney team despite an outstanding three-game set on defense. "It's a typical example of a kid who plays good 'D' but he's unsung," said Panagakis.

Smith took on three all-tournament players — Rich Bakker of Napa, Chuck Pierce of Ohlone and K. C. Jackson of Foothill — and held them to 17, 12 and 14 respectively. Against other defenders, this trio averaged 25 points a game.

"DeMaestri also played great defense," said Tar assistant coach Jim Webster. "This No. 21 (Scott McLean) averaged 21 in his other two games, but got four off Joe."

Indeed, Foothill scored 91 and 83 in its other two victories. But the Tars held them to 34 per cent (21 of 61) from the floor, allowed them only seven free throws, and outrebounded them, 34-31.

Reedley (4-5) had no particular trouble with Ohlone (6-3) in the third-place game, expanding a six-point halftime lead to an 18-point victory. The victors shot 59 per cent from the floor (33 of 56) and had five men in double figures, led by Ben McDonald with 23 and all-tournament selection Earl Chapman with 17. Without Smith to bother him, Pierce netted 27 for Ohlone.

Likewise, Santa Rosa (6-3) handled Solano easily, building up a 12-point halftime lead and coasting to a 14-point win. David Long scored 25 and Gary Bartholomew dropped in 19 for the winners, who shot 52 per cent (29 of 56). Kelly McWilliams tallied 16 and Jim Hicks 12 for Solano (4-5), while former San Rafael High School star Donnie Canfield netted 8 for the third consecutive night.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Look At Your Auto Expanse Now To Find Tax Advantage

Now is the time to take a good look at your business automobile expense for 1972.

You can deduct 12 cents per mile for the first 15,000 miles of business use of your automobile, plus 9 cents per mile for every business mile thereafter.

If you have been itemizing your automobile expenses and they don't amount to 12 cents a mile, including straight line depreciation, then perhaps you should consider using 12 cents per mile this year instead of itemizing.

On the other hand, if you had been using the old 10 cents per mile allowance and find this year that you have a big bill for repairs, tires, transmission or something, then you might change to itemizing. You can change each year on the same or different cars, provided you have not previously taken the extra first-year depreciation allowance on your car or if you have not depreciated by one of the accelerated methods.

You must always use the straight line method of depreciation in the years in which you itemize, and you must figure that you have used the straight line method of depreciation for the years you took the standard mileage deduction.

If you are going to itemize this year, have all that repair work done, buy those new tires now and get the bus in shape so that next year you will have no expenses on the car and can use the standard rate profitably.

If your itemized expanse records are not complete you could be better off to use the mileage rate because all you have to prove here is the number of miles traveled and the business use of the car.

If you are reimbursed for the business use of your car by your employer at less than 12 cents per mile you can include the reimbursement in income and deduct 12 cents a mile up to the first 15,000 miles and 9 cents a mile thereafter.

If your reimbursement is over 12 cents a mile, but not over 15 cents a mile, you wouldn't use this system as you do not have to account for your automobile expanses because you are considered to have accounted to your employer. If your reimbursement is over 15 cents a mile, you will have to include the reimbursement in income and itemize your automobile expenses. Also, if you have a profit on this reimbursement, the profit is taxed.

You can use this system and, in addition, deduct parking fees, bridge tolls, etc.

Also, the mileage allowance for use of your car for charitable purposes or for medical purposes is now 6 cents a mile. All you have to prove is the use of the car for medical or charitable purposes and the mileage.

A Setback On Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks plunged over a broad front in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange today; reacting to Saturday's announcement of a stalemate in the Vietnam peace talks.

Most analysts said the selloff was in reaction to the peace talks news presidential adviser Henry Kissinger revealed Saturday.

The market, particularly in the past two months, has been sensitive to the peace talks which appeared headed for a settlement.

Leasco Corp. was the most active issue, off 3 ⅝ at 18 on 353,800 shares, including a block of 260,000 shares at 17 ⅝. Barron's, a financial weekly magazine, said there were some questions about the firm's accounting practices.

Prices also declined in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Teleprompter was the most active AMEX issue, off ⅝ at 34 ¾ on 25,300 shares

Sonosky Named Sage Director

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Jerol M. Sonosky, vice president-manager, natural resources division, United California Bank, has been elected a director of the Sage Oil Co. Inc.

A. Louis Canut, Sage president, said Sonosky's election fills a vacancy on the company's board of directors.

Burroughs Is Looking Good, So Retain Shares At Present

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q- Recently a brokerage firm advised clients against further purchase of Burroughs Corp. (NYSE) and the stock reacted temporarily. I hold 700 shares. Are you in agreement with the sell advice or would you suggest holding?—A.D.

A- The brokerage report on Burroughs did not suggest sale of this office equipment issue; rather, the analyst withdrew his buy advice on it. The change in recommendation was based on the stock's rich price/earnings multiple, an increase in the proportion of computers that are leased rather than sold outright and a general market pall over the entire group.

In the third quarter pre-tax net rose 20 per cent year to year on a 17 per cent gain in revenues. Full-year earnings should reach $4.50-$4.60 despite a 26-cent-a-share charge resulting from the settlement of a suit brought by TWA. If Burroughs attains the 15 per cent - 17 per cent rate of revenue growth anticipated by management, earnings for 1973 in the $5.60 area appear attainable.

At current price, shares are trading at about 38x the 1973 profit projection. This figure is at the high end of the stock's historic P/E range and exceeds the multiples accorded most other issues in the industry. For this reason shares are apt to be sensitive to any adverse news. However, the premium accorded the shares is partially justified by Burroughs' increasing penetration of the computer market. Management has recently stated that 35 per cent of new orders are for replacement of competitive computer installations, while the company loses about five per cent to others.

Although a gradual increase in the ratio of rental revenues to outright sales is usually regarded as bearish, Burroughs' cash flow is sufficient to finance the higher level of rentals. Furthermore, rental business generates a very visible source of future earnings, particularly since about half Burroughs' lease contracts are written for five years.

With management committed to widening the pre-tax profit margin from the present 14 per cent level to 20 per cent and earnings expected to continue their growth pattern, shares should be retained.

Bell Savings and Loan Association has the go-ahead on a new branch office in Woodside Village (San Mateo County) near the intersection of Woodside Road and Whiskey Hill Road, President Fred F. Enemark of San Rafael announced today.

Bell Savings also has offices in San Rafael, San Mateo and Burlingame, and previously received approval for branches in Mill Valley and in Redwood City.

Sales Increase

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Radiant Industries Inc. has reported profitable operations in the first quarter of fiscal 1973 as sales increased approximately 114 per cent.

Merchant Bank Slated For Iran

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Bank of America has reported that it has agreed to join with nine other international banks to form a merchant bank to help Iran attract foreign capital for development projects.

To be called Iran International Investment Bank Ltd., the proposed financial institution will be based in London.

Participating as shareholders, in addition to Bank of America, are Industrial & Mining Development Bank of Iran, Bank Melli Iran, Bank of Tokyo Ltd., Barclays Bank International Ltd., Deutsche Bank, Industrial Bank of Japan Ltd., Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., Midland Bank Ltd. and Societe Generale, Paris.

More Jeeps

DETROIT (BW) — Production of Jeep vehicles will be increased from 300 to 350 a day — an all-time high — beginning Jan. 8, it was reported by Stuart M. Reed, vice president of manufacturing for American Motors Corp.

San Marin Lumber Co. Plans To Expand At Present Location

San Marin Lumber Co. at 600 Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael, next to DeLong Chevrolet, will build a new office about double the size of the existing building.

Glenn Nobmann of Richmond, owner of the company, said the new office building will be a one-story redwood structure. "We hope to start construction the first of next year and have it completed in about three months.

EXECUTON of North Bay Inc., a communication company headquartered in Burlingame, will open a branch in the La Plaza Building at Northgate Industrial Park in San Rafael about January. William Hoey Company arranged the lease at 4340 Redwood Highway, suite 4.

The company, headed by Walter Kirk, sells and installs inter-com systems for both commercial and residential use.

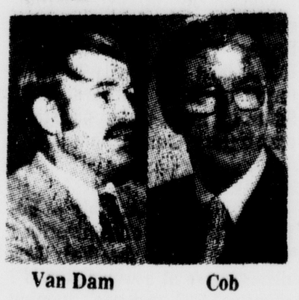
The Hoey Co. also negotiated leases for two other firms that need more space:

THE LAW FIRM of Buresh, Vallarino, Costamagna, Claxon and Dufficy, located in the La Plaza Building, got more storage space at 38 Paul Drive in Northgate Industrial Park.

JAY'S HOUSE of Silver and Brass, at 1613 Fourth Street in San Rafael, leased additional warehouse space at 767 Lincoln Avenue, No. 9, San Rafael.

WILLIAM C. VAN DAM III has joined Petaluma Co-operative as chief economist, General Manager Gene M. Benedetti announced. In the newly created post, Van Dam will help plan the continued growth of the creamery, which markets Clover brand dairy products in the Bay Area.

For the past two years, Van Dam was general manager of the League of California Milk Producers, headquartered in Sacramento. A 1965 graduate of the University of California at Davis, he was an infantry officer for a year in Vietnam and then did two years of graduate work at Cornell University. He and his family will live in Petaluma.



Van Dam Cobb

ROSS L. COBB, 39, of San Rafael has been elected president and chief operating officer of Sutro & Co., 114-year-old San Francisco brokerage firm. Warren H. Berl, chairman of the board, announced the election of Cobb.

Cobb joined the company 12 years ago in the accounting department. As director of operations since 1968, Cobb was responsible for a complete reorganization and streamlining of Sutro's order processing and communications systems. In January 1971, he was elected to the firm's board of directors and later that year was appointed to the 10-member management committee. A year ago, he joined the firm's seven-member executive committee and has been one of its six senior vice presidents.

THE SEVEN-ELEVEN Store in Stinson Beach is under new ownership.

Reginald W. and Noreen Mecham of Stinson Beach bought the franchise from the Southland Corp. and took over operations last week. Mecham is a painting contractor.

Helping them operate the store are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mecham of San Rafael. During winter months the store is open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. seven days a week.

The store was previously operated by Michael Stanley of Stinson Beach, who will now manage the new Seven-Eleven store on Bolinas Road in Fairfax next to the Fairfax fire station.

PUTNAM FINANCIAL Services of 555 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, moved its Berkeley office last Friday from Hotel Claremont to the Flagg Plaza Building at 1855 Olympic Boulevard in Walnut Creek. Putnam Financial and its associated life compny, Western Travelers Life Insurance, are both headquartered in San Rafael.

"We offer a whole spectrum of products including securities, funding programs, all types of insurance packages and tax-sheltered programs," said James R. McDonough, vice president in charge of sales.

AN EXHIBITION of the works of artist Roy Gover and photographer Tupper Ansel Blake, both of Mill Valley, will open tomorrow at the new Metes and Bounds Real Estate office at 215 Second Street, Sausalito. The exhibit will continue from Dec. 19 to Jan. 20, 1973.

Realtors Phil Rogers and Demetrias Phillips said the Metes and Bounds Gallery is an attempt to integrate the two seemingly diverse worlds of art and real estate and produce an "only in Sausalito" type of business with a friendly and informal atmosphere.

MARROY INC., a new corporation which will serve summonses and other legal documents, has been formed in Marin.

Attorney P. Roy Vallarino of 4340 Redwood Highway in Northgate Industrial Park and other members of his staff are listed as directors of the corporation. Vallarino, who filed the incorporation papers, said he cannot identify the principals of the corporation as yet. The corporation's address is in care of his law office.

COMPUTER SYSTEMS at 714 C Street in San Rafael has been incorporated and is now called Godfrey Systems Inc., headed by Bradford Godfrey of Terra Linda.

Godfrey Systems does commercial date processing and provides programming services. Godfrey said his firm is able to provide computer services at reasonable rates because its UNIVAC 1004 equipment, when used with a small black box called the self-contained plug board, can simulate more complicated and expensive equipment. Godfrey Systems also offers language translation services. The company has been there since 1966.

Battling Bruin Vadnais Freed

Combined AP & UPI

PHILADELPHIA — Boston Bruins defenseman Carol Vadnais was released from police custody without being charged late Sunday after he allegedly scuffled with a fan during his team's 5-3 victory over the Philadelphia flyers.

Vadnais, a former California Golden Seal, was taken to detective headquarters for questioning after Myerson Mausert, 57, Hammonton, N.J. complained the defenseman twice attempted to strike him with a hockey stick.

Police did not press charges after questioning Vadnais for about two hours. Police said they recommended Vadnais and Mausert seek individual warrants if they wanted to continue the controversy.

The incident occurred in the second period during a scramble for the puck on midice. Mausert allegedly leaned over the glass wall and shouted at Vadnais.

Vadnais waved his stick in Mausert's direction, police said, and the fan grabbed the stick.

Baseball

NEW YORK — World Series star Gene Tenace and two of his world champion Oakland Athletics teammates, Sal Bando and Reggie Jackson, will compete in the $30,000 American Airlines Golf Classic, tournament chairman Thomas J. Ross Jr. announced yesterday.

The seventh annual internationally prominent Classic will be played Feb. 2-4 at the plush El Conquistador Hotel and Country Club in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Bando and Jackson have competed previously but Tenace, who was voted the outstanding player in the World Series, will be making his debut.

Basketball

SANTA MONICA — UCLA basketball coach John Wooden was released from St. John's Hospital Sunday where he had been under treatment for a week for a mild heart condition.

Wooden, 62, missed his first game since becoming the Bruins' Coach 25 years ago. UCLA beat University of California of Santa Barbara, 93-67 Saturday night under assistant coach Gary Cunningham.

Skiing

VAL GARDENA, Italy — Roland Collombin of Switzerland skimmed down the Val Gardena course at a world record 2 minutes 5.67 seconds, topping the old record by a second while winning the downhill that put him in first place in the World Cup standings.

MADONNA DE CAMPGILIO, Italy — Piero Gros of Italy took the men's giant slalom with a combined 100.41 seconds for the two runs of his second World Cup win in as many starts.

Tennis

ADELAIDE, Australia — Alex Metreveli of Russia took his third straight South Australian single's title with a 7-5, 5-7, 6-7, 7-6, 6-2 win over Australia's Colin Dibley.

Minnesota In Oakland Game With The Seals

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Golden Seals, apparently hopelessly lost in the Western Division cellar, play Minnesota on Wednesday in a National Hockey League game in Oakland.

The Seals, who have won only four and tied seven of 30 games, dropped another Saturday by 4-3 to the Vancouver Canucks.

Seals goals were by Darryl Maggs, Joey Johnston and Bobby Stewart.

Minnesota, which lost to Detroit on Sunday by 6-4, has won 17, lost 12 and tied three.

Golfer Newton Wins

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI)—Jack Newton edged fellow Australian Bob Tuohy by one shot in the $14,000 Auckland Golf Classic Sunday, using a course record-tying 64 in the final round to finish at 277.

American George Archer finished third in the tournament.

TIME AND TIDE

Leemoi's Team In Bowling Win

Leemoi Bekey and her 16-year-old partner, Jim Phillips, won the third annual Marin County "600" Club — and Junior Tournament Saturday at Greenbrae Lanes with 1,273 pins, 12 pins more than their closest rivals, Penny Tauscher and Larry Walker.

Walker led all individual scorers, rolling a 237, while Bonnie Birkett led the women with a 230.

Some 72 entrants participated in the handicap tourney, where teams bowled three games each. There were 50 juniors and 22 women.

Local Prep Cagers Have Short Schedule

High school basketball teams from Marin and southern Sonoma will play an abbreviated schedule this week due to Christmas vacation, with most of the excitement expected to stem from visits to Marin by San Francisco teams.

Washington will start things off by visiting Terra Linda at 1 p.m. tomorrow, and Riordan will play at Drake at 7:30 p.m. Also on tap tomorrow are San Rafael at Lincoln, 3:30 p.m.; El Molino of Forestville at Marin Catholic, 7:30 p.m.; and St. Vincent of Petaluma at California School for the Deaf in Oakland, 7 p.m.

Wednesday is an open date except for Drake's alumni game at 6:45 p.m., but on Thursday Terra Nova of Pacifica visits San Rafael at 1 p.m. and powerful Balboa plays Novato at San Marin at 7 p.m. Marin Catholic plays its alumni game at 6:30 p.m. and Tamalpais visits St. Ignatius at 8:15.

On Friday, Galileo meets Novato at San Marin at 7 p.m., Terra Linda journeys to Ells of Richmond at 3:30 p.m. and Tam heads to South San Francisco for an 8:15 game.

Redwood will be playing in the Yuba City Tournament, which it won last year, Thursday through Saturday.

Novato's home games against Balboa and Galileo were shifted to San Marin High because of work being done on the gymnasium floor at Novato.

Warriors Vs. Boston In Oakland Tomorrow

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors hope to have Clyde Lee back in uniform tomorrow night when they open a home stand against the surging Boston Celtics.

Lee, a 6-foot-9 forward, injured the arch of his right foot three weeks ago and has been benched since. He was to resume practice today.

While the Warriors were idle Sunday, the Celts were walloping the Sonics at Seattle, 123-98, with John Havlicek throwing in 27 points for the winners. It was Boston's ninth straight victory and ran the Celts' record to 26-3.

The Warriors, who have a 19-11 record, lost to the Baltimore Bullets, 105-99, Saturday night.

And having Lee in that game might have helped stop Elvin Hayes who canned 33 points for Baltimore and blocked 11 shots.

Hayes is 6-foot-9 1-2 and there was nobody around to match him at his forward position. Rick Barry, who gave away 2 12 inches but tried to curb Hayes, put it this way:

"I was almost hanging all over him and he still made shot after shot."

Coach Al Attles blamed travel for some of the Warriors' problems. "It was the last game after 10 days on the road and I'm sure the team was thinking about getting home."

Lee says his foot still hurts but that doctors have given him permission to play. He noted that he hadn't been doing any running "so it will take me a while to get into shape."

Hofman To Head Farm Club For Atlanta Braves

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Atlanta Braves announced Sunday that Bobby Hofman, now a coach for the Cleveland Indians, will manage the Braves' International League farm club in Richmond next year.

The 46-year-old Hofman, formerly with Kansas City, Washington, and Oakland, will succeed Clyde King, formerly manager of the San Francisco Giants, recently named special assistant to Braves personnel director Eddie Robinson.

Hofman has been in professional baseball since 1944, and was an infielder for the New York Giants for seven years; in the 1950s he served as a minor-league manager for eight years, with his most successful season coming in 1958 when he led Danville, Va. to first place in the Carolina League.

Kansas Center Wins Cage Tourney Award

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—Kansas sophomore center Rick Suttle, who led the Jayhawks to victories Friday and Saturday nights, was an overwhelming choice over San Francisco's Kevin Restani for the Most Outstanding Player award in a poll of writers and sportscasters at the Jayhawk Classic.

Both Suttle, a unanimous choice, and Restani were named to the all-tournament team.

Ex-Tulsa Star Rhome To Coach

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—New Tulsa Cyclones' head football coach F.A. Dry today selected as his fifth varsity coach former Tulsa star quarterback Jerry Rhome to coach the Cyclones' quarterbacks and receivers as of January 1.

Rhome started his professional football career with the Dallas Cowboys and was backup quarterback to Don Meredith during the Cowboys' four NFL championships. He then moved to the Cleveland Browns and was on a championship team there as well; then played for Houston and Los Angeles before leaving for Montreal of the Canadian Football League.

At Tulsa, Rhome had broken 27 NCAA records in 1963 and 1964, personally setting 16 marks, and was runner-up in balloting for the Heisman Trophy in 1964 to Notre Dame's John Huarte.

Three Hurt In Accident On The Span

One person was hospitalized and two others injured in a three-car accident at 11:30 a.m. Saturday on the Golden Gate Bridge, California Highway Patrol reported.

Joan Cook, 31, of 39 East View Avenue, Tiburon was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with a broken right leg and multiple cuts, according to hospital authorities.

Michael Cook, 7, her son, was treated for cuts and bruises, according to hospital reports.

Esther Thompson, 59, of 6 Doris Drive, Novato, was treated at Qmilton Air Force Base Hospital, according to the information office. The extent of her injuries was not known.

A car driven by John Wesley Thompson, 58, of the Doris Drive address was southbound on the bridge when it veered into the northbound lanes, according to highway patrolmen. It hit a car northbound driven by Mrs. Cook and then another northbound car driven by Rodger Aplon, 35, of Laguna Beach, Orange County, patrolmen reported.

Baby's Cries Lead To Dead Woman's Body

BENSON, N.C. (UPI) —The wail of the four-month old boy led farmer David Olen Lee to an old dormitory for migrant farm workers Sunday.

When he looked inside the building "it was the worst looking sight I've ever seen," Lee said. "A dead mother and a baby lying beside it."

Mrs. Bonnie Neighbors, 33, bound hand and foot, gagged and blindfolded, had been shot twice. Next to her on one of three beds in the room was the baby and a half-empty baby's milk bottle.

The child was taken to Betsy Johnson Memorial Hospital in Dunn and was reported in satisfactory condition.

The woman and child had been missing since Thursday afternoon when they left home to pick up the family's other child at school.

A search began immediately Sunday for a blue car "occupied by three white males," and for "a hippie band" that took up residence in an abandoned house several miles from the Neighbors home north of town. The group dropped out of sight the same day the woman and child disappeared.

"The blue auto may be tied in with them, but we're not sure," said police officer J. D. Thornton.

Kenneth Neighbors, a prosperous certified public accountant with several offices in the eastern part of the state, was out of town when his wife and infant son disappeared Thursday, but he was home Sunday when they were found.

Authorities and friends said the family was well-respected in the area and there was no hint of any incompatability.

Lee, 59, said Sunday "the baby looked mighty healthy. He couldn't have stayed there last night and been as strong as he was. Temperatures had dropped to a low of 20 degrees the night before and the window and the door of the room both were open."

Lee said Mrs. Neighbors was clothed in a green pants suit and waist-length coat.

Local Areas Given Share Of Tax Fund

Marin and Sonoma County's share of the December distribution of local sales and use tax moneys collected by the state Board of Equalization, have been announced.

Marin County received $170,945 from the one-quarter per cent sales and use tax payments for the county local transportation fund. The county also received $68,888 from the Bradley-Burns one per cent sales and use tax.

Sonoma County's share of that tax was $211,066. Sonoma received $274,201 from the Bradley-Burns tax.

Cities' share of the distribution was:

Belvedere, $2,557; Corte Madera, $61,617; Fairfax, $10,248; Larkspur, $16,326; Mill Valley, $30,491; Novato, $63,660; Ross, $1,307; San Anselmo, $19,299; San Rafael, $223,452; Sausalito, $46,024; Tiburon, $10,580; Cotati, $14,320; Petaluma, $85,549, and Rohnert Park, $12,616.

Neighborhood Park Will Be Discussed

The Novato City Council will consider acquisition of a 13-acre site near Lynwood Park for a neighborhood park at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

The council also will have a hearing on classifying land along lower Novato Creek to F-1 zones where development would be prohibited and F-2 zones where development would be limited.

Body Of Postmaster Is Found

The body of Lagunitas Postmaster Lawrence A. Stogsdill, 35, was found in his station wagon at 11 a.m. Saturday, according to Donald L. Cornish, Marin County coroner's deputy.

The vehicle was parked on Bolinas Road one mile south of Alpine Dam, with a hose running from its exhaust pipe to the interior, and on the front seat three empty bottles that had contained sleeping pills. No note was found, and cause of death was not known, according to Cornish.

Stogsdill had been a carrier for the San Rafael Post Office for Several years prior to being appointed Lagunitas postmaster on Sept. 18, 1965.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Bow And Arrow Practice For Role

LONDON (AP) — British actor Edward Woodward, who will play Robin Hood in a Christmas show, is practicing with his bow and arrows in his back yard. And he finds the going tough.

"My fingers are getting very raw, and I'm having to use spirit to harden the skin," he said.

U.S. Broadcasters Called Upon To Exercise Better Management

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A White House official warned broadcasters Monday against presenting "ideological plugola" and said network management and local broadcasters must exercise more editorial responsibility over the presentation of national news.

"There is no area where management responsibility is more important than news," Clay T. Whitehead, director of the Office of Telecommunications Policy, said in a speech to Sigma Delta Chi in Indianapolis, Ind.

"Broadcasters and networks took decivise action to insulate their news departments from the sales department, when charges were made that news coverage was biased by commercial considerations," Whitehead said. "But insulating station and network news departments from management oversight and supervision has never been responsible and never will be.

"Where there are only a few sources of national news on television, as we now have, editorial responsibility must be exercised more effectively by local broadcasters and by network management," Whitehead said.

Whitehead said his office has prepared legislation to require a station to meet two criteria in order to get license renewal:

Demonstrate that it has been "substantially attuned to the needs and interest" of the community it serves.

Show that it has afforded opportunities for the presentation of conflicting views on controversial issues.

Whitehead said the legislation is being cleared in the executive branch so that it might be introduced in Congress early next year.

He added:

Station managers and network officials who fail to act to correct imbalance or consistent bias from the networks —or who acquiesce by silence —can only be considered willing participants, to be held fully accountable by the broadcaster's community at license renewal time.

"When a reporter or disc jockey slips in or passes over information in order to line his pocket, that's plugola, and management would take quick corrective action.

"But men also stress or suppress information in accordance with their beliefs. Will station licensees or network executives also take action against this ideological plugola?

"Just as a newspaper publisher has responsibility for the wire service copy that appears in his newspaper —so television station owners and managers must have full responsibility for what goes out over the airwaves —no matter what the origin of the program."

He said station licensees "have final responsibility for news balance —whether the information comes from their own newsroom or from a distant network."

In New York, an NBC television network spokesman said: "The administration's plan as described by Mr. Whitehead seems to be another attempt to drive a wedge between television stations and the networks."

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Look At Your Auto Expanse Now To Find Tax Advantage

Now is the time to take a good look at your business automobile expense for 1972.

You can deduct 12 cents per mile for the first 15,000 miles of business use of your automobile, plus 9 cents per mile for every business mile thereafter.

If you have been itemizing your automobile expenses and they don't amount to 12 cents a mile, including straight line depreciation, then perhaps you should consider using 12 cents per mile this year instead of itemizing.

On the other hand, if you had been using the old 10 cents per mile allowance and find this year that you have a big bill for repairs, tires, transmission or something, then you might change to itemizing. You can change each year on the same or different cars, provided you have not previously taken the extra first-year depreciation allowance on your car or if you have not depreciated by one of the accelerated methods.

You must always use the straight line method of depreciation in the years in which you itemize, and you must figure that you have used the straight line method of depreciation for the years you took the standard mileage deduction.

If you are going to itemize this year, have all that repair work done, buy those new tires now and get the bus in shape so that next year you will have no expenses on the car and can use the standard rate profitably.

If your itemized expanse records are not complete you could be better off to use the mileage rate because all you have to prove here is the number of miles traveled and the business use of the car.

If you are reimbursed for the business use of your car by your employer at less than 12 cents per mile you can include the reimbursement in income and deduct 12 cents a mile up to the first 15,000 miles and 9 cents a mile thereafter.

If your reimbursement is over 12 cents a mile, but not over 15 cents a mile, you wouldn't use this system as you do not have to account for your automobile expanses because you are considered to have accounted to your employer. If your reimbursement is over 15 cents a mile, you will have to include the reimbursement in income and itemize your automobile expenses. Also, if you have a profit on this reimbursement, the profit is taxed.

You can use this system and, in addition, deduct parking fees, bridge tolls, etc.

Also, the mileage allowance for use of your car for charitable purposes or for medical purposes is now 6 cents a mile. All you have to prove is the use of the car for medical or charitable purposes and the mileage.

A Setback On Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks plunged over a broad front in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange today; reacting to Saturday's announcement of a stalemate in the Vietnam peace talks.

Most analysts said the selloff was in reaction to the peace talks news presidential adviser Henry Kissinger revealed Saturday.

The market, particularly in the past two months, has been sensitive to the peace talks which appeared headed for a settlement.

Leasco Corp. was the most active issue, off 3 ⅝ at 18 on 353,800 shares, including a block of 260,000 shares at 17 ⅝. Barron's, a financial weekly magazine, said there were some questions about the firm's accounting practices.

Prices also declined in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Teleprompter was the most active AMEX issue, off ⅝ at 34 ¾ on 25,300 shares.

Sonosky Named Sage Director

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Jerol M. Sonosky, vice president-manager, natural resources division, United California Bank, has been elected a director of the Sage Oil Co. Inc.

A. Louis Canut, Sage president, said Sonosky's election fills a vacancy on the company's board of directors.

Burroughs Is Looking Good, So Retain Shares At Present

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q- Recently a brokerage firm advised clients against further purchase of Burroughs Corp. (NYSE) and the stock reacted temporarily. I hold 700 shares. Are you in agreement with the sell advice or would you suggest holding?—A.D.

A- The brokerage report on Burroughs did not suggest sale of this office equipment issue; rather, the analyst withdrew his buy advice on it. The change in recommendation was based on the stock's rich price/earnings multiple, an increase in the proportion of computers that are leased rather than sold outright and a general market pall over the entire group.

In the third quarter pre-tax net rose 20 per cent year to year on a 17 per cent gain in revenues. Full-year earnings should reach $4.50-$4.60 despite a 26-cent-a-share charge resulting from the settlement of a suit brought by TWA. If Burroughs attains the 15 per cent - 17 per cent rate of revenue growth anticipated by management, earnings for 1973 in the $5.60 area appear attainable.

At current price, shares are trading at about 38x the 1973 profit projection. This figure is at the high end of the stock's historic P/E range and exceeds the multiples accorded most other issues in the industry. For this reason shares are apt to be sensitive to any adverse news. However, the premium accorded the shares is partially justified by Burroughs' increasing penetration of the computer market. Management has recently stated that 35 per cent of new orders are for replacement of competitive computer installations, while the company loses about five per cent to others.

Although a gradual increase in the ratio of rental revenues to outright sales is usually regarded as bearish, Burroughs' cash flow is sufficient to finance the higher level of rentals. Furthermore, rental business generates a very visible source of future earnings, particularly since about half Burroughs' lease contracts are written for five years.

With management committed to widening the pre-tax profit margin from the present 14 per cent level to 20 per cent and earnings expected to continue their growth pattern, shares should be retained.

San Marin Lumber Co. Plans To Expand At Present Location

San Marin Lumber Co. at 600 Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael, next to DeLong Chevrolet, will build a new office about double the size of the existing building.

Glenn Nobmann of Richmond, owner of the company, said the new office building will be a one-story redwood structure. "We hope to start construction the first of next year and have it completed in about three months.

EXECUTON of North Bay Inc., a communication company headquartered in Burlingame, will open a branch in the La Plaza Building at Northgate Industrial Park in San Rafael about January. William Hoey Company arranged the lease at 4340 Redwood Highway, suite 4.

The company, headed by Walter Kirk, sells and installs inter-com systems for both commercial and residential use.

The Hoey Co. also negotiated leases for two other firms that need more space:

THE LAW FIRM of Buresh, Vallarino, Costamagna, Claxon and Duffiey, located in the La Plaza Building, got more storage space at 38 Paul Drive in Northgate Industrial Park.

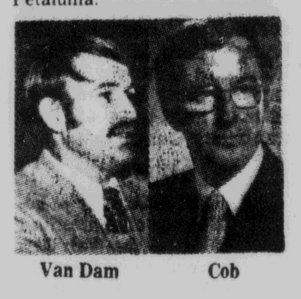
WILLIAM C. VAN DAM III has joined Petaluma Co-operative as chief economist, General Manager Gene M. Benedetti announced. In the newly created post, Van Dam will help plan the continued growth of the creamery, which markets Clover brand dairy products in the Bay Area.

For the past two years, Van Dam was general manager of the League of California Milk Producers, headquartered in Sacramento. A 1965 graduate of the University of California at Davis, he was an infantry officer for a year in Vietnam and then did two years of graduate work at Cornell University. He and his family will live in Petaluma.



Van Dam Cob

ROSS L. COBB, 39, of San Rafael has been elected president and chief operating officer of Sutro & Co., 114-year-old San Francisco brokerage firm. Warren H. Berl, chairman of the board, announced the election of Cobb.

Cobb joined the company 12 years ago in the accounting department. As director of operations since 1968, Cobb was responsible for a complete reorganization and streamlining of Sutro's order processing and communications systems. In January 1971, he was elected to the firm's board of directors and later that year was appointed to the 10-member management committee. A year ago, he joined the firm's seven-member executive committee and has been one of its six senior vice presidents.

THE SEVEN-ELEVEN Store in Stinson Beach is under new ownership.

Reginald W. and Noreen Mecham of Stinson Beach bought the franchise from the Southland Corp. and took over operations last week. Mecham is a painting contractor.

Helping them operate the store are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mecham of San Rafael. During winter months the store is open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. seven days a week.

The store was previously operated by Michael Stanley of Stinson Beach, who will now manage the new Seven-Eleven store on Bolinas Road in Fairfax next to the Fairfax fire station.

PUTNAM FINANCIAL Services of 555 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, moved its Berkeley office last Friday from Hotel Claremont to the Flagg Plaza Building at 1855 Olympic Boulevard in Walnut Creek. Putnam Financial and its associated life compny, Western Travelers Life Insurance, are both headquartered in San Rafael.

"We offer a whole spectrum of products including securities, funding programs, all types of insurance packages and tax-sheltered programs," said James R. McDonough, vice president in charge of sales.

AN EXHIBITION of the works of artist Roy Gover and photographer Tupper Ansel Blake, both of Mill Valley, will open tomorrow at the new Metes and Bounds Real Estate office at 215 Second Street, Sausalito. The exhibit will continue from Dec. 19 to Jan. 20, 1973.

Realtors Phil Rogers and Demetrias Phillips said the Metes and Bounds Gallery is an attempt to integrate the two seemingly diverse worlds of art and real estate and produce an "only in Sausalito" type of business with a friendly and informal atmosphere.

MARROY INC., a new corporation which will serve summonses and other legal documents, has been formed in Marin.

Attorney P. Roy Vallarino of 4340 Redwood Highway in Northgate Industrial Park and other members of his staff are listed as directors of the corporation. Vallarino, who filed the incorporation papers, said he cannot identify the principals of the corporation as yet. The corporation's address is in care of his law office.

COMPUTER SYSTEMS at 714 C Street in San Rafael has been incorporated and is now called Godfrey Systems Inc., headed by Bradford Godfrey of Terra Linda.

Godfrey Systems does commercial date processing and provides programming services. Godfrey said his firm is able to provide computer services at reasonable rates because its UNIVAC 1004 equipment, when used with a small black box called the self-contained plug board, can simulate more complicated and expensive equipment. Godfrey Systems also offers language translation services. The company has been there since 1966.

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Social Environment And Open Space

On Nov. 7, Marin citizens voted by nearly 2-to-1 to set up a countywide park district to acquire open space at public expense. The vote was 64,149 "yes" to 34,673 "no."

The proposition was a simple one: Should Marin County create a district to purchase and maintain open space, with authority to levy a tax of up to 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation?

As the vote showed, the people of Marin are willing to pay to retain open space — raw land — that will keep part of the county uncluttered and retain a semi-rural atmosphere in much of Marin.

Although we had reservations about the need for a special district, since the county board of supervisors could itself levy such a tax and purchase open space, we advocated approval of the measure.

HOWEVER, at the very time that Marinites were proving at the polls their willingness to underwrite the purchase of open space, the Marin County Planning Department was scheming to use the district for quite another purpose.

It was plotting to use the funds from the open-space tax as a blackjack to force Marin's 11 cities to impose housing patterns which fit the preconceptions of the planners.

The proposed Marin County General Plan lists nine "actions that should be taken immediately to expand the supply of low and moderate-income housing." Here is No. 8:

"Acquisition of open space by the proposed now countywide agency only to serve communities that are carrying out housing policies in conformity with the countywide plan."

THE EFFRONTERY of the planners in thus proposing to distort the parks district into an agency to force publicly subsidized housing — which would constitute over half of the new dwelling units to be permitted under the plan — was challenged last week by the county parks and recreation commission.

The unpaid citizens on the commission showed that they have higher regard for fair play and integrity than the highly paid planners.

Commissioner Leory M. Gerner put it the most plainly.

"We sold Measure A to the voter by saying it would save surrounding hills," he said. "I want nothing to do with this . . . it's completely wrong."

Sol Silver, the county's $19,560-per-year chief of advanced planning, had the gall to tell the commissioners that imposing such criteria in open-space purchase "is not an exclusive tying" but should be done because "you should be concerned with the social environment."

WE ARE CONCERNED with the social environment. We think the social environment deteriorates when deceit and subterfuge are used by "public servants" whose salaries we pay, to subvert the expressed will of the people.

We suggest that the Marin County Board of Supervisors might do its bit toward improving the social environment by some selective separations from the public payroll.

Frosty Mornings

Now that winter is painting Marin with broad strokes of crystalline white frost in the pre-dawn hours, we awake to a quite different world. Yet, it is strangely beautiful, like a bit of briefly transplanted arctic. As with fire, frost serves as a cleanser in nature. It kills insects and some tender plants and brings the yearly cycle of plant dormancy to a climax. Some plants require frost for normal good health.

To the gardener with many fuchsias and other frost-delicate plants, severe cold weather may seem a minor tragedy. But the feeling will soon pass and he can look forward to the pleasure of selecting new varieties to fill any voids left by freezing.

McCloskey Obeys Court; Mailliard Won't Do So

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

To the considerable dismay of his fellow military officers in Congress, Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-11th District, last week resigned his commission as a colonel in the Marine Corps.

McCloskey, not unfamiliar with the role of maverick, said he resigned because of a court ruling that congressmen cannot hold military rank. He cited a new U.S. Court of Appeals decision upholding the ruling of a judge in Washington, D.C., that it is unconstitutional for members of Congress to hold reserve commissions in the armed forces.

What dismayed his fellow officers, including Marin's own Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, was that they have no intention of taking such a step. A spokesman for Mailliard, a rear admiral in the Navy reserve, was decidedly discomfited when we inquired whether his resignation was forthcoming.

"He isn't going to like this," we were told when we pressed for a response. The 20-year congressman, it seems, is rather fond of his two stars and does not lightly entertain the prospect of giving them up.

The answer finally came back from Mailliard: He will not resign his commission unless the court's decision is upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court. That may take some years.

OPPONENTS of the Larkspur ferry terminal site still insist that there is a Point San Quentin site that would require no dredging. While they acknowledge the site is "connected to the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge," they fail to add that the connection is a half mile from shore.

Such a "terminal" certainly could not include parking facilities. The terminal alone would be wildly expensive, since it would be built entirely on pilings.

Passengers thus would have to be shuttled by buses between the terminal and a parking lot somewhere on the point. This absurd "solution" to largely imagined environmental hazards of the Larkspur site hardly would encourage use of the $20 million ferry system.

It is not too late for these busy opponents to reconsider their facts.

GOOD NEWS for drivers who aggravate their hernias when paying Golden Gate Bridge tolls out the passenger window. The two lanes where this awkward system has been used soon will be converted to allow toll taking on the driver's side.

The two booths in the affected lanes have been unusable because they offer no protection to the toll officers from traffic. Plans to add protective devices have been completed, and are awaiting state approval.

"This is our very latest, the 'Cabinet Member.' The hard hat is optional."

Unhappy With Voters' Decision To Fluoridate

The following are some of my thought on fluoridation:

Preventing tooth decay by simple elimination of some of the more common causes, sugar and sugar-related products for one example, was apparently not even considered by some of the more farsighted citizens of Marin County. They finally pushed through their magical fluoridation measure.

I wonder if fluoride will also help the overweight problem faced by many cavity-prone people?

Following the same line of logic, I think we can overcome the problem of social disease by simply adding penicillin to our county water supply. Right?

Are We Not Wiser Than The Dinosaurs?

It i not doomsdayish to consider the thought that man as a human creature could be destined to extinction like the dinosaur. We will not have it that way. Survival powers are stupendous in the kind of mind the dinosaur did not possess. We think he didn't have brains enough to survive his environment, although his environment changed for reasons beyond his control. We believe that we are able to control our environment, but will we, are we? If we unleash the nuclear bomb in further warfare it would be the beginning of the regression toward self-extinction, yet if we withhold the bomb but begin to lose control of our own surroundings, it will amount to the same thing.

We are already beginning to lose control, to hurt ourselves through polluted air, polluted soils, polluted rivers, lakes and seas. We began to discover this only recently, though warned many times by men in history that we should take pathways other than those we took. Vegetation is necessary for our oxygen supply, yet we are defacing vegetation, bulldozing it away, asphalt-lotting it out of existence. We are filling our oceans with rubbish, and these also give us our oxygen, even to greater extent than vegetation. As the population growth heads toward doubling itself, the parking lots will double, cars and cities will double, crowding out and imbalancing the complex ways of Nature. Such explosions can do the harm on a gigantic scale that the bombs could do. . .

Such "small" things as turning off electric lights behind us, stopping the faucet's drip, drip, drip, of using only half a tub of water for the bath, these are the beginnings we may make toward frugality. Everything is inter-related, connected with everything else. We can start at home to retain our quality of life, and it will affect the wide world around us. Are we not a lot wiser than the dinosaur?

Growing Christmas Trees Preferable To Plastic

Re: editorial "A Plastic Christmas Tree" (Dec. 11):

Driving from Olema to Tocaloma on Sir Francis Drake I have been watching now for some time the development and labor of what obviously is an embryo Christmas tree farm. In the dry months it is a pleasure to see the dark green of the trees in contrast to the golden grass in the foreground. It is a joy to watch the trees grow higher. True, some day there will be some harvesting. But there'll be new ones planted and growing. As for "the labor that goes into growing," I for one that has for over 20 years worked in a noisy and fumy plastic extrusion department, wish my work would have been outdoors nursing trees. As for the labor of "transporting and selling," are you not a little naive if you believe your "plastic Scotch pine" got to you without transporting and selling?

Historic Ordinance Needed In San Rafael

I am writing this letter to publicly thank Laurence Mulryan of the San Rafael City Council for his proposal to create a historic ordinance in San Rafael. Councilman Mulryan shows foresight and sensitivity to this city's past and future beauty by this action.

The public is fast becoming aware of its diminishing history as old homes give way to new service stations. A historic ordinance would officially put the reins on unbridled distruction of our precious architectural heritage.

I believe this action expresses a new and healthy attitude in city government and I hope the city council responds favorably.

Boys' Club Seeks Trustee Candidates

For the past six years, this United Crusade agency has been doing yeoman work in serving more than 300 youngsters in Marin City with a diversified program of productive activities and recreation.

From time to time, we have been asked about membership on our governing board. We are most eager to invite individuals who are willing to commit themselves in service to youth to become members of our Board of Trustees.

The qualifications are quite simple: you have to want to become part of our board and you must be willing to give up some of your leisure time — perhaps one-half day a month — to help our program grow.

what better way to serve our community and our nation than to help kids to grow to responsible manhood?

If you, the reader, should want to become a member of our board of trustees, please write to the Marin City Boys' Club, 640 Drake Avenue, Marin City, 94965.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Citizens who rejoice over the federal revenue that's being shared with their local governments are shocked when they stop to realize who supplied the revenue in the first place.

A taxpayer is just as broke no matter which one of his pockets the revenue came from.

Think of all the postage it takes to send the cash to Washington, then forward it to City Hall.

Local bureaucrats regard this program not so much as a chance for revenue sharing as an opportunity to share in the spending.

Taxation without misrepresentation is rare.

Choosing Rhodes Scholars Gives A Look At America's Best

I have been engaged for a week in what has been for many years one of my most difficult and pleasant tasks: a share in interviewing and selecting Rhodes scholars

First a word about the Rhodes scholarships. They remain perhaps the most eagerly sought of post-graduate study opportunities: two or three years at Oxford University. There are no strings attached. The notion, occasionally voiced by extremist critics, that the scholarships include some sort of pledge to aid British interests, or take part in international conspiracy, is totally false. Rhodes scholars are required only to pursue their studies and more or less behave themselves. There are no pressures on them before, during, or after. For Americans, at least, one of the chief benefits is to get a better perspective of one's own country.

THE PROCESS of selection is extremely difficult, because the applicants are so strong. The selection committees are asked to base their judgment on intellectual force, strength of character, and physical vigor. These qualities are not easy to measure.

A man's academic record in his college or university is of some value. We ask searching questions, by mail, of a list of referees.

And, in an interview of half an hour or more, perhaps with re-interviews, we try to find out what is inside a man. (I keep writing "man". This is because the Rhodes will, and the act of the British Parliament which implemented it, would have to be altered to include women. A special Rhodes-financed program for women's postgraduate study has been set up, but it is modest.)

The evening before the interviews, we have a social gathering for the candidates and the selection committee, to try to set them at ease. But at best the interview is a formidable experience.

IF ANY MEMBER of the committee knows enough, we ask the candidate about his intellectual specialties. Frequently he knows more in his field than any of us. We try to find out his purpose in life, his concept of service, how well equipped he — plus a time at Oxford — will be for what Cecil Rhodes called "the world's fight."

Often we try to get the candidate to think originally, then and there. We used to ask offbeat questions. The chairman of the New England committee was for many years Harvey Bundy, an eminent Boston lawyer and public servant and father of McGeorge William Bundy. One of his favorite questions was to tell a man he was to be given a million dollars and ask how he would spend it; or be permitted to go anywhere in the world for a week — where would it be, and what would he do; or, in many famous cases, told he would be stranded on a desert island and be permitted to choose three companions from all time. Whom would he select?

One memorable lad, from a service academy, chose Benjamin Franklin, Kim Novak, and Leonardo da Vinci. He said Franklin was for all-round intellectual companionship; Miss Novak as a charming young lady, and Leonardo to help them all figure out ways of getting off the island.

ANOTHER APPLICANT, now a most eminent professor at Yale on loan to Oxford, was told he could have unlimited funds and might spend a week in New York: what would he do? His answer ingeniously touched all the bases among the Rhodes criteria. He ended with a neat joust of wits with chairman Bundy. He got a scholarship.

But the interviews are not usually all that smart-alecky. They are serious attempts to discover the real quality of a man, and estimate who could most effectively utilize throughout his life the advantages of an Oxford experience.

Many young black men have recently been elected. Many disadvantaged have made it. We are impressed by the intellectually prestigious, but we look for much more. We have elected some all-America athletes, but usually physical vigor means simply a healthy attitude toward sports or nature.

I have observed quaint phenomenon. Usually it is easy to choose the Number One man. The second and third come hard.

Don't let any one tell you the present generation of American youth is weak or unmotivated. They are the strongest generation I have ever watched.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Five Men Close To President; Only Two Of Them In Cabinet

President Nixon's big five — these are the men who, under the President, will wield the greatest power in the second term

Treasury Secy. George Shultz — his role is vastly enlarged. All foreign and domestic economic decision-making will be in his hands.

Secy. of Defense Elliot Richardson — a political liberal whose job will be to sell a strong defense program to Congress.

Henry Kissinger — slightly tarnished by his imprudent interview with an Italian correspondent —apparently remains secure in his job as Mr. Nixon's chief and trusted foreign policy co-ordinator.

John Ehrlichman and Robert Haldeman — there was never any doubt they would remain as influential as ever. None could be closer to Mr. Nixon or more trusted.

WHERE'S THE NEW CABINET? It's around somewhere, but it will not be very conspicuous. The critics are right in saying this is a cabinet of administrators without a new political star in the carload.

No George Romney, no John Volpe, no John Connally, no Nelson Rockefeller.

And this is exactly the way Mr. Nixon wants it. Policy is to be generated and co-ordinated almost entirely in the White House and not ascend to the President from the cabinet.

MR. NIXON'S FUTURE WITH LABOR. Obviously he wants to hold as much labor support as he can and this is why he named New York's construction union leader, Peter J. Brennan, secretary of labor.

The effect of the Brennan appointment will not be to unite labor but to keep it divided politically. George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, wants to take all labor back into the Democratic Party. Brennan aims to keep quite a few "hard-hat" holdouts with the President.

PRESIDENT FACES HOSTILE CONGRESS. The Democrats certainly have as strong a popular mandate to run Congress as the President has to run the White House. If Mr. Nixon has leverage because of the big vote, the Democrats have leverage on the President because of their big congressional vote.

At the opening of Congress, there will be friendly words and polite sparring. But divided government has worked badly for years and there is no reason to think it will work any better now. The candid forecast has to be: stalemate and injury to the country.

WHY THE WHITE HOUSE PICKED GEORGE BUSH. It wants a lower profile Republican National Committee. Sen. Robert Dole, D-Kan., as national chairman during the past two years, gave the President what he wanted then. Dole was a headlinemaker, a phrasemaker, an aggressive partisan who was good at needling the Democrats.

Mr. Nixon needs political co-operation from Congress, not political controversy for its own sake. With two years of U.N. diplomacy behind him, George Bush, former ambassador to the United Nations, is Mr. Nixon's idea of the right man in the right job at this time.

STUDENT MILITANCY CONTINUES TO WANE. Security officers of 58 leading colleges report that their major concerns today are thievery, congested parking and vandalism. Activist demonstrations, bomb threats and other violence are now lesser problems.

FOOTBALL — THE INJURY-LADEN SPORT. From high school to the top professionals, nearly one-half of the nation's football players are injured every year. Most injuries are minor, but many are serious.

Specialized "sports medicine" is practiced by at least 20,000 physicians and another 20,000 volunteer their services at games.

The greatest danger for players is at the high school level. Only about 100 of the 15,000 high schools which sponsor football have either medical care or a full-time teacher-athletic trainer.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Dec. 18, 1962

San Rafael Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa fired Inspector Nick Giampoli, who had announced he would run against Chiesa for chief in the April, 1963, municipal election.

Roger Kent, state Democratic vice chairman, filed suit to bar John C. Stuart of Novato from the ballot in a special election to name a replacement for Rep. Clem Miller, D-Corte Madera, who was re-elected after being killed in an airplane crash.

20 YEARS AGO

Dec. 18, 1952

Twenty applicants for the job of Sausalito police chief were to be examined by a board appointed by the League of California Cities.

The San Francisco Bay Area Council came out against the Reber Plan for an earthfill barrier across the Bay between San Rafael and Richmond.

Three Hurt In Accident On The Span

One person was hospitalized and two others injured in a three-car accident at 11:30 a.m. Saturday on the Golden Gate Bridge, California Highway Patrol reported.

Joan Cook, 31, of 39 East View Avenue, Tiburon was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with a broken right leg and multiple cuts, according to hospital authorities.

Michael Cook, 7, her son, was treated for cuts and bruises, according to hospital reports.

Esther Thompson, 59, of 6 Doris Drive, Novato, was treated at Qmilton Air Force Base Hospital, according to the information office. The extent of her injuries was not known.

A car driven by John Wesley Thompson, 58, of the Doris Drive address was southbound on the bridge when it veered into the northbound lanes, according to highway patrolmen. It hit a car northbound driven by Mrs. Cook and then another northbound car driven by Rodger Aplon, 35, of Laguna Beach, Orange County, patrolmen reported.

Baby's Cries Lead To Dead Woman's Body

BENSON, N.C. (UPI) —The wail of the four-month old boy led farmer David Olen Lee to an old dormitory for migrant farm workers Sunday.

When he looked inside the building "it was the worst looking sight I've ever seen," Lee said. "A dead mother and a baby lying beside it."

Mrs. Bonnie Neighbors, 33, bound hand and foot, gagged and blindfolded, had been shot twice. Next to her on one of three beds in the room was the baby and a half-empty baby's milk bottle.

The child was taken to Betsy Johnson Memorial Hospital in Dunn and was reported in satisfactory condition.

The woman and child had been missing since Thursday afternoon when they left home to pick up the family's other child at school.

A search began immediately Sunday for a blue car "occupied by three white males," and for "a hippie band" that took up residence in an abandoned house several miles from the Neighbors home north of town. The group dropped out of sight the same day the woman and child disappeared.

"The blue auto may be tied in with them, but we're not sure," said police officer J. D. Thornton.

Kenneth Neighbors, a prosperous certified public accountant with several offices in the eastern part of the state, was out of town when his wife and infant son disappeared Thursday, but he was home Sunday when they were found.

Authorities and friends said the family was well-respected in the area and there was no hint of any incompatability.

Lee, 59, said Sunday "the baby looked mighty healthy. He couldn't have stayed there last night and been as strong as he was. Temperatures had dropped to a low of 20 degrees the night before and the window and the door of the room both were open."

Lee said Mrs. Neighbors was clothed in a green pants suit and waist-length coat.

Local Areas Given Share Of Tax Fund

Marin and Sonoma County's share of the December distribution of local sales and use tax moneys collected by the state Board of Equalization, have been announced.

Marin County received $170,945 from the one-quarter per cent sales and use tax payments for the county local transportation fund. The county also received $68,888 from the Bradley-Burns one per cent sales and use tax.

Sonoma County's share of that tax was $211,066. Sonoma received $274,201 from the Bradley-Burns tax.

Cities' share of the distribution was:

Belvedere, $2,557; Corte Madera, $61,617; Fairfax, $10,248; Larkspur, $16,326; Mill Valley, $30,491; Novato, $63,660; Ross, $1,307; San Anselmo, $19,299; San Rafael, $223,452; Sausalito, $46,024; Tiburon, $10,580; Cotati, $14,320; Petaluma, $85,549, and Rohnert Park, $12,616.

Neighborhood Park Will Be Discussed

The Novato City Council will consider acquisition of a 13-acre site near Lynwood Park for a neighborhood park at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

The council also will have a hearing on classifying land along lower Novato Creek to F-1 zones where development would be prohibited and F-2 zones where development would be limited.

Only Seventy Families will enjoy the Privileged Homes of The NORTHSHORE at Lake Tahoe
Breathtaking setting adjoining Dollar Point, in a hidden forest completely separated from highway traffic. Spectacular architecture, pool, tennis courts, private sandy beach and a wealth of pleasures simply unavailable anywhere else.

Body Of Postmaster Is Found

The body of Lagunitas Postmaster Lawrence A. Stogsdill, 35, was found in his station wagon at 11 a.m. Saturday, according to Donald L. Cornish, Marin County coroner's deputy.

The vehicle was parked on Bolinas Road one mile south of Alpine Dam, with a hose running from its exhaust pipe to the interior, and on the front seat three empty bottles that had contained sleeping pills. No note was found, and cause of death was not known, according to Cornish.

Stogsdill had been a carrier for the San Rafael Post Office for Several years prior to being appointed Lagunitas postmaster on Sept. 18, 1965.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Bow And Arrow Practice For Role

LONDON (AP) — British actor Edward Woodward, who will play Robin Hood in a Christmas show, is practicing with his bow and arrows in his back yard. And he finds the going tough.

"My fingers are getting very raw, and I'm having to use spirit to harden the skin," he said.

U.S. Broadcasters Called Upon To Exercise Better Management

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A White House official warned broadcasters Monday against presenting "ideological plugola" and said network management and local broadcasters must exercise more editorial responsibility over the presentation of national news.

"There is no area where management responsibility is more important than news," Clay T. Whitehead, director of the Office of Telecommunications Policy, said in a speech to Sigma Delta Chi in Indianapolis, Ind.

"Broadcasters and networks took decivise action to insulate their news departments from the sales department, when charges were made that news coverage was biased by commercial considerations," Whitehead said. "But insulating station and network news departments from management oversight and supervision has never been responsible and never will be.

"Where there are only a few sources of national news on television, as we now have, editorial responsibility must be exercised more effectively by local broadcasters and by network management," Whitehead said.

Whitehead said his office has prepared legislation to require a station to meet two criteria in order to get license renewal:

Demonstrate that it has been "substantially attuned to the needs and interest" of the community it serves.

Show that it has afforded opportunities for the presentation of conflicting views on controversial issues.

Whitehead said the legislation is being cleared in the executive branch so that it might be introduced in Congress early next year.

He added:

Station managers and network officials who fail to act to correct imbalance or consistent bias from the networks —or who acquiesce by silence —can only be considered willing participants, to be held fully accountable by the broadcaster's community at license renewal time.

"When a reporter or disc jockey slips in or passes over information in order to line his pocket, that's plugola, and management would take quick corrective action.

"But men also stress or suppress information in accordance with their beliefs. Will station licensees or network executives also take action against this ideological plugola?

"Just as a newspaper publisher has responsibility for the wire service copy that appears in his newspaper —so television station owners and managers must have full responsibility for what goes out over the airwaves —no matter what the origin of the program."

He said station licensees "have final responsibility for news balance —whether the information comes from their own newsroom or from a distant network."

In New York, an NBC televison network spokesman said: "The administration's plan as described by Mr. Whitehead seems to be another attempt to drive a wedge between television stations and the networks."

New Game: Whom You Won't Invite To Party You Don't Give

The game is simple, and anyone can play. The fact it has no point adds to the appeal.

First you plan a party — probably one you aren't going to have. The first thing you do is to make a list of people you aren't going to invite — and give the reason. (You don't even need fellow players — you can play it all by yourself while stalled on the freeway or doing the family ironing.)

For starters, we weren't going to invite Jackie O. because she didn't have us to her last party. Kissinger was stricken from the list because he's always out of town, and Ethel can't come because she might bring her kids.

One can go on and on — but it soon gets awfully libelous for a newspaper.

THE GAME CAN have ramifications, too — even seasonal ones.

This week I started a list of people to whom I'm not sending Christmas cards.

First came the weatherman, who's really been going wild this month — and not even honest about what he has in mind. Then there's the Tamalpais High School District and administrators, the last of the big-time spenders, who don't need even another eight cents thrown their way.

The people who run the Emporium won't get one either — the hassle that it takes to get a box after spending one's money there cuts them from the list.

The N.O.W. ladies, who once seemed to be heading in the right direction toward getting things improved for women, were stricken after they allowed their newspaper to be an adversiting media for Lesbians.

Then there's the City of San Rafael, with its $2 parking tickets and limited parking which leaves those of us who work in the city with the fun and pointless game of moving our cars every two hours.

The Eagle Scouts don't need a card — they've all had their pictures in the I-J this month; nor do the young philosophers who punctuate each sentence with "okay" inserted every few words like a telephone beeper. (This is something new — it used to be "ya know" which was beeped at frequent intervals.)

THIS LIST could also be endless — as could the one of people that I didn't send Christmas cards to but should have.

That includes such people as the woman who pointed out a parking space at Macy's to me the other day; the huge, grim-looking tactical squad cop who broke into a smile and said his aunt used to work for the I-J, and the lovely lady who helped me solve all my problems with the Internal Revenue Service.

Finally, the I-J computer should have been sent a card. He seems to have recovered from his anger over having to work Christmas and said he would pay us two days early.

Purchase Of White Front Stores Pushed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 39-year-old businessman says he is negotiating to purchase all nine San Francisco area White Front stores.

"My accountants are now sitting down with those of White Front," Paul Maris said Saturday. "If the deal clicks, I hope to run all White Front stores here by Jan. 15."

Interstate Corp., the New York-based parent company of the White Front chain, announced last week it will close 21 of its 37 stores after the first of the year.

Maris, a native of Philadelphia, said the stores would continue to sell general merchandise, "mostly hard goods."

Dilemma Of Christmas Cards Resolved Backward By Computer

To card or not to card has become one of the major decisions of the Christmas season. No moral dilemma may outrank it except the question: Should one form a picket line upon hearing "I'm Dreaming of a White Cristmas" in public places?

According to the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers — yes, of course there's an NAGCP — about 60 million American families send about 2.5 billion cards annually, which works out to more than 40 cards per family. So most people finally decide to do it — one more year — led by President Nixon, who is reported to have a list of 37,000 names. (Minor question: Who pays for that $2,960 in stamps?)

Once having made the decision — to send Christmas cards at all — President Nixon and the rest of us still have a number of vexing policy problems. In particular: What kind of cards to send? And whom to send them to?

MARKET RESEARCHERS, as usual, keep the 200 or so Christmas card companies advised on our tastes even before we know them. For instance, category-counters reveal that 30 per cent of all Christmas cards sold in the United States have a "religious theme." Dare one conclude that the largest single subdivision of card-senders wants to celebrate the original meaning of Christmas?

But Santa Claus rates second as a motif and poinsettias third — facts which tell nothing, or all too much.

Mod Christmas cards — hip Santas flashing peace signs and so forth — are reported to be on the decline. On the other hand, nostalgia is making it. The Victorian angel has reappeared, and for the more secular there are "remember when?" themes, involving even old Coca-Cola ads.

UNICEF accounts for 26 million cards, though last year members of the John Birch Society are said to have provided themselves with a printed note to accompany their own Christmas cards, reading: "Please do not send me a UNICEF card."

This is known as the politicizing of Christmas.

THE CHIRSTMAS-CARD watcher notices more and more specialization. There has always been the Currier and Ives card — lots of sleighs, lots of covered bridges — presumably for people in cities to send to other people in cities. There has always been the museum-reproduction card, a most attractive way to confirm the mutual good taste of sender and receiver.

Now the ethnic card is evidently here to stay. Creative Soul, Inc., sold half a million cards a year ago, featuring black angels, black mother and child, and so on.

One can even take a posture on environment through one's Christmas card. Recycled Paper Products Co., founded a couple of years ago by three people in their 20's, expects to do a two-million card business this year with an "ecologically off-white" product and the motto: "No trees were destroyed to make this card."

Another environmentalist dilemma: If it's an ecological crime to chop down a Christmas tree, it is an even worse crime against aesthetics to buy a plastic one?

ONE SOCIOLOGIST has divided Christmas card lists thus:

"Reciprocal": The cards one sends to status-equals.

"Downward": the cards one sends to status-inferiors, hoping to appease them — the no-revolution-in-'73 cards.

"Upward": the cards one sends to status-superiors, hoping to ingratiate oneself. Upward mobility: On Donner, on Blitzen!

Poor President Nixon! No place to send but down.

Yet all this still doesn't get to the mysterious, frustrated, private voice that struggles to speak through Christmas cards — the voice that would give anything to share one last community feeling.

The pollster, Daniel Yankelovich, fresh from explaining why Americans want lime in their shaving cream, advised a major Christmas-card manufacturer that Americans want "the illusion they've made the cards themselves." The manufacturer's response: To reproduce the card's message in a silver or gilt facsimile of the sender's handwriting, which is sort of talking about canned fresh spinach.

Ridiculous, pathetic, but also touching. Christmas cards finally seem as baffling (and appealing) as the legendary Christmas message — "Leon Leon!" — sent out by a computer programmed backward. Did the other computer have the compassion to answer: "It's the thought that counts"?

Second Hearing Set For Youth

A second preliminary hearing for Robert Charles Foster of San Rafael has been set for Dec. 26 in Marin Municipal Court on a felony count of attempted robbery.

The 19-year-old youth missed the first scheduled hearing Tuesday and a warrant was ordered for his arrest, but he appeared the next day and the new date was set.

Electoral College

Today is the day Congress has set for voting by the Electoral College, the men and women who actually choose our President and Vice President. The 538 electors do not meet as a single body but gather in their separate states to vote. Since the electoral vote was determined by the popular vote in the November elections, the result is already known. The electors' votes will not be counted, however, until Congress meets in January. Vice President Agnew, in his role as Senate President, will have the pleasant constitutional duty of opening the electoral vote certificates that officially give him and Mr. Nixon their second terms in office.

DO YOU KNOW — Which U.S. area, not a state, has three electoral votes?

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Social Environment And Open Space

On Nov. 7, Marin citizens voted by nearly 2-to-1 to set up a countywide park district to acquire open space at public expense. The vote was 64,149 "yes" to 34,673 "no."

The proposition was a simple one: Should Marin County create a district to purchase and maintain open space, with authority to levy a tax of up to 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation?

As the vote showed, the people of Marin are willing to pay to retain open space — raw land — that will keep part of the county uncluttered and retain a semi-rural atmosphere in much of Marin.

Although we had reservations about the need for a special district, since the county board of supervisors could itself levy such a tax and purchase open space, we advocated approval of the measure.

HOWEVER, at the very time that Marinites were proving at the polls their willingness to underwrite the purchase of open space, the Marin County Planning Department was scheming to use the district for quite another purpose.

It was plotting to use the funds from the open-space tax as a blackjack to force Marin's 11 cities to impose housing patterns which fit the preconceptions of the planners.

The proposed Marin County General Plan lists nine "actions that should be taken immediately to expand the supply of low and moderate-income housing." Here is No. 8:

"Acquisition of open space by the proposed now countywide agency only to serve communities that are carrying out housing policies in conformity with the countywide plan."

THE EFFRONTERY of the planners in thus proposing to distort the parks district into an agency to force publicly subsidized housing — which would constitute over half of the new dwelling units to be permitted under the plan — was challenged last week by the county parks and recreation commission.

The unpaid citizens on the commission showed that they have higher regard for fair play and integrity than the highly paid planners.

Commissioner Leory M. Gerner put it the most plainly.

"We sold Measure A to the voter by saying it would save surrounding hills," he said. "I want nothing to do with this . . . it's completely wrong."

Sol Silver, the county's $19,560-per-year chief of advanced planning, had the gall to tell the commissioners that imposing such criteria in open-space purchase "is not an exclusive tying" but should be done because "you should be concerned with the social environment."

WE ARE CONCERNED with the social environment. We think the social environment deteriorates when deceit and subterfuge are used by "public servants" whose salaries we pay, to subvert the expressed will of the people.

We suggest that the Marin County Board of Supervisors might do its bit toward improving the social environment by some selective separations from the public payroll.

Frosty Mornings

Now that winter is painting Marin with broad strokes of crystalline white frost in the pre-dawn hours, we awake to a quite different world. Yet, it is strangely beautiful, like a bit of briefly transplanted arctic. As with fire, frost serves as a cleanser in nature. It kills insects and some tender plants and brings the yearly cycle of plant dormancy to a climax. Some plants require frost for normal good health.

To the gardener with many fuchsias and other frost-delicate plants, severe cold weather may seem a minor tragedy. But the feeling will soon pass and he can look forward to the pleasure of selecting new varieties to fill any voids left by freezing.

McCloskey Obeys Court; Mailliard Won't Do So

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

To the considerable dismay of his fellow military officers in Congress, Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-11th District, last week resigned his commission as a colonel in the Marine Corps.

McCloskey, not unfamiliar with the role of maverick, said he resigned because of a court ruling that congressmen cannot hold military rank. He cited a new U.S. Court of Appeals decision upholding the ruling of a judge in Washington, D.C., that it is unconstitutional for members of Congress to hold reserve commissions in the armed forces.

What dismayed his fellow officers, including Marin's own Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, was that they have no intention of taking such a step. A spokesman for Mailliard, a rear admiral in the Navy reserve, was decidedly discomfited when we inquired whether his resignation was forthcoming.

"He isn't going to like this," we were told when we pressed for a response. The 20-year congressman, it seems, is rather fond of his two stars and does not lightly entertain the prospect of giving them up.

The answer finally came back from Mailliard: He will not resign his commission unless the court's decision is upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court. That may take some years.

OPPONENTS of the Larkspur ferry terminal site still insist that there is a Point San Quentin site that would require no dredging. While they acknowledge the site is "connected to the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge," they fail to add that the connection is a half mile from shore.

Such a "terminal" certainly could not include parking facilities. The terminal alone would be wildly expensive, since it would be built entirely on pilings.

Passengers thus would have to be shuttled by buses between the terminal and a parking lot somewhere on the point. This absurd "solution" to largely imagined environmental hazards of the Larkspur site hardly would encourage use of the $20 million ferry system.

It is not too late for these busy opponents to reconsider their facts.

GOOD NEWS for drivers who aggravate their hernias when paying Golden Gate Bridge tolls out the passenger window. The two lanes where this awkward system has been used soon will be converted to allow toll taking on the driver's side.

The two booths in the affected lanes have been unusable because they offer no protection to the toll officers from traffic. Plans to add protective devices have been completed, and are awaiting state approval.

Unhappy With Voters' Decision To Fluoridate

The following are some of my thought on fluoridation:

Preventing tooth decay by simple elimination of some of the more common causes, sugar and sugar-related products for one example, was apparently not even considered by some of the more farsighted citizens of Marin County. They finally pushed through their magical fluoridation measure.

I wonder if fluoride will also help the overweight problem faced by many cavity-prone people?

Following the same line of logic, I think we can overcome the problem of social disease by simply adding penicillin to our county water supply. Right?

Are We Not Wiser Than The Dinosaurs?

It i not doomsdayish to consider the thought that man as a human creature could be destined to extinction like the dinosaur. We will not have it that way. Survival powers are stupendous in the kind of mind the dinosaur did not possess. We think he didn't have brains enough to survive his environment, although his environment changed for reasons beyond his control. We believe that we are able to control our environment, but will we, are we? If we unleash the nuclear bomb in further warfare it would be the beginning of the regression toward self-extinction, yet if we withhold the bomb but begin to lose control of our own surroundings, it will amount to the same thing.

We are already beginning to lose control, to hurt ourselves through polluted air, polluted soils, polluted rivers, lakes and seas. We began to discover this only recently, though warned many times by men in history that we should take pathways other than those we took. Vegetation is necessary for our oxygen supply, yet we are defacing vegetation, bulldozing it away, asphalt-lotting it out of existence. We are filling our oceans with rubbish, and these also give us our oxygen, even to greater extent than vegetation. As the population growth heads toward doubling itself, the parking lots will double, cars and cities will double, crowding out and imbalancing the complex ways of Nature. Such explosions can do the harm on a gigantic scale that the bombs could do. . .

Such "small" things as turning off electric lights behind us, stopping the faucet's drip, drip, drip, of using only half a tub of water for the bath, these are the beginnings we may make toward frugality. Everything is inter-related, connected with everything else. We can start at home to retain our quality of life, and it will affect the wide world around us. Are we not a lot wiser than the dinosaur?

Growing Christmas Trees Preferable To Plastic

Re: editorial "A Plastic Christmas Tree" (Dec. 11):

Driving from Olema to Tocaloma on Sir Francis Drake I have been watching now for some time the development and labor of what obviously is an embryo Christmas tree farm. In the dry months it is a pleasure to see the dark green of the trees in contrast to the golden grass in the foreground. It is a joy to watch the trees grow higher. True, some day there will be some harvesting. But there'll be new ones planted and growing. As for "the labor that goes into growing," I for one that has for over 20 years worked in a noisy and fumy plastic extrusion department, wish my work would have been outdoors nursing trees. As for the labor of "transporting and selling," are you not a little naive if you believe your "plastic Scotch pine" got to you without transporting and selling?

Historic Ordinance Needed In San Rafael

I am writing this letter to publicly thank Laurence Mulryan of the San Rafael City Council for his proposal to create a historic ordinance in San Rafael. Councilman Mulryan shows foresight and sensitivity to this city's past and future beauty by this action.

The public is fast becoming aware of its diminishing history as old homes give way to new service stations. A historic ordinance would officially put the reins on unbridled distruction of our precious architectural heritage.

I believe this action expresses a new and healthy attitude in city government and I hope the city council responds favorably.

Boys' Club Seeks Trustee Candidates

For the past six years, this United Crusade agency has been doing yeoman work in serving more than 300 youngsters in Marin City with a diversified program of productive activities and recreation.

From time to time, we have been asked about membership on our governing board. We are most eager to invite individuals who are willing to commit themselves in service to youth to become members of our Board of Trustees.

The qualifications are quite simple: you have to want to become part of our board and you must be willing to give up some of your leisure time — perhaps one-half day a month — to help our program grow.

what better way to serve our community and our nation than to help kids to grow to responsible manhood?

If you, the reader, should want to become a member of our board of trustees, please write to the Marin City Boys' Club, 640 Drake Avenue, Marin City, 94965.

TODAY'S WORLD

"Do you wish a major overhaul or would you take a chance on a minor tune-up?"

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Citizens who rejoice over the federal revenue that's being shared with their local governments are shocked when they stop to realize who supplied the revenue in the first place.

A taxpayer is just as broke no matter which one of his pockets the revenue came from.

Think of all the postage it takes to send the cash to Washington, then forward it to City Hall.

Local bureaucrats regard this program not so much as a chance for revenue sharing as an opportunity to share in the spending.

Taxation without misrepresentation is rare.

Choosing Rhodes Scholars Gives A Look At America's Best

I have been engaged for a week in what has been for many years one of my most difficult and pleasant tasks: a share in interviewing and selecting Rhodes scholars

First a word about the Rhodes scholarships. They remain perhaps the most eagerly sought of post-graduate study opportunities: two or three years at Oxford University. There are no strings attached. The notion, occasionally voiced by extremist critics, that the scholarships include some sort of pledge to aid British interests, or take part in international conspiracy, is totally false. Rhodes scholars are required only to pursue their studies and more or less behave themselves. There are no pressures on them before, during, or after. For Americans, at least, one of the chief benefits is to get a better perspective of one's own country.

THE PROCESS of selection is extremely difficult, because the applicants are so strong. The selection committees are asked to base their judgment on intellectual force, strength of character, and physical vigor. These qualities are not easy to measure.

A man's academic record in his college or university is of some value. We ask searching questions, by mail, of a list of referees.

And, in an interview of half an hour or more, perhaps with re-interviews, we try to find out what is inside a man. (I keep writing "man". This is because the Rhodes will, and the act of the British Parliament which implemented it, would have to be altered to include women. A special Rhodes-financed program for women's postgraduate study has been set up, but it is modest.)

The evening before the interviews, we have a social gathering for the candidates and the selection committee, to try to set them at ease. But at best the interview is a formidable experience.

IF ANY MEMBER of the committee knows enough, we ask the candidate about his intellectual specialties. Frequently he knows more in his field than any of us. We try to find out his purpose in life, his concept of service, how well equipped he — plus a time at Oxford — will be for what Cecil Rhodes called "the world's fight."

Often we try to get the candidate to think originally, then and there. We used to ask offbeat questions. The chairman of the New England committee was for many years Harvey Bundy, an eminent Boston lawyer and public servant and father of McGeorge William Bundy. One of his favorite questions was to tell a man he was to be given a million dollars and ask how he would spend it; or be permitted to go anywhere in the world for a week — where would it be, and what would he do; or, in many famous cases, told he would be stranded on a desert island and be permitted to choose three companions from all time. Whom would he select?

One memorable lad, from a service academy, chose Benjamin Franklin, Kim Novak, and Leonardo da Vinci. He said Franklin was for all-round intellectual companionship; Miss Novak as a charming young lady, and Leonardo to help them all figure out ways of getting off the island.

ANOTHER APPLICANT, now a most eminent professor at Yale on loan to Oxford, was told he could have unlimited funds and might spend a week in New York: what would he do? His answer ingeniously touched all the bases among the Rhodes criteria. He ended with a neat joust of wits with chairman Bundy. He got a scholarship.

But the interviews are not usually all that smart-alecky. They are serious attempts to discover the real quality of a man, and estimate who could most effectively utilize throughout his life the advantages of an Oxford experience.

Many young black men have recently been elected. Many disadvantaged have made it. We are impressed by the intellectually prestigious, but we look for much more. We have elected some all-America athletes, but usually physical vigor means simply a healthy attitude toward sports or nature.

I have observed quaint phenomenon. Usually it is easy to choose the Number One man. The second and third come hard.

Don't let any one tell you the present generation of American youth is weak or unmotivated. They are the strongest generation I have ever watched.

Five Men Close To President; Only Two Of Them In Cabinet

President Nixon's big five — these are the men who, under the President, will wield the greatest power in the second term

Treasury Secy. George Shultz — his role is vastly enlarged. All foreign and domestic economic decision-making will be in his hands.

Secy. of Defense Elliot Richardson — a political liberal whose job will be to sell a strong defense program to Congress.

Henry Kissinger — slightly tarnished by his imprudent interview with an Italian correspondent —apparently remains secure in his job as Mr. Nixon's chief and trusted foreign policy co-ordinator.

John Ehrlichman and Robert Haldeman — there was never any doubt they would remain as influential as ever. None could be closer to Mr. Nixon or more trusted.

WHERE'S THE NEW CABINET? It's around somewhere, but it will not be very conspicuous. The critics are right in saying this is a cabinet of administrators without a new political star in the carload.

No George Romney, no John Volpe, no John Connally, no Nelson Rockefeller.

And this is exactly the way Mr. Nixon wants it. Policy is to be generated and co-ordinated almost entirely in the White House and not ascend to the President from the cabinet.

MR. NIXON'S FUTURE WITH LABOR. Obviously he wants to hold as much labor support as he can and this is why he named New York's construction union leader, Peter J. Brennan, secretary of labor.

The effect of the Brennan appointment will not be to unite labor but to keep it divided politically. George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, wants to take all labor back into the Democratic Party. Brennan aims to keep quite a few "hard-hat" holdouts with the President.

PRESIDENT FACES HOSTILE CONGRESS. The Democrats certainly have as strong a popular mandate to run Congress as the President has to run the White House. If Mr. Nixon has leverage because of the big vote, the Democrats have leverage on the President because of their big congressional vote.

At the opening of Congress, there will be friendly words and polite sparring. But divided government has worked badly for years and there is no reason to think it will work any better now. The candid forecast has to be: stalemate and injury to the country.

WHY THE WHITE HOUSE PICKED GEORGE BUSH. It wants a lower profile Republican National Committee. Sen. Robert Dole, D-Kan., as national chairman during the past two years, gave the President what he wanted then. Dole was a headlinemaker, a phrasemaker, an aggressive partisan who was good at needling the Democrats.

Mr. Nixon needs political co-operation from Congress, not political controversy for its own sake. With two years of U.N. diplomacy behind him, George Bush, former ambassador to the United Nations, is Mr. Nixon's idea of the right man in the right job at this time.

STUDENT MILITANCY CONTINUES TO WANE. Security officers of 58 leading colleges report that their major concerns today are thievery, congested parking and vandalism. Activist demonstrations, bomb threats and other violence are now lesser problems.

FOOTBALL — THE INJURY-LADEN SPORT. From high school to the top professionals, nearly one-half of the nation's football players are injured every year. Most injuries are minor, but many are serious.

Specialized "sports medicine" is practiced by at least 20,000 physicians and another 20,000 volunteer their services at games.

The greatest danger for players is at the high school level. Only about 100 of the 15,000 high schools which sponsor football have either medical care or a full-time teacher-athletic trainer.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Dec. 18, 1962

San Rafael Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa fired Inspector Nick Giampoli, who had announced he would run against Chiesa for chief in the April, 1963, municipal election.

Roger Kent, state Democratic vice chairman, filed suit to bar John C. Stuart of Novato from the ballot in a special election to name a replacement for Rep. Clem Miller, D-Corte Madera, who was re-elected after being killed in an airplane crash.

20 YEARS AGO

Dec. 18, 1952

Twenty applicants for the job of Sausalito police chief were to be examined by a board appointed by the League of California Cities.

The San Francisco Bay Area Council came out against the Reber Plan for an earthfill barrier across the Bay between San Rafael and Richmond.

COUNTRY PARSON

"Whoever doubts he can succeed, won't."

SPACE SOUGHT FOR PARK

An aerial photo clearly shows why residents of San Rafael's Canal area want the outline lot near the center of the picture purchased for a park. The 2.5-acre parcel on the canal is surrounded by apartment complexes and developers have proposed another 96-unit building for the empty space. Park proponents have been told there is no city money to buy the parcel, estimated to cost $300,000, but the San Rafael City Council will discuss the matter again at a meeting at 8 p.m. today.

Uganda Taking Over Tea Plantations

KAMPALA (UPI) — President Idi Amin announced Sunday that the government will take over all foreign-owned tea plantations in Uganda and told 780 British aid personnel they can remain in Uganda, but only if they accept local salaries instead of higher salaries paid them as expatriates.

Altogether eight companies were involved in the takeover of the tea growing industry.

He said in a nationwide radio broadcast that British personnel who want to leave must go by Dec. 31. Those who go can take only $117 in foreign exchange compared with normal emigration allowance of nearly $7,000, he said.

There are about 1,500 Britons engaged in various aid projects in Uganda.

Although he denounced relations witth Britain, Amin said he did not intend to break diplomatic ties with London.

"The government has decided to acquire all tea estates belonging to all non-citizens in Uganda," Amin said.

He also said the government was considering the status of several other firms—the Ugandan subsidiaries of Brooke Bond-Oxo, British American Tobacco, the British Metal Corporation, Securicor, and the Chillington Tool Company, Consolidated Printers, the Uganda Transport Company and International Television Sales. The ITS is American-owned.

The president said that all place names in Uganda which were "imperialist" in origin would be given African names and consultations would be held with the Kenyan and Tanzanian governments on a suitable new name for Lake Victoria.

Winter Program Signups Opened

Reservations are being taken at the San Anselmo Parks and Recreation Department for the winter program which includes activities for preschoolers, sports and classes for teenagers and adults.

Antique restoring, quilting, needlecrafts, belly dancing and judo will be among the offerings. Trips to Golden State Warrior basketball games are scheduled for youngsters.

Signups are also being taken for holiday trips for youngsters to the "Nutcracker" performance Wednesday at the Veterans Memorial Building and an ice skating trip to Santa Rosa on Dec. 29.

McGovern Aide Claims He Hasn't Been Paid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former aide to Sen. George S. McGovern said today he and two other persons had filed formal complaints for alleged nonpayment of salaries during the presidential campaign.

Joseph Mohbat, a press aide during the campaign, told reporters that McGovern, Democratic presidential nominee, had "paid off the millionaires and not the workers."

Mohbat said one worker, Julie Schlesinger, a $110 a week secretary, got a favorable ruling from the District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board that ordered payment of back wages for all workers earning less than $150 a week.

Mohbat said that his complaint and that of Susan Davis, who worked with him, would be heard by the board on Wednesday. Th board would make no comment on the complaints. The hearings will be closed.

McGovern said several times during the fall that his campaign would finish in the black. He was reported to have told a reception for his campaign workers Dec. 10 that he was grateful their efforts had resulted in numerous small contributors with the result that he would finish the campaign with no large debts.

It was reported some time ago that Henry Kimelman, McGovern's finance director and a Virgin Islands millionaire developer, withheld about $100,000 in salaries ovr the the last five weeks of the campaign.

"If you ask them why they paid off the millionaires and not the workers, the money people tell you, 'We had a legal obligation to them.'" Mohbat said.

"I think it explains why so many young persons are so turned off by politics and politicians," he said.

New Game: Whom You Won't Invite To Party You Don't Give

The game is simple, and anyone can play. The fact it has no point adds to the appeal.

First you plan a party — probably one you aren't going to have. The first thing you do is to make a list of people you aren't going to invite — and give the reason. (You don't even need fellow players — you can play it all by yourself while stalled on the freeway or doing the family ironing.)

For starters, we weren't going to invite Jackie O. because she didn't have us to her last party. Kissinger was stricken from the list because he's always out of town, and Ethel can't come because she might bring her kids.

One can go on and on — but it soon gets awfully libelous for a newspaper.

THE GAME CAN have ramifications, too — even seasonal ones.

This week I started a list of people to whom I'm not sending Christmas cards.

First came the weatherman, who's really been going wild this month — and not even honest about what he has in mind. Then there's the Tamalpais High School District and administrators, the last of the big-time spenders, who don't need even another eight cents thrown their way.

The people who run the Emporium won't get one either — the hassle that it takes to get a box after spending one's money there cuts them from the list.

The N.O.W. ladies, who once seemed to be heading in the right direction toward getting things improved for women, were stricken after they allowed their newspaper to be an adversiting media for Lesbians.

Then there's the City of San Rafael, with its $2 parking tickets and limited parking which leaves those of us who work in the city with the fun and pointless game of moving our cars every two hours.

The Eagle Scouts don't need a card — they've all had their pictures in the I-J this month; nor do the young philosophers who punctuate each sentence with "okay" inserted every few words like a telephone beeper. (This is something new — it used to be "ya know" which was beeped at frequent intervals.)

THIS LIST could also be endless — as could the one of people that I didn't send Christmas cards to but should have.

That includes such people as the woman who pointed out a parking space at Macy's to me the other day; the huge, grim-looking tactical squad cop who broke into a smile and said his aunt used to work for the I-J, and the lovely lady who helped me solve all my problems with the Internal Revenue Service.

Finally, the I-J computer should have been sent a card. He seems to have recovered from his anger over having to work Christmas and said he would pay us two days early.

Purchase Of White Front Stores Pushed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 39-year-old businessman says he is negotiating to purchase all nine San Francisco area White Front stores.

"My accountants are now sitting down with those of White Front," Paul Maris said Saturday. "If the deal clicks, I hope to run all White Front stores here by Jan. 15."

Interstate Corp., the New York-based parent company of the White Front chain, announced last week it will close 21 of its 37 stores after the first of the year.

Maris, a native of Philadelphia, said the stores would continue to sell general merchandise, "mostly hard goods."

Dilemma Of Christmas Cards Resolved Backward By Computer

To card or not to card has become one of the major decisions of the Christmas season. No moral dilemma may outrank it except the question: Should one form a picket line upon hearing "I'm Dreaming of a White Cristmas" in public places?

According to the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers — yes, of course there's an NAGCP — about 60 million American families send about 2.5 billion cards annually, which works out to more than 40 cards per family. So most people finally decide to do it — one more year — led by President Nixon, who is reported to have a list of 37,000 names. (Minor question: Who pays for that $2,960 in stamps?)

Once having made the decision — to send Christmas cards at all — President Nixon and the rest of us still have a number of vexing policy problems. In particular: What kind of cards to send? And whom to send them to?

MARKET RESEARCHERS, as usual, keep the 200 or so Christmas card companies advised on our tastes even before we know them. For instance, category-counters reveal that 30 per cent of all Christmas cards sold in the United States have a "religious theme." Dare one conclude that the largest single subdivision of card-senders wants to celebrate the original meaning of Christmas?

But Santa Claus rates second as a motif and poinsettias third — facts which tell nothing, or all too much.

Mod Christmas cards — hip Santas flashing peace signs and so forth — are reported to be on the decline. On the other hand, nostalgia is making it. The Victorian angel has reappeared, and for the more secular there are "remember when?" themes, involving even old Coca-Cola ads.

UNICEF accounts for 26 million cards, though last year members of the John Birch Society are said to have provided themselves with a printed note to accompany their own Christmas cards, reading: "Please do not send me a UNICEF card."

This is known as the politicizing of Christmas.

THE CHIRSTMAS-CARD watcher notices more and more specialization. There has always been the Currier and Ives card — lots of sleighs, lots of covered bridges — presumably for people in cities to send to other people in cities. There has always been the museum-reproduction card, a most attractive way to confirm the mutual good taste of sender and receiver.

Now the ethnic card is evidently here to stay. Creative Soul, Inc., sold half a million cards a year ago, featuring black angels, black mother and child, and so on.

One can even take a posture on environment through one's Christmas card. Recycled Paper Products Co., founded a couple of years ago by three people in their 20's, expects to do a two-million card business this year with an "ecologically off-white" product and the motto: "No trees were destroyed to make this card."

Another environmentalist dilemma: If it's an ecological crime to chop down a Christmas tree, it is an even worse crime against aesthetics to buy a plastic one?

ONE SOCIOLOGIST has divided Christmas card lists thus:

"Reciprocal": The cards one sends to status-equals.

"Downward": the cards one sends to status-inferiors, hoping to appease them — the no-revolution-in-'73 cards.

"Upward": the cards one sends to status-superiors, hoping to ingratiate oneself. Upward mobility: On Donner, on Blitzen!

Poor President Nixon! No place to send but down.

Yet all this still doesn't get to the mysterious, frustrated, private voice that struggles to speak through Christmas cards — the voice that would give anything to share one last community feeling.

The pollster, Daniel Yankelovich, fresh from explaining why Americans want lime in their shaving cream, advised a major Christmas-card manufacturer that Americans want "the illusion they've made the cards themselves." The manufacturer's response: To reproduce the card's message in a silver or gilt facsimile of the sender's handwriting, which is sort of talking about canned fresh spinach.

Ridiculous, pathetic, but also touching, Christmas cards finally seem as baffling (and appealing) as the legendary Christmas message — "Leon Leon!" — sent out by a computer programmed backward. Did the other computer have the compassion to answer: "It's the thought that counts"?

Second Hearing Set For Youth

A second preliminary hearing for Robert Charles Foster of San Rafael has been set for Dec. 26 in Marin Municipal Court on a felony count of attempted robbery.

The 19-year-old youth missed the first scheduled hearing Tuesday and a warrant was ordered for his arrest, but he appeared the next day and the new date was set.

Electoral College

Today is the day Congress has set for voting by the Electoral College, the men and women who actually choose our President and Vice President. The 538 electors do not meet as a single body but gather in their separate states to vote. Since the electoral vote was determined by the popular vote in the November elections, the result is already known. The electors' votes will not be counted, however, until Congress meets in January. Vice President Agnew, in his role as Senate President, will have the pleasant constitutional duty of opening the electoral vote certificates that officially give him and Mr. Nixon their second terms in office.

DO YOU KNOW — Which U.S. area, not a state, has three electoral votes?

Nixon Removes Lid On N. Viet Strikes

White House Still Says Peace Road 'Wide Open'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — While saying the road to peace "is wide open," the White House said today President Nixon had removed restrictions on bombing North Vietnam.

Two days after Nixon's Vietnam negotiator, Henry A. Kissinger, reported his ceasefire negotiations with North Vietnam to be at an impasse, Nixon ordered American planes to resume full operations on the North. Raids quickly followed on Hanoi and Haiphong.

Ronald L. Ziegler, White House press secretary, said the bombing resumption —after a pause of nearly two months as a gesture to stimulate a peace agreement —was intended to cope with a buildup of Communist forces "which could lead to another offensive in the South."

While the President was removing bombing restrictions just one week before Christmas, Ziegler stressed that the United States still hoped for a peace settlement.

"The road to peace is wide open," Ziegler told reporters. "We want a rapid settlement to this conflict." But asserted, "We are not going to allow the peace talks to be used as a cover for another offensive."

Ziegler said Nixon's statement of last May 8, in which he ordered the mining of North Vietnam's harbors and increased bombing, was once again U.S. policy.

The presidential spokesman said the bombing north of the 20th Parallel —primarily the Hanoi-Haiphong area where most of North Vietnam's population is concentrated — had been ordered suspended in October as a move to stimulate peace efforts.

Ziegler said the United States would continue working with both South Vietnam and North Vietnam in hopes of achieving a settlement, but added:

"In the meantime ... our policy is as the President stated it on May 8 and the activities (now going on over North Vietnam) are consistent with that policy and are designed to deal with an enemy buildup which could lead to another offensive in the South."

Ziegler added, "the President will continue to order any action he deems necessary by air or by sea to prevent any buildup he sees in the South."

Said Ziegler: "Neither side can gain from prolonging the war and neither side can gain from prolonging peace talks."

In the intensive bombing from last spring to October, little of North Vietnam was barred to U.S. planes. A few months ago Pentagon officials reported that no fixed targets —such as industrial plants, and bridges —of military importance remained standing in North Vietnam, with the exception of electrical plants in downtown Hanoi and downtown Haiphong.

It was not known if the U.S. announcements that Hanoi and Haiphong were included in the new target list meant that electrical plants would now be attacked.

Much of the bombing in the summer and fall concentrated on keeping bridges and railroads cut and on trying to stop the movement of goods south to the battle zone.

Nixon returned to the White House by helicopter early this afternoon from Camp David, Md., where he had spent the night with his family.

Hanoi Radio Says Big Raids On North Capital

SAIGON (UPI) — The U.S. Command announced tonight the United States had resumed bombing attacks against the Hanoi-Haiphong area of North Vietnam.

Air strikes above the 20th Parallel were halted by President Nixon last Oct. 23 as a gesture of goodwill toward North Vietnam when it appeared that a cease-fire appeared imminent.

Hanoi Radio reported today that U.S. planes had resumed sowing mines in Haiphong Harbor this weekend and said the American planes fired rockets in the Haiphong area.

Hanoi Radio reported there were devastating air attacks against Hanoi tonight, and the U.S. Command after first saying "no comment" confirmed the reports.

"We are conducting air strikes throughout North Vietnam against military targets from which North Vietnam is supporting continued infiltration into an attack against South Vietnam," a U.S. Command spokesman said.

"This includes the Hanoi-Haiphong area.

"We will have no further comment on the ongoing operations at this time."

The new aerial strikes followed the announcement Saturday by Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger that his secret peace talks with North Vietnam's Le Duc Tho had reached an impasse. Kissinger blamed the North Vietnamese, and Radio Hanoi blamed the Americans.

Sunday night, Radio Hanoi reported strikes against the Haiphong area and accused the United States of mounting the strikes to force Hanoi into a peace settlement on terms it already had rejected. The U.S. Command did not confirm the new bombing at that time but did not rule out the possibility that mines were being dropped.

Tonight's strike was the first American air attack on Hanoi since Oct. 11 when planes mistakenly bombed the French mission while striking a railroad yard about three miles north of the downtown Hanoi area.

The Hanoi Radio announcement in a broadcast monitored at a 11:30 p.m. Saigon time (11:30 a.m. EST) said the bombing raid occurred at 8 p.m. Hanoi is 30 minutes ahead of Saigon time.

"Many of the U.S. warplanes were forced down and several American pilots were captured," the broadcast said.

Radio Hanoi said planes shot down during tonight's raid brought to 4,082 the number of American warplanes destroyed over North Vietnam during the Indochina war. On Sunday, Radio Hanoi claimed two American planes were shot down the previous day, bringing the total to 4,078. This would mean North Vietnam is claiming four planes were shot down tonight.

An Exciting Week For Beachcombers

A series of high tides that began today and reach their peak on Wednesday promise an exciting week for beachcombers and tide pool enthusiasts in Marin County.

This year's greatest range from high to low tide — nine feet at the Golden Gate on Wednesday — will leave a minus two-foot low tide with normally covered tidepools exposed to the wintry air.

According to the Astronomical Society of the Pacific, at the California Academy of Sciences in San Francisco, the big tides are produced by the moon's near-ideal conditions for such phenomena.

These include the moon near perigee (minimum distance from earth); moon near maximum angle north of equator; moon near full phase (sun, moon and earth approximately in line). The earth also is approaching its perihelion (closest) date with the sun on Jan. 2.

These four circumstances, says the society, will bring about a near maximum in the tidal forces acting on the oceans throughout north and south temperate latitudes as far as 40 degrees.

Here in Marin County it means that on Wendesday high tide at the Golden Gate will occur at 10:27 a.m., followed by low tide at 5:43 p.m. Almost as far out, and easier for daylight beachcombing, will be the low tomorrow afternoon at 4:51 p.m.

Good spots inside the bay and on the coast have slightly different times, and these can be figured out by adding or subtracting the right time interval.

For instance, at Sausalito and the west end of Angel Island, add 15 minutes. For Bodega Harbor and Bolinas Bay subtract 20 minutes, and for Point Reyes, subtract 40 minutes.

This means that Duxbury Reef at Bolinas, undoubtedly the best tidepool observation point, the low slack water will be at about 5:15 p.m.

Dr. Gordon L. Chan, College of Marin biologist, today recommended 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. as the best time, but warned visitors to get off the reef before it gets dark.

"And they must remember that Duxbury Reef is a marine reserve," he emphasized, "there can be no collecting whatsoever ... this is the whole theme now, observe and photograph but don't take a thing." A ranger will be on duty on the reef at all times, he added.

Dr. Chan said that this practice of observing without destroying should be followed in any trips to the coast and bay. "People have to be careful that each rock they pick up goes back in the exact same place."

Other sites the marine biologist recommended are: Point San Quentin, Sausalito, Fort Baker, and South Muir Beach (where great care must be taken of high waves; similarly at any ocean point).

He said although the mud flats of the bay "don't have the diversity of marine organisms" of the ocean tide pools, they will still provide fascinating examples to the visitor.

In the back estuaries high and low tide times can vary by up to an hour from the Golden Gate figures, he added.

Truman Has Good Night At Hospital

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Harry S Truman, his heart weak and his kidneys malfunctioning, slept peacefully through the night and awoke today to tell doctors that he felt "all right.

Doctors treating the former president said he was still "very serious."

"Former President Truman is slightly more alert today after a restful night," Research Hospital spokesman John Dreves said. "When asked how he felt, Mr. Truman replied, 'all right'."

Dreves said the 88-year-old Truman was still having problems with his kidneys, which have failed to respond to medication for six straight days.

"Kidney output still is inadequate but there is no increase in fluid buildup," Dreves said. "He is not receiving any medication or nutrition intravenously. It is being administered via the nasal gastric tube which he continues to tolerate well."

Dreves said his heart condition, which doctors said Sunday was so weak that it could not support a kidney machine to cleanse his blood, was still unchanged.

At 9:15 a.m. EST, the former president's blood pressure was 130 over 56, pulse was 74, respiration was 24 and his temperature was 98.4. He remained in "very serious condition," doctors said.

The 33rd President's condition was evaluated by a kidney specialist Sunday.

Hanoi Again Proposes A Brief Cease-Fire For The Holidays

SAIGON (UPI) — North Vietnam today proposed a brief Christmas and New Year's truce as in past years but said there can be no real peace—and no U.S. prisoner of war release —until the United States signs a cease-fire agreement.

Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency (VNA), in a broadcast monitored in Saigon, made it clear it was not agreeing to the truce proposed last week by Saigon that would start at Christmas, run through the New Year and continue thereafter while negotiations go on.

"There will be no cease-fire in the tricky way as proposed by the United States and its puppets," VNA said. "As in the past, proceeding from the aspirations of the people, the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the Republic of South Vietnam (Viet Cong) will cease attacks on the occasion of Christmas and the New Year this year and on other traditional festivals.

"Only after the U.S. signs the peace agreement reached with the Democratic Republic of (North) Vietnam will there be a real cease-fire and negotiations between the Provisional Revolutionary Government of the Republic of South Vietnam and the Saigon administration.

"And captured U.S. military men will be released after the agreement is signed and correctly implemented."

Both sides have agreed to Christmas truces every year since 1965, and to New Year's, Tet (lunar new year) and Buddha's birthday truces in succeeding years. Without exception, all truces have been marked by charges of numerous violations by both sides.

Communist truces usually last three days, allied truces a shorter time. Last year, for example, the Communist truce lasted three days at Christmas but the allied truce ran only 24 hours, from 6 p.m. Christmas Eve to 6 p.m. Christmas day.

Cold Spell Broken, But Still Wet

Intermittent, soaking rains are expected to continue over Marin County and Southern Sonoma at least through tomorrow, federal weather forecasters said today. But at least last week's bitter cold spell appears to have broken; temperatures stayed above the freezing mark at all reporting stations.

The forecast was for a 40 per cent chance of rain tonight and tomorrow, with lows tomorrow morning in the 40s and highs reaching into the uppr 50s and low 60s tomorrow.

As it has all winter, the rainfall differed greatly in different locations. Bolinas had a total of 3.11 inches in the past 48 hours with 1.72 inches since 8 a.m. yesterday. Tiburon had 2.3 inches in 48 hours with exactly one inch since 8 a.m. Sunday. Petaluma had 2 inches in 48 hours, with only .43 of an inch since yesterday. Novato had half an inch since 8 a.m. yesterday.

The weekend rainfall in San Rafael was 1.85 inches, as of midmorning today.

Ag Department Planning For A Meatier Hot Dog

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department plans to propose a nationwide ban on the use of livestock byproducts such as lips and spleen in hot dogs and similar foods, a department official said Monday.

If the proposal is adopted, it could raise the cost of some hot dogs, Assistant Secretary Richard E. Lyng said, "but I think it's time to consider revising ingredients and find out what people really think."

Federal officials and some meat packers have been waging a legal battle against Michigan's similar attempt to enforce stiffer hot dog standards than those required by current federal rules.

In effect, the deprtment's proposal would bring federal standards into line with Michigan regulations.

The proposal would eliminate byproduct meats from hot dogs bologna and other cooked sausage. It would allow only "skeletal meat" in hot dogs.

Lyng said the proposal would be ready for formal announcement within 30 days, after which about 60 days would be allowed for public comment.

Lyng said there was nothing wrong in using byproduct meats as far as wholesomeness is concerned, although he conceded the practice poses "some aesthetic problems."

SPACE SOUGHT FOR PARK

An aerial photo clearly shows why residents of San Rafael's Canal area want the outline lot near the center of the picture purchased for a park. The 2.5-acre parcel on the canal is surrounded by apartment complexes and developers have proposed another 96-unit building for the empty space. Park proponents have been told there is no city money to buy the parcel, estimated to cost $300,000, but the San Rafael City Council will discuss the matter again at a meeting at 8 p.m. today.

Uganda Taking Over Tea Plantations

KAMPALA (UPI) — President Idi Amin announced Sunday that the government will take over all foreign-owned tea plantations in Uganda and told 780 British aid personnel they can remain in Uganda, but only if they accept local salaries instead of higher salaries paid them as expatriates.

Altogether eight companies were involved in the takeover of the tea growing industry.

He said in a nationwide radio broadcast that British personnel who want to leave must go by Dec. 31. Those who go can take only $117 in foreign exchange compared with normal emigration allowance of nearly $7,000, he said.

There are about 1,500 Britons engaged in various aid projects in Uganda.

Although he denounced relations witth Britain, Amin said he did not intend to break diplomatic ties with London.

"The government has decided to acquire all tea estates belonging to all non-citizens in Uganda," Amin said.

He also said the government was considering the status of several other firms—the Ugandan subsidiaries of Brooke Bond-Oxo, British American Tobacco, the British Metal Corporation, Securicor, and the Chillington Tool Company, Consolidated Printers, the Uganda Transport Company and International Television Sales. The ITS is American-owned.

The president said that all place names in Uganda which were "imperialist" in origin would be given African names and consultations would be held with the Kenyan and Tanzanian governments on a suitable new name for Lake Victoria.

Winter Program Signups Opened

Reservations are being taken at the San Anselmo Parks and Recreation Department for the winter program which includes activities for preschoolers, sports and classes for teenagers and adults.

Antique restoring, quilting, needlecrafts, belly dancing and judo will be among the offerings. Trips to Golden State Warrior basketball games are scheduled for youngsters.

Signups are also being taken for holiday trips for youngsters to the "Nutcracker" performance Wednesday at the Veterans Memorial Building and an ice skating trip to Santa Rosa on Dec. 29.

McGovern Aide Claims He Hasn't Been Paid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former aide to Sen. George S. McGovern said today he and two other persons had filed formal complaints for alleged nonpayment of salaries during the presidential campaign.

Joseph Mohbat, a press aide during the campaign, told reporters that McGovern, Democratic presidential nominee, had "paid off the millionaires and not the workers."

Mohbat said one worker, Julie Schlesinger, a $110 a week secretary, got a favorable ruling from the District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board that ordered payment of back wages for all workers earning less than $150 a week.

Mohbat said that his complaint and that of Susan Davis, who worked with him, would be heard by the board on Wednesday. Th board would make no comment on the complaints. The hearings will be closed.

McGovern said several times during the fall that his campaign would finish in the black. He was reported to have told a reception for his campaign workers Dec. 10 that he was grateful their efforts had resulted in numerous small contributors with the result that he would finish the campaign with no large debts.

It was reported some time ago that Henry Kimelman, McGovern's finance director and a Virgin Islands millionaire developer, withheld about $100,000 in salaries ovr the the last five weeks of the campaign.

"If you ask them why they paid off the millionaires and not the workers, the money people tell you, 'We had a legal obligation to them,'" Mohbat said.

"I think it explains why so many young persons are so turned off by politics and politicians," he said.

Many Toys Labeled Too Aggressive

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Many toys on store shelves these days encourage aggression and sexism in children, say two spychologists at the University of Utah.

The two — Profs. Donna M. Gelfand and Donald P. Hartmann — said they have examined scores of toys to try to determine what effect they might have on a youngster.

"In a toy department tour . . . I found that a third to half of the merchandise consisted of aggressive toys — war games or guns," said Hartmann. "Not uncommon were rock 'em, sock 'em robots who were turned on to annihilate each other."

"Toys play a vital role in the child's development," said Prof. Gelfand. "They should encourage individuality rather than sexism — why must girls always receive nurse outfits and boys be given chemistry sets?"

Many toys also are inferior and unsafe, the researchers said.

"A number of toys banned by the Foot and Drug Administration have not been removed from the shelves," said Prof. Gelfand. Parents must inform themselves — through such publications as "Consumer Reports" — about dangerous toys. Everyone should know enough to avoid uninspected electrical toys and toys made of glass or plastic that shatters."

Toys, says Hartmann, serve three functions in the growth of a child:

They are a primary socialization tool by which kids learn skills and social roles.

They are sources of entertainment.

Children probably don't need expensive, sophisticated toys to properly develop social skills, Hartmann says.

"In a sense, you could socialize over a mud puddle as well as an electric train, but most parents prefer the train."

The psychologists — both parents—suggest buying toys that encourage creativity and inventiveness—such as arts and crafts supplies, seed sprouting kits and pets, "fun for the whole family" games.

Democrat Panel Hands Burton Slap On Drive For Leadership

OAKLAND (UPI) —Throwing an apparent road block at San Francisco Assemblyman John Burton, the top echelon of the California Democratic Party has voted to make lawmakers ineligible for the state chairmanship.

By a 26-22 vote, the executive committee of the Democratic State Central Committee passed a surprise resolution Saturday barring members of Congress and the state Legislaturefrom being candidates for the top post.

George Bramson of Sacramento County introduced the resolution. Backers denied their action was aimed specifically at the liberal assemblyman from San Francisco.

However, Burton is the lone lawmaker among four potential candidates.

Neither Burton nor his brother, congressman Phillip Burton, were present when the action was taken on the second day of the executive committee meeting at the Edgewater Hyatt House.

"It's a sneak attack on the Burtons," said Agar Jaicks, Democratic chairman from San Francisco. "They have always had some opposition in the Democratic party.

Sen Alfred Alquist, D-San Jose, was among those favoring the measure. "No one can do an effective job both as a legislator and state party chairman," he said.

A new state chairman will be elected at the Democratic State Convention in Sacramento Jan. 27-28 to replace Charles Manatt of Van Nuys. After two years, he must relinquish the post to a Northern Californian.

Other potential candidates are attorney John Merlo of Chico, northern division chairman; attorney Charles O'Brien of Danville, former chief deputy state attorney general, and Mrs. Pat Nisbett, a Berkeley housewife and head of women Democrats in Northern California.

Help Hailed In Heroin Crackdown

NEW YORK (UPI) —American narcotics officials say they are finally getting international cooperation which is helping them crack the top levels of heroin traffic. But problems continue to crop up at home.

"In the last few years there has been phenomenal cooperation from other foreign countries, especially France, Canada, South America and Turkey," said Daniel P. Casey, New York regional director for the Bureau of Narcotcs and Dangerous Drugs. Casey calls the new cooperation "an ecumenical movement."

As a result, drug officials are finally cracking the highest levels of the world's billion-dollar heroin trade and bringing down some of the tycoons who run it.

In New York, however, officials announced last week that 80 pounds of heroin seized in the famous "French Connection" case 10 years ago had been stolen from police headquarters. The heroin was being kept because aspects of the case, made famous by the Academy Award winning film, were still open, and it was needed as evidence. Agents had seized 110 pounds altogether in the case.

The Knapp Commission, formed to investigate police corruption in New York City, charged this year that some police officers were personally involved in drug traffic. Testimony by undercover policemen before the commission said some officers would provide heroin for addicts in exchange for stolen goods.

But on the international scale, things are looking up, police say.

Last Friday, Auguste Joseph Ricord was convicted of charges he masterminded a South America-based drug ring that smuggled an estimated $60 million in heroin into the United States. A French native, wanted in France for various crimes, Ricord was extradited from Paraguay after strenous American efforts.

In another case, 11 persons were indicted for conspiracy to smuggle 385 pounds of heroin into the U.S. The ringleader, Andre (Raymond) Gretan Condeminea, is believed to have been "eliminated" by other thugs.

Two weeks ago, 16 persons were indicted for their part in a ring that allegedly supplied a ton of heroin a year for U.S. markets. The crackdown spanned three continents and included agents from seven countries.

On Nov. 17, another 20 were indicted on charges of shipping 1,100 pounds of heroin into the U.S. over a three-year period. One of the indicted men, Christian David, pleaded guilty to a smuggling charge and received a 20-year sentence in order to escape the guillotine in France.

Two Frenchmen, one Cuban and one American were convicted for conspiring to smuggle 264 pounds of heroin through an army sergeant assigned to NATO.

Reputed underworld lieutenant Joseph Manfredi was convicted Sept. 30 for conspiring to handle "substantial amounts" of heroin.

Louis Cirillo was convicted of importing 375 pounds of heroin from France. Narcotics agents found $1,078,000 buried in the backyard of his Bronx home.

The biggest turnaround, perhaps, has been in France, which now faces a growing narcotics problem similar to that in the United States in the early 1960s.

"For a long time there had been a certain apathy by the French," Casey said. "At the time, their priorities were not ours."

One narcotics official said the French "have done a tremendous job this year. They knocked off five heroin labs in Marseilles. That was more than they did in the last 10 years."

Each such lab, Casey said, could produce two tons of heroin annually. Officials estimate 6 1-2 to 11 tons would supply all the addicts in the United States for one year.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

Back To Camp

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon, looking tired at the annual White House Christmas service yesterday, unexpectedly flew by helicopter to his mountain retreat.

Nixon has just finished a period of revamping his administration for the new term and discussing with Henry A. Kissinger the latest developments in the Vietnam peace negotiations.

White House officials gave no indication how long Nixon would remain at the mountain lodge where he has spent nearly three weeks since his reelection Nov. 7.

More Births Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Although 1972 will show the lowest birth rate in the nation's history, a private research group said today that population growth will probably continue well into the next century.

The Census Bureau reported Sunday that the nation's birthrate in the first six months of this year for the first time dropped to a level that could lead to "zero population growth."

"Current estimates indicate the total fertility rate during the first half of 1972 to be about 2.1 births per woman," the bureau said.

This is the so-called "replacement level," the rate at which the population in the absence of immigration would replace itself. If the pace continued for 70 years, the nation would reach zero growth—meaning births would equal deaths.

Violence Continues

BELFAST (UPI) — Another bomb exploded and another soldier was shot and wounded in Belfast today as Secretary of State William Whitelaw summoned security chiefs to consider ways to halt a pre-Christmas upsurge of killings that took two more lives over the weekend.

In Dublin, Mrs. Sean MacStiofain, wife of the imprisoned chief of staff of the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA), said her husband would never break his hunger strike, now in its 30th day. she said if her husband starved himself to death she would do the same.

Snipers fired six shots at a British army post in West Belfast, slightly injuring one soldier, an army spokesman said.

Mining Safety

MULLENS, W. Va. (UPI) — The lives of 24 men killed in two weekend explosions could have been spared if only safety regulations were enforced, United Mine Workers of America (UMWA) president-elect Arnold Miller charged Sunday.

Five miners were killed and three injured critically when sparks from an underground trolley set off a methane gas explosion at the Itmann No. 3 mine Saturday. That tragedy came 30 hours after four gas explosions killed 19 men and injured 10 others at a new coke plant at Wierton. The plant was built by Koppers Co. for the Weirton Steel Co.

Miller expressed "disgust" with mine safety enforcement after touring the Itmann pit and said strict enforcement of present laws would avert such disasters.

Cyanide Gas Whiff Is Fatal

SAN GABRIEL, Calif. (UPI) —A 25-year-old college chemistry student was found dead at his apartment during the weekend after he accidentally inhaled homemade cyanide gas, once used in the state's execution chambers, authorities said.

The body of Terry Stage, a senior at California State University at Los Angeles, was found slumped over a chair in the kitchen Saturday near an assortment of vials containing three deadly acids.

Sheriff's deputies said Stage apparently formed the cyanide gas by mixing sulphuric acids and cyanide hydrochloric. One deep sniff of the gas is deadly.

Mexico Shivering From A Cold Snap

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Mexico today shivered in the grip of a three-day cold wave which has left at least eight persons dead and caused storms on land and at sea.

Six persons died of exposure to intense cold in Mexico City, officials said, and two other persons died in Veracruz during a wind storm.

Tricycle Study

WASHINGTON (UPI) —An engineering research study which cites more than 100,000 tricycle-related injuries annually has prompted the federal government to begin drafting mandatory regulations for tricycle makers.

A preliminary copy of a study made by the Calspan Corp., of Buffalo, N.Y., said standard tricycles are unstable and unsafe for children because poor design allows them to roll over and pitch backwards under normal use.

The study, made at the request of the Health, Education and Welfare Department's Bureau of Product Safety, said "unstable performance can occur within the normal operating range" of many of the estimated 1.5 million tricycles made and sold each year in the United States by domestic manufacturers.

Jobless Rate Causes Cited

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Women and youths entering the work force in record numbers are the causes of continued high unemployment rates, says retiring Commission of Labor Statistics Geoffrey H. Moore.

There are now about 4.5 million persons—5.2 per cent of the work force—looking for jobs with a record 82.5 million employed.

An estimated 800,000 "discouraged workers" have given up trying to find a job and are not included in the unemployment rate, Moore said.

$200,000 Fire At Carpet Store

OAKLAND (UPI) —A fire Sunday night caused $200,000 damage to a carpeting store and spread to two adjacent businesses.

The fire broke out in the Collins Floor Covering Company and flames tore through the roof of the building.

The flames also damaged an insurance office and a travel agency.

There were no injuries.

Retires from Sears

New Retail Manager For Sears Outlets

David P. Scanlan, 54, of Seattle has been named general manager of Sears, Roebuck and Company's mid-California retail district, which includes 15 retail stores and 18 catalog sales and appliance stores from St. Helena to Watsonville.

He will succeed George G. Gaugler of Hillsborough, who retires from the company next Feb. 1. Under Gaugler, the mid-California retaildistrict has grown from 10 stores in 1967 to 15 stores today, including the new Northgate Sears.

Scanlan is a 30-year veteran with Sears. He joined Sears in Chicago in 1937 and held positions in San Bernardino, Los Angeles, and San Mateo before being named manager of the Stockton store in 1952. He then managed the store in Mountain View and was manager in Portland from 1963 to 1966, when he was appointed to his present post as general manager of the company's retail operations in 19 stores in the Pacific Northwest.

Gaugler, 60, joined Sears in 1935. He became manager of the Sears-Hawaiian operations in 1965 and was appointed to his present position of mid-California district manager in 1967.

Post Gets The Brush At White House Parties

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The White House has decided to bar the Washington Post from covering social events involving President and Mrs. Nixon.

Dorothy McCardle, a reporter for the Post's "Style" section, was banned from covering three social events during the weekend and was restricted to the press lobby. White House social occasions are a main staple of the society news covered by city's two daily newspapers.

In addition, Mrs. McCardle was told that her name is not on the list to cover the First Lady's annual Christmas party for the children of diplomats today, although she regularly is assigned to Embassy Row.

The Post ran stories almost daily on the Watergate bugging case during the fall presidential campaign and received some criticism from administration officials for their coverage. The three-man Post team assigned to the story has already won one major journalistic prize for excellence in investigative reporting.

Throughout the years reporters for local newspapers have always been included in the group of reporters—called a pool—allowed to cover social events at the White House.

Art Showing

Shopping Days Till Christmas

Cold Ordeal For Meat Firm Owner

LONG BEACH, Calif. (UPI) —Jack Wilantt started the weekend off by checking things out at a meat company he owns in Santa Ana. He ended it locked inside a freezer, waving a flag, and wondering where those 4,000 pounds of choice steaks went.

When Wilantt, 57, drove to his firm Saturday afternoon, he found a burglary in progress and was quickly surrounded by three men who ordered him to open the safe at gunpoint.

He couldn't open the safe so the three men beat him up, gagged and blindfolded him and forced him inside a company van along with 101 boxes of telderloin and top sirloin steaks they had stolen.

The men drove the van to Los Angeles where they unloaded the steaks and locked Wilantt in the cold-storage section of the truck, which was abandoned in nearby Vernon.

Wilantt spent the night trying to get out and keep warm. He used a penny and a dime to loosen some screws from the truck's interior and he wrapped insulation around himself to ward off the cold.

He then found a wire in the refrigeration unit which he used to pry open the rubber sealings in the door, enough to stick the wire through with a make-shift flag attached to the end.

"I could see a motorist passing by who saw the flag waving and he opened the door," Wilantt said following his 20-hour ordeal.

New Blast At Hospital Construction

WASHINGTON (UPI) —The General Accounting Office says the spiraling cost of medical care is partly due to poor government coordination of hospital construction.

The GAO cited as examples six cities which will have 4,000 more hospital beds by 1975 than they will need. They are Baltimore, Cincinnati, Denver, Jacksonville, Fla., San Francisco and Seattle.

Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., released the GAO report Sunday. Ribicoff said there was a "disgraceful failure" at all levels of government to coordinate hospital construction.

"The study reveals a disturbing pattern of over-construction and under-utilization which is out of step with actual community needs and out of line with what the average American can afford to pay," Ribicoff said.

He said the GAO report revealed that the sharing of specialized services such as cobalt therapy, open-heart surgery and obstetrical services was so low that some units were "virtually unneeded" in terms of actual use.

Fish have no vocal organs but are by no means silent. They make sounds by grinding their teeth or setting up vibrations in certain organs such as the swim bladder.

Dimes Fund Chairmen Are Named

Four area chairmen for the annual fund raising campaign of the March of Dimes were named today by George J. Silvestri Jr., county campaign chairman.

Albert J. Boro, San Rafael planning commissioner and chairman of the Marin County Park and Recreation Commission was named to the San Rafael area.

Gerald J. Hood, executive director of the Marin County Human Rights Commission and Mill Valley city councilman will head the southern Marin area.

Hugh Dougherty, former Marin County planning commissioner, was named head of the West Marin area.

Edward T. Ryken had previously been appointed to the North Marin area.

Mrs. Steiner's Condition 'Satisfactory'

Ulrike Steiner, 33, of Sausalito, was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital, recovering from a bullet wound in the chest she suffered Tuesday. She earlier had been in critical condition.

Sausalito Police Chief James D. Wright said it still had not been determined whether Mrs. Steiner accidentally or intentionally shot herself.

Her husband, Dr. John Michael Steiner, a Sonoma State University professor, was in the shower at the time and did not hear the shot as earlier reported. He found his wife after the subsequent ringing of the telephone led him to the room where she lay wounded.

Steiner also informed the Independent-Journal that he is a native of Czechoslovakia, not Germany as previously reported.

The professor said his wife had been depressed by the recent death of her mother.

Diabetes Rap Sessions Slated

Two rap sessions for persons suffering from diabetes and their relatives have been set in January by the Marin County Diabetes Association.

The first will be at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 4 for teen-agers, when a physician, dietician and nurse will discuss matters of interest to young diabetics.

The second will be at 8 p.m. Jan. 15, affording an opportunity for parents of diabetic children to discuss their problems with a psychiatrist and a pediatrician.

Both meetings will be at the First Methodist Church, 9 Ross Valley Drive, San Rafael.

Eichmann Aide Is Dead At 65

BERLIN (UPI) — Friedrich Bosshammer, an aide of Adolf Eichmann in the Nazi's Jewish extermination program, died Sunday in a West Berlin hospital, justice authorities announced today. He was 65.

Bosshammer was convicted of complicity in the murder of 3,000 Italian Jews and sentenced to life imprisonment by a West Berlin court on April 11.

He appealed the sentence. The court released him from jail last month while the appeal was pending because doctors said he had a critical heart ailment.

Youth Held In Auto Theft Probe

Adam Jessie James, also known as Jones, 19, of 654 Gate Five, Waldo Point, was booked into Marin County Jail yesterday on suspicion of auto theft.

Deputies at the Southern Marin substation said James was spotted prowling through a parked auto at the Strawberry shopping center. Deputies found the car he was driving had been stolen from San Francisco, they said. He was held in lieu of posting $1,200 bail, to appear in Marin Municipal Court today.

OBITUARIES

Johanna Mathiasen Succumbs At 102

Johanna Mathiasen, at 102 years old one of Marin County's oldest residents, died yesterday at the Aldersly Danish retirement Home after a short illness.

Mrs. Mathiasen had lived at the home for 20 years, and was the oldest resident. Until recently she had been in good health and retained all her faculties.

Born in Denmark, she came to California in 1920. A widow, she moved from Oakland to the home on Mission Avenue, San Rafael, in 1952.

She is survived by two sons, Soren A. Mathiasen of Wood-side, New York, and Otto F. Mathiasen of Cupertino, by seven grandchildren, 16 great-grandchildren and one great-great-grandchild.

Funeral will be Wednesday at 1 p.m. at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Inurnment will be private.

JOSEPH KENNEY

Private funeral and private burial were held yesterday for Joseph O. Kenney of San Rafael, manager of the Boulevard Bowl in Petaluma and longtime participant in Marin and Petaluma bowling associations.

Kenney died Saturday in his home after a long illness. He was 54.

Born in Dayton, Ohio, he moved to California in 1951, and to Marin County 20 years ago.

He is survived by his wife, Ruth, of the home at 311 Vendola Drive, and a son, John, and daughter, Betty Ann Kenney, both of Petaluma.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the Petaluma Junior Bowling League.

LENA HARRIOTT

Mrs. Harriott died Friday at a Sebastopol hospital after a lengthy illness. She was born and reared in Indiana and moved to Petaluma 60 years ago after her marriage to the late Herbert Harriott.

Mrs. Harriott was past president of the Waugh School Parent-Teachers Association and was a member of the Corona Club. She lived at 760 Corona Road.

Burial was at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

ROY E. EWING

Roy E. Ewing, 91-year-old Mill Valley resident, died Saturday in a local hospital after a short illness.

Ewing was born in Kansas but had lived in Marin since 1910. His home was at 65 Catalpa Avenue.

Ewing, who was retired, worked for Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Co. for 40 years as an installer-repairer.

He was a member of Mill Valley Lodge No. 356, Free and Accepted Masons and was a former member of Sons in Retirement. He also worked with Boy Scouts in Mill Valley for 35 years.

His wife, Susie C. Ewing, preceded him in death.

He is survived by a son, Roy E. Ewing Jr. of Elgin, Ariz., and a brother, Ross Ewing of Southern California.

Funeral will be at 1 p.m. tomorrow at Russell and Gooch chapel in Mill Valley. Burial will be in Mount Tamalpais Cemetery, San Rafael.

MRS. BENAVENTE

Angelina Gayatin Benavente, 44, supervisor at the Hamilton Air Force Base Exchange, died yesterday at a local hospital after an illness of several months.

Mrs. Benavente was a native of the Philippine Islands and came to the United States 20 years ago. She had worked as shift supervisor at the base exchange at Hamilton.

She and her husband, Manuel Benavente, lived at 149 Alta Drive, Petaluma, for four years.

She is also survived by a daughter, Estrellita Newman of Windsor; a brother and eight sisters in the Philippines and a grandchild.

KATHRYN YONUSHONIS

Funeral for Kathryn Yonushonis, 66, mother of Margaret Howland of Petaluma, will be held Wednesday in Erie, Pa.

Mrs. Yonushonis died Friday at a local hospital after a short illness. She was a lifelong Pennsylvania resident and had been visiting her daughter in Petaluma for four months.

She is also survived by another daughter, Elizabeth Kubiah of Erie; a sister, Mary Kelly of Erie; and six grandchildren.

Burial will be at Calvary Cemetery in Erie.

BERNICE MORRIS

Funeral for Bernice June Morris of Fairfax will be held at 10:30 a.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Burial will be private.

Mrs. Morris, 73, died Saturday in her home at 20 Willow Avenue after a brief illness.

A native of California, she had lived in Marin for the past 42 years. Her husband, Lee Morris, died about 10 years ago.

She is survived by a son, Daniel C. Olson of San Anselmo, a daughter, Janice Curry of Novato, and five grandchildren.

IVA GOBLE

Iva M. Goble, 92, lifelong resident of Southern Sonoma, died today at a local convalescent hospital after a lengthy illness.

Mrs. Goble was born at Two Rock and had lived many years at 418 Washington Street, Petaluma. She was the wife of the late Emery Goble.

Mrs. Goble was a member of Morningstar Chapter No. 61, Order of Eastern Star.

Funeral will be held Wednesday at 2 p.m. at the Parent Funeral Chapel. Private burial will be at Cypress Hill Memorial Park.

Contributions may be made to the Two Rock Presbyterian Church or to any charity.

WILLIAM SCHOLLE

William Scholle of 2 Cheyenne Way, Corte Madera, died early yesterday in a local hospital. He was 73.

According to Marin County coroner's deputy Donald L. Cornish, Scholle was taken to the hospital's emergency room at 10:30 p.m. Saturday. He appeared to have suffered a heart attack, reported Cornish.

A retired foreman for Pronto Tool Co., Scholle had lived in Marin County for eight months. He is survived by his wife, Mildren.

Funeral arrangements are pending at the Daphne Funeral Home, Corte Madera.

ANDREA LONGFELLOW

Funeral for Andrea (Lorraine) Longfellow, known as the only woman cab driver in San Rafael, will be at 1:30 p.m. tomorrow at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

She died Thursday in a Redwood City hospital after a short illness. She was 44.

A native of New York City, she had lived in Marin County since 1946. At one time she owned her own cab company in Larkspur and later sold it and worked as a cab driver in San Rafael. She was also known as an artist locally. She was living in Lagunitas at the time of her death.

She is survived by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Kelley; a sister, Rose Marie Anderson, all of McKinney, Tex.; a daughter, Pamela Lee Longfellow of London, England, and one grandchild.

Burial will be private.

Off-Highway Vehicles Are Registered

Some 386 off-highway motor vehicles have been registered with the state Department of Motor Vehicles in Marin and Sonoma counties since off-highway registration legislation took effect last July, the motor vehicle department has announced.

In Marin, 130 motorcycles, four four-wheel vehicles and one miscellaneous off-highway vehicles have been registered. In Sonoma, 246 motorcycles and five four-wheel off-highway vehicles have been registered.

Some 41,071 vehicles have been registered statewide, or less than 5 per cent of the estimated one million off-highway vehicles using public lands in the state, the department said.

Famed Siren To Be Replaced

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — After 54 years of service, the loud siren which has sounded off three times each weekday from the Ferry Building is getting a vacation — which could become permanent.

The Port Commission today was to start an experiment for several weeks in which a tuned miniature bar bells in a self-timing unit will be electronically amplified, replacing the siren.

The carillon will give the familiar five-note "English strike" plus the time every hour from 8 a.m. to 8 p.m. daily.

Man Arrested In Draft Dodge

Francis Xavier Mish, 24, of Willits, was arrested by Novato police yesterday on an FBI warrant for unspecified violation of the Selective Service Act.

Officers saw Mish sitting in a parked car at Vallejo Avenue and Highway 101 at 10:55 p.m., and upon checking learned of the warrant issued from Philadelphia, Pa.

Mish was taken to Marin County Jail and was scheduled to be placed in custody of a U.S. marshal.

France Will Pay For Translations

LA PAZ, Bolivia (UPI) —The French Embassy said Sunday it was willing to pay $2,500 for the translation of extensive documents indicting ex-Nazi leader Klaus Altmann in order to expedite his extradition to France from Bolivia where he has been living since 1950.

Altmann, who has been condemned to death in France in absentia, allegedly ordered the death of French Resistance leader Jean Moulin.

Child Care Facility Permit Due Study

The San Anselmo Planning Commission will review a use permit application granted three months ago to Linda Hersh for a child care facility at 241 Los Angeles Boulevard at a meeting at 8 p.m. today in the city hall.

The matter was set for review to determine if the facility is causing traffic or other problems.

Council To Eye Impact Reports

The Petaluma City Council will weigh environmental impact reports on two proposed projects at its meeting today at 7:30 p.m.

Reports will be heard on Qantas Development Corp. plans for a subdivision, apartments and professional-medical offices behind the Washington Square shopping center and plans by Ronald Nunn for six homes on Dickson Hill off West Street.

The council also will consider the purchase of six police cars and construction of restrooms at La Tercera Park.

NO PARENTS PLEASE — Four-year-old Kelly Lingenfelsen takes her Christmas shopping duties seriously at Detroit's J. L. Hudson's "For Children Only Shop." She is one of many youngsters aged 2 to 12 taking advantage of the shop where the "no parents allowed" policy is strictly enforced and where everything from display tables to prices are in children's size. To insure no youngster exceeds his budget, a tag bearing the child's name and purchase limit is pinned on each child's clothing. (UPI Telephoto)

Pint-Sized Furnishings, Prices For Children Only Shopping

DETROIT (UPI) — Kris Kivilaan's parents are going to have a good Christmas.

For dad—the guy who shines all the shoes in the family, according to Kris—a nifty, compact shoe polish kit complete with sponge, cloth and brown wax. Price—58 cents.

At 5 ½ years old (he makes sure you note the ½), Kris shops like a pro. In less than 10 minutes, he chalked up a register sale of $5.60 at the J. L. Hundson's "For Children Only Shop."

Most of that time was spent over well-thought purchases in the toy section of the tiny, kidsized shopping area.

Stuffed in his shopping basket along with mom's necklace and dad's shoe shine kit was a brightly colored vinyl telephone for brother Alex, 2, and a 2-foot high patchworked dog for Kris' big brother. Total sale—$2.89.

The "For Children Only Shop" caters to kids, strictly enforcing its "no parents allowed" policy.

While children from ages 2 to 12 wander among the goodies, parents wait outside the shopping area—with the money.

Everything in the vibrantly colored shop is kid size. Redpainted display tables are no higher than four feet. Even most prices come small, ranging from 10 cents for a Snoopy pocket-sized book to $10.

And to make sure no young shopper goes beyond his budget, young sales clerks supervise purchases, keeping within the spending limit recommended ahead of time by parents.

A tag bearing the child's name and listing his purchase limit for each family member is pinned on each child's clothing before he enters the shop.

For Kris, there was an $8 limit—$2.40 more than his frugal purchases. But, he admits shyly, none of the money was his. He said his piggy bank was emptied long ago, on more important items— like candy.

Take 7-year-old-Amy:

Outfitted in a red and white dress and matching stockings, Amy breezed through the shop, picking up gifts for two grandmas and two grandpas, an uncle, a cousin and mom and dad. She wound up shelling out a total of $10.

Was it easy? "Sure. I go shopping all the time," Amy said.

Her basket was piled with gifts, including a Christmas tree necklace for one grandma, and a silver-painted turtle pin for Mom.

The "For Children Only Shop" is stocked full of things to delight any child's eye. How about a candle that looks like a piece of cherry pie; tiny rose-scented soaps for grandma; plastic key cases for uncles or a gallon container of antifreeze window-washing fluid for economical dads?

The only thing for mom and dad to do is anxiously wait on folding chairs outside the red curtains for their shoppers and act delighted on Christmas morning.

Three Microwave Ovens Are Stolen

Three microave ovens valued at $1,194 were taken Saturday or Sunday from Martin and Harris Appliances, 1604 Fourth Street, San Rafael, by a thief who smashed a glass door, police reported today.

Police said they believed the incident to be linked with the theft of several microwave ovens from the firm's Mill Valley office at 438 Miller Avenue last Wednesday.

Nobel Winning Author To Accept Money — Loan

MOSCOW (UPI) —Nobel prize-winning author Alexander I. Solzenitsyn called his financial situation "desperate" Sunday and said he was "deeply touched" by the offer of money from American writer Albert Maltz.

Solzhenitsyn said that although it was embarrassing, he would accept the money as a loan. But he said he did not think Soviet authorities who must approve the loan would "give me a single kopeck (penny)."

Maltz, a screenwriter, novelist and playwright, made the offer to turn over royalties due him in the Soviet Union in a letter to a New York newspaper last week. Culture Minister Yekaterina A. Furtseva said in Moscow four days ago that the Soviets owed Maltz nothing and that Solzhenitsyn was "well off."

"He got his Nobel prize money and bought more than one car," she said.

In a statement circulated Sunday to western newsmen, Solzhenitsyn rejected the statement.

"For seven years they (the authorities) have denied me money and housing," he said. "I have no roof of my own and I have nothing with which to buy even the most modest small house. My only car, which I have been using for nine years, was sold to prolong my existence and I have not got any other car."

Reform Unlikely In U.S. Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Lawmakers determined to reform the way Congress does its business plan to take their appeal for change directly to the people, but most reformers are still reluctant to predict victory.

The biennial effort to convince long-time congressmen to vote for a system that could toss them out of power appeared better organized this time around, with more people becoming active on a larger scale.

The test will come about two weeks after the new Congress convenes Jan. 3 and goes behind closed doors to organize itself in party caucuses. Groups such as Common Cause and Americans for Democratic Action say the doors should be kept open and the critical organizing activities made public.

Reformers say the caucus as such is okay, but its proceedings should be public with recorded election of committee chairmen and officers of the Congress, who will all control what kind of legislation flows through Congress in the next two years.

Republicans, still the minority party, cast secret ballots for their members who will be ranking on committees, but Democrats require that 10 of their members stand up to demand a secret ballot vote for a committee chairman. In the absence of such a vote the member with most time in Congress automatically becomes chairman, a seniority system that has operated since 1910 when the House revolted against Speaker Joe Cannon and the way he used the power of the speaker to appoint committee chairmen and members.

The leading candidate for House Democratic leader, Rep. Thomas P. O'Neill Jr., D-Mass., would prefer a return to the Cannon power but has not pushed for this "because it just is not realistic to think we can get enough votes for that system again."

His opponent, Rep. Sam Gibbons, D-Fla., supports a softening of the seniority system, calling for election of individual committee chairmen by the caucus, but still by secret ballot.

"After all," Gibbons told UPI interviewers, "I came here elected by a secret ballot of my own constituency and I think the chairmanship flows from the caucus constituency and I think it should be the same type of secret ballot."

Common Cause and ADA, two of 50 similar citizens groups who have combined to form the Committee for Congressional Reform, argue that the present system has produced committee chairmen rooted in the past and insensitive to today's social needs.

This is the basic message the Committee, through its many organizations, but principally ADA, is taking into the districts of reluctant House members in an effort to get a hometown groundswell that will force a vote for reform.

"This movement marks the first time that a coordinated out-of-House effort has been made to institute needed changes in the legislative body," said Dudley Ward, chairman of the umbrella group.

The reformers are not without active support within Congress. Sen. Lawton Chiles, and Rep. Dante B. Fascell, both Florida Democrats, plan to reintroduce a bill that died with the old Congress that would order all Congressional committees and executive agencies to open their meetings to the public if "official action is to be discussed or considered."

Another Florida Democrat, Rep. Claude Pepper, plans to reintroduce his bill which would order conference committees hold their sessions in the open.

Sens. Robert Taft Jr., R-Ohio and Robert Packwood, R-Ore., said they will urge the GOP Senate caucus to set up a seven -man committee to recommend Republican committee assignments, including the ranking minority members, with the entire caucus then casting recorded votes on the recommendations.

The two concede that their major obstacle is to get recorded public vote by the caucus to create such a committee.

Santa Will Come By Land And Sea

The Bel Marin Keys Yacht Club will hold its annual Santa-by-sea program at 4 p.m. Friday when Santa Claus, traveling aboard a decorated cabin cruiser, will stop at 13 docks to give out candy canes.

Meantime, a Santa-by-land program will be at noon Saturday with Santa heading a parade. After the parade, a party will be held at the Bel Marin Keys Community Center, sponsored by the Bel Marin Keys Women's Club.

Judging in the Bel Marin Keys home decoration contest, sponsored for water side homes by the Yacht club, and for street side dwellings by the Bel Marin Keys Homeowners Association, will be held Friday starting at 6 p.m.

Body Of Girl Is Identified

SANTA ROSA (UPI) — Sonoma County Sheriff's deputies Sunday identified the body of a nude girl found in nearby hills last week as Lori Lee Kursa, 13, a Santa Rosa eighth-grader believed to have run away from home Nov. 11.

Undersheriff Robert Hayes said the girl apparently died the first week of December.

The cause of death was not immediately established but deputies theorized the girl might have jumped from a moving vehicle in the hills east of Santa Rosa.

Deputies said she had been living with her mother and had a history of hitch-hiking.

The Icelandic Kroner Devalued

REYKJAVIK (UPI) — The government devalued the kroner by 10.7 per cent Sunday and ordered the country's currency exchanges closed today.

The central bank said one U.S. dollar is now worth 99 Icelandic kroner.

The bank said the government devalued the kroner because of the "unsure development of the economic situation."

A Wag Suggests Yuletide Changes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A lot of Republicans around town are nervous this Yuletide season because of President Nixon's budget cutbacks and personnel layoffs.

"To: Santa Claus

"Fr: Office of Festive Management and Fiscal Control

"Re: Reductions in Operations.

"Under the general financial policy directives it will be necessary to reduce the scope of your operations to bring them within the framework of the revised Christmas budget. We have reviewed your organization and operational patterns and we believe that your mission can be accomplished with the following reductions in the conduct of your responsibilities. They are to be implemented immediately.

"1. Four reindeer are sufficient to pull your sleigh. It is our option as to which deer are to be affected by a reduction in force (RIF), but it is our suggestion that Dasher, Dancer, Donner and Vixen have not been pulling their weight. This is based on computer studies of average reindeer 'pull capacity' in flight pulling a full load.

"2. It is not necessary that all presents be distributed on Xmas Eve. This heretofore mandatory one-night delivery system places an undue strain on all facilities and requires additional personnel. Delivery of gifts will now begin on Dec. 1 and continue until Dec. 31. Where possible, regular commercial carriers should be utilized in lieu of special sleigh delivery.

"3. The number of elves in the toy shop must be reduced from 150 to 75. Your attention is invited to import regulations 512-Sub 4 on the manufacture and distribution of toys and other Christmas items from foreign firms.

"4. Your failure to file an acceptable Environmental Impact Statement requires that all Xmas decorations of any kind be limited to commercial establishments. No residential decorations are allowed —save for the mandatory 'Xmas wreath' which is to symbolize the 'joy of the season' as outlined in 'Festive Regulation No. 149-b' from this agency.

"5. All sleigh flights are to follow noise abatement procedures in urban areas where population density is in excess of 5,000 per sq. mile. 'Ho Ho Ho's' should be reduced in volume and number. Reindeer and sleigh runners should be equipped with rubber to prevent 'roof clattering' and other noise problems.

"6. Computerized rating systems are to be used for the evaluation of gift recipients rather than the broad category of 'who's good or bad.' This is not judged to be sufficient criteria on which to make a decision.

"7. Hark, the Harold Angel, and Round John Virgin have been detailed from this office to monitor your operations during this Xmas Season. They will make further recommendations after the first of the year. You are, again, advised of the standards appeal provisions from the effect of this order.

"It is our hope that you will have a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year. We are joined in this expression of yuletide cheer by:

"George Cunningham & Family

Railroad Being Offered For $1; There's Strings

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A slightly used railroad along San Francisco's waterfront is for sale for one dollar.

Included in the price are three diesel switch engines, 60 miles of track, a superintendent and complete train crew.

There's also a slight qualification—the buyer must be able to operate the freight carrier, known for decades as the State Belt Line Railroad.

Port Commission president Cyril Magnin says that means the buyer would have to swallow a current deficit of about $11,000 a month.

He said Southern Pacific, Western Pacific and the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe have shown little enthusiasm over the bargain sale price.

The railroad, which was a bustling mover of cargo to and from crowded docks during World War II, has been gradually phased out of business by containerization on cargo ships and the use of trucks.

"I'm all for open housing..."

I just don't want it in our lovely, peaceful neighborhood". This is pretty much the same thing as saying I'm for righting a social injustice as long as there is no cost to me. Has it ever worked out that way? This planet is our neighborhood. And all its people are neighbors in the community of man.

Chinese Troupe's Flawless Rehearsal

By ANNE KEEGAN ARONSON

CHICAGO (UPI) —The Opera House was almost empty Sunday night when the kid in an Army fatigue jacket leaned across the orchestra pit and pulled out a flute.

A slim man in a grey Mao suit walked to the railing with his reeded "shung" in hand and after smiles and nods, they broke into a duet.

The musical entente formed by Floyd Webb, 19, Maywood, Ill., and 19-year-old Hsieh Tung-Sheng of the People's Republic of China broke the ice after the performance.

Soon, the 12 members of the band accompanying the Shenyang Acrobatic Troupe of China were reaching into their pockets to hand out postcards and pins of the Peoples' Palace in Peking to the Americans swarming the pit.

It was the only dress rehersal for the group's tour of the United States, which begins today at the Chicago Opera House. The group, the first such ensemble from China to tour the United Sates, goes on to a number of other American cities, including Indianapolis, Washington and New York.

To the audience's eye, the dress rehearsal was flawless. Not a swirling plate dropped, not a bike overturned, not even a faint tremor in the precarious human pyramids. P.T. Barnum would have had a field day.

With the lifting of the ornate curtains, the rehearsal exploded in orange and yellow and the clang of Chinese gons. Fiery-eyed masked lions cavorted on stage with two pink-cheeked boys who tamed and tricked the lions with their grace and childish cunning.

The second act, in contrast, opened with tranquil, plate-spin-ning women who placidly stood on their heads, did somersaults and executed hand stands while keeping six plates miraculously twirling serenely on the tips of thin reeds.

CHICAGO WELCOME — An American boy glances up at a member of the Shenyang Acrobatic Troupe from the People's Republic of China during welcoming ceremonies at Chicago's O'Hare Airport. The troupe arrived yesterday and first public performance was scheduled tonight. (UPI Telephoto)

The small audience assembled oohed and aahed when a young woman pedaled a bicycle balancing 10 other women in a human fan design with nary a wobble of the handle bars.

And magician Liu-Chung had hands faster than the eye when he pulled gold fish out of the air and a 12 incher from the audience at the end of a pole.

The women wore pants and brightly ribboned pigtails. The entire troupe wore tunics of vivid colors that matched the oriental backdrops of a single rose, a setting sun and an apple blossom.

The finale came with a twist of the magician's hand. Pulling flowers from an empty jar, to the delight of the troupe children, he suddenly brought forth a deluge of ribbons, garlands, flags, and many tiered-Chinese lanterns.

"Long live the friendship between the Chinese and American Peoples" it read and the curtain closed.

The Magee Trial Still Minus Jury

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The Ruchell Magee murder trial entered its fourth week today with jury selection not yet completed and the cost expected to amount to more than $150,000.

Magee, 33, a San Quentin convict, is charged with pulling the trigger of a shotgun that killed Superior Court Judge Harold J. Haley in the 1970 Marin Civic Center escape that claimed four lives.

Attorneys estimated another week will be needed to select the jury for the trial which is expected to last 11 weeks.

Much of the money spent on the Magee trial is for security and the rest for jury costs.

Magee, who frequently breaks into tantrums in the courtroom, is flown to the San Francisco Hall of Justice from San Quentin and back again each trial day.

Black militant Angela Davis was charged with murder-kidnap-conspiracy in the case but was found innocent last January.

The Davis trial cost the state nearly $1 million compared to the $5,000 spent in the average criminal trial.

Magee yesterday received word from Los Angeles that his mother had died. Lee DeBord, prison information officer, said Magee was allowed to make a telephone call to his father.

Mink Coat Valued At $5,000 Stolen

Four coats valued at $5,525 were taken yesterday from a coat rack at the Holiday Inn, 1010 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, while their owners dined nearby at a private pa ty thrown by the Davis Realty Co. of San Rafael, police reported today.

Police said one of the garments was a mink coat valued at $5,000.

The Argument Heats Up Again On The Banning Of Swordfish

BOSTON (UPI) — Harold Lawry didn't-mince words.

"The government, they won't admit they're wrong," said Lary, a fisherman from Edgartown, Mass., and operator of Lary's Seafood Market. "They keep on, they're going to kill the whole seafood industry."

He was talking about swordfish which remains absent for the most part from American dinner tables due to Food and Drug Administration (FDA) guidelines on mercury content.

In May, 1969, the FDA adopted a safe level guideline of 0.5 parts per million (ppm) mercury in fish.

In December, 1970, the FDA recalled nearly all swordfish from the marketplace because of mercury levels. Later it recommended that the public not eat swordfish. The FDA told Congress swordfish it tested had an average mercury level of slightly more than 1.0 ppm.

The guidelines resulted in less swordfish being available for consumption. In addition, the warning severely curtailed sales where it was available.

Russell Nagle, who operates the John Nagle Co., a Boston wholesale and retail company, says his firm was the first in the New England area to have swordfish sampled by the FDA. He stopped selling swordfish altogether.

"I think it's natural for swordfish to have mercury. It's not pollution," said Nagle. "Apparently our government is the only one that thinks so."

Dr. Fred Stare, chairman of the Department of Nutrition, Harvard School of Public Health, said he had been unable to find any cases of mercury poisoning from fish in New England.

"New England consumes a lot more fish than, say, people out in South Dakota," he said. "I contacted the heads of medicine at five of our really outstanding medical teaching and professional institutions. Not one could find records that they ever had patients in which mercury poisoning was suspected.

"So why get all upset? Why ruin an industry?"

Part of the dispute centers around whether the mercury is actually a pollutant.

A spokesman for the FDA, Cesar Roy, said, "We do not believe it is natural. It's not pollution in the regular sense. But the burning of fossil fuels released tremendous quantities of mercury to the atmosphere. Swordfish is high on the food chain, so (mercury) tends to be concentrated as it moves up the food chain."

An article in the Harvard Law Review this year said the FDA's classification of mercury levels as unnatural in swordfish "is not consistent with the facts in all cases." It said the mercury content "would appear most likely attributable to natural causes."

The Review said a Norwegian study published in 1949 "measured small but definite levels of mercury in freshwater fish and revealed a correlation between mercury levels and the geological character of the neighboring land."

Dr. George Michaels, head of the Massachusetts Food and Drug Administration, does not subscribe to the federal guidelines. His department has set a state guideline of 1.0 ppm.

"I don't feel we should be dumping swordfish that we've been eating for centuries, that's been here for years and years. They've found samples many hundreds of years old that have run very high in mercury. This has been with us a long, long time," said Michaels.

Window Smashed

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are narcotic, many are available only on prescription. But there is one pain reliever, available without prescription, doctors dispense again and again... Anacin.

Each year, doctors give up to 30,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever doctors recommend most than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved incredibly fast; minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours; even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tension and depression that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow the practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin.

TREAD WEAR EXPECTANCY

Because of variable driving habits and road conditions under which tires are used, it is impractical for Montgomery Ward, and conceivably misleading to our customers, to guarantee any specific number of months or miles of tread wear. We can, however, indicate the wear potential we have built into our tires in terms of service in normal family use. If a Riverside tire wears down to the tread wear indicators during the Tread Wear Expectancy, Montgomery Ward will upon presentation of the tire and evidence of date of purchase replace the tire for the then current price less the following dollar allowance:

Tread Wear Expectancy	Tread Wearout Allowance
40,000 miles	Prorated on Miles Driven

Apollo 17 Speeding To Splashdown

SPACE CENTER, Houston (UPI) — Apollo 17's moon pilots joined the festive spirit of their families back home and sped ever faster toward Earth today, adding to their final lunar harvest by studying stars, galaxies and the darkest spot in the Milky Way.

Eugene A. Cernan, Ronald E. Evans and Jack Schmitt were following one of the most accurate courses ever traveled by returning lunar explorers as they headed for Tuesday's splashdown. Their spaceship was flawless.

Mission Control, taking a cue from the astronauts' belief their mission marked the beginning of space exploration, awakened the three crewmen at 8:53 a.m. EST by radioing up the strains of "It's Only Just Begun," by The Carpenters.

Then a Christmas carol recorded at Evans' home in Houston was beamed to the spaceship, 125,000 miles away at the time.

The space travelers are to splash down at 2:42 p. m. EST Tuesday in the South Pacific to conclude a peerless age of exploration. The aircraft carrier Ticonderoga was on station 403 miles southeast of Samoa and weathermen predicted satisfactory conditions will greet the pilots when three parachutes ease them into the sea.

"Sounds like you're getting in the Christmas spirit down there," Evans said.

The astronauts were anxious to get back and shortly before turning in for the night, Schmitt asked mission control, "How far are we from home?"

The command module America was packed with 253 pounds of the most unusual moon samples ever collected. Evans added a mile and a half of film to the treasure Sunday when he pulled three cassettes out of the aft instrument section during a climactic spacewalk 184,000 miles from Earth.

The astronauts will discuss their mission during a televised news conference scheduled for 6 p.m. while they are 111,700 miles from Earth, well past the halfway point. Questions from newsmen will be radioed to the pilots and Schmitt, preparing for queries, Sunday night asked for a report on the operation of the instruments left behind in Taurus Littrow valley.

Scientists said the final Apollo mission will probably go down in the books as the most productive of all six lunar landing expeditions. The three spacemen added to their scientific return while they slept this morning by slowly spinning their spaceship so a telescope in the service module scanned the galaxy for ultraviolet radiation from distant stars.

On Sunday, the instrument studied a conglomeration of 1,000 galaxies of stars called the Coma Cluster.

Dr. Richard G. Henry, Johns Hopkins University astronomer working on the project, said the telescope also will be used to examine what he called the "Dark South" —the darkest region of the sky near the south pole of our galaxy, the Milky Way.

Youth Institution Is Going To Be Used

CHINO, Calif. (AP) — A $7.5 million youth correctional institution, vacant since its completion here two years ago, is going to be used in 1973, officials say.

They decline to say for what it will be used, and have difficulty explaining why it was ever built at all.

"The announcement as to its proposed use will be made next month in connection with the governor's budget," George R. Roberts, chief deputy director of the California Youth Authority, said.

Uses under consideration for the Older Boys Reception Center are as a training headquarters for staff employes of several counties, a medical psychiatric institution for the Department of Corrections and the Youth Authority, and "just an ordinary correctional institution," he added.

Roberts said the 400-capacity institution was built because of projected increases in the number of convicted youths turned over to the authority. However, the year before the state legislature allocated $7.5 million for construction of the center, the legislature instituted its Probation Subsidy Program and the number of youths sent to institutions began decreasing immediately.

The state's Probation Subsidy Program, started in 1965, encourages counties to put offenders on probation by paying them a share of the savings of prison expenses, part of which were to be used on rehabilitation programs.

In 1966, when money for the center was allocated, total commitments to the Youth Authority had dropped from 6,190 to 5,470. By the time the construction contract was awarded in 1968, the previous year's commitments were only 4,998. And, when construction was completed at the end of 1970, commitments were down to 3,746.

Roberts said the Youth Authority did not wait to see how successful the Probation Subsidy Program would be before spending the $7.5 million because "we had no way of predicting that the rates would go down as far as they did. The decrease was far beyond anything we could reasonably expect."

Because of the decrease in commitments, a similar facility near Stockton, the DeWitt Nelson School for Boys, for which the contract was awarded in 1966, stood vacant from the time it was completed in 1968 until December 1971.

It cost about $6 million to build but now is being used, Roberts said, for about 350 young male offenders who are receiving conservation and vocational training and participating in a "work experience" program, in which they handle food, laundry and other services for the facility.

In addition, the Youth Authority has closed two of its institutions — the Fricot Ranch School near San Andreas in 1971 and the Paso Robles School in Paso Robles in 1972 — and plans to close a third, the Los Guilucos School near Santa Rosa in 1973.

The Older Boys Reception Center, which still is not furnished and has had a maximum occupancy of three maintenance men since it was completed, has four main buildings — each built to house 100 young men — and a swimming pool, basketball court, administration building and two small chapels.

Break-In Attempts At Businesses

Attempts to break into three Corte Madera businesses were made Friday night, Corte Madera police reported.

The front door of the Old Time Applaince Repair Shop at 36 Tamalpais Drive was pried open, and pry marks also were found at the Marin Dog Parlor at 40 Tamalpais Drive, and at Corte Madera Hardware at 26 Tamalpais Drive. Nothing was taken from any of the businesses, said police.

Monuments Shut

SACRAMENTO — The Department of Parks and Recreation today reminded holiday travelers and vacationers that state historical monuments are closed to the public on Christmas Day. This includes that most popular tourist attraction Hearst San Simeon State Historical Monument along State Highway 1 in San Luis Obispo County.

Two Professors Are Trying To Figure Out The Santa Myth

DALLAS (UPI) — From the child who stroked Santa Claus' beard saying, "Nice doggie," to the parent who answers a sticky childhood question by saying, "Why don't you ask Santa Claus," no one really understands the red suited old gentleman who sits in every department store in the land.

Dr. Eugene Bumpus and Dr. Martin Gluck, assistant professors at the Southwestern Medical School, feel a study is in order.

"Santa is a very important and meaningful person," said Bumpus, assistant professor of psychiatry at the school. "He affects an enormous amount of people and yet no one seems to have cone a scientific study into what all this means."

Bumpus and Gluck, assistant professor of psychology, plan to change all this, by interviewing Santas and attaching tape recorders under Santa's beard to find out what the youngsters think. They have been doing so this season and, though good results and data won't be available until summer, they have already learned enough to underscore the fact that nobody understands Santa.

"For instance," Bumpus said, "my own child had never been exposed to a full beard up close. He saw a large fluffy white thing and assumed it was an animal. He kept yanking at the beard and saying, 'Nice doggie, nice doggie.'

"Well, there are some children who have a very excited reaction to meeting Santa—the first thing they do when they sit on his lap is wet him. But then that kind of thing happens to child psychologists too."

Gluck said promises that can't be kept are a major problem.

"If a child says all he wants for Christmas is his two front teeth or a baby sister or brother, you'd better get out of there quick," he said. "There is one Santa who handles this kind of thing perfectly. He says he strictly is a toy Santa."

Parents also use Santa, the doctors said.

"If a little girl tells her mother she'd rater be a little boy, her mother is likely to say, 'Oh, tell that to Santa, see what he can do!'"

Gluck summed it up.

"We want to know just how important Santa Claus is in the growing up process of a child. We'll be studying the children who sit on Santa's knee in the department stores; Jewish children who are exposed to the myth but are not a part of the observance, and the poverty children who, no matter how much they keep the faith, will never receive the goods."

6 Drivers Sentenced For Drinking

Six persons have been sentenced in Marin Municipal Court by Judge Robert A. Smallman for drunken driving.

Sentenced Tuesday were:

Richard William Skou, 22, of San Francisco, arrested Nov. 21 on the Golden Gate Bridge, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Douglas Perry Gunderson, 27, of 1516 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo, arrested March 26 on Highway 101, sentenced to 10 days in jail.

Joseph Francis Harrington, 21, of 65 Canal Street, San Rafael, arrested Nov. 5 in Sausalito, placed on probation for one year and ordered to work 10 days for Marin County Park and Recreation Department.

Robert Bernard Martel, 45, of 26 San Felipe Way, Novato, arrested Oct. 21 in Novato, placed on probation for one year and fined $302.

Vincent Marcellino, 37, of Santa Rosa, arrested Dec. 12 on Highway 101, placed on probation for one year and fined $250.

Robert A. Leingang, 41, of 7568 Beth Court, Rohnert Park, arrested Dec. 5 in Sausalito, placed on probation for one year and fined $250.

Development Near Tiburon To Be Aired

A controversial hilltop housing development near Tiburon will be considered tomorrow by county supervisors, meeting at 10:30 a.m. at the Marin Civic Center.

The Highlands, as the development is called, would include 128 homes on a 32-acre site overlooking the Reedlands and Bel Aire subdivisions.

The county planning commission approved the project in September despite strong opposition by nearby residents, who said the project would be too dense and would add to already bad sewage, traffic and drainage conditions.

The Tiburon City Council, upon learning of the planning commissions endorsement of the project, reacted with anger and said it would ask supervisors to turn it down.

Supervisors, who will consider the project at 3 p.m., have received more than 20 letters in opposition.

The board will meet in a "workshop session" at 9 a.m. with the Marin County Youth Commission to discuss commission activities. That meeting will be held in Room 332.

The board also will discuss the county stance in the face of a breakdown in negotiations with the City of San Rafael over redevelopment.

BEARING A GIFT

Broke, Cold Class Of '32 To Reunite

By JEFF GREER

December 1932 was a cold time to be a senior graduating from San Rafael High School. The mercury shivered to a record low of 18 degrees on Dec. 13, and it was the depths of the Great Depression.

But 26 San Rafael High School students marched down the aisle of the school auditorium on Dec. 23, with a mixture of glee and solemnity.

The senior edition of the Red and White, the school newspaper, announced beforehand that senior class president Mary Frances Dodd would present the school with a gift during the commencement ceremonies.

Only there wasn't any gift to give.

"We were too darn broke," Angelo Turrini, one of the Christmas seniors of '32, recalled this week.

The Class of Christmas '32 still intends to do something about that gift that was never given.

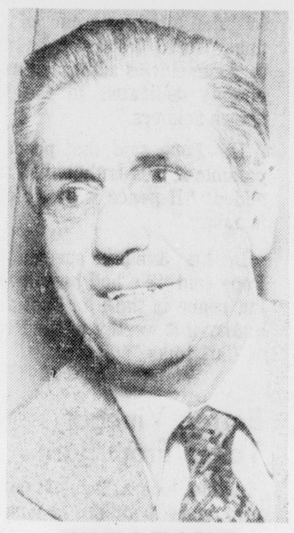
The alumni will gather Saturday, exactly 40 years after graduation, in their first reunion. They'll have dinner and dancing and recollection at Dominic's Harbor Restaurant. Turrini said the class members will discuss what kind of a gift to give the school, where present-day students cannot remember even the days of World War II, much less the Depression.

At least 16 of the 1932 graduates plan to attend the reunion. The organizers have been unable to find any trace of eight graduates, despite six months of work. They know that two others are deceased, according to Marie Divita of 56 Manor Road, Fairfax, who is taking reservations for the dinner. Alumni families and San Rafael High teachers from the '30s also have been invited.

One of the graduates the reunion organizers haven't been able to locate is the class president, Mary Frances Dodd.

Many of the Depression-era youngsters stayed close to their hometown. Turrini now operates the United answering and ambulance service in San Rafael; Joseph Rossi is manager of Duffy Brothers garage; Mrs. Divita is secretary for a San Rafael glass firm.

Another organizer, Edwin Garcia, is with a major life insurance firm and lives in Kentfield. Henry Catala of San Rafael recently retired from operating a Miracle Mile dry cleaning business.



ANGELO TURRINI
Sparkplugging reunion

Of the graduates reached by reunion organizers, Walter Wraight lives the greatest distance from his old hometown — Poway, San Diego County.

Wright will attend the reunion, he wrote, and so will Turrini, Rossi, Garcia, Catala and Mrs. Divita, along with Victoria Ferrari Tarlton of Berkeley; Charles Giudici of San Rafael, Robert Johnson of Fairfax, Norman MacLachlan of Vacaville, Evelyn Gilardi Matison of Petaluma and Roger Camgros of San Rafael.

The reunion committee has been unable to locate Anna Avilla, Claire Collins, Miss Dodd, Harold Hildebrant, Robert Jones, Stanley Poyser, Lois Sappingfield and Wanda Lee Silvers.

Turrini said Poyser may have been the only member of the Class of '32 lost in World War II. Edwin Makinson and Suzanne Otten are known to be deceased, Mrs. Divita reported.

Ruth Mayo Goss, one of the teachers of the class 40 years ago, will also attend the reunion, the organizers said. A few more reservations are expected from other class members and teachers, Mrs. Divita reported.

"This cold weather is really ironic," Rossi said the other day as he discussed reunion plans. "This is the coldest since 1932."

"I remember having to walk to and from school two or three times a day" in the frigid weather, Mrs. Divita added. "Practically nobody had cars in those days."

Turrini was editor of the high school newspaper, but "we were the only senior class in the school's history that couldn't put out a yearbook." There wasn't enough money.

The school trustees decreed the seniors could not publish unless they sold 100 ads in the annual at $3 each. "By Christmas, we had 10 ads," Turrini said.

What money the seniors could gather went for firewood and coal to heat homes — and for dolls and Christmas gifts the students took to the school's Christmas Fiesta the night before graduation for donation to needier San Rafael families.

The seniors abandoned their traditional formal dance — again money was the culprit — and were guests of honor at the fiesta. The Marin Journal for the week carried news of the graduation ceremonies, the school party and the gifts on page one. Alongside was a story saying the Marin Grand Jury would recommend that all county officials take pay cuts to help the economy.

And Turrini wrote his own graduation headline on a back page in the Red and White:

"Cruel World Receives
Twenty-Six Hopefuls
For Annual Breadline"

GRADUATES' NEWSPAPER — This December 1932 edition of the San Rafael High School newspaper bannered the midyear graduation of 26 students and told of their honors and of school Christmas festivities.

Yuletide Decorations Add Xmas Spirit to Fiesta Friday Night

Toys, Foods, Furnish Admittance Fee For Pupils

With gay decorations of fir trees, greens and holly expressing the yuletide spirit, the annual Christmas Fiesta, under the supervision of Miss Bolton, will be held in the gymnasium next Friday night at 8 o'clock.

The seniors, having done away with their dinner dance, are to be the guests of honor at the Fiesta.

Plans have been made for entertainment and refreshments for the festivity.

A giant Christmas tree will be one of the attractions of the evening, under which the toys will be placed to lend an added Christmas atmosphere. Later they will be removed to their destination. The tree will be gayly decorated with colored ornaments, lights and silvery icicles.

One of the main events of the Fiesta is the crowning of the Ideal Girl, who as yet remains a mystery. She will be surrounded by her attendants, who are also winners of the contest. Their names will not be revealed until the night of the festival.

Girl Scrub Falls for Senior He-Man On Sight

"Gee, ain't he grand!"

Little thrills of ecstasy running up and down the young freshman's spinal column mark the entrance of the high and mighty senior into the classroom. Secret dreams steal into the cerebellum of the small scrub. Hopes, faint at first, grow stronger as the great upper classmen winks at the lowly frosh, who nearly has heart failure at the procedure.

"Wonder what he thinks of me?" "Is my lipstick on straight?" are only a few of the questions that now pop into the scrub's sconce.

Slowly eyeing the teacher, as she dabs little grains of powder over the freckles of youth, she coquettishly winks back at the senior, quite taken back at her own audaciousness. The senior now grins broadly. The freshman girl is so flattered that she is sure she will never be able to stand the shock.

Turning around intending to make a telling remark to that "stuck-up" sophomore girl behind her, with whom she was at swords' points, imagine her astonishment to see the sophomore making frantic gestures at the senior trying to convey the idea to him that she would meet him after school.

Opinions quickly change, as did the young scrub's of the great senior. She now felt like a penny waiting for change. To think that she should cheapen herself so! Her sweet expression and the flirtatious look in her eyes quickly turned to a glare of jealousy and hate as the senior, with another smile at the "soph" behind her, made his exit.

Thoughts On Graduation

Four years have gone by and now the high seniors must leave the school never again to return as undergraduates, never again return to enjoy the privileges of the lower classmen which they do not realize they are enjoying. Never again return to represent San Rafael High in its numerous activities such as athletics, dramas, councils, committees, social events and others which every one is entitled to take part in except the outside world and the prospective alumni.

Fellow students, it is hard to think of giving up your friends and privileges through the act of graduation.

No doubt we have all heard at some time or other of how glad we'll be when graduation night comes. In fact we all feel that way when we are freshmen, sophomores or juniors, but when the senior year enters our lives the sentiment toward that night is different, different in many ways.

The feeling of elation at the thought is gone, and a feeling of sorrow takes its place.

It is only once during a lifetime that one may appreciate the thrills, experiences, honors and fun of a high school career. No matter if you live 10, 100 or 1000 years, high school comes but once.

"December Class Has Been Outstanding," Says Miss Binsacca

By Miss Dorothy Binsacca

The December class of 1932 has been noteworthy and outstanding as to caliber and quantity of work done during their four years here. This class has taken part in many of the school activities while keeping up an unusually heavy schedule of regular curricular work. Almost every member of the class has become distinguished in some activity. They have become eminent not because of what they themselves are. I have reference

Two Girls Tied for High Honors in Contest

At last we have found her—rather, them! Two girls were tied for high points in the Ideal Girl Contest. Because each girl represents a distinct type Miss Olson insisted that both Margaret Schneider and Beverly Bell share honors.

Out of a possible 775 points, based on the following: Posture, teeth, nails, hair, skin, muscle tone, general appearance, weight, personality and scholarship, both girls totaled 689 points. Margaret Schneider represents the outdoor type of girl, while Beverly Bell typifies the social type. The prize, which will be awarded at the Christmas Fiesta, will be divided evenly between the two ideal girls.

There were nine girls who were high in points and deserve honor. They are Helen New, Eleanor Plaa, Marion Brazil, Irene Roselli, Jean Powell, Marn Dunlap, Edna Gardner, Bruna Ferrario, and Betty Jane Gettemy.

"I feel this contest has accomplished a great deal of good. More girls are interested in personal loveliness than ever before. We now have two ideals and we can chose the type we like best to emulate," said Miss Olson in closing the contest.

Annual Performance Held Before Full House

Receipts Total $165; All Students to Benefit

What has been classed as one of the most outstanding vaudevilles ever to be given by the local high school was held last Friday night before an almost packed house.

It has been estimated that nearly 100 students took part among whom were five graduating high seniors.

The floor receipts, which were the largest for several years, totaled over $165, which will be used for the student body and the publication of the Red 'n' White.

A total of 15 acts composed the performance, which in order read as follows:

Selections from the orchestra, "Catching the Train," "The Dress Parade monologue, Musical Musings, Domesticated Papas, Hicks from the Sticks, the All-American Girl, Dipping de Dublic, Flashes of the Foswells, "The Thief," "Blue Mood," "The Dark Side of Life," "A Modern Proposal," "Hobo Antics," "Justa Lika De Olda Times," "On the Hop," "Is I in Love? I Is," "On the Hop," exit march.

Bids for Annual Xmas Dance Received By Seniors

Because they are to be guests of honor at the annual Christmas Fiesta, high seniors received bids to the affair early this week. These bids must be signed by both parents of the graduate, and only after this is done will the student and his guest be allowed to attend.

Mr. Hildebrant appointed a committee consisting of Mignon Lovejoy and Mary Frances Dodd, to see to it that all class members donated food, clothing, and toys to the needy families of San Rafael.

Christmas Graduates Rank Scholastically; High Records Lauded

By Miss Adele Newcomer

The Christmas graduates of the year 1932 have been very prominent scholastically. In this small class of 26 members there are three scalbearers, making almost 12 per cent of the class life members of the California Scholarship Federation.

Victoria Ferrari, the first of these scalbearers, has been a member of the Scholarship Society every semester during her high school attendance. She was president of the Scholarship Society during the spring of 1932, and has been chairman of the Entertainment Committee this year.

Charles Giudici and Joseph Rossi have been eligible to membership in the Scholarship Society every semester except one, and they will also become scal-bearers at graduation.

Henry Catalaa, Edwin Garcia, Herald Hildebrand, Lois Sappingfield, and Wanda Lee Silvers have all been members of the society one or more semesters, and their names have appeared frequently on the honor roll.

Other members of the class have not had sufficient points to be eligible to the Scholarship Society, but have had college recommending records. Among those who would probably average B minus to B plus are Claire Collins, Bruna Ferrari, Robert Johnson, Stanley Poyser, and Walter Wraight.

Largest Xmas Class To Date Will Graduate

The class which graduates Thursday night consists of 26 seniors. It is the largest Christmas class to date. The girls will be daintily gowned in pastel shades, while the boys will appear in dark suits.

Prior to 1930 the Christmas classes of San Rafael High School were not given a public graduation. Certificates of graduation were presented to them and in the following June they returned and received their diplomas with the class then graduating. The size of the December classes did not warrant a public graduation.

In the year 1931 the Christmas class numbered 29, and the first public graduation was held. The seniors dressed in formals.

The following Christmas a class of 21 seniors were graduated, attired in collegiate cap and gown.

Winning in a close race, Bud Fisher was elected Student Body president last Monday at the general election.

Francis Leonasio carried the office of vice-president, while Gino Fasnani won the position of treasurer.

The office of secretary was carried off by May Lee, with Louise Dallara, Antoinette Kornell and John Palacio as yell leaders.

Class Will Be Third Xmas Group to Graduate

San Rafael High School's third annual Christmas commencement exercises will be held in the local auditorium tomorrow night at 8:30.

The procession of the graduating class down the aisle to the stage will begin the ceremonies. Stanley Poyser, president of the Student Body, will give the class greeting, after which a chorus, composed of boys and girls of the school, will entertain the audience with a selection entitled "Nightfall in Granada."

The senior class president, Mary Frances Dodd, will then present the school with a gift. Claire Collins will give a piano solo. A selection by San Rafael High School's Orchestra, under the direction of Mr. Walton, will follow.

The senior class representative, Henry Catalaa, will give the farewell address, after which the granting of awards by Mr. Hartzell will follow. Mr. Hartzell will also render the presentation of the graduating class.

Mr. A. L. Borkheim, president of the Board of Education, will award the diplomas. The mixed chorus will then give a selection.

As a fitting conclusion the "Recessional" will be played by the San Rafael High School Orchestra.

David Nurse Proves Himself Able Artist

David Nurse, well-known low senior, proved himself a competent photographer as well as an honor student when he finished pictures for the special high senior edition of the Red 'n' White in record-breaking time last Friday. His last picture was taken at 1 o'clock and the prints were ready for the engraver at 4:30.

Because the staff was greatly rushed, David showed himself well versed in his subject by applying an entirely new method in drying prints, never used in the school before.

Seniors' Reputations Shattered by Verdicts

"What do you think of the seniors," I asked a junior, "and why and for what reason?"

The junior looked at me sadly, shifted his gum and answered: "I try not to think of them at all. As a group they don't rate. As individuals they are blah."

"What do you think of the seniors?" I chirped at a passing Soph.

"Whata yuh mean seniors?" he growled. "That bunch of mummified, ossified, petrified paloonas? Let 'em graduate."

"Hey, Frosh," I yelled at a gruleless-looking first-year maid. "Have you heard about the seniors?"

The frosh replied, "I hate those horrid stuckup senior women. But, O Mister, ain't the men honeys? Isn't 'Stan' sweet and isn't 'Frenchy' just kissable. My heart just stops when Bob Johnson passes by, isn't he—"

"See here, Frosh, you are the one being interviewed—"

The Frosh was gazing over my head with an ecstatic smile. Bob Johnson was entering the hall.

Dead Used To Smuggle Narcotics

BALTIMORE (UPI) — A federal court has been told that dope smugglers sewed heroin inside the bodies of American war dead being returned to the United States from Indochina.

The macabre operation was revealed in testimony by military and customs agents at a bail reduction hearing for Thomas E. Sutherland, 51, charged with using false documents and impersonating military personnel.

Sutherland is being held on $50,000 bail after his plea that it be lowered to $5,000 was denied by U.S. Magistrate Clarence E. Foetz. He was arrested Monday at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington.

Federal agents said Sutherland was wearing an Army sergeant's uniform and was accompanying two slain G.I.s aboard a plane headed for Dover Air Force Base in Delaware when they were tipped that dope might be sewn in the bodies. The plane was diverted to Andrews where it was searched and a pathologist examined the bodies.

U.S. Attorney Michael E. Marr told the court no dope was found either on the plane or the bodies, although one of the bodies showed a recent incision and stitching. Marr noted, however, that the body was unattended during a stopover in Honolulu.

Marr did not reveal how authorities learned about the operation, although he said it been under way for eight years and was based partly in the Baltimore-Washington area.

Chinese Liquors To Be Marketed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — American consumers will soon be able to taste Chefoo wine, Shantung brandy, and other exotic beverages from China.

A California firm (Huntington and Rice in nearby Mountain View) announced today it would be the first distributor of premium Chinese wines, brandies, liqueurs and gin.

The firm said the products, made in the Shantung Province of China, will be sold in the U.S. under the "Sunflower" label.

32 Americans Selected For Rhodes Scholarships

MIDDLETOWN, Conn. (UPI) — Thirty-two American students, ranging from an Olympic athlete to the grandson of an unsuccessful presidential candidate, have been named this year's Rhodes scholars.

The students, whose names were announced Sunday by William J. Barber, administrative head of the Rhodes Scholarship Program in the United States, will be eligible for study abroad.

Among this year's selections, the two mostly heavily represented institutions of higher learning were Yale and Harvard universities, each one credited with five scholars.

Wendell L. Willkie II, grandson of the 1940 GOP presidential contender, was one of the Harvard students. A Minnesota resident, he is a social studies major and has been active in youth programs and congressional campaigns in his home state.

John M. Petkevich of Great Falls, Mont., was another Harvard student selected. He represented the United States in the 1968 and 1972 Winter Olympics as a figure skater. He won the bronze medal in the past Olympics and currently holds the men's world figure skating championship.

The coveted scholarships provide for at least two years study in Britain at Oxford University, one of the world's oldest and most respected institutions of learning. Those named were part of an international group of scholars who will be given an annual stipend to cover necessary expenses.

The scholarships, which were first awarded in 1903, were subsidized in part by the seventh will of South African empire builder Cecil John Rhodes, who founded Rhodesia.

Rhodes hoped that the scholarships would contribute to world understanding and peace. He specified in his will that "no student shall be qualified or disqualified for election on account of his race or religious opinions."

Barber said this year's list of scholars was selected from 733 applicants endorsed by 256 colleges and universities throughout the nation, a record number.

AEC Boss Sees Energy Shortages

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Energy shortages are likely this winter and in the coming summer, says chairman James R. Schlesinger of the Atomic Energy Commission.

But Schlesinger said the shortages would be far short of "crisis" proportions.

Schlesinger was interviewed Sunday on NBC's "Meet the Press".

Annenberg Subject Of Peace Slogans

BROADSTAIRS, England (UPI) —American Ambassador Walter H. Annenberg was met Sunday by shouting demonstrators when he arrived to attend the annual Christmas carol service conducted by Prime Minister Edward Heath.

More than 40 persons shouted such slogans as "Stop Bombing in Vietnam," and "Peace on Earth Means Peace in Vietnam," when Annenberg and his wife arrived at the Grand Ballroom.

Pontiff Urges Mankind To Realize 'Peace Is Possible'

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Pope Paul VI urged mankind today to realize that peace is possible despite the "apocalyptic specter" of violence hanging over the world.

In his annual message of peace for 1973, which the Vatican released today, the pontiff said: "Peace is possible! It must be possible!"

The 75-year-old pontiff said that peace is "above all a state of mind (which) has at last penetrated as a logical human need into the minds of many people, and esecially of the young."

On Sunday the Pope expressed his bitterness over the failure of the Vietnam peace talks, and today he noted that continuing conflicts are breeding "an ever growing amount of injured prestige, of unrelenting desire for revenge and of endemic and organized disorder" which is being transmitted from generation to generation.

"Violence becomes fashionable again, and even clothes itself in the breastplate of justice," the pontiff said. "It becomes a way of life, abetted by all the ingredients of treacherous evildoing and by all the wiles of cowardice, of extortion and of complicity, and finally presents itself as an apocalyptic specter armed with the unheard of instruments of murderous destruction."

The Pope lamented that crime no longer horrifies, that cruelty has become legalized and that genocide is seen as a possible radical solution.

"Behind all these horrible visions," the Pope said, "there grows through cold-blooded and unerring calculations the huge economy of arms, with its hunger-producing markets."

He regretted that many developing nations are cutting down on food, medicine, education and housing —"and even sacrificing true economic and political development" —so that they can be well-armed and "inflict fear and slavery on their own neighbors."

The pontiff said his message that peace is possible is echoed in "the pitiable groan of the unnumbered graves in the military cemeteries and of the monuments dedicated to the Unknown Soldiers."

The Pope said that peace is possible if it is truly willed and added: "If peace is possible, it is a duty."

In his Sunday speech the Pope said "We had been awaiting peace in the Far East as a human gift worthy of the Feast of Christmas."

Barrel, Vinegar Taken From Barn

A thief took a 23-gallon barrel containing 10 gallons of vinegar from an unlocked barn near the Old Timers tavern, 1573 Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, Fairfax, sometime Friday or Saturday, police reported today.

Police said the thief drained the barrel and left it behind.

Ecumenical Slate Picked

A slate of officers, headed by incoming president Betty Moody, who represents Our Lady or Loretto Church in Novato, has been nominated by the Ecumenical Association for Housing.

Other nominees are Thomas Zeller, St. Anselm's Church, San Anselmo, vice president, and Hazen Goddard, Christ Presbyterian Church, Terry Linda, secretary-treasurer.

William J. Parnow, Joseph Martino, Shirley Schell, Ellen Wagner, Rebecca Watkin and Henry Adrian have been nominated for the executive board. Officers are to be elected at a Jan. 17 meeting.

Photos By Zacks Still On Display

An exhibit of photographs by Arthur Zacks will continue on display at the Social Security Gallery, 549 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, through Feb. 2.

Viewing hours are from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Heath In Jolly Mood For Caroling Concert

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Edward Heath laughed heartily at his own joke. His body shook like a bowl of jelly. Then he led the choir and audience in a rousing rendition of "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Conducting his annual Christmas carol service in his hometown of Broadstairs, Heath cracked jokes about Britain's current prices-and-incomes freeze. He did not let anti-Vietnam war demonstrators spoil the occasion.

The London Sunday Telegraph said Heath's Conservative government will inform Parliament after its Christmas recess ends Jan. 22 that he will extend the 90-day freeze for another 60 days beyond its present expiry date of Feb. 27.

Heath, in a jolly Christmas spirit, roared when he compared one line in a carol where he wanted the audience to pause with a "standstill or a freeze." The choir and audience laughed, too.

When U.S. Ambassador Walter H. Annenberg and his wife arrived for the service at the English Channel resort's grand ballroom, 40 demonstrators greeted them with shouts of "hypocrite," "stop bombing Vietnam" and "peace on earth means peace in Vietnam."

Department stores in London and other cities and towns said Christmas shoppers, apparently spurred by the freeze imposed on Nov. 6 to check soaring inflation, were engaging in an "orgy of spending."

A survey conducted by the London Sunday Express showed that Christmas sales were running at about 25 per cent more than last year, with shoppers stocking up on television sets, refrigerators and other expensive items in anticipation of price increases when the freeze ends.

"There is an enormous amount of spending going on," said Robert Midgley, manager of London's Harrods Department store. "We have never seen anything quite like it."

SOME EXPERTS TALK

Handling The Santa Myth

By JOAN LISETOR

Santa Claus is a fat, white bearded, jolly old man in a red suit, who distributes gifts at Christmas, according to Webster's "New World Dictionary of the American Language."

To children throughout the world Santa Claus is real, whether he is known as Kris Kringle, La Befana, Yule Tomten or Christkindli, but only in the United States is his headquarters in department stores, where children climb up on his lap, pose for a picture and give him a list of anticipated gifts in exchange for a candy cane.

Children are encouraged to build a fantasy around Santa Claus, encouraged by parents, friends and most everyone they meet during the holiday season.

What are the effects of the "Santa Claus myth" on children? How should parents handle children's questions about Santa Claus?

ACCORDING TO Dr. Martin Blinder, a psychiatrist for the Family Therapy Institute, myths have been used since primitive times to explain what people have found unfathomable.

"Children have personal fantasies. When they get older, fantasies become less necessary and often, without the parents even becoming aware, they dispose of the fantasies," Dr. Blinder said.

Santa Claus is really not a parents' problem, since it is usually members of the child's peer group who tell the child Santa Claus is not real, he said.

"His friends will tell him. They know when the child no longer needs the myth," he said. "A child will utilize the information as long as it is acceptable. When he no longer needs the myth it goes.

"If a myth fits, let him have it, but don't impose myths on a child. Be honest, and let him set his own pace."

The interpersonal myths, which the child concocts to make excuses for a parent's behavior, are the ones that have adverse effects, according to the psychiatrist.

"I THINK many children take in the myth of Santa Claus in bits and stages and dismiss it without much ado when they catch on to its meaning — literal, symbolic, spiritual and commercial — according to the intelligence of the child and how well the parents deal with his questions," explained Elizabeth Sousa, recently retired child guidance and family counselor.

"Sensitive parents could lead their families to enjoy and respect the myth or identify with 'good old St. Nick' as a model of warmth, good cheer and generosity. We need these myths, stories, allegories, however quaint they may seem, in these times to ground the electric charge we all know in ourselves and in others," she said.

IT IS NOT bad to talk to children about the Santa Claus myth and perpetuate it, said Marin pediatrician Dr. Arthur Ablin.

"I can't see any harm has been done by the Santa Claus idea in my own family or families I see in my practice," Dr. Ablin said. "It is not a cunning lie, nor an ill conceived concept. It is conceived in love, good faith, humor, which children recognize."

The bad aspect of Santa Claus is when he is used as a threat, Dr. Ablin explained.

"Parents who tell their children, 'If you are not good Santa Claus won't bring you anything' or use the 'no presents if you are bad concept' are using Santa Claus badly," he said.

The Santa Claus myth is similar to reading fairy tales to children or allowing them to enjoy imaginary friends, he said.

"They enjoy them although they know they are not real. Parents who point to a Santa Claus and say 'this is the real Santa Claus' are wrong. Making logic of Santa's coming down the chimney is also wrong," he said.

"Always be truthful, but there is nothing wrong with stretching the truth with a good bit of imagination."

CHILDREN UNDER the age of 3 are unable to distinguish between fantasy and reality, according to Marion Hayes Cain, children's theater producer and former elementary school teacher.

"Santa Claus should represent the total love of children," Mrs. Cain said, "but unfortunately some parents are stupid and don't know who to explain the spirit that means love.

"It is nice to think of Santa Claus as a jolly elf. The commercial Santa is crummy, and it's an ordeal for a 3-year-old to climb up on his lap. Most children cry," she said.

SAN RAFAEL pediatrician Dr. Albert C. Goldberg does not think a myth will have a lasting harm on a child.

"A myth is acceptable when it helps us comprehend that which is incomprehensible through reason," he said.

"When a child can understand the natural phenomena of birth the legend of the stork is overridden," he explained. "To insist upon the truth of a myth after the time when a child's maturity has developed to the point where he can understand the inadequacies of the mythical explanation would be asking the child to sell out his intellect."

DR. LEE Salk, director of pediatric psychology at New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center, believes it is best to tell children Santa Claus is make believe.

"I think it is crucially important for parents to be honest with their children, even if the matters concerned seem trivial and harmless to adults," he said.

"Making Santa Claus 'real' requires many lies. How do you explain all the Santas in all the different stores at Christmastime? How does he get down your chimney when you don'thave a fireplace? And most important, how do you one day explain that all the answers you gave to all these questions weren't really true?"

Asked her opinion on handling the Santa Claus myth, Mill Valley School District psychologist Vera Obermeyer suggested asking children how they felt when they realized Santa Claus was not real.

MY 8-YEAR-old son Scott, entering his fourth season as a "non-believer," said "if a child asks, tell him, 'I don't know. I've never thought of it.' The child will believe in some way if he wants to, and if he wants to, let him.

"If your child asks how Santa gets down the chimney, say, 'I'm not sure. What do you think?' Ask him questions."

Children grow up believing in Santa Claus. Parents don't stand over a baby's crib saying "there is a Santa Claus" over and over, he said.

"Parents shouldn't lie," Scott said. "And if another child tells your child say, 'Maybe he's right. I'm not sure. Pretend you don't know, but don't lie."

Scott said he knew Santa was a fake when he touched Santa's beard and it felt phony.

"Then I began to ask myself questions like 'how could reindeer fly?' How I knew for sure was, once I had a dream that nobody could live at the North Pole," he said.

Economic Major Senior Winner Of 'Make It Yourself With Wool'

An 18-year-old home economics major at College of Marin, Geralyn Miknis of Novato, is the senior winner of the "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest in the district competition held in Santa Rosa. The district includes Sonoma, Marin, Napa and Lake counties.

SENIOR WINNER of the "Make It Yourself With Wool" contest in district competition, Geralyn Miknis, models her pant-suit of forest green wool. She will compete in the state contest on Jan. 13 and 14 at the Sheraton Universal Hotel in Hollywood.

Geralyn, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. G. Miknis of Novato, made a pant suit of forest green wool. The jacket has a plaid lining with a yoke in back, notched collar, four patch pockets and a mock waist band. The pants are straight legged and have a fly front.

The senior winner said she is excited about competing in the state contest on Jan. 13 and 14 at the Sheraton Universal Hotel in Hollywood. Her mother will accompany her.

Geralyn began sewing when she was 10 years old, while living in New Orleans. Her sisters, Laurie, 16, Dee Dee, 15, and Robin, 12 years old, and their mother all sew. There are three sewing machines in the home. Their brother, Don, crochets, and Robin displayed a scarf of orange yarn he had made for her.

Her aunt, Miss Barbara Miknis of Detroit, sent her the money to make her winning outfit, she added.

Californians For Beef

To purchase the right amount of beef, the California Beef Council suggests allowing anywhere from four to eight ounces of lean boneless beef per person. For bone-in beef, three-fourths to one pound per adult serving is practical.

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Smile A Lot Around Gloomy People—They May Take Off

DEAR HELEN:

I have a neighbor who is actually afraid to enjoy herself, even if it's legal, moral, whatever. Somehow she was brought up to think that if you covered yourself with gloom — suffered a lot — you'd earn your big reward in Heaven.

She says we aren't put on this earth to have a good time. We must wait, strive and endure, so we can walk the Streets of Gold in joy forever, and all that jazz.

She's never "happier" than when things go wrong, as each new misery adds a string to her harp, sort of.

All this I could stand, though she IS depressing, but she tries to push her beliefs on me. When she visits, I'm left with the glooms. I can't throw her out; really, she's a good person. But how do I shut off the "suffering Job" act. — FEELING GUILTY WHEN I SMILE

DEAR FGWIS:

Smile! In fact, laugh a lot whenever your sorrowful neighbor starts on her "wait" problem. Pleasant kidding probably won't derail her one-track mind, but she may soon give you up as a disturbing influence . . . someone she'll never meet in the Great Beyond, so why bother with you here in this "Vale of Tears." — H.

DEAR HELEN:

With all the warnings about the dangers of wearing long scarves, you'd think people would be more careful. Yet I still see kids on the ski slopes (older persons too) with scarves trailing in the wind.

The other day I noticed a girl riding double on a motorcycle, and her scarf had pulled down on one side so it almost touched the back wheel.

Maybe if you'd say something in your widely syndicated column you might reach people who still don't realize how dangerous it is to wear loose ties (around the neck) that might be caught in machinery. — CAUTIOUS

DEAR CAUTIOUS:

Dancer Isadora Dunca died when her long silk scarf tangled in the wheels of a sports car, breaking her neck. Many men have been injured or killed when their neckties caught in machinery. With long, trailing scarves in high style this year, such accidents may increase unless we're made doubly aware of the dangers. Thus, my warning, added to yours:

If you must wear fashionable neck pieces, you active people, tuck them securely inside your sweaters of shirts. Otherwise the hang-up on the ski lift, or whatever, might be you. — H.

DEAR HELEN:

I've been reading about the sex way to reduce — like make love and grow thin. I'm willing to try, but my wife wonders whether I'll need to go on a diet also. — 200-POUND HOPEFUL

DEAR 200:

Let's put it this way: you must burn off approximately 3500 calaries to lose ONE pound. An average lovemaking session burns around 200 calaries, maybe 150 for married couples. So . . . if you want to lose a pound a week without dieting, well — lots of luck. But your wife may remind you that 150 gozinta 3500—23.3 times!!! — H.

This column is deciated to family living so if you're having kid trouple or just plain trouble, let Helen help you. She will also welcome your own amusing experiences. Write to Helen Bottel care of the Independent-Journal.

Mother Of Seven Breaks One Barrier

ROCHESTER, Minn. (UPI) — Lois Douglas, mother of seven children, is the first woman customer engineer in the Midwest for IBM's office products division and the second 'typewriter repairwoman in the history of the division which makes and services word processing equipment.

"I took some kidding at first, especially about who would carry my heavy tool bag for me,' she said."But the fellows in the program have all been a big help and there was never any doubt in my mind that I could make the change from operating a typewriter to fixing one."

Vows Repeated At Peacock Gap Club

Kimberly Bacharach and Louis F. Arnone III, both of San Rafael, were married Saturday evening at Peacock Gap Country Club in San Rafael. A reception at the club followed the ceremony.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Bacharach, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Arnone Jr., all of San Rafael.

Debbie Cerrudo of San Rafael was maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Christie MacIlraith of San Rafael and the bridegroom's sisters, Cecelia Arnone of Fairfax and Linda Weese and Elaine Arnone, both of San Rafael.

Frank Soares of San Rafael was best man, and guests were ushered to their seats by the bride's brother, Craig Bacharach, and Robert Weese, both of San Rafael; Ron Shurke of Petaluma; and Bruce Nave of Spokane, Wash.

Following a wedding trip to Acapulco the couple will live in Berkeley.

Novato Couple Observes 50th Wedding Anniversary

Natives of Italy, Mr. and Mrs. Mario Bottini of Novato celebrated their golden wedding anniversary yesterday.

Their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Herman Bottini of Bel Marin Keys, hosted a dinner at Nero's Restaurant for more than 100 friends and relatives.

The former Tersilla Rolla, who lived near Asti, Italy, and Bottini, who lived in a village near Milan, came to the United States two years before they were married.

They were introduced by relatives in El Cerrito and were married at Saints Peter and Paul Church in San Francisco. Each was living in San Rafael when they were married. They lived there 41 years before moving to Novato 11 years ago when Bottini retired from his general construction business.

Bottini's hobbies are hunting, fishing, gardening and particularly, hunting abalone along the coast. He often goes alone to the coast and climbs the cliffs searching for the delicacies, never coming home empty handed.

Mrs. Bottini's hobbies are crocheting, embroidering and cooking.

"She's a good cook," Bottini said, and added that the grandchildren say, "Nobody cooks like Noni." They have three grandchildren. Gary is 18, Terry, 16, and Mark, 12. Mrs. Bottini has an extra cooking room in the garage, where in the summer she makes her ravioli and sauce and puts them in the freezer for the rest of the year.

They both belong to the Sons of Italy — Mrs. Bottini belongs to the Druids and Italian Catholic Federation, and Bottini belongs to Club Italia, all in San Rafael.

Bakersfield Couple Repeats Vows Locally

Bakersfield residents, Dorothy Lee Clark and John R. Keen, were married Saturday at Mission San Rafael Arcangel in San Rafael.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Lee Clark of San Rafael. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Keen of Corona del Mar.

Maid of honor for her sister was Beatrice Clark of San Francisco, and another sister of the bride, Stella Clark of San Rafael, was the bridesmaid.

Neal Huston of Bend, Ore., was best man, and the bride's brother Michael Clark of San Rafael ushered.

Following a wedding trip skiing near Lake Tahoe the couple will live in Bakersfield.

Dorothy is a graduate of the College of Notre Dame and has an elementary teaching credential. She teaches first grade in Shafter. The bride is also the sister of Chris, Steve, Tom, Bernard and Gus Clark, all of San Rafael. Mrs. Alice Clark of San Francisco is her grandmother.

The bridegroom was graduated from high school in McMinnville, Ore., and from the University of Oregon. He is employed by the Ralston Purina Co. as a sales representative in Kern County. Mrs. Caroly Guistina is his sister.

Film Coating For Poultry

According to Manfred Kroger, food scientist at Pennsylvania State University, restaurants can buy poultry products coated with a nutritious, transparent film that maintains the original fresh quality during frozen storage. The nutritious film is left on during cooking.

Now being used on meat, the film can be obtained in a variety of flavors.

Kimberley was grdauted from San Rafael High School and the College of Marin dental assisting program. She is the granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Max Bacharach of Oakland and Mrs. Ann Mortimer of San Francisco.

Louis is also a graduate of San Rafael High School. He is in his junior year at the University of California at Berkeley and is employed by Kaufman's Fabric Land. The senior Louis Arnones of San Francisco are his grandparents.

Captain Of Club Named

Mrs. Henry Martens of Kentfield has been elected captain of the Meadow Club Women's Golf Section for the new year.

Other new members of the board are Mmes. George Herrero, co-captain; William Carewe, treasurer; Charles McFarland, recording secretary; Paul Sather, handicapper; George Frazer, rules; Joseph Dickover, tournament chairman, and Niels Schultz Jr., parliamentarian.

Honors were given by the group to Mrs. John Cann of San Anselmo, championship tournament winner; Mrs. Ernest Peterson of San Rafael, winner of the handicap tournament, and Mrs. Douglas Ramsey of San Rafael, most improved golfer award.

How To Get Ready For Next Party

I-J Special Report

Tone up your complexion with a quick mask that will deep-cleanse and de-clog pores, leave your skin smooth and soft. For the rest of your body, take a long soak in scented bubbles.

Put back the sparkle in your eyes by lying down (feet up for improved circulation) with refreshing eye pads on lids; a few minutes is all you need. For added sparkle, try silver eye shadow.

Brush with force for lively hair. Be sure to do it right: bend from the waist, head forward, and brush starting from the roots and working down to the ends of hair.

Nails are worth some time. Be creative: Use new colors and paint designs. For example, try a coat of pink and then add dots of blue.

Night lights can be hard on a face, so make up with care. Wipe out under-eye circles with a cover stick. Apply gently and be sure to blend edges. Use a base color to even out skin tones, then add some blusher on cheeks, chin and forehead.

For special sparkle, buy stars at the five-and-ten, pasted on face, hair and shoulders.

ON THE AGENDA

Four 'Nutcracker' Performances Are On Schedule For This Week

Right along with the Christmas season come performances of the "Nutcracker" ballet, and a group of Marin women from the Marin Civic Ballet Association are busy with duties for the ballet's four "Nutcracker" performances Wednesday through Friday at Marin Veterans Memorial Building.

On the committee are Mmes. Dudley Deane, chairman; R. B. Doyle, backstage coordinator; Barry MacKay, makeup; Robert Knox, cast hospitality; Caesar Taverna, costumes and props; J. H. Rolling, tickets; Leon Fish, group tickets; and Russell Shatz, poster and flyer design. Tickets are available at the Marin Memorial Building box office.

THE SAN Francisco Pacific Ballet Company will present Tschaikowsky's 'Nutcracker Suite' on Saturday at the Veterans Memorial Building in Sonoma.

The production is under the direction of Alan Howard, former premier danseur of the Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo, and will feature Sally Street, Kyro Alexander and Carolyn Goto.

The program is a first for Sonoma, and is being presented through the efforts of Yanina Cywinska of the Sonoma Ballet Academy.

The ballet will be performed at a 2:30 p.m. and again at 8:30 p.m. Tickets are available at the Sonoma Valley Chamber of Commerce.

DONALD V. Westlund Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, of Novato, will have its Christmas dinner at the Alvarado Inn in Ignacio at 7 p.m., Thursday. Reservations chairman is Mrs. Grover Owen.

Following dinner, members will go to the home of Mrs. Harold Harker for an exchange of gifts. They will also bring secret pal gifts, and groceries for Christmas for a needy family.

WESTMINSTER PRESBYTERIAN Church women and their friends will gather at the home of Mrs. Benton Bostick Jr. of Tiburon at noon on Wednesday, for lunch and a program of Christmas music sponsored by United Presbyterian Women.

A CHRISTMAS luncheon will be held by Bel Marin Keys Women's Club members on Wednesday at the club. Cocktails will be served at noon and luncheon at 1 p.m. The Novato High School choral singers will entertain. Mrs. John Klein is reservations chairman.

BUD SCHAEFFER, executive secretary of Sport Ambassadors, affiliate of Overseas Crusade, will speak at the Santa Rosa Christian Women's Club luncheon at noon Wednesday at Los Robles Lodge in Santa Rosa.

Schaeffer, a professional athlete, played basketball with the Boston Whirlwinds and the U.S. All Stars who played exhibition games against the Harlem Globetrotters in South America. He is also a 14 year veteran of Venture for Victory basketball tournaments and traveled with the first Venture for Victory team to the Orient.

Schaeffer and his wife will also provide music for the luncheon. The program will include a candle exhibition and instructions on how to make candles.

Mrs. Simon Brodersen is reservations chairman. Nursery care will be provided at the Christian Life Center in Santa Rosa.

A CHRISTMAS party and puppet show will be given by the Tamalpais Valley Improvement Club at 7 p.m. Thursday at the clubhouse. Kitty Adams will give the puppet show and Santa Claus will give out candy canes. A film and refreshments are also scheduled.

CATHOLIC DAUGHTERS of America, Court 1707, will have its Christmas party at 8 p.m., Wednesday at Our Lady of Loretto parish hall in Novato.

Guests will be the Rev. Daniel Sheehan, Rev. Charles Farrell and Ursuline nuns and lay teachers of Our Lady of Loretto School.

Members will bring canned goods for Christmas baskets to be given to a needy family.

CHRISTMAS WILL be celebrated by Rosarium Institute 175, Young Ladies Institute, on Thursday at St. Patrick's Hall in Larkspur. The institute will hold a business meeting at 8:15 p.m., followed by its Yuletide party.

Mrs. David Miller is chairman.

Record Keeping Is Necessary In Right-Of-Survivorship Cases

By JOSEPHINE RIPLEY
The Christian Science Monitor News Service

Miss E. J. of Hanover, N.H., asks,

"What does and or with right of survivorship mean with respect to owning property?

"How can two sisters handle their stocks, savings accounts and property so they pay the least amount of taxes in case of demise of one or the other?"

In the term "and or" the "and" means both; the "or" means one or the other.

In the case of survivorship, it means the survivor. As to federal taxes, the government does not impose an inheritance tax unless the estate exceeds $60,000.

If it does exceed that amount, the government will want to know whose money was involved in the purchase of the property.

In your case, if both you and your sister contributed to the property or other possessions, part of these possessions are owned by you. That part is not subject to the federal tax since it is not actually inherited but owned by you.

This would reduce or perhaps avoid any federal inheritance tax at all. But record keeping is necessary in order to prove your contribution to these assets, it would be advisable for you to consult your lawyer or banker with respect to any state inheritance laws which might apply in your case.

Mrs. R.L.N. of Boise, Idaho, asks,

"Can you tell us if there are any serious disadvantages in having all common-stock certificates issued in the name of both husband and wife as joint tenants with right of survivorship?"

Probably no serious disadvantages, but you might want to consult a lawyer with respect to probate or state inheritance-tax problems, if any.

In response to a recent query on British laws concerning wills, Monitor bureau chief John Allan May writes from London,

"When planning to make a will the British have several special considerations to remember:

"Estate duty begins at 15,000 pounds ($36,000). The 1972 Finance Act, however, exempts the first 15,000 left to the surviving spouse, meaning that where an estate is valued at less than 30,000 pounds and everything is left to the surviving spouse, no tax at all is payable.

"In the event an estate is greater than 30,000 pounds, the first 5,000 ($12,000) after the initial exemptions carries a 25 per cent rate of duty in Britain, the next 10,000 pounds a 30 per cent rate, the next a 35 per cent rate and so on until estates worth more than 500,000 pounds pay 75 per cent.

"A 50,000-pound estate in which at least 15,000 pounds is left to the surviving spouse would pay 6,000 pounds in duty. If no property was left to the spouse it would be required to pay 11,750 pounds.

"There is therefore a big incentive for everyone to reduce the size of his estate. . ."

love is . . .

AERIAL REFUELING FIRST FOR CANADA

Canadian aviation history has been made at Canadian Air Force base, Cold Lake, Alta. For the first time in Canada, aerial refueling is taking place. The 434th Tactical Fighter Squadron is undertaking rigorous training in the procedure. In this photo, just released, four CF-5 fighters flew nonstop to Bagotville, P.Q., using the system of taking fuel from a CAF Boeing 707. Release Of Viet POWs Will Resemble Negotiations In Korea

WASHINGTON (AP) — Only once before in the history of American warfare has a formal prisoner exchange at war's end been a key to the negotiated settlement.

That was in 1953 when the allied and communist sides repatriated thousands of soldiers and airmen captured during three years of bitter fighting in Korea.

In previous wars the United States liberated the prison camps of its defeated enemies.

In some cases exchanges of sick and wounded prisoners took place even before a cessation of hostilities. But in Korea and now Vietnam where there is no decisive victor, the POW release has become a part of the negotiated settlement.

Although the finishing touches remain for the Vietnam cease-fire agreement, the arrangement for the prisoner release is likely to resemble that of the Korean experience.

A total of 4,428 American fighting men were recovered from enemy prison camps in Kirea in exchange for 74,000 North Korean and Chinese prisoners.

The initial exchange, Operation Little Switch, began in April 1593, three months before the cease-fire, and involved only a small group of sick and wounded men — about 680 allied prisoners including 149 Americans for some 6,670 Communists.

But it wasn't until Operation Big Switch at Panmunjom in August of that year that the trade took place.

The armistice agreement called for the prisoners to be repatriated within 60 days but it took only 33. A similar 60-day timetable is part of the draft agreement for ending the Vietnam war, but Pentagon officials predict the exchange will be speeded up once it gets under way, probably in Vientiane, Laos.

As of Dec. 2, the Pentagon listed 552 U.S. captives in Indochina.

In Korea, the allied prisoners were loaded aboard trains at the prison camps in the North and brought south of Panmunjom. Communists held in the South were trucked north for the trade that began Aug. 5, 1953, with the release of 70 happy, shouting American GIs who marched across Freedom Bridge under the protective eyes of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission.

Once in American hands, the GIs were trucked to nearby Freedom Village for quick medical checks and debriefings by intelligence officers searching for clues to the whereabouts of the missing. Within a few days they were loaded aboard troop ships for the long journey home.

More than 2,700 of the 7,200 captured Americans died in the Korean prison camps. The toll — 38 per cent of the total captured — was the worst since the American Revolution.

Twenty-one other American POWs voluntarily stayed behind, but most eventually came home.

In World War II, nearly 11 per cent or 14,090 of the 129,701 Americans captured died in enemy prison camps.

Allied forces liberated the camps as they overran the German lines, freeing the POWs as they went. In the Pacific, the surrendering Japanese located scores of camps for the occupation forces which went in and brought the POWs out.

A major problem facing the United States at the end of the Vietnam war will be the fate of 1,266 Americans listed as missing in action.

The Pentagon hopes that the International Red Cross will be permitted to inspect the communist prison camps. But it is expected that after all the evidence is examined a presumptive finding of death will be issued in many cases.

Such was the problem in the Korean war which left 389 Americans unaccounted for even now.

Under terms of the Korean armistice agreement, each side agreed to repatriate or otherwise account for all POWs and deceased combatants of the other side if it knew their fate.

After completing the prisoner exchange September 1953, the United National Command handed the Communists a list of 944 American servicemen and 2,460 other allied personnel believed to have been in communist hands during the war.

After efforts by Army Graves Registration Units plus the sifting of thousands of reports from prisoners who were repatriated, the number of unaccounted-for Americans was reduced to 389.

To this day, when asked about the missing 389, the U.S. government's response is:

"The Departments of Defense and State have endeavored to obtain a satisfactory accounting from the Communists . . .

"The Communists, however, consistently ignore or reject the demands and maintain they have no further information.

"Countless investigations of tips, leads and rumors relating to the servicemen have been made by government intelligence agencies without developing any significant evidence to indicate that they survived the period of hostilities."

First UNICEF Christmas Designer Likes Quiet Life

CESKE BUDEJOVICE, Czechoslovakia (UPI) —Since 1949, when the United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund (UNICEF), printed its first Christmas card, it has sold 697 million of them.

But the artist who started it all has never received one.

And although such big names as Pablo Picasso and Salvador Dali have followed in her footsteps, Mrs. Jitka Samkova Vejdova remains virtually unknown.

This suits her fine.

"I don't care for publicity because it didn't do me much good," said Mrs. Vejdova, a pert 32-year-old blonde whose cheerful painting of children dancing around a Maypole was selected by UNICEF for its first printing.

She was seven years old at the time.

"People don't believe I got nothing out of it," said Mrs. Vejdova, now married with two children. "I never received a single crown (cent)—not even a Christmas card.

"All I have to show for it is a photocopy of my original painting and a trip to Switzerland four years ago to attend the 25th anniversary celebrations of UNICEF," she said.

In 1949, Mrs. Vejdova was one of many Czech schoolchildren who sent their thanks in the form of paintings to UNICEF for providing milk to replace losses caused by Nazi slaughter of her village's dairy cattle.

She made her painting on glass because there was no paper.

Hers was chosen for a poster at UNICEF feeding centers throughout her homeland and later for the first UNICEF Christmas card.

Asked to describe her design, she said, "The picture expresses joy, by going round and round, and the wreath at the top of the Maypole is to show that the line of children to help is endless."

Twenty-three years later, this is still true. One reason for the sale of UNICEF Christmas cards is to remind people and governments everywhere that there are still millions of children in desperate need of food and basic education. A second purpose is to raise funds to buy milk, medicine and textbooks to fill that need.

From a modest beginning—Mrs. Vejdova's design sold 4,000 copies the first season—total sales since 1949 topped 697 million this year, with an annual profit of $3 million.

UNICEF cards are also credited with having spread the custom of annual exchanges of Christmas-New Year greetings far beyond Europe and North America.

Asked about it now, Mrs. Vejdova's green eyes twinkle and she says with a smile: "It was all a children's game."

A typical Czech housewife—she works seven hours a day on an assembly line in a ballpoint pen factory—she gave up painting long ago.

"Who knows?" she said. "Maybe this year someone will send me a UNICEF Christmas card."

WHERE VOLVOS COME FROM, A CAR MUST EAT UP THE ROAD. NOT VICE VERSA.

Swedish winters are car killers. With slush and raw salt on the road half the year, a car can be eaten away in short order. Unless it's protected as well as a Volvo. Every Volvo in our showroom has two undercoats protecting its underside. Vulnerable body parts are made of anti-corrosive galvanized steel. And instead of shiny chrome trim, which rusts, Volvo has shiny, stainless steel and aluminum, which don't.

So come buy a Volvo from us. Even if the winters aren't kind to it, the years should be.

GUARD RAIL IMPALES AUTO

A tow truck operator studies the damage to an auto that slid off of East Blithedale Avenue in Mill Valley. Driver Leslie Duffy Lyon, 23, of 32 El Paseo, Mill Valley, told police she was westbound on the rain-slickened road shortly before midnight Saturday when her car crossed the center line and ploughed into the rail. Although railings shot through the auto like spears, neither the driver nor her passenger, Lisa Robin Lyon of Los Angeles, suffered more than scratches and bruises. (Photo by Ty Barbour)

2 Extradited In Nomadic Killing Case

GOLDEN, Colo. (UPI) — Two more members of a nomadic Texas family accused of committing more than 20 murders from Florida to Oregon have been extradited to Colorado on kidnap and murder charges. Both were in jail today.

Carl Robert Taylor, 34, and Sherman McCrary, his father-in-law, 47, were flown from California to Colorado Friday night.

They are charged with the 1971 slaying of Leora Rose Looney, 20, of Thornton, Colo., a Denver suburb.

Taylor and McCrary are also charged in Nevada with the murder of Sherri Martin, 17, of Kearns, Utah, a waitress.

Miss Martin disappeared from the restaurant where she worked eight days before Miss Looney was abducted.

The two men were serving prison terms in California for armed robbery. They re charged with other family members with more than 20 slayings from Florida to Oregon.

Carolyn C. McCrary, 47, of Duncanville, Tex., was returned to Colorado two weeks ago in connection with Miss Looney's slaying.

The extraditions followed grand jury testimony in Denver by Ginger McCrary Taylor, 22, last month.

She was presumably granted She was presumably granted immunity for her testimony that resulted in the charges against Taylor, her husband, and McCary, her father.
family member, has waived extradition and was returned to Texas to face charges in another slaying.

Miss Looney was abducted from the Lakewood Doughnut Shop Aug. 20, 1971. Her body was found three days later near the Colorado-Wyoming state line. She had been strangled and shot.

Russia Is Held Unlikely To Rearm Egypt Again

By K.C. THALER

LONDON (UPI) — The Soviet Union has decided it will not return to Egypt in any active military capacity for fear of direct involvement with unpredictable consequences, East European diplomats said today.

Even if asked by Cairo to return, Russia is not likely to respond in view of its disappointments in the past and dangers in the future except on terms which Egypt would hardly accept, the sources said.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat unceremoniously ousted 15,000 Soviet advisers and military personnel from his country last summer, but reportedly has recently tried to win back some of Moscow's cooperation.

The diplomatic sources said the Russians fear if they return in strength they might find themselves involved in some military offensive against Israel which they hold Egypt is unlikely to win in the present state of her relative military inadequacy.

Moscow fears if the Russians were to stand aside from any such conflict they would be blamed by the Arabs for letting them down. On the other hand if any such military action were to prove successful, the Russians would probably find themselves once more asked to go home.

But the overriding Soviet consideration was said to center on the Kremlin's overall strategy of co-operation with the United states and avoidance of direct involvement in dubious military ventures—anywhere.

The sources stressed that Moscow still will keep up a degree of cooperation with Cairo, for political and economic reasons. This will include the supply of some—but not all, or abundant — spare parts for weapons delivered in the past. This would be tied up with so-called "facilities" which Russia requires and will seek to maintain.

Latest reports that some 40 per cent of the war material in Egypt is not useable at present and that some 100 planes have been lost since the 1967 war because of crashes in training or in fights with Israelis have added to Moscow's reluctance to supply new large quantities of weapons.

No offensive sophisticated arms are to be supplied, for political considerations and because of lack of adequate expertise to handle them, the sources reported.

Furthermore, Moscow is apparently marking time to see what happens to Sadat, whose position is considered uncertain. Whether Moscow would be more amenable toward a regime that is pro-Soviet was not clear.

The Russians have a multibillion dollar investment in Egypt in terms of assistance with the Aswan Dam, economic and industrial commitments and the vast variety of arms supplied in the past.

They would want some of these debts to be repaid, but at the same time intend to continue a degree of outright aid to Egypt which has not been notably cut since the Cairo-Moscow honeymoon came to an abrupt end, according to the sources.

Academy Chapel Attendance Booted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court upheld today a lower court decision that it is unconstitutional for the Army, Air Force and Naval academies to require chapel attendance.

The Court, without comment, rejected the government's appeal from a 2-1 ruling of June 30 by the U.S. Court of Appeals in the District of Columbia that such regulations were a violation of religious freedom.

The appeals court had overruled a decision by a federal district judge who found nothing unconstitutional about mandatory chapel attendance.

The action strikes down the compulsory requirements in force at the three service academies.

In other actions before recessing until Jan. 8, the Court:

Let stand lower court findings which held that a section of the 1965 Social Security law limiting dependency benefits to some illegitimate children is unconstitutional. The proviso denied payments to the illegitimate children if the legitimate family of a parent used up the maximum benefits allowed under social security. The Court refused to hear the government's appeal from adverse lower court rulings in a Connecticut test case.

Refused to hear an appeal from a lower court order that the Irish Northern Aid Committee, a New York-based group, must turn over to the FBI its books and records, including the names of contributors.

Declined to review the perjury conviction of Louisiana's former attorney general, Jack P. F. Gremillion, on charges of lying to a federal grand jury investigating a bankrupt loan company. He must now begin serving a three-year jail sentence.

Sent back to a lower appeals court the case of Air Force Capt. Susan Struck who fought being discharged from the service when she became pregnant. The Court said the appeals court should consider whether any legal dispute is now involved since the Air Force now allows retention of pregnant women, including Capt. Struck.

Agreed to rule later this term on a ruling which the government says threatens to curtail its water pollution control program. At issue is an appeals court decision in a Pennsylvania case reversing the conviction of a chemical firm from dumping wastes into the Monongahela River near Pittsburgh.

The service academy chapel case was initiated by two West Point cadets and nine Naval Academy midshipmen.

Historic Group To Incorporate

The San Rafael Historic Preservation Committee has decided to incorporate under the name "Marin Heritage," according to Mary C. Dekker, chairman pro tem of the committee formed originally to preserve the Dollar Estate in San Rafael.

She said the new nonprofit corporation will have a broder scope of interests and soon will start a membership drive and fund-raising campaign under the leadership of Lynn MacInnes of Mill Valley.

Incorporation papers will be signed by Mrs. Dekker and George J. Silvestri Jr., co-founders of the organization, and Wilma Neuhaus, recording secretary.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Good News For Beginners, Experts Not The Supermen

If you have enjoyed thinking of bridge experts as supermen, I don't want to disillusion you. I just want to point out that some of the best players in the world pull some awful clinkers even when they're trying as hard as they can. West's boner in today's hand occurred during a playoff to pick the North American team for the 1973 world championship.

NORMAL OPENING

West opened the queen of spades, normally enough. New York expert Jeff Rubens won in dummy with the ace of spades and returned the ten of clubs for a finesse, losing to the king.

West switched to the ace of diamonds and continued with the jack of diamonds in the hope of getting two fast tricks in that suit. South had to overtake dummy's queen of diamonds with the king.

South drew another round of trumps, led a low heart to dummy's ace and returned to his hand by ruffing a spade. He then led a trump to dummy's nine and ruffed dummy's last spade.

MOMENT OF TRUTH

Finally South led the jack of hearts, and West made the typical beginner's error of covering with the queen. South promptly claimed the rest of the tricks.

The play had been slow enough for West to count declarer's hand. He knew South had started with six trumps, one spade and two diamonds. South surely held four hearts to complete his 13-card hand.

ONLY CHANCE

West's only chance to defeat the contract was to play low casually on declarer's jack of hearts. If South decided not to finesse (as he might, with nine hearts in the combined hands), West would eventually get the setting trick with the queen of hearts.

If West made his correct play, South might still guess right; but when West made the incorrect play South had no chance of going wrong.

Answer: Bid two spades.

The hand is not quite strong enough for a jump to four spades.

Seven Buried By A Molasses Stream

A REALISTIC DISPLAY

Exhibit preparator Raymond de Lucia of the American Museum of Natural History in New York City set up a display featuring an Indian "reticulated python" (Python Reticulatus) in the museum. The replicas, made of plastic, wood and glue, and which are extremely realistic, are expected to go on public display in 1974.

Berrigan To Resume His Active Role

BALTIMORE (UPI) —Barring a change in ideas and determination, the Rev. Phillip Berrigan will resume his social activism and fight against war after his parole from a federal prison Wednesday.

Under parole terms, Berrigan will be specifically assigned to research the needs of blacks after he is released from the prison at Danbury, Conn.

The 49-year-old Roman Catholic priest is a member of the Josephite Order, which is dedicated to helping blacks. He is to return to Baltimore Jan. 27 after first spending more than a month on approved Christmas leave in New York with his family.

"He will live here at the Josephite house of administration and do research work relevant to our aims," said the Rev. Matthew J. O'Rourke, superior general of the order and his parole sponsor.

"I don't anticipate any restrictions on his speaking or activities from our point of view," O'Rourke said. "But under parole conditions he is restricted to Maryland unless he gets travel permission from his parole officer."

Berrigan has served slightly more than three years of a six-year term for mutilating draft records in a 1967 Selective Service raid here, plus part of a concurrent three and one-half year-term for the so-called "Catonsville nine" raid on a suburban draft board with his brother Daniel and others a year later.

A Noel In Trouble

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Police have charged Martin Lewis Noel, 23, with larceny in the Dec. 11 theft of between $500 and $600 worth of Christmas trees from a lot in suburban Penn Hills.

MUSIC REVIEW

Community Orchestra's Spotlight On Soloists

By SYLVIA L. RUBY

With a growing reputation for presenting fine concerts, John Myers' College of Marin Community Orchestra drew a near-capacity audience to the Fine Arts Theater on the campus Sunday night.

Myers decided upon a program of great challenge and difficulty for himself and his musicians. The fact that he was able to pull it off successfully was due in large part to the excellence of first chair soloists.

The orchestra warmed up instruments and audience with the Zampa Overture by Ferdinand Herold. This light-hearted work is made up of selections of the ballet music from the opera strung together by brass fanfares. It reminds the listener of such works as Offenbach's La Vie Parisienne, and is from the same school of opera comique, but Herold predates Offenbach by 30 years.

Myers took the work at a lively clip while keeping articulation and rhythms precise. Wayne Ellerman did a nice job with the clarinet solo.

Talented young violinist, Mary Helen Weinstein, concertmaster of the orchestra, was the featured soloist for the evening in the performance of the Violin Concerto by Alexander Glazunov.

A student of Rimsky-Korsakov's, Glazunov is said to nearly equal him in techniques of orchestration, but he lacks Korsakov's forceful expressive powers. The violin concerto alternates haunting melodies of Russian folk-tune implications with passages of great technical difficulty. Although it is actually in three movements it is presented as one.

Miss Weinstein handled the virtuoso sections with clarity, and was at her best in the lyrical cadenza with its effect of two intertwining voices each with an independent but important line.

The orchestra had some difficulties in working with the soloist and occasionally tended to overpower her lower notes, but was otherwise fine. Roberta Willat, flute, played well in her lovely duet with the violinist.

Charles Ives Second Symphony of 1902 comprised the second half of the program. This work was completed while Ives was studying with Horatio Parker at Yale but was performed for the first time in its entirei by Leonard Bernstein in 1951. It was the only one of his symphonies Ives heard performed, and even then he did not attend the performance itself but listened to a later radio transcription.

The Second Symphony is almost completely tonal in content and employs none of Ives' trademarks such as polyrhythms, polytonality and tone clusters. What does mark the composition Ivesian though, is the great use of hymn tunes, patriotic songs and other well-known American tunes.

The last movement most nearly resembles the later Ives. It contains polyphonic overlapping of tunes, reveille calls, and a fine rendition of "Columbia, the Gem of the Ocean." The work ends with a loud dissonant blast suggestive of a horse laugh. Audience and orchestra enjoyed the piece equally. Difficulties arose mainly in intonation problems in the violins, and the lack of a clean cut-off in an important climax, but direction was clear, and the rapid shifts of rhythms and melodies well executed.

Ives present difficulties for even the most professional musicians. Myers is fortunate not only in his solo performers, but in having excellent brass and wind sections. The strong viola section is unusual for a college-community orchestra and it contributed much to both the Glazunov and the Ives.

Boy, 16, Cited For Burglary

A 16-year-old Novato boy was cited to juvenile authorities Saturday for burglary of a Novato home on Friday, Novato police reported.

According to reports, police recovered tape recordings, a radio and stereo valued at $580 from the boy. They had been taken from the home of Virginia B. Russell at 4 Carmel Drive, police reported.

The boy's name was withheld in accordance with a standing order of Superior Court Judge Joseph G. Wilson.

DANCE REVIEW

Oakland Ballet's 'Nutcracker' Plays To A Responsive Audience

By MARIE RAMEAU

OAKLAND — Judging from the Oakland Metropolitan Ballet's performance of "Nutcracker" this season, ballet in the East Bay is something to be reckoned with. The company, which will come to Marin this spring to participate in the West Coast Regional Ballet Conference hosted by Marin Civic Ballet, played Friday evening to a responsive, near-capacity house in Oakland's Metropolitan Theater, Oakland.

I have seen better "Nutcrackers" by professional companies, but for a regional company, this performance was unusually strong. Most parts of this traditional Christmas ballet were well rehearsed, and the dancers obviously enjoyed performing as much as the audience enjoyed watching them.

In the first act, the Party Scene, the children were outstanding, particularly Leslie Earls, who played Clara. The parents did too much dancing, which made an otherwise lively act drag along, but some comic relief was provided by Barbara Carroll's witty acting as the simpering governess. The battle between the mice and the toy soldiers was highlighted by some excellent pantomime from Richard Faulkner as the Nutcracker doll and Orrin Cross as the Mouse King, who finally got done in, in true comic-opera fashion. In the snowflake scene, the corps de ballet was perfection itself, although Diane Restivo as the Snow Queen needed more rehearsal.

Nicki Smith stole the show as soloist of the Reed Flutes in Act Two. Although this is not a principal role, Miss Smith's impeccable placement and technique, coupled with a lovely face and naturally elegant manner placed her far ahead of any other soloist in the ballet. Another exciting performer was Trip Pierce, who gave us some brilliant jumps and dazzling lines as Spanish Chocolate. The Waltz of the Flowers was a bit ragged, but was saved by four demi-soloists who obviously knew what they were doing.

"Arabian Coffee' this time was a radical departure from the traditional version, consisting of some breathtaking acrobatics which were pure display.

The principal role of the Sugar Plum Fairy should have been more carefully cast, as Lynette Alaine was hardly suited to its technical demands. She was better toward the end of the act, where well-placed arms and strong acting are required. Richard Faulkner, as the Nutcracker Prince, shows promise of becoming a fine technician and already presented a striking appearance.

The Oakland Metropolitan Ballet is presenting "Nutcracker" throughout the Bay Area, through the 27th.

A New Auto Industry Mark Is Due

DETROIT (UPI) —U.S. auto workers will put in only five days on the job this week before closing down their plants Friday for a long Christmas vacation and the windup of the most successful production year in automotive history.

By the time the last car or truck rolls off an assembly line somewhere in the United States, a record 11,300,000 cars and trucks will have been built. That will top the 11,114,000 produced in the best previous year of 1965.

Under their contracts with the companies, more than 800,000 United Auto Workers members will be on an extended vacation from the end of their shifts Friday to Jan. 2.

But before they settle down to opening their Christmas gifts, auto workers will have put in some long hours. Seventeen car assembly plants and 11 truck plants worked overtime Saturday, the final overtime in 1972.

School Bond Elections Do Rather Poorly

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A 12-month study shows only about one in five school bond elections won approval from voters, the California Teachers Association says.

The CTA, in a report released yesterday in the capital, said in 113 school bond elections between July 1, 1971 and June 30, 1972, only 21.2 per cent were approved while 74.6 per cent failed.

Half the school operating taxes in 190 elections during the same period failed and half won approval, the CTA added.

The CTA said voter turnout in the school-related elections was light, averaging 51.1 per cent of eligible voters in the school bond elections and only about 47 per cent in the school tax elections.

BAZAAR — Shoppers browse among the stalls that transform a humdrum corridor at the Sausalito Art Center into an exotic bazaar. The event was staged Saturday and yesterday by members of the Sufi sect, and offered oddities and art and artifacts.

Sausalito Art Center Is Turned Into Marketplace

By PAT ANGLE

The gentle Sufis came to Sausalito Saturday, brightening a cold, rainy day with the sights, sounds and delights of their annual whirling dervish bazaar.

For the two-day event, the Sausalito Art Center was transformed into an ancient Persian market, with tiny, colorful stalls draped in Persian carpets and hangings. Just about everything imaginable was for sale.

At Michael Gest's Al Muti Herb stall, the discriminating buyer could purchase such exotic compounds as avocado-orange face lotion, true unicorn root (for female troubles) and a tea that smelled like lying in an herb field under an orange tree.

Wonderful spicy odors of massage oils from the hot, slightly mysterious lands of Egypt, India and Spain predominated the stall's many unusual smells. Gest said the oils, which just lately have come into fashion, are his biggest sellers.

Farther down the hall, other Sufis sold stained glass hangings, intricate jewelry, pottery, multicolored clothing, plants and musical instruments, while Sufi musicians played and sang nearby.

Another booth proclaimed that bee pollen was the answer to many of mankind's problems. "it has vitamins A, B, C, D, E, and B12 and B complex and easily digested proteins and all kinds of minerals, the pretty young seller said enthusiastically. "As soon as you eat it, you get very high energy."

From a pamphlet, a visitor learned it was none other than plain old bee pollen which "sustained the original Olympic athletes, the Arab caravans and the Apache warriors." The pamphlet said further the substance was "entombed with the Pharoahs and praised by (great Greek thinkers) Hypocrates and Pythagoras," that it is "the secret of fertility and will "prime your sacred union and spark your meditation."

For 25 cents a bag, how could one go wrong?

A bookseller's stall offered all kinds of reading material, from "in Tune with the Infinite — a Modern Classic of Spiritual Inspiration" to a work titled "Zask a Potato." One was almost afraid to ask the subject matter of that one.

As a test of wits, a person guessing the right answer to a riddle won two brownies, two sand dollars or two Christmas cards.

"What is empty at night when you're asleep, but when you're awake by day is full of bones?" riddle-maker Wayne Buecher asked. "Shoes," a visitor replied promptly, becoming a big winner.

Buecher said he collects the puzzlers from children's books and from the youngsters themselves. "They have a lot of great ones," he said with a smile, noting that most adults can't answer them.

At the Shasta Abbey's Zen Missionary Society's booth, one could find "selling water by the river," a Zen training manual, Buddhist rosaries, meditation cushions, monk's hats, jizo amulets (to protect pregnant women) and even three grey and white kittens who were waiting patiently for new homes.

Rev. Jitsudo Baran of the abbey said he wasn't at the bazzar to make converts, but was there because it was such fun.

And, of course one could not leave the bazaar without a palm reading by Bashira and crystal gazing by Tom Singh of the Kabalistic Church of San Francisco.

Using a crystal the size of a large marble, Singh said a visitor masked a natural inferiority complex with personality, was defensive with men, had trouble making commitments and was suffering from an identity crisis.

As remedies for these ills, the crystal gazer suggested the visitor should come to the Sufi dances at the art center on Wednesday nights, keep a diary of her dreams and go home and clean her house.

Basira, the seeet-faced palmist, said the visitor's hand showed she worked hard, liked to listen, possessed great intuition and would live to be 90. She also confided that, at age 70, the person either would settle down to a quiet life or leave family, friends and home and just take off to go traveling. It sounded like fun.

While the selling, buying, bargaining and readings went on, the Sufi "people's choir" made beautiful music, sometimes soft and gentle, at other times rhythmic and stirring.

Would-be dervishes whirled ecstatically around the room as the mood struck them.

People laughed and hugged each other frequently. Dogs ran around loose, their tails wagging and children played happily.

It was a nice place to be on a rainy day.

Driver, 16, Cuts Face In Collision

A 16-year-old Novato girl suffered facial cuts yesterday when her car veered into the front of a printing shop at Grant Avenue and Machin Street after a collision.

Novato police said cars driven by Bryan L. Youngclaus, 62, of 10 Court Lane, Fairfax, northbound on Machin Street, and Linda Dianne Johannsen, 16, of 663 Olive Street, Novato, westbound on Grant Avenue, collided at the intersection at 2:45 p.m.

The Johannsen car then struck the front of Barlow and Sons Printing Co. at 900 Grant Avenue where the structure was damaged and a shop window broken. Police didn't have any estimate on the damage.

Dollar Estate Wins Historical Status

The Robert Dollar estate in San Rafael has been included in the National Register of Historic Places, Congressman William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, announced today.

The action, which could lead to the possibility of federal funds for purchase and acquisition, was taken by George B. Hartzog Jr., director of the National Park Service, Mailliard said.

Sites included in the national registry are eligible for federal matching funds of up to 50 per cent for acquisition and refurbishment, according to the state department of parks and recreation.

The historic property on Mission Avenue was recommended for inclusion in the registry by William Penn Mott Jr., director of the state parks department. Marin Heritage, a preservation group formerly known as the San Rafael Historic Preservation Committee, made the original application for inclusion of the property in the register.

Preservationists have long fought plans by attorney Thomas R. Schaal to develop the property. Though previous proposals by Schaal to develop the site have been rejected by both the planning commission and the city council, the attorney has again filed for permits to proceed with development plans.

Schaal's latest proposal calls for a 72-unit apartment building and the relocation and renovation of the Dollar mansion. The planning commission will consider the permit application at 7:30 p.m. Jan. 9.

Open Space Bonds To Be Discussed

The Corte Madera Town Council will again discuss a bond measure to buy open space at its meeting at 7:30 p.m. today at the Town Hall.

At its Nov. 20 meeting the council agreed to go ahead with the bond measure, prompted by Councilman Robert J. Flahive who said it appeared that county regional park money for open space acquisition was more likely to go to cities that provided matching funds.

No dollar amount or repayment has been discussed yet, and the matter was delayed from the council's Dec. 4 meeting because Councilman Flahive was absent.

Also before the council will be an ordinance increasing the size of the town's Board of Design membership from three to five persons.

College Slates Credit Courses

More than 40 college credit courses have been scheduled for late afternoon or evening hours during spring semester at Dominican College of San Rafael for the convenience of working students, according to college officials.

A new "extended learning program" will additionally offer noncredit classes, including one on the "art of grandparentry" to adult parttime students.

Registration for graduate students is Jan. 12 and undergraduates must register Jan. 15. Classes will begin Jan. 16.

Jan. 18 is the registration date for the grandparent course, which will meet three Monday evenings in January and February.

Plant Prints Are On Exhibit

A collection of 79 original plant prints from "The Leaf Book" by Ida Geary is being exhibited at the Marin County Library at the Civic Center Mondays through Friday until the end of this month.

The library hours are 8 a.m. to 9 p.m.

The book was published by Arlen Philpott, The Tamal Land Press of Fairfax. Copies of another of her books, "How to Make Plant Prints" are being given away at the library.

She will give a free course in printmaking with plants beginning Jan. 2 at San Francisco Community College.

Rezoning Issue Before Council

Plans to rezone 680 acres for future development will be reviewed at a public hearing before the Rohnert Park City Council at 7 p.m. today.

Shapell Industries will seek new zoning on the land near the Rohnert Park Golf Course to permit homes, apartments, townhouses and a neighborhood shopping center.

The council will also request the county of Sonoma to file a joint grant application to buy land in the Sonoma hills for a regional park.

Property Taxes Play Big Part In Budget

Marin County's budget relies more heavily on property tax revenue than in 57 of California's 58 counties, largely because its welfare cost is the second lowest in the state.

Figures released today by the state controller's office show that 39.31 per cent of Marin's budget this fiscal year comes from property taxes. Only Calaveras County was higher at 39.71 per cent.

The statewide average was 31.78 per cent.

County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell said the high percentage reliance on property taxes was because Marin's welfare cost per capita was so low that the county failed to get state and federal welfare subventions going to counties with higher welfare costs.

Marin's per capita welfare cost last year, he said, was $50.06, compared to the statewide average of about $120. The lowest was $45.25 in Orange County, and the highest was $176.63 in Madera County, he said.

The county budget this fiscal year is $48,898,312, requiring a property tax rate of $2.75 per $100 assessed valuation to raise $19,223,887. Last year, 42.22 per cent of the county budget was financed from property taxes, the highest in the state.

The lowest this year was 21.56 per cent in Mariposa County

Families Flee High Snake River

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) —More than 100 families were evacuated during the weekend in southwestern Idaho and eastern Oregon as the flooding Snake River spilled over its banks behind a 30-mile long ice jam.

The two states, snapping out of a 12-day Arctic chill which brought record low temperatures, warmed up to the 20s and 30s and flood waters began to flow behind the ice jam in the river.

Cooke Celebrates Special Rock Mass

NEW YORK (UPI) —Cardinal Terence Cooke celebrated a "rock mass" Sunday for about 20 youngsters in the pediactrics section of Memorial Sloan-Kettering Center for Cancer Research.

Cardinal Cooke read a special Christmas message which President Nixon sent to him to deliver to the children.

Arrest At Ransacked Apartment

Justine Virginia Thompson, 49, of 120 G Street, was arrested on suspicion of malicious mischief, possession of marijuana and a $90 outstanding traffic warrant. She was booked into Marin County Jail and held in lieu of $1,000 bail to appear today in Marin Municipal Court.

Police said they found the woman lying on a bed in an apartment at 804 A Street after a enant had called to report furniture was being tossed from a window. Police found the apartment ransacked, the phone ripped from the wall, a furnace tipped over and various possessions scattered about. Officers said Mrs. Thompson told them she had ransacked the apartment because it belonged to Clifford A. Thomspon, her ex-husband.

She was taken to Marin County Jail, where a routine search produced three bags of suspected marijuana, a vial containing suspected hashish and cigarette papers, according to police.

More Demands For Oil Seen

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A growing demand for oil will mean increased dependence on foreign exports to the United States, an industry executive said Sunday.

Otto N. Miller, chairman of the board for Standard Oil of California, said imports amounted to 30 per cent of the total supply of oil used in the U.S. in 1972, and will zoom to about 55 per cent of the total supply within seven years.

That would be a jump of 4.9 million barrels daily now imported to more than 13 million barrels daily in 1980.

Miller said a surge in the nation's economic growth creates more demand for oil at a time when the U.S. production of the fuel has begun a gradual decline.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Injuries Which Damage Liver Increasing Due To Car Wrecks

Abdominal injuries which damage the liver are increasing due to more serious highway accidents. Autopsy studies revealed liver damage in six of ten victims.

Location makes this large organ vulnerable. It is in the front part of the abdomen under the ribs on the right side. The rib cage offers some protection, but not enough when the area receives a devastating blow as might occur during a high-speed accident.

THE LIVER usually is torn and the substance, blood vessels, and bile ducts are damaged. It pops open like a melon. All of this occurs even though the abdominal wall is not lacerated or penetrated. The result is internal bleeding and bile leakage, which is serious, unless recognized and corrected. Emergency care involves an exploratory operation which usually is done on a person who is near death, in shock, and often suffering from other severe injuries.

Advances in surgery, transfusion techniques, and a better resuscitation method have reduced deaths from this type of operation from 80 to 30 per cent or less. Without it, the chances of death are almost 100 per cent.

The lower part of the steering wheel is at the same level as the liver and is the blunt object that injures the driver during the crash. Spleen damage may also be present and the lower chest caved in, causing injury to the heart and aortic artery. When the windpipe is struck and the ensuing swelling blocks off the air supply, an artificial airway (tracheotomy) must be inserted.

OTHERS RIDING in the car may also be injured, especially when the vehicle stops suddenly and they are thrown against the dashborad, front seat, or out of the car. A damaged liver is always suspected when the upper abdomen or lower chest is struck.

A simple tear in the liver usually causes profuse bleeding, but it can be closed to its full depth by a simple suture, which also controls the hemorrhage. This type of treatment is not adequate for a major injury. Under these circumstances, the lobe of the liver containing the injured and devitalized part is carefully removed (hepatectomy). Studies show that the organ regenerates almost to its original size; recovery of liver function occurs within a few weeks.

DRUGS AND STROKES

K. E. writes: If a person has had a stroke, will he have to take pills the rest of his life?

REPLY

The answer depends upon the cause of the stroke. Some physicians recommend anticoagulant drugs when the stroke was induced by a clot. But these compounds are contraindicated if brain hemorrhage was responsible. Tablets that lower blood pressure, on the other hand, may be needed.

STARVED HEART

M. A. writes: What is ischemia of the heart?

REPLY

Ischemia is a condition in which the heart muscle does not get enough blood because the coronary arteries are narrowed. This local starvation causes angina pectoris (chest pain) on exertion or excitement when the heart beats faster and needs more blood.

Giacomini To Move Offices

Supervisor-elect Gary T. Giacomini has announced he will close his San Rafael headquarters next month and move offices to the Marin County Civic Center office being vacated by outgoing supervisor Louis H. (Bud) Baar.

Giacomini told the Independent-Journal his administrative assistant, Judy Ainsworth, will staff the new office to handle constituents' questions and problems.

He said his San Rafael headquarters, operated by volunteers, received 50 to 60 phone calls a day and proved a valuable link with residents of his fourth district.

A campaign promise, that he would serve as a full-time supervisor, is not feasible at this time because of supervisors' low salary, Giacomini said. Supervisors currently earn $13,200 per year.

ALMANAC

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Today is Monday, December 18th, the 352nd day of 1972 with 13 to follow.

The moon is approaching its full phase. The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Mars. The evening stars are Jupiter and Saturn.

American composer Edward MacDowell was born Dec. 18, 1861.

For draft eligibles the lottery number is 73.

On this day in history:

In 1787, New Jersey ratified the proposed constitution of the United States.

In 1865, the 13th Amendment to the Constitution abolished slavery in the United States.

In 1915, President Woodrow Wilson, a widower for about one year, was married to Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt, a widow.

In 1965, a U.S. spaceship returned to Earth after spending 14 days in orbit.

A thought for the day: American novelist Gertrude Franklin Atherton said: "No matter how hard a man may labor, some woman is always in the background of his mind. She is the one reward of virtue."

A Health Problem In Tropical Regions

What are the world's greatest health problems? Malaria? Malnutrition? Perhaps. But there is an equally serious one that most Americans have never heard of. It is called schistosomiasis, or Bilharzia. It is a chronic infection that leads to such symptoms as anemia, perforated intestines and painful swelling of the abdomen. The sufferers lose bodily function and energy; in severe cases they are unable to work at all.

Some 200 million persons in Asia, Africa, South America and other tropical regions have this disease; developing nations in those areas list the disease as one of the major obstacles to their development.

The disease is caused by small worms called schistosomes, which live in the veins that serve the digestive organs and the intestines. There they mate and release eggs. Many of the eggs penetrate the walls of the alimentary canal or the bladder; others become trapped in the liver or in the lungs.

The body is damaged through lesions to these tissues, through complications arising from its own immune reaction to the eggs.

Some of the eggs pass out through the digestive wastes, and in fresh water, hatch into free-swimming larvae, which infect snails living in the water.

Another developmental form of the worm emerges from the snails and infects, by skin penetration, humans who happen to touch or be in the water. These forms develop into adults in their human hosts, release eggs and start the cycle all over again.

It is easy to see why the disease is widespread in tropical underdeveloped countries. Sanitary treatment of human wastes (often a source of fertilizer) is inadequate and the people are exposed to river or lake water through irrigation, bathing and other activities.

Several serious efforts at controlling the disease have been made by treating victims with drugs, killing the snails or changing the water-usage habits of the people. But the success has been limited by the costs and manpower required.

Now evidence is accumulating that a vaccine to immunize against schistosomiasis may be feasible. Recently scientists at The Salk Institute who conducted an informal review of the problem concluded that a vaccine was the most promising approach.

In the last few years researchers have moved much closer to an understanding of the infection and the immune response. In England, experimental systems have been developed that permit most of the life cycle of the worm to be carried out in vitro — that is, in test tubes in the laboratory, without animal hosts. Thus detailed analysis of the worms can be made, even at the cellular and molecular levels. Elsewhere, vaccination experiments with cattle have already been started.

If the nature of the immunity and of the adult worms' defenses can be determined, the elements of a vaccine will be at hand.

(From The Salt Institute, San Diego)

San Rafael air quality yesterday:

Oxidants, clean air.

Nitrogen dioxide, clean air.

Carbon monoxide, clean air.

Smoke particles, light air pollution.

Other areas:

San Francisco, light air pollution.

San Jose, light air pollution.

Colorless oxidants, brownish nitrogen dioxide and smoke particles aggravate respiratory diseases. Carbon monoxide causes dizziness, headaches and slows reflexes. Smoke particles come largely from industrial sources, while the other three come primarily from motor vehicles.

Theologians Agree Satan Does Exist

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican newspaper L'Osservatore Romano devoted two of its eight pages Sunday to a subject the Vatican rarely discusses at length — the devil.

Seven theologians agreed Satan exists.

Their findings supported a speech Pope Paul VI made last month which said the devil exists, the first time the 75-year-old pontiff had dedicated an entire speech to the subject.

The speech stirred criticism because the Pope used language which was all but discarded in the Roman Catholic church after the Vatican Ecumenical Council a decade ago.

The Pope and several of the authors in L'Osservatore Romano said belief in Satan is an essential part of Christian faith.

Martha Hoffman At Divorce Unit

Martha Hoffman, a former Marin County social worker who will staff a new "do-it-yourself" divorce center in San Rafael, was incorrectly identified as Martha Thompson in Friday's Independent-Journal.

The office, at 1029 Fourth Street, is designed to assist couples who agree to an uncontested dissolution of their marriage and wish to save attorney's fees.

38 Children's Books On Display

George B. Duncan III of San Anselmo is displaying a collection of 38 children's books and three scrolls from other lands at the Marin County Library at the Civic Center.

The collection, which will be exhibited through the end of December, may be viewed during library hours, 8 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Duncan was chairman of the modern languages department at the College of Marin when he retired in 1970 after 24 years of teaching.

Hearing Set On Improvement District

The North Marin County Water District will hold a public hearing on the proposed Olema Improvement District at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the West Marin School, Point Reyes Station.

Directors also will consider an interim policy on environmental impact reports.

Celler Is Honored By B'Nai B'rith

WASHINGTON (UPI) —Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., leaving Congress after nearly 50 years in office, has been awarded the B'nai B'rith's "President's Medal."

During a luncheon Sunday given in his honor by the Jewish service organization, a "Dear Mannie" letter from President Nixon was read in which Nixon told Celler "your half-century of service to this country has earned you the profound gratitude of every fellow citizen." Celler was defeated last spring in a primary election.

Cool eye, cool hand... cool holiday weekend

If you're on the highway this weekend, play it cool. Don't race your motor or the next guy. Don't let your car run away with your judgment. Keep a cool head, use a light foot, and keep the needle down. This is mature driving which not only saves tension and wear and tear—it can save your life. Lot better than driving home in an ambulance!

State Highway Patrol officers will be on the road, guiding traffic ... helping you go places safely

'Eurocrats' End Strike Over Pay

BRUSSELS (UPI) — The 10,000 civil servants who run the European Common Market ended a one-week strike over both pay and principle today but the basic issues were still unresolved.

The strike ended just in time for three simultaneous meetings of the nine foreign, agriculture and transport ministers of the enlarged market to wrap up details before the community's expansion Jan. 1.

The "Eurocrats," as the civil servants are called, stayed home last week to protest the method used in calculating their pay raises. They said the member governments agreed earlier this year to a formula fixing raises, then broke that agreement by departing from the formula to calculate pay scales for next year.

The difference between the governments' offer and the Eurocrats' demands came to only about $1 million. But the strikers said the offer failed to take enough notice of inflation.

LISA JO MORRISON
Wins contest

ELLIOTT MARSHALL
Elks Lodge award

Leadership Winners Named By Elks Lodge

Lisa Jo Morrison, a senior at Marin Catholic High School in Kentfield, and Eliott Owen Marshall, a senior at Redwood High School in Larkspur, have been named winners of the San Rafael Elks Lodge's annual leadership contest for Marin high school students.

Each winner received a $100 award.

Miss Morrison, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Morrison of 43 Kinross Drive, San Rafael, has been editor of her school's newspaper, vice president of her class and the student body and the recipient of several special school awards.

She has also been a Girl Scout member and leader and a member of the Young Men's Christian Association board of managers.

Young Marshall is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Griffith O. Marshall of 190 Stewart Drive, Tiburon.

He has held both class and student body offices and has served as student representative on the faculty social studies class.

He also has been involved in school dramatics, public speaking and sports, winning letters in swimming and track. He is an Eagle Scout and serves as a church acolyte. He recently was elected president of a teenage Republican club.

Second places in the contest went to Candace Lynn Matson of Novato High School and Todd Evan Gulick of Terra Linda High School.

Diane Bessee of San Rafael High School and Janice Lynn Fuhrman of Novato High School tied for third place in the girls' contest, and William Lewis Larkins of Marin Catholic won the boys' third place.

The students were judged for such qualities as leadership, perseverence, resourcefulness and sense of honor.

King Hussein Of Jordan Marries A TV Announcer

JERUSALEM (UPI) —King Hussein of Jordan has left his second wife, Princess Muna, to marry an announcer on Jordanian television, the Arabic newspaper al Anba said today.

Quoting visitors arriving from Amman, the Isael governmentsupported newspaper said Hussein had wed Souha Toukan a week ago.

She is a descendant of a prominent family in Bablus on the Israeli-occupied West Bank of Jordan.

Al Anba said Hussein has not divorced Muna, who bore him two sons, because Moslem law provides that he can have four wives.

The newspaper said Muna, the daughter of a former British army officer, was planning to marry "a well-known American diplomat." She is living in London with her two sons.

Rooms Of Chinese Visitor Are Looted

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) —A suitcase of clothing and Chinese artifacts were stolen during the weekend from the hotel room of Peng Ti, 55, a correspondent from China's Hsinhua News Agency.

Stolen from an adjoining room on the 18th floor of the Fairmont Hotel Saturday night was $500 worth of jewelry belonging to the wife of Peng Ti's American host, Associated Press general manager Wes Gallagher. Investigators said the same thief apparently broke into both rooms.

Confident 49ers Face Dallas In Pro Grid Playoffs

Combined AP & UPI

SAN FRANCISCO — Only the San Francisco 49ers' won-lost record stamps them as the team least likely to succeed in the National Football League playoffs.

They have the most important thing going for them, confidence, after Saturday's 20-17 victory over Minnesota which gave them a third straight National Football Conference West championship.

They also have a rejuvenated superstar in John Brodie. He came off the bench to win the game with two late touchdown passes and probably will be the starting quarterback in Saturday's playoff opener here against Dallas.

"If you're going all the way, you have to win some hectic games like this," said young Steve Spurrier, who started at quarterback Saturday but wound up on the sidelines cheering Brodie.

The 37-year old veteran took the 49ers on scoring drives of 99 and 66 yards in the final quarter after the Vikings had built a 7-6 lead on two Fran Tarkenton touchdown passes and a Fred Cox field goal. Brodie completed 10 of 15 passes for 165 yards.

The winning touchdown came with 25 seconds to play. Brodie threw a 2-yard pass to reserve tight end Dick Witcher, another forgotten man on the roster.

"A lot of teams would have said it's all over. But this team has never ever backed off anybody at anytime in the five years I've been here," coach Dick Nolan said.

For the third straight year the 49ers went down to their final regular season game before clinching the NFC West. Their 8-5-1 record is the worst in the eight-team playoff field.

The Dallas Cowboys, defending Super Bowl champions, whipped the 49ers in the NFC title game the last two seasons. But in a regular season game this year the 49ers handled them rather easily, 31-10, at Texas Stadium.

Spurrier was at quarterback in the victory over Dallas, with Brodie still recovering from an ankle injury. The veteran returned to uniform three weeks ago, but stayed on the bench.

"The fun is in playing," Brodie said after his first game action since Oct. 15. "My arm felt as good as it ever did."

The 49ers go into the playoffs without strong safety Mel Phillip, who broke a shoulder Saturday. Rookie Windlan Hall will start in his place.

Meanwhile, in the visiting dressing room, Viking coach Bud Grant angrily defended his decision to go for a tying field goal with five seconds remaining. Grant chose not to have his quarterback Fran Tarkenton try a desperation pass in pulling out a victory.

Fred Cox missed the 43-yard attempt but even if he had made it the 49ers would have won the NFC West with a tie.

Falcons and Rams followers were hoping for a Viking victory so that their clubs might have a chance to win the NFC West Sunday. Understandably, they figured Grant Tarkenton to go for a touchdown pass on that last play, which saw the Vikings at the San Francisco 36.

"To hell with them," Grant shouted in no uncertain terms when reporters asked him about the field goal try. "I care only about us. A tie would have given us a winning season (7-6-1) instead of a break-even (7-7) year. I'd do it again (try for the tie) every time. In this business, we do the best we can for ourselves. It's not our business to knock anyone out of the running. We have to think about our own club first and chances of getting a touchdown pass in that situation were as slim ay they could be.

"Cox hit from 43 yards earlier and he has been consistent all year from that distance. I wanted a tie and a winning year."

A Happy Scene In 49er Dressing Room

The 49ers had just won their third straight division title in a dramatic comeback victory spearheaded by John Brodie and the reporters were swarming around the returning hero who was there when the 49ers needed him most.

Brodie, relegated to second string status by the winning ways of Steve Spurrier, had been called upon Saturday to bring the Niners back, to put a stop to the certain loss which was staring the team in the eyes late in the third quarter.

And Brodie did it, 20-17 over the Minnesota Vikings. Although coughing up two interceptions, Brodie oiled up that rusty arm which hadn't seen game action since Oct. 15 and led the team to fourth quarter touchdown drives of 99 and 66 yards. He had thrown a 24-yard touchdown pass to Gene Washington and a two-yard payoff pitch to Dick Witcher for the winner with just 25 seconds left.

SO NATURALLY the press swarmed around Brodie in the jubilant 49er dressing room after the game.

On the other side of the room, dressing in silence, was Elmer Collett, former Tamalpais High and College of Marin player who now is a special teams member for the 49ers. He had just come an eyelash away from being the "goat" of the game. It would have been a shame, because Elmer is the kind of guy who puts out 110 per cent all the time.

But with the 49ers trailing 17-13 and needing the ball back, an unfortunate thing happened to Collett. He was called for holding when Minnesota's Mike Eischeid punted the ball to the 49ers, and that meant an automatic first down for Minnesota which maintained possession with about five minutes left. If the Vikings had been able to sustain a drive the 49ers might not get the ball back.

But fortunately, the 49er defense stiffened and Eischeid again was forced to punt. This time there was no holding, but instead a personal foul against Minnesota's John Ward gave the 49ers a first down on their own 34-yard line. Then came the 66-yard drive and touchdown pass to Witcher.

"If I was holding then I am holding on every play," said Collett in obvious disagreement with the official's call. Elmer's head was still throbbing from a blow he suffered in the second quarter, which forced him to the sidelines for the rest of the first half. He didn't remember too much about that blow. "The whole thing was a blank to me. I remember coming in at halftime, but before that everything was a blank."

But he was remembering vividly that holding call which perhaps made him the only man in the dressing room who was not smiling. "But we won the game," he said. "That's what counts."

HEAD COACH Dick Nolan isn't announcing who will be starting quarterback for the playoff game Saturday against the Cowboys at Candlestick, but I will be completely shocked if he doesn't start Brodie.

When Brodie entered Saturday's game against Minnesota, it seemed to inspire the whole team. They realized he had the passing ability to pull out the game. His very first pass was to Gene Washington at the sidelines, an area in which Spurrier cannot safely throw because his passes don't have the zing needed for that type of pass. But that's the kind needed when you are racing a clock.

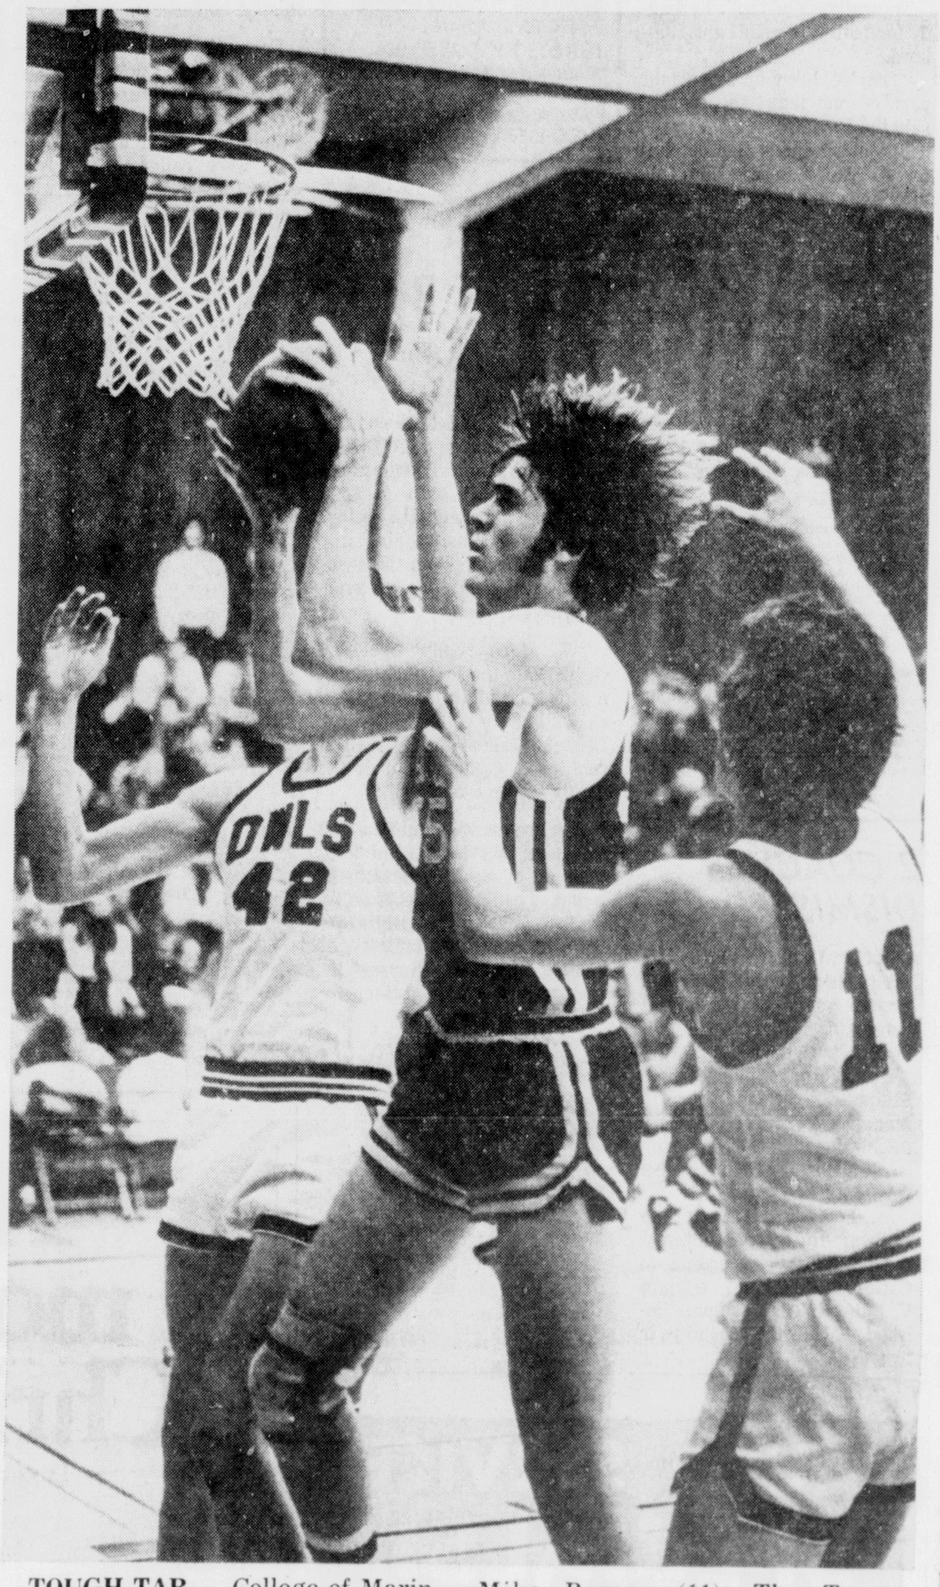
Spurrier did a fine job in taking Brodie's place while John was sidelined with a broken ankle. But when you have to choose between the two to find the best passer, you have to go with Brodie.

TOMMY HART, defensive end for the 49ers who was named winner of the Len Eshmont Award by his teammates the night before that Viking game, perhaps said it best after the game:

"Brodie was just great, but Spurrier had really carried us these last few games. We're just fortunate to have two guys like Spurrier and Brodie on this team."

Brodie was mobbed by the fans after the game and carried off the field on their shoulders. "I couldn't be any happier than I am today," he laughed. "I can't remember when I last came off the bench to win a game, but then I guess I haven't spent much time there."

Witcher has been described as a player who always comes up with the big catch and the one Saturday was his biggest. He had only caught two others all season. "John had the option to run or pass on that play and there is only one receiver out there — that's me."



TOUGH TAR — College of Marin center Neil Traub (55) grabbed a rebound Saturday night between two Foothill College of Los Altos defenders, Bob Ross (42) and Mike Roman (11). The Tars topped Foothill, 69-49, in Kentfield to capture the College of Marin Invitational basketball tournament title.

Tars' Defense Nets Cage Tourney Title

Foothill Throttled By Marin

By LEW CODDINGTON

There is an unorthodox course in spelling taught at College of Marin. Only basketball players take it, and they learn that "championship" is spelled with a capital "D."

The "D" stands for defense (pronounced DEE-fense), which the Tars showed consistently and well Saturday night while defeating Foothill College of Los Altos, 69-49, to win the College of Marin Invitational basketball tournament in Kentfield.

It marked the fourth time in seven years the Tars have captured their own tournament, and the first since 1970, as Reedley College took the title last year. This year the best Reedley could do was third place, achieved with an 87-69 victory over Ohlone of Fremont, while Santa Rosa won the consolation championship with a 79-65 triumph over Solano of Suisun City.

"We played awfully well on defense. This is what we have to do to win," said Marin coach John Panagakis, whose team won for the ninth time in 10 tries this year.

Marin opened up a 27-10 lead on Foothill (6-3) after the first 15 minutes, holding the Owls to just three field goals during that stretch. Then the Tars lapsed briefly, allowing Foothill to cut the gap to 27-20 at the half, but they reasserted themselves after intermission for a 38-22 lead, and the game never was close again.

"Any time we ran the offense and were patient, we scored," said Panagakis. "Any time we got lax, like at the end of the first half, we got blown out."

Forward Wil Garner led Marin's scoring with 21 points, including a dunk shot in the second half after which he hung on the rim, drawing a technical foul but eliciting a roar from the approximately 800 fans.

Center Neil Traub scored 13, guards Joe DeMaestri and Len Smith 10 each and forward Joe

Drake Beats Host Newman Five In Rose Tournament

By PAUL DWORIN

SANTA ROSA — With nothing much more than pride at stake, Drake High School responded with a 76-57 victory over host Cardinal Newman of Santa Rosa to take third place in the Rose City Invitational Basketball Tournament which concluded Saturday. Hayward beat Montgomery of Santa Rosa, 39-31, for the championship.

In other Rose tournament games, Rancho Cotate of Rohnert Park scored a last second 44-42 victory over Petaluma for the consolation title, and Marin Catholic dropped a 49-41 game to St. Patrick's of Vallejo to finish in eighth place.

"It's nice to know they have enough pride in themselves to come back and win after a touch loss (to Hayward, 6965)," Drake coach Pete Hayward commented. "The thing that pleased me the most is that the kids came out and hustled."

The Pirates hustled from the opening tip, and ran up a 10-2 lead in the first three minutes. After that, the only question remaining was how much Drake would win by.

Actually the score is no indication of the Pirates' complete dominance, for Hayward took out his starting five in the third quarter when they had built up a 59-33 lead.

The second unit performed well, playing the Cardinals even for a quarter until Hayward cleared his bench, after which Cardinal Newman cut into the lead.

John Channell, who led the Pirates in scoring for the tournament with 49 points, was selected for the all-tournament team along with teammate Eddie Chavez, who scored 38 points in three games.

Raiders To Start Second Season Versus Pittsburgh

Oakland In Playoffs Saturday

OAKLAND (UPI) —The first season is over and the second one begins today for the Oakland Raiders, who meet the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday in the opening round of the American Football Conference playoffs.

The Raiders, pro football's most successful team over the last 10 years, defeated the Chicago Bears, 28-21, Sunday to finish the regular season with a 10-3-1 record.

It was not an easy victory. But for the most part of the second half, Raiders coach John Madden went with his reserves.

Abe Gibron, the Bears coach, called the Raiders the team with the best personnel in the National Football League although he declined to pick a winner for Saturday's game with the Steelers.

"It will be a contest, I'll say that much," Gibron said. "The Raiders have many fine personnel, the best I think in the NFL, and they can hurt you with their depth. They showed me a lot in this game."

Daryle Lamonica played only the first half in the victory over Chicago and Ken Stabler, his backup, came on to complete 10 of 11 passes for 124 yards and a touchdown.

"That's what I mean," Gibron said, pointing to Stabler. "He's a fine young backup man and really there is no drop-off when he takes over."

Lamonica completed a 10-yardscoring pass to Charlie Smith on a 19-yard toss. Pete Banaszak ran one yard at the end of a 77-yard drive for a third score and Clarence Davis busted 46 yards for the final Raider tally. The Bears, who finished at 4-91, scored on a 94-yard kickoff return by Ron Smith to open the game, on a blocked punt in the end zone which Ross Brupbacher fell on and on a one-yard smash by Don Shy.

Madden will have the Raiders out this afternoon for the first practice leading up to Saturday's game.

"We don't have much time to get ready," Madden said, "but we know what we have to do."

By that Madden meant the Raiders will have to play mistake-free football to beat the Steelers, AFC Central champs who nailed down their first title over Sunday by beating San Diego. The Steelers whipped the Raiders, 34-28, in the opening game of the season, taking advantage of a flock of Oakland mistakes for a big early lead.

Sunday's Chicago game produced a few individual highlights.

The biggest one of all was the running of quarterback Bobby Douglass. He picked up 127 yards in 14 carries for a season total of 968. Gibron said he didn't know Douglass was close to the 1,000 mark or he would have had him running more late in the game.

Ron Smith won the NFC kickoff return title when he ran four times for 172 yards and a 918 total for the year, while Fred Biletnikoff of Oakland grabbed

PRO GRID ROUNDUP

Rooney, Steelers Get 1st Crown; Miami Unbeaten

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Art Rooney has seen a lot in the last 40 years but even at age 71 he still had time for a first on Sunday.

The first was the initial title for his Pittsburgh Steelers after 40 years of National Football League competition and the cigar-chomping owner took it all in stride.

"It's just my nature," said Rooney after watching the Steelers capture the American Football Conference Central Division title with a convincing 24-2 rout of the San Diego Chargers. "I never show my enthusiasm. I'd say this is the high point in my 40 years with the team."

The Steelers entered with a one-game lead over Cleveland but found their title chances in jeopardy when the Browns beat the New York Jets. A loss by Pittsburgh would have given it a 10-4 record, the same as Cleveland, but the Browns would have been awarded the Central title on the basis of best record within the conference.

But the Steelers left no doubt that this would be a year to remember for Rooney as they forced San Diego into seven turnovers and converted four of them into scores. Pittsburgh's menacing defense, which hasn't allowed a touchdown in the last three games, completely bottled up John Hadl and the San Diego offense and left the Chargers in last place in the AFC West as the season ended.

The Steelers needed little more than three minutes to take the lead when safety Ralph Anderson intercepted a Hadl pass and returned it to the San Diego 11 and Franco Harris then plunged over from the two. The Chargers' only score came when Dave Costa tackled quarterback Terry Bradshaw in the end zone for a safety but it was all Pittsburgh after that.

Larry Brown recovered a fumbled punt on the Charger 34 and Bradshaw's 28-yard screen pass to John Fuqua set up a short TD plunge by Fuqua. Jack Ham's interception set up Roy Gerela's 26-yard field goal and Mel Blount's interception helped set up Bradshaw's 17yard TD pass to Ron Shanklin.

The Steelers open the AFC playoffs at home Saturday against Oakland while Cleveland, the wild card or best runnerup team, is at Miami against the unbeaten Dolphins Sunday. In the NFC, wild card winner Dallas is at San Francisco Saturday and Green Bay tangles with Washington Sunday.

In other action of the final day of regular season NFL action, Cincinnati bombarded Houston 61-17, the New York Giants upended Dallas 23-3, Oakland downed Chicago 28-21, Green Bay dumped New Orleans 30-20, Buffalo upset Washington 24-17, Kansas City trimmed Atlanta 17-14, St. Louis edged Philadelphia 24-23, Denver clubbed New England 45-21 and Detroit trounced Los Angeles 34-17.

On Saturday, the Miami Dolphins became the first NFL team ever to go unbeaten in a 14-game schedule by beating Baltimore 16-0 and San Francisco took the NFC West title with a 20-17 comeback victory over Minnesota.

Mike Phipps threw TD passes of 80 and eight yards to Frank Pitts in the second half to lead Cleveland over the Jets, who played without Joe Namath. The 80-yard TD pass, which broke a 10-10 tie in the third quarter, was Cleveland's longest play from scrimmage this season.

Doug Dressler, a former College of Marin star, barrelled for three touchdowns and cornerback Lemar Parrish returned two pass interceptions for scores in the Bengals' rout of Houston. Dressler scored on runs of 43, one and 20 yards and Parrish scored on interception returns of 25 and 33 yards as Cincinnati broke a club scoring record.

DRESSLER SCORES 3 TOUCHDOWNS

Former College of Marin star Doug Dressler raced for three Cincinnati touchdowns yesterday to lead the Bengals to a crushing 61-17 victory over the Houston Oilers.

The bullish fullback ran 43 yards for one touchdown, ran one yard for another, and caught a 20-yard scoring pass from quarterback Ken Anderson to help turn the game into a rout. Cincinatti led 19-10 when Dressler started his spree, and 40-10 when he finished.

Dressler, who played tackle at Marin in 1966 and 67, led the Bengals' rushing attack with 83 yards in eight carries. He also caught five passes for 69 yards.

Jan. 6, will be another big day for Dressler. That day, he will be married to Laurie Ann Graumann of Orinda.

Angry Saints' End Parks Quits In Row

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Veteran New Orleans Saints tight end Dave Parks says he is quitting the team after five years of turbulent relations with coaches and administrators.

Parks, who has been the center of controversy since joining the Saints in 1968, made the announcement after Sunday's season finale—a lackluster 30-20 loss to the Green Bay Packers.

"I was going to announce my retirement from professional football today," Parks, a San Francisco 49er receiver in 1964-67, told a news conference following the game. "But after considering the reasons why, I've decided not to close the door completely on the possibility of playing somewhere."

The reasons why are many and varied, Parks said. He had had poor relations with former head Coach Tom Fears, and when J.D. Roberts took over the reins in the middle of the 1970 season, things seemed to get worse instead of better.

There was a rift between some players and coaches on the Saints team which deteriorated as the season went along, and Parks was right in the center of the problem, most of which centered around Roberts' coaching methods.

Many of the players, including Parks, wide receiver Danny Abramowicz and reserve quarterback Edd Hargett, did not care for the strict regimentation Roberts imposed.

"If a club wants to trade for me, it would be to their advantage to talk to me first," said Parks. "There are a few clubs that I would play for, but I will retire before playing under another situation like this one."

five passes to win the AFC reception championship with 58 and 802 yards.

Marv Hubbard picked up 41 yards in 10 carries to finish the year with 1,100 yards, one more than the Oakland club record set by Clem Daniels in 1963, while linebacker Dick Butkus of Chhicago recovered the 24th fumble of his career for an alltime NFL mark.

And George Blanda played long enough to become the second oldest player in NFL history at 45 years and three months. Only John Nesser of the 1921 Columbus, Ohio, Panhandles played later. He was 46.

Naturally, Madden was happy for both Biletnikoff and Hubbard.

"They've been an important part of our team this year," said the Raider coach.

Biletnikoff made five catches for 43 yards to win his title after learning before the game that he needed that many to beat out Otis Taylor of Kansas City and Chip Myers of Cincinnati.

Now, it's back to the drawing board for the Raiders by way of getting ready for the Steelers, while the Bears go home to think about next year.

2 COACHES DISMISSED

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Two head coaches and a general manager were fired today in National Football League activities.

Philadelphia head coach Eddie Khayat and general manager Pete Retzlaff were released after the club finished last in the East Division with only two wins.

St. Louis fired coach Bob Hollway "in the best interest of the team," according to Cardinals president William V. Bidwell. The Cardinals finished 4-9-1 for the second year in a row.

Leggett Beaten By Tomales '5'

Tomales High School won the consolation title of the Middletown Basketball Tournament Saturday night with a 72-46 thrashing of Leggett Valley. The Braves lost their first game Friday night to the eventual tourney champs, Geyserville, 66-52.

"We were really tight for Geyserville the first night," Tomales coach James Clahan said, "but we calmed down for Leggett Valley and played a real good game. Too bad the nights weren't reversed."

The Braves went out to a first quarter 17-5 lead, and kept building it up throughout the game. Leading scorer for Tomales was Spirito Ballatore with 18 points. Ballatore, who scored 19 against Geyserville, was named to the all-tournament team.

Cotate-Petaluma game was a fitting one for a contest that had been dominated from the start by the officiating. With 45 second left, Rancho's Dwaine Young sank two free throws for an apparent 45-42 lead, but his second was disallowed because of a lane violation.

Then, with nine seconds left, Petaluma's Larry David crashed through the lane, knocking down two Cougars, and was awarded two free throws which he missed. During the scramble for the ball, Steve Steady was fouled and Petaluma was given a last second reprieve in the form of two more free throws, Steady missed both shots.

Four players fouled out — Marshall Brant, John Sorenson and Scott Wlodarczyk for Rancho Cotate, and Kirk Smartt for Petaluma — and three technicals were called, which indicates that a lot of fouls were called.

Brant and David were named to the All-Tournament team, joining Channell and Chavez, Ray Jackson (Most Valuable Player), Scott Paulsen and Greg Volasgis from Hayward, Tom Buzzard and Ken Guido from Montgomery and Mike Lininger from Cardinal Newman.

Defense Lifts Tars To Victory

Casteel 9. Garner was named to the all-tournament team and Casteel was chosen the tourney's most valuable player. He scored only 32 points in three games but played fine defense and rebounded well, leading the Tars with eight Saturday.

Smith did not make the all-tourney team despite an outstanding three-game set on defense. "It's a typical example of a kid who plays good 'D' but he's unsung," said Panagakis.

Smith took on three all-tournament players — Rich Bakker of Napa, Chuck Pierce of Ohlone and K. C. Jackson of Foothill — and held them to 17, 12 and 14 respectively. Against other defenders, this trio averaged 25 points a game.

"DeMaestri also played great defense," said Tar assistant coach Jim Webster. "This No. 21 (Scott McLean) averaged 21 in his other two games, but got four off Joe."

Indeed, Foothill scored 91 and 83 in its other two victories. But the Tars held them to 34 per cent (21 of 61) from the floor, allowed them only seven free throws, and outrebounded them, 34-31.

Reedley (4-5) had no particular trouble with Ohlone (6-3) in the third-place game, expanding a six-point halftime lead to an 18-point victory. The victors shot 59 per cent from the floor (33 of 56) and had five men in double figures, led by Ben McDonald with 23 and all-tournament selection Earl Chapman with 17. Without Smith to bother him, Pierce netted 27 for Ohlone.

Likewise, Santa Rosa (6-3) handled Solano easily, building up a 12-point halftime lead and coasting to a 14-point win. David Long scored 25 and Gary Bartholomew dropped in 19 for the winners, who shot 52 per cent (29 of 56). Kelly McWilliams tallied 16 and Jim Hicks 12 for Solano (4-5), while former San Rafael High School star Donnie Canfield netted 8 for the third consecutive night.

Battling Bruin Vadnais Freed

Combined AP & UPI

PHILADELPHIA — Boston Bruins defenseman Carol Vadnais was released from police custody without being charged late Sunday after he allegedly scuffled with a fan during his team's 5-3 victory over the Philadelphia flyers.

Vadnais, a former California Golden Seal, was taken to detective headquarters for questioning after Myerson Mausert, 57, Hammonton, N.J. complained the defenseman twice attempted to strike him with a hockey stick.

Police did not press charges after questioning Vadnais for about two hours. Police said they recommended Vadnais and Mausert seek individual warrants if they wanted to continue the controversy.

Vadnais waved his stick in Mausert's direction, police said, and the fan grabbed the stick.

Baseball

NEW YORK — World Series star Gene Tenace and two of his world champion Oakland Athletics teammates, Sal Bando and Reggie Jackson, will compete in the $30,000 American Airlines Golf Classic, tournament chairman Thomas J. Ross Jr. announced yesterday.

The seventh annual internationally prominent Classic will be played Feb. 2-4 at the plush El Conquistador Hotel and Country Club in San Juan, Puerto Rico.

Bando and Jackson have competed previously but Tenace, who was voted the outstanding player in the World Series, will be making his debut.

Basketball

SANTA MONICA — UCLA basketball coach John Wooden was released from St. John's Hospital Sunday where he had been under treatment for a week for a mild heart condition.

Wooden, 62, missed his first game since becoming the Bruins' Coach 25 years ago. UCLA beat University of California of Santa Barbara, 93-67 Saturday night under assistant coach Gary Cunningham.

Skiing

VAL GARDENA, Italy — Roland Collombin of Switzerland skimmed down the Val Gardena course at a world record 2 minutes 5.67 seconds, topping the old record by a second while winning the downhill that put him in first place in the World Cup standings.

MADONNA DE CAMPGILIO, Italy — Piero Gros of Italy took the men's giant slalom with a combined 100.41 seconds for the two runs of his second World Cup win in as many starts.

Tennis

ADELAIDE, Australia — Alex Metreveli of Russia took his third straight South Australian single's title with a 7-5, 5-7, 6-7, 7-6, 6-2 win over Australia's Colin Dibley.

Minnesota In Oakland Game With The Seals

OAKLAND (UPI) —The California Golden Seals, apparently hopelessly lost in the Western Division cellar, play Minnesota on Wednesday in a National Hockey League game in Oakland.

The Seals, who have won only four and tied seven of 30 games, dropped another Saturday by 4-3 to the Vancouver Canucks.

Late goals by Gerry O'Flaherty and Richard Lemieux powered the Canucks who earlier had trailed by 3-1.

Seals goals were by Darryl Maggs, Joey Johnston and Bobby Stewart.

Minnesota, which lost to Detroit on Sunday by 6-4, has won 17, lost 12 and tied three.

Golfer Newton Wins

AUCKLAND, New Zealand (UPI)—Jack Newton edged fellow Australian Bob Tuohy by one shot in the $14,000 Auckland Golf Classic Sunday, using a course record-tying 64 in the final round to finish at 277.

American George Archer finished third in the tournament.

Leemoi's Team In Bowling Win

Leemoi Bekey and her 16-year-old partner, Jim Phillips, won the third annual Marin County "600" Club — and Junior Tournament Saturday at Greenbrae Lanes with 1,273 pins, 12 pins more than their closest rivals, Penny Tauscher and Larry Walker.

Walker led all individual scorers, rolling a 237, while Bonnie Birkett led the women with a 230.

Some 72 entrants participated in the handicap tourney, where teams bowled three games each. There were 50 juniors and 22 women.

Local Prep Cagers Have Short Schedule

High school basketball teams from Marin and southern Sonoma will play an abbreviated schedule this week due to Christmas vacation, with most of the excitement expected to stem from visits to Marin by San Francisco teams.

Washington will start things off by visiting Terra Linda at 1 p.m. tomorrow, and Riordan will play at Drake at 7:30 p.m. Also on tap tomorrow are San Rafael at Lincoln, 3:30 p.m.; El Molino of Forestville at Marin Catholic, 7:30 p.m.; and St. Vincent of Petaluma at California School for the Deaf in Oakland, 7 p.m.

Wednesday is an open date except for Drake's alumni game at 6:45 p.m., but on Thursday Terra Nova of Pacifica visits San Rafael at 1 p.m. and powerful Balboa plays Novato at San Marin at 7 p.m. Marin Catholic plays its alumni game at 6:30 p.m. and Tamalpais visits St. Ignatius at 8:15.

On Friday, Galileo meets Novato at San Marin at 7 p.m., Terra Linda journeys to Ells of Richmond at 3:30 p.m. and Tam heads to South San Francisco for an 8:15 game.

Redwood will be playing in the Yuba City Tournament, which it won last year, Thursday through Saturday.

Novato's home games against Balboa and Galileo were shifted to San Marin High because of work being done on the gymnasium floor at Novato.

Warriors Vs. Boston In Oakland Tomorrow

OAKLAND (UPI) —The Golden State Warriors hope to have Clyde Lee back in uniform tomorrow night when they open a home stand against the surging Boston Celtics.

Lee, a 6-foot-9 forward, injured the arch of his right foot three weeks ago and has been benched since. He was to resume practice today.

While the Warriors were idle Sunday, the Celts were walloping the Sonics at Seattle, 123-98, with John Havlicek throwing in 27 points for the winners. It was Boston's ninth straight victory and ran the Celts' record to 26-3.

The Warriors, who have a 19-11 record, lost to the Baltimore Bullets, 105-99, Saturday night.

And having Lee in that game might have helped stop Elvin Hayes who canned 33 points for Baltimore and blocked 11 shots.

Hayes is 6-foot-9 1-2 and there was nobody around to match him at his forward position. Rick Barry, who gave away 2 12 inches but tried to curb Hayes, put it this way:

"I was almost hanging all over him and he still made shot after shot."

Coach Al Attles blamed travel for some of the Warriors' problems. "It was the last game after 10 days on the road and I'm sure the team was thinking about getting home."

Lee says his foot still hurts but that doctors have given him permission to play. He noted that he hadn't been doing any running "so it will take me a while to get into shape."

Hofman To Head Farm Club For Atlanta Braves

ATLANTA (UPI)—The Atlanta Braves announced Sunday that Bobby Hofman, now a coach for the Cleveland Indians, will manage the Braves' International League farm club in Richmond next year.

The 46-year-old Hofman, formerly with Kansas City, Washington, and Oakland, will succeed Clyde King, formerly manager of the San Francisco Giants, recently named special assistant to Braves personnel director Eddie Robinson.

Hofman has been in professional baseball since 1944, and was an infielder for the New York Giants for seven years; in the 1950s he served as a minor-league manager for eight years, with his most successful season coming in 1958 when he led Danville, Va. to first place in the Carolina League.

Kansas Center Wins Cage Tourney Award

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI)—Kansas sophomore center Rick Suttle, who led the Jayhawks to victories Friday and Saturday nights, was an overwhelming choice over San Francisco's Kevin Restani for the Most Outstanding Player award in a poll of writers and sportscasters at the Jayhawk Classic.

Both Suttle, a unanimous choice, and Restani were named to the all-tournament team.

Ex-Tulsa Star Rhome To Coach

TULSA, Okla. (UPI)—New Tulsa Cyclones' head football coach F.A. Dry today selected as his fifth varsity coach former Tulsa star quarterback Jerry Rhome to coach the Cyclones' quarterbacks and receivers as of January 1.

Rhome started his professional football career with the Dallas Cowboys and was backup quarterback to Don Meredith during the Cowboys' four NFL championships. He then moved to the Cleveland Browns and was on a championship team there as well; then played for Houston and Los Angeles before leaving for Montreal of the Canadian Football League.

At Tulsa, Rhome had broken 27 NCAA records in 1963 and 1964, personally setting 16 marks, and was runner-up in balloting for the Heisman Trophy in 1964 to Notre Dame's John Huarte.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

Look At Your Auto Expanse Now To Find Tax Advantage

Now is the time to take a good look at your business automobile expense for 1972.

You can deduct 12 cents per mile for the first 15,000 miles of business use of your automobile, plus 9 cents per mile for every business mile thereafter.

If you have been itemizing your automobile expenses and they don't amount to 12 cents a mile, including straight line depreciation, then perhaps you should consider using 12 cents per mile this year instead of itemizing.

On the other hand, if you had been using the old 10 cents per mile allowance and find this year that you have a big bill for repairs, tires, transmission or something, then you might change to itemizing. You can change each year on the same or different cars, provided you have not previously taken the extra first-year depreciation allowance on your car or if you have not depreciated by one of the accelerated methods.

You must always use the straight line method of depreciation in the years in which you itemize, and you must figure that you have used the straight line method of depreciation for the years you took the standard mileage deduction.

If you are going to itemize this year, have all that repair work done, buy those new tires now and get the bus in shape so that next year you will have no expenses on the car and can use the standard rate profitably.

If your itemized expanse records are not complete you could be better off to use the mileage rate because all you have to prove here is the number of miles traveled and the business use of the car.

If you are reimbursed for the business use of your car by your employer at less than 12 cents per mile you can include the reimbursement in income and deduct 12 cents a mile up to the first 15,000 miles and 9 cents a mile thereafter.

If your reimbursement is over 12 cents a mile, but not over 15 cents a mile, you wouldn't use this system as you do not have to account for your automobile expanses because you are considered to have accounted to your employer. If your reimbursement is over 15 cents a mile, you will have to include the reimbursement in income and itemize your automobile expenses. Also, if you have a profit on this reimbursement, the profit is taxed.

You can use this system and, in addition, deduct parking fees, bridge tolls, etc.

Also, the mileage allowance for use of your car for charitable purposes or for medical purposes is now 6 cents a mile. All you have to prove is the use of the car for medical or charitable purposes and the mileage.

A Setback On Market

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks plunged over a broad front in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange today; reacting to Saturday's announcement of a stalemate in the Vietnam peace talks.

Most analysts said the selloff was in reaction to the peace talks news presidential adviser Henry Kissinger revealed Saturday.

The market, particularly in the past two months, has been sensitive to the peace talks which appeared headed for a settlement.

Leasco Corp. was the most active issue, off 3 ⅝ at 18 on 353,800 shares, including a block of 260,000 shares at 17 ⅝. Barron's, a financial weekly magazine, said there were some questions about the firm's accounting practices.

Prices also declined in moderately active trading on the American Stock Exchange. Teleprompter was the most active AMEX issue, off ⅝ at 34 ¾ on 25,300 shares.

Sonosky Named Sage Director

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Jerol M. Sonosky, vice president-manager, natural resources division, United California Bank, has been elected a director of the Sage Oil Co. Inc.

A. Louis Canut, Sage president, said Sonosky's election fills a vacancy on the company's board of directors.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Burroughs Is Looking Good, So Retain Shares At Present

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q- Recently a brokerage firm advised clients against further purchase of Burroughs Corp. (NYSE) and the stock reacted temporarily. I hold 700 shares. Are you in agreement with the sell advice or would you suggest holding?—A.D.

A- The brokerage report on Burroughs did not suggest sale of this office equipment issue; rather, the analyst withdrew his buy advice on it. The change in recommendation was based on the stock's rich price/earnings multiple, an increase in the proportion of computers that are leased rather than sold outright and a general market pall over the entire group.

In the third quarter pre-tax net rose 20 per cent year to year on a 17 per cent gain in revenues. Full-year earnings should reach $4.50-$4.60 despite a 26-cent-a-share charge resulting from the settlement of a suit brought by TWA. If Burroughs attains the 15 per cent - 17 per cent rate of revenue growth anticipated by management, earnings for 1973 in the $5.60 area appear attainable.

At current price, shares are trading at about 38x the 1973 profit projection. This figure is at the high end of the stock's historic P/E range and exceeds the multiples accorded most other issues in the industry. For this reason shares are apt to be sensitive to any adverse news. However, the premium accorded the shares is partially justified by Burroughs' increasing penetration of the computer market. Management has recently stated that 35 per cent of new orders are for replacement of competitive computer installations, while the company loses about five per cent to others.

Although a gradual increase in the ratio of rental revenues to outright sales is usually regarded as bearish, Burroughs' cash flow is sufficient to finance the higher level of rentals. Furthermore, rental business generates a very visible source of future earnings, particularly since about half Burroughs' lease contracts are written for five years.

With management committed to widening the pre-tax profit margin from the present 14 per cent level to 20 per cent and earnings expected to continue their growth pattern, shares should be retained.

Plumbing Order In Los Angeles

VAN NUYS (BW) — Familian Corp's pipe and supply division has recieved the order for plumbing equipment for the 52-story Security Pacific National Bank building now under construction in Los Angeles.

The order involves plumbing fixtures, valves, drains and carriers for the project which is located in Los Angeles' downtown business district.

Go-Ahead For Branch At Woodside

Bell Savings and Loan Association has the go-ahead on a new branch office in Woodside Village (San Mateo County) near the intersection of Woodside Road and Whiskey Hill Road, President Fred F. Enemark of San Rafael announced today.

A license for the new branch was granted by the California Savings and Loan Commissioner.

Bell Savings also has offices in San Rafael, San Mateo and Burlingame, and previously received approval for branches in Mill Valley and in Redwood City.

Bell Savings is a subsidiary of Pacific Coast Holdings Inc.

Sales Increase

LOS ANGELES (BW) — Radiant Industries Inc. has reported profitable operations in the first quarter of fiscal 1973 as sales increased approximately 114 per cent.

Merchant Bank Slated For Iran

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — Bank of America has reported that it has agreed to join with nine other international banks to form a merchant bank to help Iran attract foreign capital for development projects.

To be called Iran International Investment Bank Ltd., the proposed financial institution will be based in London.

Participating as shareholders, in addition to Bank of America, are Industrial & Mining Development Bank of Iran, Bank Melli Iran, Bank of Tokyo Ltd., Barclays Bank International Ltd., Deutsche Bank, Industrial Bank of Japan Ltd., Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., Midland Bank Ltd. and Societe Generale, Paris.

More Jeeps

DETROIT (BW) — Production of Jeep vehicles will be increased from 300 to 350 a day — an all-time high — beginning Jan. 8, it was reported by Stuart M. Reed, vice president of manufacturing for American Motors Corp.

San Marin Lumber Co. Plans To Expand At Present Location

San Marin Lumber Co. at 600 Francisco Boulevard in San Rafael, next to DeLong Chevrolet, will build a new office about double the size of the existing building.

Glenn Nobmann of Richmond, owner of the company, said the new office building will be a one-story redwood structure. "We hope to start construction the first of next year and have it completed in about three months.

EXECUTON of North Bay Inc., a communication company headquartered in Burlingame, will open a branch in the La Plaza Building at Northgate Industrial Park in San Rafael about January. William Hoey Company arranged the lease at 4340 Redwood Highway, suite 4.

The company, headed by Walter Kirk, sells and installs inter-com systems for both commercial and residential use.

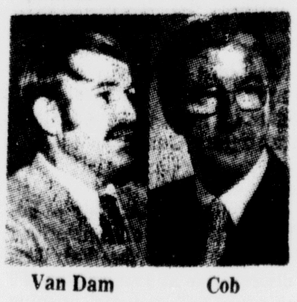
The Hoey Co. also negotiated leases for two other firms that need more space:

THE LAW FIRM of Buresh, Vallarino, Costamagna, Claxon and Dufficy, located in the La Plaza Building, got more storage space at 38 Paul Drive in Northgate Industrial Park.

JAY'S HOUSE of Silver and Brass, at 1613 Fourth Street in San Rafael, leased additional warehouse space at 767 Lincoln Avenue, No. 9, San Rafael.

WILLIAM C. VAN DAM III has joined Petaluma Co-operative as chief economist, General Manager Gene M. Benedetti announced. In the newly created post, Van Dam will help plan the continued growth of the creamery, which markets Clover brand dairy products in the Bay Area.

For the past two years, Van Dam was general manager of the League of California Milk Producers, headquartered in Sacramento. A 1965 graduate of the University of California at Davis, he was an infantry officer for a year in Vietnam and then did two years of graduate work at Cornell University. He and his family will live in Petaluma.



Van Dam Cob

ROSS L. COBB, 39, of San Rafael has been elected president and chief operating officer of Sutro & Co., 114-year-old San Francisco brokerage firm. Warren H. Berl, chairman of the board, announced the election of Cobb.

Cobb joined the company 12 years ago in the accounting department. As director of operations since 1968, Cobb was responsible for a complete reorganization and streamlining of Sutro's order processing and communications systems. In January 1971, he was elected to the firm's board of directors and later that year was appointed to the 10-member management committee. A year ago, he joined the firm's seven-member executive committee and has been one of its six senior vice presidents.

THE SEVEN-ELEVEN Store in Stinson Beach is under new ownership.

Reginald W. and Noreen Mecham of Stinson Beach bought the franchise from the Southland Corp. and took over operations last week. Mecham is a painting contractor.

Helping them operate the store are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Mecham of San Rafael. During winter months the store is open from 8 a.m. to 9 p.m. seven days a week.

The store was previously operated by Michael Stanley of Stinson Beach, who will now manage the new Seven-Eleven store on Bolinas Road in Fairfax next to the Fairfax fire station.

PUTNAM FINANCIAL Services of 555 Northgate Drive, San Rafael, moved its Berkeley office last Friday from Hotel Claremont to the Flagg Plaza Building at 1855 Olympic Boulevard in Walnut Creek. Putnam Financial and its associated life compny, Western Travelers Life Insurance, are both headquartered in San Rafael.

"We offer a whole spectrum of products including securities, funding programs, all types of insurance packages and tax-sheltered programs," said James R. McDonough, vice president in charge of sales.

AN EXHIBITION of the works of artist Roy Gover and photographer Tupper Ansel Blake, both of Mill Valley, will open tomorrow at the new Metes and Bounds Real Estate office at 215 Second Street, Sausalito. The exhibit will continue from Dec. 19 to Jan. 20, 1973.

Realtors Phil Rogers and Demetrias Phillips said the Metes and Bounds Gallery is an attempt to integrate the two seemingly diverse worlds of art and real estate and produce an "only in Sausalito" type of business with a friendly and informal atmosphere.

MARROY INC., a new corporation which will serve summonses and other legal documents, has been formed in Marin.

Attorney P. Roy Vallarino of 4340 Redwood Highway in Northgate Industrial Park and other members of his staff are listed as directors of the corporation. Vallarino, who filed the incorporation papers, said he cannot identify the principals of the corporation as yet. The corporation's address is in care of his law office.

COMPUTER SYSTEMS at 714 C Street in San Rafael has been incorporated and is now called Godfrey Systems Inc., headed by Bradford Godfrey of Terra Linda.

Godfrey Systems does commercial date processing and provides programming services. Godfrey said his firm is able to provide computer services at reasonable rates because its UNIVAC 1004 equipment, when used with a small black box called the self-contained plug board, can simulate more complicated and expensive equipment. Godfrey Systems also offers language translation services. The company has been there since 1966.

FLOOD INSURANCE RATES RECEDE.

If you think you can't afford flood insurance, chances are you're all wet. The federal government's National Flood Insurance Program is now offering this coverage on home, businesses and contents at sharply lowered rates.

For full details on this important protection — and the new lower rates — just give us a call. But don't delay. Now that the rates have receded, we expect to be flooded.

KEEPING AN EYE ON PRICES

Keeping an eye on rapidly changing food prices challenges the cost-conscious buyer. Some prices have gone up more than others, and some fluctuate more than others, as this chart shows. Graph was prepared from data furnished by the U. S. Department of Commerce's Bureau of Labor Statistics.

Three Hurt In Accident On The Span

One person was hospitalized and two others injured in a three-car accident at 11:30 a.m. Saturday on the Golden Gate Bridge, California Highway Patrol reported.

Joan Cook, 31, of 39 East View Avenue, Tiburon was reported in satisfactory condition today at Marin General Hospital with a broken right leg and multiple cuts, according to hospital authorities.

Michael Cook, 7, her son, was treated for cuts and bruises, according to hospital reports.

Esther Thompson, 59, of 6 Doris Drive, Novato, was treated at Qmilton Air Force Base Hospital, according to the information office. The extent of her injuries was not known.

A car driven by John Wesley Thompson, 58, of the Doris Drive address was southbound on the bridge when it veered into the northbound lanes, according to highway patrolmen. It hit a car northbound driven by Mrs. Cook and then another northbound car driven by Rodger Aplon, 35, of Laguna Beach, Orange County, patrolmen reported.

Baby's Cries Lead To Dead Woman's Body

BENSON, N.C. (UPI) —The wail of the four-month old boy led farmer David Olen Lee to an old dormitory for migrant farm workers Sunday.

When he looked inside the building "it was the worst looking sight I've ever seen," Lee said. "A dead mother and a baby lying beside it."

Mrs. Bonnie Neighbors, 33, bound hand and foot, gagged and blindfolded, had been shot twice. Next to her on one of three beds in the room was the baby and a half-empty baby's milk bottle.

The child was taken to Betsy Johnson Memorial Hospital in Dunn and was reported in satisfactory condition.

The woman and child had been missing since Thursday afternoon when they left home to pick up the family's other child at school.

A search began immediately Sunday for a blue car "occupied by three white males," and for "a hippie band" that took up residence in an abandoned house several miles from the Neighbors home north of town. The group dropped out of sight the same day the woman and child disappeared.

"The blue auto may be tied in with them, but we're not sure," said police officer J. D. Thornton.

Kenneth Neighbors, a prosperous certified public accountant with several offices in the eastern part of the state, was out of town when his wife and infant son disappeared Thursday, but he was home Sunday when they were found.

Authorities and friends said the family was well-respected in the area and there was no hint of any incompatability.

Lee, 59, said Sunday "the baby looked mighty healthy. He couldn't have stayed there last night and been as strong as he was. Temperatures had dropped to a low of 20 degrees the night before and the window and the door of the room both were open."

Lee said Mrs. Neighbors was clothed in a green pants suit and waist-length coat.

Local Areas Given Share Of Tax Fund

Marin and Sonoma County's share of the December distribution of local sales and use tax moneys collected by the state Board of Equalization, have been announced.

Marin County received $170,945 from the one-quarter per cent sales and use tax payments for the county local transportation fund. The county also received $68,888 from the Bradley-Burns one per cent sales and use tax.

Sonoma County's share of that tax was $211,066. Sonoma received $274,201 from the Bradley-Burns tax.

Cities' share of the distribution was:

Belvedere, $2,557; Corte Madera, $61,617; Fairfax, $10,248; Larkspur, $16,326; Mill Valley, $30,491; Novato, $63,660; Ross, $1,307; San Anselmo, $19,299; San Rafael, $223,452; Sausalito, $46,024; Tiburon, $10,580; Cotati, $14,320; Petaluma, $85,549, and Rohnert Park, $12,616.

Neighborhood Park Will Be Discussed

The Novato City Council will consider acquisition of a 13-acre site near Lynwood Park for a neighborhood park at 8 p.m. tomorrow at the Novato Community House.

The council also will have a hearing on classifying land along lower Novato Creek to F-1 zones where development would be prohibited and F-2 zones where development would be limited.

Body Of Postmaster Is Found

The body of Lagunitas Postmaster Lawrence A. Stogsdill, 35, was found in his station wagon at 11 a.m. Saturday, according to Donald L. Cornish, Marin County coroner's deputy.

The vehicle was parked on Bolinas Road one mile south of Alpine Dam, with a hose running from its exhaust pipe to the interior, and on the front seat three empty bottles that had contained sleeping pills. No note was found, and cause of death was not known, according to Cornish.

The discovery was made by a Marin Municipal Water District employee.

Stogsdill had been a carrier for the San Rafael Post Office for Several years prior to being appointed Lagunitas postmaster on Sept. 18, 1965.

Funeral arrangements were pending today at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Bow And Arrow Practice For Role

LONDON (AP) — British actor Edward Woodward, who will play Robin Hood in a Christmas show, is practicing with his bow and arrows in his back yard. And he finds the going tough.

"My fingers are getting very raw, and I'm having to use spirit to harden the skin," he said.

U.S. Broadcasters Called Upon To Exercise Better Management

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A White House official warned broadcasters Monday against presenting "ideological plugola" and said network management and local broadcasters must exercise more editorial responsibility over the presentation of national news.

"There is no area where management responsibility is more important than news," Clay T. Whitehead, director of the Office of Telecommunications Policy, said in a speech to Sigma Delta Chi in Indianapolis, Ind.

"Broadcasters and networks took decivise action to insulate their news departments from the sales department, when charges were made that news coverage was biased by commercial considerations," Whitehead said. "But insulating station and network news departments from management oversight and supervision has never been responsible and never will be.

"Where there are only a few sources of national news on television, as we now have, editorial responsibility must be exercised more effectively by local broadcasters and by network management," Whitehead said.

Whitehead said his office has prepared legislation to require a station to meet two criteria in order to get license renewal:

Demonstrate that it has been "substantially attuned to the needs and interest" of the community it serves.

Show that it has afforded opportunities for the presentation of conflicting views on controversial issues.

Whitehead said the legislation is being cleared in the executive branch so that it might be introduced in Congress early next year.

He added:

Station managers and network officials who fail to act to correct imbalance or consistent bias from the networks —or who acquiesce by silence —can only be considered willing participants, to be held fully accountable by the broadcaster's community at license renewal time.

"When a reporter or disc jockey slips in or passes over information in order to line his pocket, that's plugola, and management would take quick corrective action.

"But men also stress or suppress information in accordance with their beliefs. Will station licensees or network executives also take action against this ideological plugola?

"Just as a newspaper publisher has responsibility for the wire service copy that appears in his newspaper —so television station owners and managers must have full responsibility for what goes out over the airwaves —no matter what the origin of the program."

He said station licensees "have final responsibility for news balance —whether the information comes from their own newsroom or from a distant network."

In New York, an NBC television network spokesman said: "The administration's plan as described by Mr. Whitehead seems to be another attempt to drive a wedge between television stations and the networks."

SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

Social Environment And Open Space

On Nov. 7, Marin citizens voted by nearly 2-to-1 to set up a countywide park district to acquire open space at public expense. The vote was 64,149 "yes" to 34,673 "no."

The proposition was a simple one: Should Marin County create a district to purchase and maintain open space, with authority to levy a tax of up to 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation?

As the vote showed, the people of Marin are willing to pay to retain open space — raw land — that will keep part of the county uncluttered and retain a semi-rural atmosphere in much of Marin.

Although we had reservations about the need for a special district, since the county board of supervisors could itself levy such a tax and purchase open space, we advocated approval of the measure.

HOWEVER, at the very time that Marinites were proving at the polls their willingness to underwrite the purchase of open space, the Marin County Planning Department was scheming to use the district for quite another purpose.

It was plotting to use the funds from the open-space tax as a blackjack to force Marin's 11 cities to impose housing patterns which fit the preconceptions of the planners.

The proposed Marin County General Plan lists nine "actions that should be taken immediately to expand the supply of low and moderate-income housing." Here is No. 8:

"Acquisition of open space by the proposed now countywide agency only to serve communities that are carrying out housing policies in conformity with the countywide plan."

THE EFFRONTERY of the planners in thus proposing to distort the parks district into an agency to force publicly subsidized housing — which would constitute over half of the new dwelling units to be permitted under the plan — was challenged last week by the county parks and recreation commission.

The unpaid citizens on the commission showed that they have higher regard for fair play and integrity than the highly paid planners.

Commissioner Leory M. Gerner put it the most plainly.

"We sold Measure A to the voter by saying it would save surrounding hills," he said. "I want nothing to do with this . . . it's completely wrong."

Sol Silver, the county's $19,560-per-year chief of advanced planning, had the gall to tell the commissioners that imposing such criteria in open-space purchase "is not an exclusive tying" but should be done because "you should be concerned with the social environment."

WE ARE CONCERNED with the social environment. We think the social environment deteriorates when deceit and subterfuge are used by "public servants" whose salaries we pay, to subvert the expressed will of the people.

We suggest that the Marin County Board of Supervisors might do its bit toward improving the social environment by some selective separations from the public payroll.

Frosty Mornings

Now that winter is painting Marin with broad strokes of crystalline white frost in the pre-dawn hours, we awake to a quite different world. Yet, it is strangely beautiful, like a bit of briefly transplanted arctic. As with fire, frost serves as a cleanser in nature. It kills insects and some tender plants and brings the yearly cycle of plant dormancy to a climax.

Some plants require frost for normal good health.

To the gardener with many fuchsias and other frost-delicate plants, severe cold weather may seem a minor tragedy. But the feeling will soon pass and he can look forward to the pleasure of selecting new varieties to fill any voids left by freezing.

McCloskey Obeys Court; Mailliard Won't Do So

By PAUL E. PETERZELL

To the considerable dismay of his fellow military officers in Congress, Rep. Paul N. McCloskey, R-11th District, last week resigned his commission as a colonel in the Marine Corps.

McCloskey, not unfamiliar with the role of maverick, said he resigned because of a court ruling that congressmen cannot hold military rank. He cited a new U.S. Court of Appeals decision upholding the ruling of a judge in Washington, D.C., that it is unconstitutional for members of Congress to hold reserve commissions in the armed forces.

What dismayed his fellow officers, including Marin's own Rep. William S. Mailliard, R-Sixth District, was that they have no intention of taking such a step. A spokesman for Mailliard, a rear admiral in the Navy reserve, was decidedly discomfited when we inquired whether his resignation was forthcoming.

"He isn't going to like this," we were told when we pressed for a response. The 20-year congressman, it seems, is rather fond of his two stars and does not lightly entertain the prospect of giving them up.

The answer finally came back from Mailliard: He will not resign his commission unless the court's decision is upheld by the U.S. Supreme Court. That may take some years.

OPPONENTS of the Larkspur ferry terminal site still insist that there is a Point San Quentin site that would require no dredging. While they acknowledge the site is "connected to the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge," they fail to add that the connection is a half mile from shore.

Such a "terminal" certainly could not include parking facilities. The terminal alone would be wildly expensive, since it would be built entirely on pilings.

Passengers thus would have to be shuttled by buses between the terminal and a parking lot somewhere on the point. This absurd "solution" to largely imagined environmental hazards of the Larkspur site hardly would encourage use of the $20 million ferry system.

It is not too late for these busy opponents to reconsider their facts.

GOOD NEWS for drivers who aggravate their hernias when paying Golden Gate Bridge tolls out the passenger window. The two lanes where this awkward system has been used soon will be converted to allow toll taking on the driver's side.

The two booths in the affected lanes have been unusable because they offer no protection to the toll officers from traffic. Plans to add protective devices have been completed, and are awaiting state approval.

Unhappy With Voters' Decision To Fluoridate

The following are some of my thought on fluoridation:

Preventing tooth decay by simple elimination of some of the more common causes, sugar and sugar-related products for one example, was apparently not even considered by some of the more far-sighted citizens of Marin County. They finally pushed through their magical fluoridation measure.

I wonder if fluoride will also help the overweight problem faced by many cavity-prone people?

Following the same line of logic, I think we can overcome the problem of social disease by simply adding penicillin to our county water supply. Right?

Are We Not Wiser Than The Dinosaurs?

It i not doomsdayish to consider the thought that man as a human creature could be destined to extinction like the dinosaur. We will not have it that way. Survival powers are stupendous in the kind of mind the dinosaur did not possess. We think he didn't have brains enough to survive his environment, although his environment changed for reasons beyond his control. We believe that we are able to control our environment, but will we, are we? If we unleash the nuclear bomb in further warfare it would be the beginning of the regression toward self-extinction, yet if we withhold the bomb but begin to lose control of our own surroundings, it will amount to the same thing.

We are already beginning to lose control, to hurt ourselves through polluted air, polluted soils, polluted rivers, lakes and seas. We began to discover this only recently, though warned many times by men in history that we should take pathways other than those we took. Vegetation is necessary for our oxygen supply, yet we are defacing vegetation, bulldozing it away, asphalt-lotting it out of existence. We are filling our oceans with rubbish, and these also give us our oxygen, even to greater extent than vegetation. As the population growth heads toward doubling itself, the parking lots will double, cars and cities will double, crowding out and imbalancing the complex ways of Nature. Such explosions can do the harm on a gigantic scale that the bombs could do. . .

Such "small" things as turning off electric lights behind us, stopping the faucet's drip, drip, drip, of using only half a tub of water for the bath, these are the beginnings we may make toward frugality. Everything is inter-related, connected with everything else. We can start at home to retain our quality of life, and it will affect the wide world around us. Are we not a lot wiser than the dinosaur?

Growing Christmas Trees Preferable To Plastic

Re: editorial "A Plastic Christmas Tree" (Dec. 11):

Driving from Olema to Tocaloma on Sir Francis Drake I have been watching now for some time the development and labor of what obviously is an embryo Christmas tree farm. In the dry months it is a pleasure to see the dark green of the trees in contrast to the golden grass in the foreground. It is a joy to watch the trees grow higher. True, some day there will be some harvesting. But there'll be new ones planted and growing. As for "the labor that goes into growing," I for one that has for over 20 years worked in a noisy and fumy plastic extrusion department, wish my work would have been outdoors nursing trees. As for the labor of "transporting and selling," are you not a little naive if you believe your "plastic Scotch pine" got to you without transporting and selling?

Historic Ordinance Needed In San Rafael

I am writing this letter to publicly thank Laurence Mulryan of the San Rafael City Council for his proposal to create a historic ordinance in San Rafael. Councilman Mulryan shows foresight and sensitivity to this city's past and future beauty by this action.

The public is fast becoming aware of its diminishing history as old homes give way to new service stations. A historic ordinance would officially put the reins on unbridled distruction of our precious architectural heritage.

I believe this action expresses a new and healthy attitude in city government and I hope the city council responds favorably.

Boys' Club Seeks Trustee Candidates

For the past six years, this United Crusade agency has been doing yeoman work in serving more than 300 youngsters in Marin City with a diversified program of productive activities and recreation.

From time to time, we have been asked about membership on our governing board. We are most eager to invite individuals who are willing to commit themselves in service to youth to become members of our Board of Trustees.

The qualifications are quite simple: you have to want to become part of our board and you must be willing to give up some of your leisure time — perhaps one-half day a month — to help our program grow.

what better way to serve our community and our nation than to help kids to grow to responsible manhood?

If you, the reader, should want to become a member of our board of trustees, please write to the Marin City Boys' Club, 640 Drake Avenue, Marin City, 94965.

THE NEEDLE

By HAROLD COFFIN

Citizens who rejoice over the federal revenue that's being shared with their local governments are shocked when they stop to realize who supplied the revenue in the first place.

A taxpayer is just as broke no matter which one of his pockets the revenue came from.

Think of all the postage it takes to send the cash to Washington, then forward it to City Hall.

Local bureaucrats regard this program not so much as a chance for revenue sharing as an opportunity to share in the spending.

Taxation without misrepresentation is rare.

Choosing Rhodes Scholars Gives A Look At America's Best

I have been engaged for a week in what has been for many years one of my most difficult and pleasant tasks: a share in interviewing and selecting Rhodes scholars

First a word about the Rhodes scholarships. They remain perhaps the most eagerly sought of post-graduate study opportunities: two or three years at Oxford University. There are no strings attached. The notion, occasionally voiced by extremist critics, that the scholarships include some sort of pledge to aid British interests, or take part in international conspiracy, is totally false. Rhodes scholars are required only to pursue their studies and more or less behave themselves. There are no pressures on them before, during, or after. For Americans, at least, one of the chief benefits is to get a better perspective of one's own country.

THE PROCESS of selection is extremely difficult, because the applicants are so strong. The selection committees are asked to base their judgment on intellectual force, strength of character, and physical vigor. These qualities are not easy to measure.

A man's academic record in his college or university is of some value. We ask searching questions, by mail, of a list of referees.

And, in an interview of half an hour or more, perhaps with re-interviews, we try to find out what is inside a man. (I keep writing "man". This is because the Rhodes will, and the act of the British Parliament which implemented it, would have to be altered to include women. A special Rhodes-financed program for women's postgraduate study has been set up, but it is modest.)

The evening before the interviews, we have a social gathering for the candidates and the selection committee, to try to set them at ease. But at best the interview is a formidable experience.

IF ANY MEMBER of the committee knows enough, we ask the candidate about his intellectual specialties. Frequently he knows more in his field than any of us. We try to find out his purpose in life, his concept of service, how well equipped he — plus a time at Oxford — will be for what Cecil Rhodes called "the world's fight."

Often we try to get the candidate to think originally, then and there. We used to ask offbeat questions. The chairman of the New England committee was for many years Harvey Bundy, an eminent Boston lawyer and public servant and father of McGeorge William Bundy. One of his favorite questions was to tell a man he was to be given a million dollars and ask how he would spend it; or be permitted to go anywhere in the world for a week — where would it be, and what would he do; or, in many famous cases, told he would be stranded on a desert island and be permitted to choose three companions from all time. Whom would he select?

One memorable lad, from a service academy, chose Benjamin Franklin, Kim Novak, and Leonardo da Vinci. He said Franklin was for all-round intellectual companionship; Miss Novak as a charming young lady, and Leonardo to help them all figure out ways of getting off the island.

ANOTHER APPLICANT, now a most eminent professor at Yale on loan to Oxford, was told he could have unlimited funds and might spend a week in New York: what would he do? His answer ingeniously touched all the bases among the Rhodes criteria. He ended with a neat joust of wits with chairman Bundy. He got a scholarship.

But the interviews are not usually all that smart-alecky. They are serious attempts to discover the real quality of a man, and estimate who could most effectively utilize throughout his life the advantages of an Oxford experience.

Many young black men have recently been elected. Many disadvantaged have made it. We are impressed by the intellectually prestigious, but we look for much more. We have elected some all-America athletes, but usually physical vigor means simply a healthy attitude toward sports or nature.

I have observed quaint phenomenon. Usually it is easy to choose the Number One man. The second and third come hard.

Don't let any one tell you the present generation of American youth is weak or unmotivated. They are the strongest generation I have ever watched.

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Five Men Close To President; Only Two Of Them In Cabinet

President Nixon's big five — these are the men who, under the President, will wield the greatest power in the second term

Treasury Secy. George Shultz — his role is vastly enlarged. All foreign and domestic economic decision-making will be in his hands.

Secy. of Defense Elliot Richardson — a political liberal whose job will be to sell a strong defense program to Congress.

Henry Kissinger — slightly tarnished by his imprudent interview with an Italian correspondent —apparently remains secure in his job as Mr. Nixon's chief and trusted foreign policy co-ordinator.

John Ehrlichman and Robert Haldeman — there was never any doubt they would remain as influential as ever. None could be closer to Mr. Nixon or more trusted.

WHERE'S THE NEW CABINET? It's around somewhere, but it will not be very conspicuous. The critics are right in saying this is a cabinet of administrators without a new political star in the carload.

No George Romney, no John Volpe, no John Connally, no Nelson Rockefeller.

And this is exactly the way Mr. Nixon wants it. Policy is to be generated and co-ordinated almost entirely in the White House and not ascend to the President from the cabinet.

MR. NIXON'S FUTURE WITH LABOR. Obviously he wants to hold as much labor support as he can and this is why he named New York's construction union leader, Peter J. Brennan, secretary of labor.

The effect of the Brennan appointment will not be to unite labor but to keep it divided politically. George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, wants to take all labor back into the Democratic Party. Brennan aims to keep quite a few "hard-hat" holdouts with the President.

PRESIDENT FACES HOSTILE CONGRESS. The Democrats certainly have as strong a popular mandate to run Congress as the President has to run the White House. If Mr. Nixon has leverage because of the big vote, the Democrats have leverage on the President because of their big congressional vote.

At the opening of Congress, there will be friendly words and polite sparring. But divided government has worked badly for years and there is no reason to think it will work any better now. The candid forecast has to be: stalemate and injury to the country.

WHY THE WHITE HOUSE PICKED GEORGE BUSH. It wants a lower profile Republican National Committee. Sen. Robert Dole, D-Kan., as national chairman during the past two years, gave the President what he wanted then. Dole was a headlinemaker, a phrasemaker, an aggressive partisan who was good at needling the Democrats.

Mr. Nixon needs political co-operation from Congress, not political controversy for its own sake. With two years of U.N. diplomacy behind him, George Bush, former ambassador to the United Nations, is Mr. Nixon's idea of the right man in the right job at this time.

STUDENT MILITANCY CONTINUES TO WANE. Security officers of 58 leading colleges report that their major concerns today are thievery, congested parking and vandalism. Activist demonstrations, bomb threats and other violence are now lesser problems.

FOOTBALL — THE INJURY-LADEN SPORT. From high school to the top professionals, nearly one-half of the nation's football players are injured every year. Most injuries are minor, but many are serious.

Specialized "sports medicine" is practiced by at least 20,000 physicians and another 20,000 volunteer their services at games.

The greatest danger for players is at the high school level. Only about 100 of the 15,000 high schools which sponsor football have either medical care or a full-time teacher-athletic trainer.

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Dec. 18, 1962

San Rafael Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa fired Inspector Nick Giampoli, who had announced he would run against Chiesa for chief in the April, 1963, municipal election.

Roger Kent, state Democratic vice chairman, filed suit to bar John C. Stuart of Novato from the ballot in a special election to name a replacement for Rep. Clem Miller, D-Corte Madera, who was re-elected after being killed in an airplane crash.

20 YEARS AGO

Dec. 18, 1952

Twenty applicants for the job of Sausalito police chief were to be examined by a board appointed by the League of California Cities.

The San Francisco Bay Area Council came out against the Reber Plan for an earthfill barrier across the Bay between San Rafael and Richmond.

New Game: Whom You Won't Invite To Party You Don't Give

A lovely new game was invented recently by a group of friends sipping brandy at a late evening gathering.

The game is simple, and anyone can play. The fact it has no point adds to the appeal.

First you plan a party — probably one you aren't going to have. The first thing you do is to make a list of people you aren't going to invite — and give the reason. (You don't even need fellow players — you can play it all by yourself while stalled on the freeway or doing the family ironing.)

For starters, we weren't going to invite Jackie O. because she didn't have us to her last party. Kissinger was stricken from the list because he's always out of town, and Ethel can't come because she might bring her kids.

One can go on and on — but it soon gets awfully libelous for a newspaper.

THE GAME CAN have ramifications, too — even seasonal ones.

This week I started a list of people to whom I'm not sending Christmas cards.

First came the weatherman, who's really been going wild this month — and not even honest about what he has in mind. Then there's the Tamalpais High School District and administrators, the last of the big-time spenders, who don't need even another eight cents thrown their way.

The people who run the Emporium won't get one either — the hassle that it takes to get a box after spending one's money there cuts them from the list.

The N.O.W. ladies, who once seemed to be heading in the right direction toward getting things improved for women, were stricken after they allowed their newspaper to be an adversiting media for Lesbians.

Then there's the City of San Rafael, with its $2 parking tickets and limited parking which leaves those of us who work in the city with the fun and pointless game of moving our cars every two hours.

The Eagle Scouts don't need a card — they've all had their pictures in the I-J this month; nor do the young philosophers who punctuate each sentence with "okay" inserted every few words like a telephone beeper. (This is something new — it used to be "ya know" which was beeped at frequent intervals.)

THIS LIST could also be endless — as could the one of people that I didn't send Christmas cards to but should have.

That includes such people as the woman who pointed out a parking space at Macy's to me the other day; the huge, grim-looking tactical squad cop who broke into a smile and said his aunt used to work for the I-J, and the lovely lady who helped me solve all my problems with the Internal Revenue Service.

Finally, the I-J computer should have been sent a card. He seems to have recovered from his anger over having to work Christmas and said he would pay us two days early.

Purchase Of White Front Stores Pushed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A 39-year-old businessman says he is negotiating to purchase all nine San Francisco area White Front stores.

"My accountants are now sitting down with those of White Front," Paul Maris said Saturday. "If the deal clicks, I hope to run all White Front stores here by Jan. 15."

Interstate Corp., the New York-based parent company of the White Front chain, announced last week it will close 21 of its 37 stores after the first of the year.

Maris, a native of Philadelphia, said the stores would continue to sell general merchandise, "mostly hard goods."

Dilemma Of Christmas Cards Resolved Backward By Computer

To card or not to card has become one of the major decisions of the Christmas season. No moral dilemma may outrank it except the question: Should one form a picket line upon hearing "I'm Dreaming of a White Cristmas" in public places?

According to the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers — yes, of course there's an NAGCP — about 60 million American families send about 2.5 billion cards annually, which works out to more than 40 cards per family. So most people finally decide to do it — one more year — led by President Nixon, who is reported to have a list of 37,000 names. (Minor question: Who pays for that $2,960 in stamps?)

Once having made the decision — to send Christmas cards at all — President Nixon and the rest of us still have a number of vexing policy problems. In particular: What kind of cards to send? And whom to send them to?

MARKET RESEARCHERS, as usual, keep the 200 or so Christmas card companies advised on our tastes even before we know them. For instance, category-counters reveal that 30 per cent of all Christmas cards sold in the United States have a "religious theme." Dare one conclude that the largest single subdivision of card-senders wants to celebrate the original meaning of Christmas?

But Santa Claus rates second as a motif and poinsettias third — facts which tell nothing, or all too much.

Mod Christmas cards — hip Santas flashing peace signs and so forth — are reported to be on the decline. On the other hand, nostalgia is making it. The Victorian angel has reappeared, and for the more secular there are "remember when?" themes, involving even old Coca-Cola ads.

UNICEF accounts for 26 million cards, though last year members of the John Birch Society are said to have provided themselves with a printed note to accompany their own Christmas cards, reading: "Please do not send me a UNICEF card."

This is known as the politicizing of Christmas.

THE CHIRSTMAS-CARD watcher notices more and more specialization. There has always been the Currier and Ives card — lots of sleighs, lots of covered bridges — presumably for people in cities to send to other people in cities. There has always been the museum-reproduction card, a most attractive way to confirm the mutual good taste of sender and receiver.

Now the ethnic card is evidently here to stay. Creative Soul, Inc., sold half a million cards a year ago, featuring black angels, black mother and child, and so on.

One can even take a posture on environment through one's Christmas card. Recycled Paper Products Co., founded a couple of years ago by three people in their 20's, expects to do a two-million card business this year with an "ecologically off-white" product and the motto: "No trees were destroyed to make this card."

Another environmentalist dilemma: If it's an ecological crime to chop down a Christmas tree, it is an even worse crime against aesthetics to buy a plastic one?

ONE SOCIOLOGIST has divided Christmas card lists thus:

"Reciprocal": The cards one sends to status-equals.

"Downward": the cards one sends to status-inferiors, hoping to appease them — the no-revolution-in-'73 cards.

"Upward": the cards one sends to status-superiors, hoping to ingratiate oneself. Upward mobility: On Donner, on Blitzen!

Poor President Nixon! No place to send but down.

Yet all this still doesn't get to the mysterious, frustrated, private voice that struggles to speak through Christmas cards — the voice that would give anything to share one last community feeling.

The pollster, Daniel Yankelovich, fresh from explaining why Americans want lime in their shaving cream, advised a major Christmas-card manufacturer that Americans want "the illusion they've made the cards themselves." The manufacturer's response: To reproduce the card's message in a silver or gilt facsimile of the sender's handwriting, which is sort of talking about canned fresh spinach.

Ridiculous, pathetic, but also touching. Christmas cards finally seem as baffling (and appealing) as the legendary Christmas message — "Leon Leon!" — sent out by a computer programmed backward. Did the other computer have the compassion to answer: "It's the thought that counts"?

Second Hearing Set For Youth

A second preliminary hearing for Robert Charles Foster of San Rafael has been set for Dec. 26 in Marin Municipal Court on a felony count of attempted robbery.

The 19-year-old youth missed the first scheduled hearing Tuesday and a warrant was ordered for his arrest, but he appeared the next day and the new date was set.

Foster was arrested Nov. 18 by San Rafael police after a man armed with a knife tried to rob a 65-year-old druggist of morphine at the Thrifty Drug store at 471 Third Street.

Electoral College

Today is the day Congress has set for voting by the Electoral College, the men and women who actually choose our President and Vice President. The 538 electors do not meet as a single body but gather in their separate states to vote. Since the electoral vote was determined by the popular vote in the November elections, the result is already known. The electors' votes will not be counted, however, until Congress meets in January. Vice President Agnew, in his role as Senate President, will have the pleasant constitutional duty of opening the electoral vote certificates that officially give him and Mr. Nixon their second terms in office.

DO YOU KNOW — Which U.S. area, not a state, has three electoral votes?

SPACE SOUGHT FOR PARK

An aerial photo clearly shows why residents of San Rafael's Canal area want the outline lot near the center of the picture purchased for a park. The 2.5-acre parcel on the canal is surrounded by apartment complexes and developers have proposed another 96-unit building for the empty space. Park proponents have been told there is no city money to buy the parcel, estimated to cost $300,000, but the San Rafael City Council will discuss the matter again at a meeting at 8 p.m. today.

Uganda Taking Over Tea Plantations

KAMPALA (UPI) — President Idi Amin announced Sunday that the government will take over all foreign-owned tea plantations in Uganda and told 780 British aid personnel they can remain in Uganda, but only if they accept local salaries instead of higher salaries paid them as expatriates.

Altogether eight companies were involved in the takeover of the tea growing industry.

He said in a nationwide radio broadcast that British personnel who want to leave must go by Dec. 31. Those who go can take only $117 in foreign exchange compared with normal emigration allowance of nearly $7,000, he said.

There are about 1,500 Britons engaged in various aid projects in Uganda.

Although he denounced relations witth Britain, Amin said he did not intend to break diplomatic ties with London.

"The government has decided to acquire all tea estates belonging to all non-citizens in Uganda," Amin said.

He also said the government was considering the status of several other firms—the Ugandan subsidiaries of Brooke Bond-Oxo, British American Tobacco, the British Metal Corporation, Securicor, and the Chillington Tool Company, Consolidated Printers, the Uganda Transport Company and International Television Sales. The ITS is American-owned.

The president said that all place names in Uganda which were "imperialist" in origin would be given African names and consultations would be held with the Kenyan and Tanzanian governments on a suitable new name for Lake Victoria.

Winter Program Signups Opened

Reservations are being taken at the San Anselmo Parks and Recreation Department for the winter program which includes activities for preschoolers, sports and classes for teenagers and adults.

Antique restoring, quilting, needlecrafts, belly dancing and judo will be among the offerings. Trips to Golden State Warrior basketball games are scheduled for youngsters.

Signups are also being taken for holiday trips for youngsters to the "Nutcracker" performance Wednesday at the Veterans Memorial Building and an ice skating trip to Santa Rosa on Dec. 29.

McGovern Aide Claims He Hasn't Been Paid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A former aide to Sen. George S. McGovern said today he and two other persons had filed formal complaints for alleged nonpayment of salaries during the presidential campaign.

Joseph Mohbat, a press aide during the campaign, told reporters that McGovern, Democratic presidential nominee, had "paid off the millionaires and not the workers."

Mohbat said one worker, Julie Schlesinger, a $110 a week secretary, got a favorable ruling from the District of Columbia Minimum Wage and Industrial Safety Board that ordered payment of back wages for all workers earning less than $150 a week.

Mohbat said that his complaint and that of Susan Davis, who worked with him, would be heard by the board on Wednesday. Th board would make no comment on the complaints. The hearings will be closed.

McGovern said several times during the fall that his campaign would finish in the black. He was reported to have told a reception for his campaign workers Dec. 10 that he was grateful their efforts had resulted in numerous small contributors with the result that he would finish the campaign with no large debts.

It was reported some time ago that Henry Kimelman, McGovern's finance director and a Virgin Islands millionaire developer, withheld about $100,000 in salaries ovr the the last five weeks of the campaign.

"If you ask them why they paid off the millionaires and not the workers, the money people tell you, 'We had a legal obligation to them,'" Mohbat said.

"I think it explains why so many young persons are so turned off by politics and politicians," he said.
